§ 22. Removal of the Ark from Kiriath-jearim, as far as the house of Obed-edom.

And David consulted with the rulers of thousands and hundreds, even with every chief ruler.
And David said to all the convocation of Israel.

<If |unto you| it seemeth to be good and from Yahweh our God> we will urgently' send unto our brethren who remain in all the lands of Israel, and <with them> the priests and the Levites in their pastureland cities,—that they may gather together unto us; *s and let us bring round the ark of our God unto us, *-

For they sought it not in the days of Saul. 4 Then said all the convocation that it should be done thus,—for right was the thing in the eyes of all the people. 5 So David convoked all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt even unto the entering in of Hamath,—to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. 6 And David went up and all Israel to Baalah, unto Kiriath-jearim, which pertaineth to Judah,—to bring up from thence, the ark of God—Yahweh who inhabiteth the cherubim on which is called the Name. 7 And they carried the ark of God upon a new waggon, out of the house of Aminadab,—and | Uzza and Ahio| were driving the waggon.

<sup>8</sup> And ||David and all Israel|| were dancing for joy before God, with all boldness, <sup>b</sup> and with songs and with lyres, and with harps and with timbrels, and with cymbals, and with trumpets.

And < when they came as far as the threshing-floor of Chidon> Uzza thrust forth his hand to seize the ark, for the oxen were restive.
10 Then was kindled the anger of Yahweh against Uzza, and he smote him because he thrust forth his hand unto the ark, —and he died there before God.

And it was a sadness unto David, that Yahweh had broken in with a breach against Uzza,—and he called that place Perez-uzza, [as it is called] unto this day.

12 And David was afraid of God, on that day, saying,—

How can I bring unto me, the ark of God?

So David removed not the ark unto him into the city of David,—but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite.

And the ark of God remained with the household of Obed-edom, in his house, three months,—and Yahweh blessed the household of Obed-edom, and all that he had.

§ 23. David's Palace, Family, and Victories over the Philistines.

And Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers 14 unto David, and timber of cedars, with masons and artificers, to build for him a house. So David perceived, that Yahweh |had confirmed him| as king over Israel,—that his kingshipd was exalted, for the sake of his people Israel.

3 And David took more wives in Jerusalem,—and David begat more sons and daughters.
4 Now ||these|| are the names of them who were born, whom he had in Jerusalem,—Shammua and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon; 5 and Ibhar and Elishua and Elpelet; 6 and Nogah and Nepheg and Japhia; 7 and Elishama and Beeliada, 6 and Eliphelet.

And < when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel > all the Philistines came up to seek to secure David, —and David hearing went out against them. 9 Now ||the Philistines|| had come and spread themselves out in the vale of Rephaim. 10 Then David asked of God, saying,

Shall I go up against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliver them into my hand?

And Yahweh said to him.

Go up, and I will deliver them into thy hand.

So they came up in Baal-perazim, and David amote them there, and David said

God hath broken forth against mine enemies by my hand like the breaking forth of waters,—

<For this cause> called they the name of that place, Baal-perazim. 12 And they left their gods there,—and David gave the word, and they were burned up in fire. 13 And the Philistines yet again' spread themselves out in the vale. 14 So David | asked again | of God, and God said to him.

- 21 Then the accuser stood up against Israel, and moved David to number Israel. 2 And David said unto Joab and unto the rulers of the people.

Go number Israel, from Beer-sheba even unto Dan,—and bring [the report] unto me, that I may know the number of them.

<sup>3</sup> Then said Joah

May Yahweh add unto his people as many as they are a hundred times, but are they not my lord O king all of them my lord's, as servants? wherefore' should my lord seek this? wherefore' should it become guilt to Israel?

<sup>4</sup> But ||the word of the king|| prevailed against Joab,—and Joab departed and went to and fro throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem. <sup>5</sup> And Joab delivered the sum of the number of the people unto David,—and all Israel was found to be a thousand thousand and a hundred thousand men, who drew sword, and Judah four hundred and seventy thousand men, who drew sword. <sup>6</sup> But < Levi and Benjamin > counted he not among them,—for detestable' was the word of the king unto Joab.

And it was displeasing in the eyes of God, concerning this thing,—therefore smote he Israel.

<sup>8</sup> And David said unto God,

I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing,—but ||now|| I beseech thee, take away the iniquity of thy servant, for I have shown myself very foolish.

<sup>15</sup> And God sent a messenger to Jerusalem to lay it waste, but <as he was laying it waste> Yahweh looked and relented concerning the calamity, and said unto the messenger who was laying waste

Enough! ||now|| stay thy hand.

And || the messenger of Yahweh|| was standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

16 And < when David lifted up his eyes and saw the messenger of Yahweh standing, between the carth and the heavens, hand his sword drawn in his hand, stretched out over Jerusalem> then fell David and the elders clothed in sackcloth, upon their faces.
17 And David said unto God

Was it not ||I|| who gave word to number the people? Yea ||I|| it was' who sinned and did the great wrong, what then had ||these sheep|| done?

O Yahweh my God, let thy hand I beseech thee, be against me and against the house of my father, but not against ||thy people|| that they should be plagued!

And || the messenger of Yahweh|| commanded Gad, to say unto David,—that David should go up, to rear an altar unto Yahweh, in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

David went up according to the word of Gad, which he spake in the name of Yahweh.

And Ornan turned and saw the messenger, but ||his four sons with him|| were hiding themselves,—now ||Ornan|| had been threshing wheat.

21 Then came David unto Ornan.—and Ornan looked and saw David, and went forth out of the threshing-floor, and bowed himself unto David, with his face to the ground.

22 And David said unto Ornan

Grant me the place of the threshing-floor, that I may build thereon an altar unto Yahweh, — <for silver in full> shalt thou grant it me, that the plague may be stayed from off the people.

23 And Ornan said unto David

Take it to thee, and let my lord the king do what is good in his own eyes,—see! I have given the oxen for ascending sacrifices, and <the threshing implements for wood, and the wheat for a meal-offering,—the whole>have I given.

24 Then said King David to Ornan

Nay! out I will ||surely buy|| it for silver in full,—for I will not take that which is thine for Yahweh, nor offer an ascending-sacrifice that hath cost me nothing.

So David gave to Ornan, for the place, shekels of gold, by weight, six hundred.

And David built there an altar unto Yahweh, and caused to go up ascending-sacrifices, and peace-offerings,—and called unto Yahweh, and he responded to him, by fire, out of the heavens, upon the altar of ascending-sacrifice.

- Then Solomon gave word to build a house' for the Name of Yahweh, and a house' for his king-
  - And Solomon numbered seventy thousand men to bear burdens, and eighty thousand men to hew in the mountain, — and <to oversee them> three thousand six hundred.

And Solomon sent unto Huram king of Tyre

saying,-

< As thou didst deal with David my father, and didst send him cedars to build him a house to dwell in> 4 lo! || I || am about to build a house for the Name of Yahweh my God to hallow unto him-to burn before him sweet incense, and for a continual setting in array and to offer ascendingsacrifices morning and evening, on the sabbaths and on the new moons, and on the appointed feasts of Yahweh our God,-<age-abiding> is this [law] for Israel.

And || the house which I' am about to build || [must be] great, - for great' is our God,

But who is able'b to build unto him a house? for || the heavens, even the heaven of heavens || cannot contain him, -who then am ||I||, that I should build unto him a house, though only to burn incense before him?

7 ||Now|| therefore send me a wise man to work in gold and in silver and in bronze and in iron, and in purple and crimson and blue and skilful to execute gravings,with the wise men who are with me,d in Judah and in Jerusalem, whom my father David did provide.

And send me—timbers of cedar cypress and sandal-wood  $\bullet$  out of the Lebanon, for  $\|I\|$ know that ||thy servants|| are skilful, to cut the timbers of Lebanon, -and lo! my servants shall be with thy servants: 9 yea to prepare me timbers in abundance,—for ||the house which I' am about to build|| [must be] great and most wonderful.

||Then|| Solomon called together 5 the elders of Israel and all the chiefs of the tribes the ancestral leaders of the sons of Israel unto Jerusalem, - to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh out of the city of David. ||the same|| is Zion. 3 And all the men of Israel came together unto the king in the festival,-||the same | was the seventh month. 4 And all the elders of Israel came in, -- and the Levites bare the ark; 5 and they brought up the ark, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy utensils that were in the tent, -the priests the Levites did bring them up. <sup>6</sup> And || King Solomon, and all the assembly of Israel who assembled themselves unto him, before the ark were sacrificing sheep and oxen, which could not be told nor could they be counted for multitude. the priests brought in the ark of the covenant of Yahweh into the place thereof, into the shrine of the house into the holy of holies,into [the place] beneath the wings of the cherubim; -8 for the cherubim were spreading forth two wings, over the place of the ark, -so that the cherubim formed a covering over the ark and over the staves thereof, from above. "And they drew out the staves, and the heads of the staves could be seen out of the ark in front of the shrine, although they could not be seen on the outside, -and it came to pass that they have remained there—unto this day. was |nothing in the ark | save only the two tables, which Moses placed [therein] in Horeb, when Yahweh made a covenant with the sons of Israel, when they came forth out of Egypt.

In Then stood he before the altar of Yahweh, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel,—and spread forth his hands; 13 for Solomon had made a platform of bronze, and had set it in the midst of the enclosure, ||five cubits|| the length thereof, and ||three cubits|| the height thereof,—and he stood thereon, and knelt upon his knees, in the presence of all the convocation of Israel, and spread forth his hands, heavenward; 14 and said.

O Yahweh! God of Israel

<Not like unto thee> is there a god, in the heavens, or throughout the earth,—who keepest Covenant and Lovingkindness for thy servants who are walking before thee with all their heart: ¹s who hast kept for thy servant David my father, that which thou didst promise him,—in that thou didst promise with thy mouth and <with thy hand> hast fulfilled as [it is] this day.

Wow therefore O Yahweh—God of Israel keep thou for thy servant David my father that which thou didst promise him saying,

There shall not be cut off to thee a man from before me, to sit upon the throne of Israel,—|if only| thy sons take heed to their way to walk in my law, as thou hast walked before me.

Now therefore O Yahweh God of Israel, verified be thy promise, which thou didst make unto thy servant David.

But ||in very deed|| will God' dwell with man' on the earth? Lo! ||the heavens even the heaven of heavens || cannot contain thee, how much less' this house which I have built! 19 Wilt thou then turn unto the prayer of thy servant and unto his supplication O Yahweh my God,-to hearken unto the cry and unto the prayer. wherewith thy servant is praying before thee: 20 that thine eyes may be open toward this house day and night, toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst set thy Name there,-to hearken unto the prayer which thy servant may pray towards this place: 21 wilt thou therefore hearken unto the supplications of thy servant and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place, -yea wilt thou thyself | hear out of thine own dwelling-place out of the heavens, and <when thou hearest> then wilt thou forgive?

If a man shall sin against his neighbour, and there shall be laid upon him an oath to put him on oath,—and an oath shall come before thine altar in this house then wilt ||thou thyself|| hear out of the heavens and act, and judge thy servants, bringing back unto the lawless, to set his way upon his own head,—and justifying the righteous, by giving to him according to his righteousness?

Or <if thy people Israel be smitten before an enemy because they have been sinning against thee, —and they turn and confess thy Name, and pray and make supplication before thee in this house > 25 then wilt || || thou thyself || hear out of the heavens, and forgive the sin of thy people Israel, —and bring them back unto the soil, which thou didst give to them and to their fathers?

when the heavens are shut up and there is no rain because they have been sinning against thee,—and they shall pray towards this place, and shall confess thy Name, |fromb their sin| shall return, because thou hast been afflicting them > " then wilt ||thou thyself|| hear [out of] the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants, and thy people Israel, that thou mayest direct them into the good way wherein they should walk,—and give rain upon thy land, which thou hast given unto thy people for an inheritance?

≪When there shall be ||a famine|| in the land, when there shall be ||a pestilence||-when there shall be || blasting or mildew, locust or caterpillar |- when their enemy shall besiege them in the land at their own gateswhatsoever plague or whatsoever sickness; -29 whatsoever prayer whatsoever supplication which any son of earth may have, or any of thy people Israel,—when any man shall come to know his plague or his pain, and so he shall spread abroad his hands towards this house >---- then wilt || thou thyself | hear out of the heavens the settled place of thine abode, and forgive, and grant to every man according to his ways, whose heart thou wilt know,-for ||thou thyself alone | knowest the heart of the sons of men: 31 to the end they may revere thee to walk in thy ways, all the days which they shall be living upon the face of the soil, -which thou gavest unto their fathers?

Moreover also <unto the stranger who is' not |of thy people Israel|, but he shall come in out of a far country—for the sake of thy great Name, and of thy strong hand, and of thine outstretched arm,—and so they shall then wilt "thou thyself" hear out of the heavens out of the settled place of thine abode, and do according to all for which the stranger' shall cry unto thee,—to the end that all the peoples of the earth may know thy Name so as to revere thee like thy people Israel, and know that "thy Name" hath been given unto this house which I have built?

When thy people shall go forth to war against their enemies, whithersoever thou mayest send them,—and shall pray unto thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy Name> 25 then wilt thou hear, out of the heavens their prayer and their supplication,—and maintain their right'. b

When they sin against thee—for there is no' son of earth who sinneth not—and thou shalt be angry with them, and deliver them up before an enemy,—who shall carry them away as their captives into a land—far away or near; <sup>37</sup> and they come back to their right mind, c in the land whither they have been taken captive,—and so turn and make supplication unto thee in the land of their captivity, saying,

We have sinned we have done perversely and been lawless;—

and so turn unto thee with all their heart, and with all their soul, in the land of their captivity whither they have carried them captive,—and shall pray in the direction of their own land, which thou gavest unto their fathers, and the city which thou hast chosen and unto the house which I have built for thy Name> then wilt thou hear out of the heavens—out of the settled place of thine abode—their prayer and their supplications, and maintain their cause,—and forgive thy people that wherein they sinned against thee?

|| Now || O my God let—I beseech thee—thine eyes be open, and thine ears attent,—unto the prayer of this place.

  - If Thy father! made our yoke oppressive,— ||now|| therefore, lighten thou somewhat the oppressive servitude of thy father and his heavy yoke which he put upon us and we will serve thee.
  - And he said unto them.

< Yet three days> and then return unto me,— and the people departed.

6 Then
King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men who had been standing before Solomon his father, while he yet lived, saying,—

How do ||ye|| counsel to return answer unto this people?

7 And they spake unto him saying

<If thou wilt be kind to this people and please them, and speak unto them kind words> then will they be thy servants all the days.

<sup>8</sup> But he declined the counsel of the old menwhich they gave him,—and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him, who were standing before him. <sup>9</sup> And he said unto them

What do ||ye|| counsel that we should return as answer, unto this people,—who have spoken unto me saying,

<sup>13</sup> So Jeroboam and all the people came unto Rehoboam on the third day,—as the king spake saying,

Return unto me on the third day.

<sup>13</sup> And the king answered them harshly,—and King Rehoboam declined the counsel of the old men; <sup>14</sup> and spake unto them according to the counsel of the young men saying,

||My father|| made b your yoke heavy,

But ||I|| will add thereunto,— ||My father|| chastised you with whips, But ||I|| with scorpions.

15 So the king hearkened not unto the people,— for there had come to be a turn from God, to the end Yahweh might establish his word which he had spoken by means of Ahijah the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam son of Nebat.

16 And <when ||all Israel|| [saw] that the king hearkened not unto them> the people answered the king saying—

What portion have | we | in David Or inheritance in the son of Jesse?

||Every man|| to your homes O Israel!

|Now| see to thine own house O David!
And all Israel departed to their homes. The Sut <as for the sons of Israel who were dwelling in the cities of Judah > Rehoboam reigned over them.

Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram who was over the tribute, and the sons of Israel stoned him with stones that he died. So King Rehoboam hasted to mount his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem.

19 Thus Israel rebelled against the house of David—unto this day.

And when Rehoboam had entered Jerusalem, 11 he called together the house of Judah and Benjamin a hundred and eighty thousand chosen men warriors,—to fight against Israel, to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam.

2 Then came the word of Yahweh, unto Shemaiah the man of God saying:

||Thus|| saith Yahweh

Ye shall not go up neither shall ye fight against your brethren return every man to his own house, for <from me> hath this thing been brought about.

So they hearkened unto the words of Yahweh, and turned back from going against Jeroboam.

and when he goeth out.

- So the Levites and all Judah did according to all that Jehoiada the priest commanded, and they took every man his men, who were coming in on the sabbath with them who were going out on the sabbath,-for Jehoiada the priest dismissed not the courses. 9 And Jehoiada the priest gave unto the captains of hundreds. the spears and the bucklers and the shields, which belonged to King David,—which were in the house of God. 10 And he caused all the people to stand, even every man with his weapon in his hand, from the right corner of the house as far as the left corner of the house, by the altar and the house, -near the king round about.
- Then brought they forth the king's son, and set upon him the crown and the testimony. and made him' king,-and Jehoiada and his sons anointed' him, and said for said the priest,

Ye must not slay her in the house of Yahweh! 15 So they made way for her, and she came into the entrance of the horse-gate of the house of the king, -and they slew her there.

And Jehoiada solemnised a covenant, between himself and all the people and the king,that they should become a people unto Yahweh. 17 Then all the people entered into the house of Baal and brake it down, and <his altars and his images> brake they in pieces,—and < Mattan the priest of Baal> they slew before the altars. 18 And Jehoiada put the oversight of the house of Yahweh into the hand of the priests and the Levites whom David set by courses over the house of Yahweh, that they might offerb up the ascendingsacrifices of vahweh, as it is written in the law of Moses with rejoicing and with song, -under the direction of David.d 19 And he caused gatekeepers to stand at the gates of the house of Yahweh,—that no one who was unclean should on any account enter.

Then took he the captains of hundreds—and the nobles—and the rulers over the people—and all the people of the land, and brought down the king out of the house of Yahweh, and they entered through the midst of the upper gate into the house of the king,—and they seated the king, upon the throne of the 21 And all the people of the land kingdom. rejoiced and ||the city|| was quiet, - when <Athaliah> they had slain with the sword.

Go ye out unto the cities of Judah, and gather out of all Israel silver to repair the house of your God year by year, and ||ye|| shall hasten the matter,- but the Levites hastened it not.

Then the king called for Jehoiada the chief, and said unto him.

- § 21. The Reign of Ahaz—a wicked King; chastised by Syrians, Israelites, Edomites, and Philistines; and buried with dishonour. First Appeal to Assyria. Charming Incident at Samaria.
- 28 1 <Twenty years old> was Ahaz when he began to reign, and <sixteen years> reigned he in Jerusalem,—but he did not that which was right in the eyes of Yahweh like David his father; 2 but walked in the ways of the kings of Israel,—yea <even molten images> made he to the Baalim; 3 and ||he|| burned incense in the valley of the son of Hinnom,and burnt his sons, in the fire, according to the abominable ways of the nations, whom Yahweh dispossessed from before the sons of Israel. 4 And he sacrificed and burnt incense in the high places, and upon the hills,—and under every green tree. <sup>5</sup> Wherefore Yahweh his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, who smote him, and carried away captive from him a large body of captives, and brought them into Damascus, -yes < even into the hand of the king of Israel, was he delivered, who smote him with a great smiting. 6 And Pekah son of Remaliah slew in Judah a hundred and twenty thousand in one day |all| sons of valour,because they had forsaken Yahweh, God of 7 And Zichri a hero of their fathers. Ephraim slew Masseiah son of the king, and Azrikam, chief ruler of the house, -and Elkanah that was next unto the 8 And the sons of Israel |carried king. away captive | from among their brethren two hundred thousand wives sons and daughters, moreover also' <of much spoil> did they plunder them, - and brought the spoil to Samaria.
  - 9 But <in that place> was a prophet unto Yahweh, Oded' his name, so he went out to meet the host that was coming unto Samaria, and said unto them.
    - Lo! <in the wrath of Yahweh God of your fathers against Judah > hath he delivered them into your hand,—and ye have slain them in a rage, until <to the heavens > it hath reached.
  - Now | therefore, ||ye|| are thinking to tread down ||the children of Judah and Jerusalem || as servants and as handmaids for yourselves.
    - But is it not so—that ||ye yourselves|| are altogether guilty against Yahweh your God?
  - Now; therefore hearken unto me, and restore the captives whom ye have taken captive from among your brethren,—for ||the glow of the anger of Yahweh|| is over you.
  - Then rose up certain of the chiefs of the sons of Ephraim — Azariah son of Jehohanan.
    - * So it shd be; wrong in A.V. and in R.V.

Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, and Jehizkiah son of Shallum and Amasa son of Hadlai,—against them who were coming in from the army; <sup>13</sup> and said unto them

Ye shall not bring in the captives hither, for <with guilt against Yahweh already upon us> ||ye|| are thinking to add unto our sins, and unto our guilt,—for great' is the guilt we have, and fierce' is the anger over Israel.

- So the armed men left' the captives and the plunder, before the rulers and all the convocation.

  15 Then rose up the men who have been expressed by name—and took the captives and <all who were naked among them> clothed they out of the spoil, and arrayed them and sandalled them and gave them to eat and to drink and anointed them, and conducted them with asses for every one that was exhausted, and brought them to Jericho the city of palm-trees near unto their brethren,—and then returned to Samaria.
- **At that time> sent King Ahaz unto the kings of Assyria to help him. 17 For again' had |the Edomites| come and smitten Judah and carried away captives; 18 and ||the Philistines|| had spread themselves out against the cities of the lowland and of the south pertaining to Judah, and had captured Beth-shemesh and Aijalon and Gederoth, and Soco with its villages, and Timnah with its villages, and Gimzo with its villages,—and dwelt there.

19 For Yahweh had brought Judah low, because of Ahaz king of Israel, b—for he had given the rein in Judah, and || been grievously unfaithful|| with Yahweh. 20 And Tilgath-pilneser king of Assyria | came against him |,—

- and distressed him, but strengthened him not.

  For Ahaz took away a portion out of the house of Yahweh, and out of the house of the king of the rulers,—and gave unto the king of Assyria, but he helped him not.

  And <in the time of his distress> he yet further acted unfaithfully with Yahweh,—||he|| King Ahaz!
- 25 For he sacrificed unto the gods of Damascus who had smitten him, and said

<Because the gods of the kings of Syria are helping them> ||unto them|| will I sacrifice, that they may help me.

But ||they|| served to seduce him and all Israel. 24 And Ahaz gathered together the utensils of the house of God, and brake away the fittings of the house of God, and shut up the doors of the house of Yahweh,—and made for himself altars at every corner in Jerusalem; 25 and <in every several city of Judah> made he high places, for burning incense unto other gods,—and provoked Yahweh God of his fathers.

responded Hezekiah and said-

||Now|| have ye consecrated yourselves unto Yahweh.

The runners, therefore, went with letters from the hand of the king and his rulers, throughout all Israel and Judah, and according to the commandment of the king saying,-

Ye sons of Israel return ye unto Yahweh. God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, and he will return unto the remnant that which is left to you, out of the hand of the kings of Assyria.

- And be not ye like your fathers or like your brethren, who acted unfaithfully with Yahweh God of your fathers, -who therefore delivered them up for an astonishment, as ||ye yourselves|| can see.

- § 9. Ezra, informed of Jewish Marriages with Foreign Women, is stunned—and prays.
- 9 Now <when these things were ended> the rulers drew near unto me, saying.

The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not kept themselves separate from the peoples of the lands,—in view of their abominations—even of the Canaanites, the Hittites the Perizzites the Jebusites the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites; <sup>2</sup> for they have taken of their daughters for themselves and for their sons, so that the holy seed have intermingled themselves among the peoples of the lands,—and "the hand of the rulers and the deputies" hath, in this unfaithfulness, been "foremost".

- When I heard this thing> I rent my garment, and my robe,—and tore out of the hair of my head and my beard, and sat stunned.
- Then <unto me> were gathered all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel, concerning the unfaithfulness of them who had been exiled,—but ||I|| sat stunned, until the evening gift. 5 And <at the evening gift> I arose from mine affliction, which had been accompanied by the rending of my garment and my robe,—and I bowed upon my knees, and spread forth my hands unto Yahweh my God; 6 and said
  - O my God, I turn pale and am ashamed, to lift up, O my God, my face unto thee,—for ||our iniquities|| have multiplied above the head, and our guilt hath magnified itself unto the heavens.
- Since the days of our fathers> ||we|| have been in great guilt, until this day,—and <for our iniquities> have we been given up—||we| our kings our priests||—into the hand of the kings of the lands, by sword and by captivity and by spoiling and by a turning pale of face as at this day.
- And ||now|| <for a very little moment> hath come favour from Yahweh our God in leaving to us a remnant to escape, and in giving to us a naile in his holy place,—that our God may enlighten our eyes, and give us a little reviving in our bondage.

- For bondmen> we are', but <in ourbondage> hath our God not forsaken us,— but extended unto us lovingkindnessbefore the kings of Persia, to give us areviving to set up on high the house ofour God, to raise up the desolations there-of, and to give us a wall in Judah and inJerusalem.
- But ||now|| what can we say O our God after this? for we have forsaken thy commandments, 11 which thou didst command by the hand of thy servants the prophets saying,
  - < As for the land which |ye| are entering to possess> ||an impure land|| it is', with the impurity of the peoples of the lands, — with their abominations, which have filled it from one end to the other, with their uncleanness.
  - ||Now|| therefore, <your daughters> do not ye give to their sons, and <their daughters> do not ye take for your sons, neither shall ye seek their prosperity nor their pleasure unto times age-abiding,—to the end ye may become strong, and may eat the good of the land, and may suffer your children to possess it unto times age-abiding.
  - And <after all that hath come upon us, for our wicked doings and for our great guilt—
    - For ||thou|| O our God hast spared us, punishing us less than our iniquities deserved, and hast given us a deliverance such as this>
  - <should we again' break thy commandments and join ourselves by affinity of marriage with the peoples of these abominations> wouldst thou not be angry with us, unto a full end, that there should be neither remainder nor deliverance?
  - O Yahweh, God of Israel, righteous' thou art', for we have had left us a deliverance as at this day,—|here we are| before thee in our guilty deeds, for there is no' standing before thee because of this thing!
- § 10. The Offenders sorrowfully consenting, Divorce Judges are appointed. A Record of the Guilty Individuals.
- Now < when Ezra had prayed and when he had 10 made confession, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God> there gathered unto him out of Israel an exceeding large convocation—men and women and children, for the people wept with a very bitter weeping.
- Then responded Shecaniah son of Jehiel of the sons of Elam. and said unto Ezra,
  - ||We|| have been unfaithful with our God, and have married foreign women from among the peoples of the land,—yet ||now|| there is' hope for Israel concerning this thing.

And they said unto me,
  - ||The remnant who are left of the captivity there in the province | are in great misfortune and reproach, iithe wall of Jerusalem! is broken down and ||the gates thereof | are burned with fire.
  - And it came to pass < when I heard these words> that I sat down and wept, and I mourned certain days, -and continued fasting and praying, before the God of the heavens; 5 and said, b
    - I beseech thee O Yahweh God of the heavens, the great and fearful God, - keeping the covenant and lovingkindness for them who love him and keep his commundments:
  - Let I pray thee thine ears be attentive and thine eyes open-to hearken unto the prayer of thy servant—which ||I|| am praying before thee now day and night, for the sons of Israel thy servants,—and making confession concerning the sins of the sons of Israel which we have committed against thee, ||both

- I and the house of my father | have sinned. We have dealt |very corruptly | against thee. -and have not kept the commandments, nor the statutes nor the regulations, which thou didst command Moses thy servant.
- Remember I pray thee the word, which thou didst command Moses thy servant saying,-< If | ||ye|| are unfaithful > ||I|| will scatter

  - < When ye return unto me and keep my commandments and do them > < though it should be that ye have been driven out unto the uttermost part of the heavens> ||from thence|| will I gather them, and bring them into the place that I have chosen to make a habitation for my Name there.
- || They || therefore are thy servants | and thy people ,-whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power, and by thy firm hand.
- I beseech thee O My Lord let-I pray theethine ear be attentive unto the prayer of thy servant and unto the prayer of thy servants who delight to revere thy Name, and oh prosper I pray thee thy servant to-day, and grant him compassion before this man.

Now ||I|| was cup-bearer unto the king.

And it came to pass <in the month Nisan, 2 in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king> that || wine || was before him, -so I took up the wine and gave unto the king, and I had never been sad before him. 2 Then said the king

Wherefore' is thy countenance sad seeing that ||thou|| art not sick? this is nothing else but sadness of heart.

Then feared I exceedingly, 3 and said unto the king-

4 Then the king said to me,

<Concerning what> is it ||thou|| wouldst make request?

So I prayed unto the God of the heavens, 5 and then said unto the king,

<If |unto the king| it seemeth good, and if thy servant might find favour before thee> That thou wouldst send me unto Judah unto the city of the sepulchres of my fathers, that I might build it.

6 And the king said unto me, || the queen || also sitting beside him

For how long' would be thy journey? and when wouldst thou return?

So it seemed good before the king to send me, and I set him a time.

ing to their pleasure; 25 and they captured fortified cities, and a fat soil, and took possession of houses full of every good thing, wells digged, vineyards and oliveyards and fruit-trees in abundance, - so they did eat and were filled and became fat, and luxuriated in thy great goodness.

But they murmured and rebelled against thee and cast thy law behind their back, and <thy prophets> they slew, who testified against them. that they might turn them back unto thee, -and they wrought great insults.

Therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of their adversaries, who distressed them, -and <in the time of their distress> they made outcry unto thee, and ||thou|| <out of the heavens> didst hear, and <according to b thine abounding compassions> gavest them saviours, that they might save them out of the hand of their adversaries.

- But <as soon as they had rest> they again' wrought wickedness before thee, -and thou didst leave them in the hand of their enemies, who bare rule over them, yet < when they again' made outcry unto thee > ||thou|| < from the heavens > didst hear and didst deliver them according to 4 thy compassions many times; 29 and didst testify against them to bring them back unto thy law, yet ||they|| dealt proudly, and hearkened not unto thy commandments and <against thy regulations> they sinned, the which-if any son of earth shall do—then shall he live by them, and yielded a rebellious shoulder, and <their neck> they stiffened and hearkened
- And thou didst suffer many years to pass over them, and didst testify against them by thy Spirit through! thy prophets yet did they not give ear, -therefore didst thou deliver them into the hand of the peoples of the lands.
- Yet <in thine abounding compassions> thou didst not make of them an end neither didst thou forsake them,-for  thou art.
- ||Now|| therefore, O our God—the God great, mighty and fearful-keeping the covenant and the lovingkindness, s let not all the trouble seem little before thee which hath come upon us-on our kings, on our rulers, and h on our priests, and on our prophets, and on our fathers, and on all thy people,- from the days of the kings of Ass this day.

But ||thou|| art righteous, as to hath fallen upon us,-for <fait hast thou wrought, whereas || been lawless; 34 and 1 | our kings, o our priests and our fathers | have thy law, -nor given heed unto thy ments, or unto thy testimonies, v thou hast testified against them.

But ||they|| < in their kingdom and abundant goodness which thou gas and in the broad and fat land w didst set before them > did not se neither turned they from their doings.

Lo! || we || | to-day | are bondmen--< the land which thou gavest our eat the fruit thereof and the good lo! ||we|| are bondmen; 37 and ||the thereof | aboundeth unto the kin thou hast set over us for our s <over our bodies> are they bear and over our cattle at their pleas <in great distress> we are'.

§ 14. A Record of those who dwelt in Jerusalem of the Chiefs of Judah and Benjamin, and of the Priests and Levites; also of the Villages in which men of Judah and Benjamin dwelt.

And the rulers of the people dwelt in Jerusalem,—and ||the rest of the people|| cast lots to bring in one out of ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, and nine parts in [other] cities.

<sup>2</sup> And the people bestowed a blessing on all the men, who willingly offered' themselves to dwell in Jerusalem.

Now ||these|| are the chiefs of the province, who dwelt in Jerusalem, but <in the cities of Judah> dwelt every man in his possession throughout their cities, Israel the priests and the Levites and the Nethinim, and the Sons of the Servants of Solomon. And <in Jerusalem> dwelt certain of the sons of Judah and of the sons of Benjamin,—

<Of the sons of Judah> Athaiah son of Uzziah son of Zechariah son of Amariah son of Shephatiah son of Mahalalel of the sons of Perez; s and Masseiah son of Baruch son of Col-hozeh son of Hazaiah son of Adaiah son of Joiarib son of Zechariah, son of the Shilonite. s All the sons of Perez who were dwelling in Jerusalem four hundred and sixty eight men of ability.

7 And ||these|| are the sons of Benjamin,—Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah; sand <after him>Gabbai, Sallai,—nine hundred and twentyeight. <On that day> a portion was read in the 13 book of Moses in the ears of the people, -and it was found written therein, that the Ammonite and the Mosbite should not enter into the convocation of God unto times age-abiding; <sup>2</sup> because they met not the sons of Israel, with bread and with water, - but hired against them Balaam, to curse them, although our God turned the curse into a blessing. came to pass when they had heard the law,that they separated all the mixed multitude from Israel. 4 Now < before this> ||Eliashib the priest, who was set over a chamber of the house of God || was allied unto Tobiah; 5 so he prepared him a large chamber, where aforetime they used to lay the meal-offering the frankincense, and the utensils, and the tithe of the corn, the new wine and the oil, in charge of the Levites, and the singers and the doorkeepers,and the heave-offerings for the priests. <throughout all this [time]> was I not in Jerusalem,-for < in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon> I came unto the king, and <at the end of certain days> obtained I leave of the king; 7 and came to Jerusalem.and had intelligence of the wickedness which Eliashib had committed for Tobiah, in preparing for him a chamber, in the courts of the house of God; 8 and it grieved me exceedingly, -and I cast forth all the household utensils of Tobiah outside of the chamber. Then commanded I, and they purified the chambers, and I put back there the utensils of the house of God, the meal-offering and the frankincense.

- <When || Mordecai|| came to know all that 4 had been done > Mordecai rent his garments, and put on sackcloth and ashes, -and went forth into the midst of the city, and cried out with an outcry loud and bitter; 2 and went in as far as before the gate of the king, -for ||none|| might enter into the gate of the king clothed with sackcloth. 3 And < throughout every province whithersoever the word of the king and his edict came> was great mourning to the Jews, and fasting and weeping and lamentation,- ||sackcloth and ashes|| were spread out for many.
- So the maidens of Esther and her eunuchs went in and told her, and the queen writhed in great anguish,—and sent garments to clothe Mordecai and to remove his sackcloth from off him, but he accepted them not. 5 Then called Esther for Hathach, one of the eunuchs of the king whom he had stationed before her, and charged him, concerning Mordecai, -to get to know what' this was and why' this was. 6 So Hathach went forth unto Mordecai,—in the broadway of the city, which was before the gate of the king. Mordecai told him all that had befallen him, -and an exact statement of the silver, that Haman had promised to weigh out unto the treasuries of the king for the Jews to destroy them. 8 Also  gave he unto him, to shew unto Esther and to tell her, -and to lay charge upon her to go in unto the king-to make supplication unto him, and to make request before him, for her people. Hathach came in and told Esther, the words of Mordecai.

10 Then spake Esther unto Hathach,—and gave him charge unto Mordecai:-

|| All the servants of the king, and the people of the provinces of the king | do know that < whatsoever man or woman shall go in unto the king-into the inter court-who hath not been called> ||one|| is his law to put him to death, saving any to whom the king may hold out the golden sceptre who then shall live,—but ||I|| have not been called to go in unto the king, these thirty days.

And they told Mordecai the words of Esther. 13 Then Mordecai commanded to answer Esther,-

Do not think in thine own soul, to escape in the house of the king from among all the Jews.

But <if thou ||do indeed hold thy peace|| at this time> ||respite and deliverance|| will be appointed for the Jews from another place, but ||thou and thy father's house|| will perish, - and who knoweth whether <for a time such as this> thou hast attained unto the royal estate?

And overturneth [them] in a night, and they are crushed;

Yea <the outcry of the oppressed> he heareth.

< When ||he|| giveth quiet> who then shall condemn?

And < when he hideth [his] face > who then shall sing of him?

Whether unto a nation or unto mankind altogether,

That impious men may not reign, Nor be ensuarers of the people.

For <unto GoD> hath one [ever] said-I have borne punishment

I will not be perverse;

22 < What I see not> do "thou" shew me, < If ||perverseness|| I have wrought > I will

|The men of mind|| will say to me,

Yea any wise man hearkening unto me:-|Job|| <without knowledge > doth speak, And ||his words|| are not with discretion.

Would that Job might be tested to the uttermost,°

For replying with the men of iniquity: 27 For he addeth—unto his sin—|rebellion| < In our midst> he clappeth his hands,

And multiplieth his sayings against God.

<This> dost thou think to be right? Thou hast said-

My righteousness is more than Gon's.

For thou dost say

How can one profit by thee?

How can I benefit more than by my sin?

||I|| will answer thee plainly,* And thy friends with thee.

Look at the heavens and see,-

And survey the skies—they are higher than thou.

<If thou sinnest> what canst thou work against him?

Or <if thy transgressions be multiplied> what canst thou do unto him?

<If thou art righteous> what canst thou give unto him?

Or what <at thy hand> can he accept?

<Unto a man like thyself> might thy lawlessness [reach],

And <unto a son of the earth-born> thy righteousness.

<By reason of the multitude of oppressions> [men] make outcry,

They cry for help, by reason of the arm of the mighty; c

But none saith-

Where is God my maker,

Who giveth songs in the night;

11 Who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth.

> And <beyond the bird of the heavens> giveth us wisdom?

||There|| [men] make outcry, and he answereth

Because of the arrogance of evil-doers.

Howbeit <vanity> will GoD not hear, Yea || the Almighty || will not regard it.

How much less when thou sayest thou wilt not regard him!

||The cause|| is before him and thou must wait for him.

But ||now|| <because it is not so> [thou sayest}-

His anger hath punished,

And yet hath he not at all known of transgression; d

Thus ||Job|| vainly openeth his mouth, < Without knowledge > he multiplieth words.

1 And Elihu added and said :-

Restrain thyself for me a little, and I will shew thee,

That <yet-for God> there is justification. I will bring my knowledge from afar,

And <to my Maker> will I attribute righteousness.

A Song, a Melody of Asaph.

10 God Do not keep quiet,

Do not hold thy peace Neither be thou still O GoD!

- <sup>2</sup> For lo! ||thine enemies|| are tumultuous, And || they who hate thee || have lifted up the head:
- 3 < Against thy people > they craftily devise a secret plot,

And conspire against thy treasured ones.

They have said-

Come and let us wipe them out from being a nation,

That the name of Israel may be remembered' no more.

- <sup>5</sup> For they have taken counsel with one heart,
  - <Against thee a covenant> would they solemnise
- The tents of Edom, and the Ishmaelites

Of Moab and the Hagarenes;

Gebal and Ammon and Amalek,

The Philistines, with the dwellers in Tyre;

|Even Assyria| hath joined herself with them.

They have become an arm to the sons of Lot. [Selah.

9 Make them like Midian,

Like Sisera like Jabin, by the torrent of Kishon ;*

They perished at En-dor,

They became manure for the soil!

11 Make them-their nobles-like Oreb and like Zeeb,

And < like Zebah and like Zalmunna > all their princes: c

12 Who said-

Let us take a possession for ourselves The pastures of God!

13 O my God, make them As whirling [dust],

As chaff before a wind;

14 < As a fire burneth a forest,-

And as a flame setteth mountains ablaze > 15 ||So|| wilt thou pursue them with thy tempest,-

And <with thy storm-wind> wilt terrify them:

16 Fill thou their faces with dishonour,

That men may seek thy Name Yahweh:

17 Let them turn pale and be terrified to futurity,

Yea let them blush and perish:

That men may know that ||thou|| < Whose Name alone' is Yahweh>

Art Most High over all the earth.

PSALM 107.

1 O give thanks to Yahweh-For he is good, For <age-abiding> is his lovingkindness.

2 Let the redeemed of Yahweh say', Whom he hath redcomed from the hand of the adversary;

And <out of the lands> hath gathered them,-From the east and from the west,

From the north and from the south.b

+ They wandered about in the desert - in a waste, «Waye to a city to dwell in> found they none:

6 < Hungry-yea thirsty> Their soul within them fainted :

" Then made they outery to Yuhweh in their peril, Out of their distresses > he rescued them;

7 And led them by a straight' road, That they might journey to a city to dwell in.

8 Let them give thanks to Yahweh for his lovingkindness, and for his wonderful dealings with the sons of men d

"This line is preceded in Sep. and Vul. by the public reader's invita-tion: "Praise ye Yah." -G.n. Cp. Ps. civ. 35, n. Lit.: "from the right" - "south, because when faving cust the right

A Song, a Melody: David's.

- | | Fixed | is my heart O God, b
- I will sing and touch the strings even mine honour.
- <sup>2</sup> Awake O harp<sup>4</sup> and lyre, I will awaken the dawn!
- <sup>3</sup> I will thank thee among the peoples O Yahweh.
- And will sing praise unto thee, among the tribes of men.
- For <great above the heavens> is thy lovingkindness,
- And <as far as the skies> thy faithfulness.
- 5 Be thou exalted above the heavens O God, And <above all the earth> be thy glory.
- 6 < To the end thy beloved ones may be delivered >

SPECIAL NOTE

THE PSALMS.

THE exigencies of space in relation to the varying forms in which this Bible is issued afford a welcome opportunity for inserting here a Special Note on the Psalms, rather than reserve such note for the Old Testament Appendix. It will be necessary to restrict this further outgrowth from the original design of THE EMPHASISED BIBLE to subjects which are in some measure peculiar to the work, leaving the student to seek elsewhere for fuller information on related topics. It will be convenient to treat, first, of some external features which are observable in the foregoing presentment of the Psalms; and, secondly, to touch upon some more essential characteristics of those precious compositions, especially in regard to certain grave questions of interpretation.

I. EXTERNAL FRATURES.

1.—The division of the Psalms into Books, having now been familiarised by means of the Revised Version, claims no further notice here than merely to say that the ancient issue of the Psalms in successive and enlarging collections, relieves us from all embarrassment and impulse to prejudgment, when we first find it stated at the end of the Second Book (Psalm lxxii.) that the prayers of David the son of Jesse are "ended," and yet discover others, later on, attributed to the same author. Just as, in the Book of Proverbs, the first collection (x. to xxiv.) is supplemented by another which, at a later date, "Hezekiah and his men copied out" (xxv. 1, so later editions of the Psalms may very well contain compositions from David's own pen which at an earlier time had not been brought to light, or had not been suitably edited for insertion among the hymns employed in the Temple service.

2.—The titles of the Psalms need cause us no anxiety. That they are very ancient is evident from their appearance as translated in the Septuagint Version, but further than this wê need not go; and if any Psalms, by the application of sound principles of exegesis, remonstrate against the occasion ascribed to them, we need do no more than pay respectful regard to a venerable tradition, and pass on in quest of more conclusive evidence. In particular it should be understood that the preposition generally rendered "of" in the phrase "Psalm of David," may easily and naturally be rendered "to," "for" "of," or "by"—and so may be taken as the "to" of dedication, the "for" of desired use, the "of" of subject-matter, or finally the "by" of authorship—which last can itself scarcely preclude editorial preparation for liturgical use, to say nothing of perils of transcription and transmission, to guard us from which the labours of the textual critic are of such priceless worth. A Psalm "of" Asaph may have been "for" Asaph's use, or one composed "by" him. We should scarcely think of a Psalm composed "by" the Sons of Korah: much rather "for" has been made in the foregoing version to keep the reader in the enjoyment of his legitimate freedom.

3.—The word Selah has long been proof against all endeavours to resolve it. That it literally means "to lift up" has been generally admitted. But "lift up" what?—instruments or vices? And why and how lift up? And so despair has relinquished the inquiry: it was some muscal note or sign—precise nature unknown. Others settled down in the conclusion that it simply or chiefly meant "Pause." And "pause" was nearly successful; save that, to say "pause" at the end of a Psalm, seemed needless. To the Oxford Gesenius belongs the merit of suggesting a more adequate explanation, the substance of which is cited in note [c] to Ps. iii. p. 530, ante. As a call upon the people to lift up their voices in praise of Yahweh, a pleasing pause for a practical purpose would be thereby constituted, and one which would suit equally the close of a strophe of the end of a Psalm; and at the same time not be wholly out of place even when it was used to mark a movement of musical rhetoric—interrupting a sentence—a movement akin to the pause for effect familiar in oratory. If the latter part of this explanation be borne in mine, the otherwise unwelcome letting in of a little extra space in connection with some of the occurrences of "Selah" in the foregoing pages, will be explained.

4.—We are thus prepared for the more graphic setting of the word Hallelujah (=Hallelu Yah =""Praise ye Yah") than was previously familiar to us; and for which we are indebted to Dr. Ginsburg. Hallelu Yah becomes the more general invitation to the people to join: Selah the more precise intimation of the points at which the loud acclaim should come in. That the two words are seldom or never found in company, may merely show that, after all, we have only glimpses of the ancient temple worship. At first it may seem a little amusing that by the simple process of resolving the word "hallelujah" into its elements and then translating it in harmony with its force and intent we actually get rid of the word (as one compound word) altogether! That is so; but consider the gain. We not only catch a fresh sight of the ancient worship as a living thing, but we gain an accession to the instances in which the thrice holy Divine Name (in its abbreviated form of "Jah"="Yah") occurs in the Old Testament; and, to condescend upon the minor matter of pronunciation, it seems peculiarly becoming that the same translation that ventures upon the spelling "Yahweh" should set free from its almost meaningless combination (often flippantly ejaculated, and sometimes lightly used as a badge) the august syllable Yah. The relation of "Yah" to "Yahweh" is so generally admitted, that to accept the obvious pronunciation of the former and refuse the proposed pronunciation of the latter, would appear to be rather inconsistent.

5.—The Alphabetical Psalms claim notice, if only because—the fact that there are such Psalms has in this Bible been forced into prominence by the exhibit in the margin of the Hebrew letters which form this characteristic. It will readily be understood that in some cases these letters have been placed in the right-hand margin merely for convenience, and that they still refer to the first Hebrew word in the line. There are seven such Alphabetical Psalms—namely, xxv., xxxiv., xxxvii., cxi., cxii., cxix., and cxlv. To these, some scholars add Psalms ix. and x., which were perhaps originally one Psalm, and in which fragments of the alphabetical arrangement are still discernible. The 119th is the most conspicuous of these singular compositions, both owing to the number of verses headed by each Hebrew letter in succession (eight to each), and to the circumstance that the names of the Hebrew letters are preserved as paragraph headings by the Bibles in common use. The device under consideration may be described as an abecedarian acrostic. Eight verses in succession begin (in the original) with words commencing with aleph; then eight verses start with words beginning with beth; and so on to the end of the alphabet of 22 letters, making 176 verses in all. In the other alphabetical Psalms the arrangement is less formidable; a stanza only, or a distich, or even a single line being headed by each Hebrew letter as the initial of the original word employed. This initialling device makes a singularly striking and beautiful re-appearance in the Book of Lamentations, in which book of five chapters four are alphabetical: Chapters i. and ii. having each a single alphabet, hence twenty-two verses each; Chapter iii., a triple alphabet—three alepha, three bethe, etc.—hence sixty-six verses in all; Chapter iv., a single alphabet and twenty-two verses; Chapter v., still twenty-two verses, but, strange to say, no alphabet. In settling the rendering of Chapter iii., it was found easily possible to conform some four or five triplets to the same style, so far as to begin three verses in succession with the same English letter. Ordinarily, as might be anticipated, the imitation has to be given up; but this small measure of success impressed the present translator's mind with the conviction that here we have to do with something more than a literary curiosity. There must have been patient devising on the part of the author; and there must have resulted an aid to memory so effective as scarcely to have been outside the original composer's intention. Truly, a fruitful consideration, bearing on the advantages even now of memorising Holy Scripture, and on the debt of gratitude we owe to paraphrasts and hymn-writers who, by alliteration, rhythm, and rhyme, render aid to the memories of the illiterate, the sick, the blind, and the bookless-aid which tends to keep Divine truth alive in the hearts of men when they most need its influence. Incidentally, the Alphabetical Psalms may yield a valuable lesson in textual criticism. Whoever the author of any one of these Psalms may have been, the intuition comes to us with unanswerable force that if the initial alphabet is nearly unbroken, it must have been originally intended to make it perfect. Hence, when an expert like Dr. Ginsburg says, on Psalm xxv. 2, that he thinks that instead of "O my God, in thee," it should rather be "In thee, O my God," it needs only that we notice that whereas the former in Hebrew is Elohay, bekå, the latter is Bekå, Elohay, thus perfecting the sequence of the initials by bringing the letter beth next after aleph, to feel almost certain that he is right. In like manner, when we observe that, while the nineteenth letter (koph) is absent, the twentieth letter (resh) starts two verses in succession, we cannot avoid the conclusion that a disturbance has at some time or other crept in, even though we cannot now set the matter right; and perhaps just here it may be of no practical consequence, as some nearly synonymous word to that rendered "Behold" in verse 18, but beginning with a k, may have originally commenced that sentence. Where, however, the alphabet is complete, we rest content in the assurance that copyists have had a double safeguard against error.

6.—Something has been done in this translation to resolve the individual Psalms into groups of lines, commonly called strophes, thereby marking sub-divisions likely to be of practical service, both as indicating changes of tone, topic, speaker, and drift, and as letting in glimpses of that mighty afflatus by which the psalmists were suddenly or gradually carried away into realms of thought and feeling wholly beyond their actual circumstances. It is probable that more might have been done in this direction, even by one individual, had unlimited time and space been at command; but it may in the end be better that studious readers should help themselves by grafting personal labour upon that which here and elsewhere has been prepared to their hand. Where the interjection of "Selah" has occasioned a division which cannot be justified even by a musical imagination, let some small "closing-up" sign be inserted by the student's own hand in the margin. Where, on the other hand, smaller strophes are seen to group themselves into larger divisions, let extra space, at the larger divisions, be in like manner suggested by some appropriate token.

II.-ESSENTIAL CHARACTERISTICS.

It is impossible here to treat of many of the most obvious of these:—the adaptation of the Psalms, by reason of their direct address to Deity, to lift up man's spirit to his Maker; their powerful lold on men's deepest sympathies, in that they are sensitively in touch with a wide range of human sin and sorrow; their prevailing tendency to carry the reader onward out of darkness into light, so that although many of them commence in deepest depths of despair, their ending is mostly on the mountain top of exuberant joy; and, not to go further, the happy blending of personal interests with national and world-wide affairs, so that the piety that begins at home in the privacy of the closet and, it may be, the agonies of a broken heart, is speedily borne on eagle wings to survey the glorious majesty of the Divine Kingdom. On these and other grounds, here left untouched, the lasting popularity of the Psalms securely rests.

A few points, however, not overmuch observed, claim brief remark.

1.—The dramatic structure of a good many Psalms makes special demand on interpretative inquiry. Take the Second Psalm as an example. In reading this we listen to no fewer than four distinct voices. There is first (and last) the voice of the Psalmist himself, speaking in his own person, however truly he was led of the Spirit in what he uttered; secondly, the language attributed to the lawless conspirators against Yahweh and his Anointed One; thirdly, the counter declaration of the Most High; fourthly, the record of the Son of God, who in turn cites the terms in which he had been addressed by the Divine Father, counselling him (the Son) to ask for and obtain world-wide dominion; the whole being then concluded, as named above, by the resuming voice of the Psalmist, as timely adviser, counselling the kings and rulers of the earth to act with prudence. It is little to say that the Psalm cannot be expounded in the absence of dramatic feeling and insight: it cannot even be read with fitting expression. Perhaps the most difficult of all the dramatic Psalms is the sixty-eighth, which severely taxes, not the expositor alone, but the translator, who has to determine how to render his descriptive tenses, whether as applying to past, present, or future; and, to decide this, he seems bound to apprehend, as best he may, what is the ideal key-note of the whole of this magnificent composition. The ground-thought being almost certainly the bringing up of the ark to Jerusalem, yet how manifestly this concept shrinks into a mere point of departure for a flight into Messiah's coming kingdom for which the Ascension of the Anointed One into heavenly glory is a stepping-stone-unless indeed our own beloved Apostle Paul is wholly at fault in Ephesians Four.

2.—This feature of dramatic structure naturally leads forward to a deeper question—that of inspirational prophetic flight into the future. Were Psalmists and Prophets divinely gifted seers into futurity, or were they not? Were they—as the Apostle Peter affirms they were—taken hold of and borne along or carried away out of the present into the future? It may be conceded that to be sent back to the historical starting-points of the prophetic word is well; but to get set fast there is ill indeed. The eagle of prophecy had its nest on the rock of accomplished fact; but to that rock it was not chained. It had a pinion strong enough to bear it up towards the sun, to an elevation from which it could descry things then distant, yea, and things yet to come.

3.—This step emboldens us to take another, landing us in the midst of the problem of dispensation. What spirit are we of?—what dispensation are we in? For instance, can we, may we, dare we CURSE as the old Hebrews cursed—as (we might almost say) they were trained to curse? Take Psalm cix as an example, if you wish to see how whole-heartedly and with what poetry and passion they could execrate their foes. Can we curse like that? or are we in duty bound and in spirit empowered to abstain? We know well we must not curse at all. But how is that? It is because we have heard a Voice saying. "Bless and curse not"; because we have seen an Example which would put us to shame if we, even on the strongest provocation, dared to "breathe out threatenings and slaughter"; and, finally, because we can never think the command to abstain from cursing arbitrary so long as we realise that we are at present only followers of the Messiah in his humiliation. In this the whole question of dispensation is involved. But the sword of truth is two-edged. The Church—the called-out assembly-of the Mossiah cannot curse; but there is another thing she cannot do—at least if rightly guided. She cannot confound herself with the manifested, world-dominating Kingdom of God. The life of the kingdom is in her by faith—that is all: she sees the kingdom at present only from afar. By faith she brings it nigh, it is true; and that is precisely the angle of vision from which she can say and sing the songs of the kingdom which she finds in the Book of Psalms. She leaps over the intervening "strange work" of overthrowing and breaking in pieces. That belongs not to her-least of all at present. That commission is safe in immortal and unerring hands. If we are ever to join in its execution, it can only be 'overcome"; and we cannot overcome if we fail meantime to let patience have her perfect work.4 If it might be said without presumption: When Biblical Criticism knows how to make the reasonable distinction—that what is impossible now may be possible hereafter—it may torturing humble souls by seeming to say that there are no Predictions of a Personal Messiah in the Old Testament. In any case, it may safely be said: That in proportion as Christians can see their way to judge simply and clearly as to what in the Psalms they may legitimately decline as inapplicable to them; and what in the Psalms they may simply defer, as unfulfilled at present; and so cease to stretch and strain the Word in order to make it suit our intermediate dispensation, to which in the main it does not belong;—so in proportion will they enjoy these admirable lyrics with a refined delight which, probably, they have not hitherto known.

THE PROVERBS.

General Introduction, in Praise of Wisdom, as the Source whence Proverbs are derived (Chapters I. to IX).

- The proverbs of Solomon, son of David, King of Israel:
  - <sup>2</sup> For the knowledge of wisdom and correction, For discerning the sayings of intelligence;
  - <sup>3</sup> For receiving the correction of prudence, Righteousness and justice, and equity;
  - for giving To the simple shrewdness,*

To the young man, knowledge and discretion.

- 5 A wise man | will hear | and will increase learning,
- And a ||discreet man|| <wise counsels> will acquire.
- By gaining discernment of proverb, and satire, The words of the wise and their dark
- 7 The reverence of Yahweh | is the beginning of knowledge,
- < Wisdom and correction> the foolish have despised.
- 8 Hear my son, the correction of thy father, And do not reject the instruction of thy mother;
- 9 For  shall they' be to thy head.

And chains of ornament, to thy neck.

- 10 My son <if sinners entice' thee> do not consent.
- 11 < If they say—
  - Come with us, -

Let us lie in wait for blood,

Let us watch in secret for him who is needlessly innocent;

- Let us engulf them like hades |alive|,
- < While in health > like them who are going down to the pit;
- < All costly substance > shall we find, We shall fill our houses with spoil;
- <Thy lot> shalt thou cast into our midst,
- <One purse> shall there be |for us all|!> 15 My son do not walk in the way with them,
- Withhold thy foot from their path.d 16 For ||their feet|| < to mischief > do run,
- And haste to the shedding of blood. 17 Surely <in vain> is spread the net,
- In the sight of aught that hath wings!

  Or: "sentences."
  Or: "who is innocent in wain."

- 18 Yet ||they|| < for their own blood > lie in wait. They watch in secret for their own life.
- 19 Such' are the ways of every one that graspeth with greed,
  - <The life* of the owners thereof> it taketh away!
- 20 || Wisdom || < in the open place > soundeth forth, <In the broadways> she raiseth her voice;
- 21 < At the head of bustling streets > she crieth aloud, -
  - < At the openings of the gates in the city—her sayings > she doth utter :-
- How long ye simple ones will ye love simplicity?

And ||scoffers|| < in scoffing > delight them? And ||dullards|| hate knowledge?

- Will ye turn at my reproof? Lo! I will pour out to you my spirit,
  - I will make known my words to you.
- Because I called and ye refused, I stretched out my hand and no' one regarded:
- But ye dismissed all my counsel.

And <to my rebuke> would not yield>

- ||I also|| <at your calamity> will laugh.
- I will mock when cometh your dread; When cometh as a crashing your dread And ||your calamity|| <as a storm-wind> overtaketh,

When there come upon you distress and anguish.

- ||Then|| will they call me but I will not answer,
  - They will seek me diligently, but shall not find me.
  - Because they hated knowledge,
    - And <the reverence of Yahweh> did not choose:
- Consented not to my counsel,

Disdained all my rebuke>

- Therefore shall they eat of the fruit of their own way,
  - And <with their own counsels> be filled.
- For || the turning away of the simple || will slay them,--
  - And ||the carelessness of dullards|| will destroy them.
    - Whereas || he that hearkeneth unto me|| shall dwell safely, And be at rest without dread of misfortune.

Pointeth with his fingers:

[Hath] perverse things in his heart, Deviseth mischief on every occasion, <Strifes> he sendeth forth.

15 < For this cause > suddenly' cometh his doom, <In a moment> shall he be torn in pieces and there be no' mending.

16 < These six things > doth Yahweh hate, Yes ||seven|| are the abomination of his soul :-

Eyes' that are lofty A tongue' that is false,

And hands' shedding innocent blood;

A heart' contriving iniquitous devices, Feet' hasting to run into mischief:

One that uttereth lies-a false witness. And one sending forth strifes between brethren.

30 Observe thou, my son, the commandment of thy father.

And do not decline from the instruction of thy mother:

<sup>21</sup> Bind them upon thy heart continually, Fasten them upon thy neck;

2 < When thou walkest abroad> it shall guide

<When thou sleepest> it shall watch over

< When thou wakest> it shall speak to thee:

25 For  is the commandment

And || the instruction ||d a light,

And <the way of life> are the reproofs of correction:

34 To keep thee from the wicked woman,

From the flattery of the tongue of her that is a stranger.

Do not covet her beauty in thy heart,

Neither let her take thee, by her eyelashes;

25 Because < for the sake of an impure woman> [a man may be brought] even to a cake of bread, -

And |a man's wife||

<For a precious soul> may hunt!

27 Can a man snatch up fire in his bosom, And ||his clothes|| not be burned?

28 Or can a man walk upon hot coals, And || his feet | not be burned?

29 ||So|| he that goeth in unto his neighbour's wife,

No man shall be guiltless' who toucheth her!

Men despise not a thief when he stealeth,

To satisfy his appetite o because he is famished; MYet <if found> he must pay back sevenfold,

<All the substance of his house> must he give:

1 My son keep my sayings, And <my commandments> treasure by thee;

2 Keep my commandments and live. And mine instruction as the pupild of thine eye;

3 Bind them upon thy fingers,

Write them, on the tablet of thy heart;

4 Say unto wisdom <My sister> thou! And <an acquaintance> call thou | understanding |:

5 That thou mayest be kept, from the woman that is a stranger,

From the female unknown, who | with her speeches | doth flatter.

For <in the window of my house, Through my lattice> I looked out;

7 And saw among the simple ones Discerned among the youths

A young man lacking sense;

||A wise son || maketh a glad father. But ||a foolish d son || is the grief of his mother.

- The treasures of lawlessness |do not profit|, But ||righteousness|| delivereth from death.
- <sup>3</sup> Yahweh |suffereth not to famish| the soul of the righteous,
- But ||the desire of the lawless||° he thrusteth away.
- 4 He' becometh poor who dealeth with a slack hand,
- But ||the hand of the diligent|| maketh rich.
- <sup>5</sup> | He that gathereth in summer | is a prudent
- ||He that sleepeth long in harvest|| is a son causing shame.
- 6 || Blessings || are for the head of the righteous
- But || the mouth of the lawless || covereth up wrong.
- 7 || The memory of the righteous || yieldeth blessing.
- But ||the name of the lawless|| dieth out.
- 8 ||The wise in heart|| will accept commandments.
- But ||he that is foolish with his lips|| shall be thrust away.
- 9 || He that walketh uprightly || may walk securely, But ||he that maketh crooked his ways|| shall be found out.
- Ml.: "heart." Cp. vi. 32, n.
  Ml.: "Bread of concealments."
- Mi.: "Dread of conceanments."

  Sep. and Syr. here add:
  "But turn thou away—do not linger in the place.

  Neither set thine eyes upon her,

  For so shalt thou pass by strange waters;

given' to the sons of men to work toilsomely therein. 14 I saw all the works which were done under the sun,—and lo! | all | was vanity and a feeding on wind." 15 || That which is crooked || cannot be straight, -and || that which 16 Spake is wanting || cannot be reckoned. III inb my heart saying, <As for me> lo! I have become great and have gathered wisdom, beyond any one who hath been before me over Jerusalem,—and ||my heart || hath seen much wisdom and knowledge: 17 yea I have given my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness  $^{d}$  and folly,—I know that  $\parallel$  even this; is a feeding on wind. 18 For <in much wisdom> is much vexation,—and ||he that increaseth knowledge | increaseth pain.

2 1 Said |II in my heart, Come now! I will prove thee with gladness, and look thou on blessedness, - but lo! ||even that|| was vanity. <sup>2</sup> < Of laughter > I said Madness! and <of mirth> What can it do? <sup>3</sup> I sought out with my heart, to cherish with wine my flesh,—but ||my heart|| was to guide with wisdom even in laying hold of folly, until I should see which was blessedness for the sons of men as to that which they could do under the heavens," during the number of the days of their life. I enlarged my works,-I built me houses, I planted me vineyards; 5 I made me gardens and parks, h-I planted in them trees of every kind of fruit; 6 I made me pools of water, - to irrigate therefrom the thick-set saplings growing up into trees: 7 I acquired men-servants and women-servants, and || the children of the household; were mine,-also possessions ||herds and flocks in abundance|| were mine, beyond all who had been before me in Jerusalem; 8 I heaped me up both silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and provinces.-I provided me singingmen and singing-women, and the delights of the sons of men, a wife and wives.

So I became great and increased, more than any one who had been before me in Jerusalem. -moreover' ||my wisdom|| remained with me: 10 and <nothing that mine eyes asked> withheld I from them, -I did not keep back my heart from any gladness, for ||my heart|| obtained gladness out of all my toil, and so this was my portion. out of all my toil. 11 < When ||I|| looked upon all my works which my hands had made, and on my toil whereon I had toilsomely wrought> then lo! | all | was vanity and feeding on wind, and there was no profit under the sun. 12 Thus turned ||I|| to look at wisdom, and madness and folly, -for what can the man [do more] who cometh after the king? [save] that which ||already | men have done.

Then saw ||I||, that wisdom' doth' excel folly, -as far as light' excelleth darkness'. 14 < As for the wise man > | his eves | are in his head, whereas || the dullard || < in darkness > doth walk, -but || I myself || knew that "one destiny " happeneth tob them [all]. 15 Then said I. in my heart, <As it happeneth to the dullard> ||even to me|| will it happen, but wherefore |then|c became |I| wise to excest! Therefore spake I in my heart, this || is vanity. 16 For there is no remembrance of a wise man, more than of a dullard unto times age-abiding,—seeing that <already in the days to come > all hath been forgotten, how then cometh it that the wise' man dieth' equally with the dullard'?

Therefore I hated life, for  was the work which was done under the sun,-for ||all|| was vanity and a feeding on wind.d 18 Therefore hated || I || all my toil wherein I' was toiling under the sun,-in that I should leave it for the man who should come after me; 19 and who' could know whether a <wise man> he would be or a foolish, and yet he would lord it over all my toil wherein I had toiled and wherein I had acted wisely under the sun,-||even this|| was vanity.

Then resolved I to give my heart over to despair, -concerning all the toil, wherein I had toiled ounder the sun. 21 For here' is a man! whose toil hath been with wisdom and with knowledge and with skill, -yet <to a man who hath not toiled therein> shall he leave it as his portion, ||even this|| was vanity and a great vexation. 22 For what hath the man for all his toil, and for the striving of his heart, -wherein ||he himself|| toiled under the sun! For all his days || are pains, and <vexatious > is his employment, <even in the night> his heart lieth not down, - ||even this|| was | vanity |

24 There was nothing more blessed for Man [than]s that he should eat and drink, and see his desireh for blessedness in his toil,-<even this > saw ||I myself||, that < from the hand of God> it was. 25 For who could est and who could enjoy so well as I? 1 26 For < to a man who is good before him > hath he given wisdom and knowledge and gladness, -whereas <to the sinner> he hath given employment, to gather and heap up, to give to one who is good before God, ||even this|| was vanity and a feeding on wind.

- What profit hath he that worketh, in that 10 I looked wherein ||himself|| hath toiled? at the employment which God hath given to the sons of men to work therein: 11 < Everything> hath he made beautiful in its own time, -also <intelligence> a hath he put in their heart, without which men could not find out the work which God hath wrought, from the beginning 12 I know that there is even unto the end. no blessedness in them,—save to be glad, and to do well with b one's life. 13 Though indeed <that any man should eat and drink, and see blessedness, in all his toil> it is | the gift of 14 I know, that < whatsoever God God I. doeth> || the same || shall be age-abiding, <unto it> there is nothing to add, and <from it> there is nothing to take away,—and "God" hath done it, that men should stand in awe before him. 15 ||That which was | |already | had been, and 'that which shall be | |already| shall have been,—but |God| seeketh that which hath been chased away.
- Then | again | I saw under the sun, -|| the place of justice|| that there' was lawlessness, and ||the place of righteousness|| that 17 Said ||I|| in my there' was lawlessness. <Both the righteous and the lawheart, less> will God judge,—for [there will be] a time for every pursuit, and concerning every work-||there||. 18 Said ||I|| in my heart, <as concerning the sons of men> That God was minded to prove them, - and that they might see that they were beasts ||of themselves | 19 For <as regardeth the destiny of the sons of men and the destiny of beasts> ||one fate|| have they, <as dieth the one> ||so|| dieth the other, and <one spirit> have they all,—and ||the pre-eminence of man over beast|| is nothing, for ||all|| were vanity: 20 ||all|| go unto one place,-"all | came from the dust, and ||all|| return to the dust. 21 Who knoweth the spirit of the sons of men, whether itb ascendeth above, -or the spirit of the beast, whether itb |descendeth| below to the earth?

- 22 So I saw that there was nothing better than that a man should be glad in his works, for ||that.| is his portion,—for who' can bring him in to look upon that which shall be after him?
- Then again | I | considered all the oppressive 4 deeds which were done under the sun, - and lo! the tears of the oppressed, and they have no' comforter, and <on the side of their oppressors> is power, and they have no' comforter. 2 So ||I|| pronounced happy' the dead, who were ||already|| dead, - more than the living, who were living |still|; 3 and <as better than both> him who had.not yet' come into being, -who had not seen the vexatious work, which was done under the sun.
- Then saw ||I' all the toil and all the skill of the work, that <for this> a man was envied of his neighbour, -||even this|| was vanity, and a feeding on wind. 5 || The dullard || claspeth his hands, and consumeth his own flesh. 6 Better' a handful-with quietness,-than both hands full-with toil and feeding on wind.
- Then again ||I|| looked at a vain thing under the sun :- "8 Here' is one without a second <even son or brother> he hath none, vet is there no' end to all his toil, ||even his eye||e is not satisfied with riches, - neither [saith he] <For whom> am I toiling and letting my soul want good? || Even this || was vanity yea |a vexatious employment| it was! 9 Better are two, than one,-in that they have a good reward for their toil. 10 For <if the one should fall> [the other] would raise up his companion.but alas! for him who is alone when he falleth, with no second to raise him up! 11 Moreover <if two lie together> then have they warmth, -but how can ||one|| have warmth? 12 And <though an enemy should prevail against one> ||two|| might make a stand before him, -and ||a threefold cord | cannot soon be broken.
- Better' a boy poor and wise,—than a king old and stupid,d who knoweth not how to take warning any longer. 14 For <out of prison> came he forth to reign, - yea' < even in his own kingdom> was he born poor.
- I saw all the living, who were going hither and thither under the sun,-[that they were] with the boy who was to be the second, who was to stand in the other's place:-16 There was no end to all the people, to all before to retain the spirit, and "none" hath power over the day of death, and there is no' furlough in war,—neither shall lawlessness deliver them who are given thereto. 9 < All this > had I seen, and tried to apply my heart to every work which was done under the sun,—at such time as one' man had power over another' man, to his hurt.

And "thereupon" I considered the lawless when buried when they had entered [their graves], that <from the place of the Holy One> they used to go and boast* in the city that they had so' done,—||even this|| was vanity.

- Secause sentence against a wicked work is not executed speedily—on this account> the heart of the sons of men is fully set within them to commit wickedness. <sup>13</sup> < Though a sinner be committing wickedness a hundred times and continuing long in his own way> yet I' surely know that it shall be well to them who revere God, who stand in awe before him; <sup>13</sup> but < well> shall it not be to the lawless man, neither shall he lengthen out his days like a shadow,—because he standeth not' in awe before God.
- 14 Here' was a vain thing which was done upon the earth—that there were' righteous men unto whom it happened' according to the work of the lawless, and there were' lawless men unto whom it happened according to the work of the righteous,—I said that ||even this|| was vanity.
- 15 Then extolled I gladness, in that there was' nothing better for a man under the sun, than to eat and to drink and to be glad, -since ||that|| should tarry with him in his toil, for the days of his life which God had given him under the sun. 16 < When I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to consider the business that was done upon the earth> then surely by day and by night> there was one who suffered not his eyes || to sleep || b 17 Then I considered all the work of God, that man could not find out the work that was done under the sun, inasmuch as man toileth in seeking and yet cannot find, -yea' <even though the wise man should say he knoweth> yet can he not find it out.
- 9 ¹ For <unto all this> I applied my heart, and ||my heart|| considered all this, that ||the righteous and the wise and their servants|| were in the hand of God,—<neither love nor hatred> could any man know, ||every one|| as before Him. 2 ||Every one|| was like every one else, <one destiny> had the righteous and the lawless, the good and the pure and the impure, and he that racrificed and he that did not sacrifice,—<as the good man>

SONG OF SONGS.

1 The Song of Songs which pertaineth to Solomon.

[She.]

Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth!

[They.]

For better are thy caresses than wine:

Soliton and Solito

<For this cause> virgins love thee.

[She.]

Draw me!

[They.]

<After thee> will we run!

[She.]

The king |hath brought me| into his chambers.

[They.]

We will exult and rejoice in thee,

We will mention thy caresses, beyond wine, Sincerely' they love thee.

[She.]

5 < Swarthy> I am' but comely.

Ye daughters of Jerusalem.

[They.]

Like the tents of Kedar,

Like the curtains of Solomon.

[She.]

6 Do not look on me

Because ||I|| am so swarthy,

Because the sun hath scorched' me,—

||My mother's sons|| were angry with me

They set me to keep the vineyards,

<Mine own' vineyard> have I not kept. . . .

7 Tell me, thou loved of my soul!

Where' wilt thou pasture thy flock?

Where' wilt thou let them recline at noon? For why' should I be as one that wrappeth a veil about her by the flocks of thy companions?

[He.]

" If thou know not of thyself,

Most beautiful among women!

Get thee forth in the footsteps of the flock.

And pasture thy kids by the huts of the shepherds. . . .

THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET

ISAIAH.

13

- § 1. After a General Introduction, follows—a Solemn Indictment against Israel: sustained by Exhortation, Promise, and Threatening.
- <sup>1</sup> The vision of Isaiah, son of Amoz, which he saw, concerning Judah and Jerusalem,—in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah,—kings of Judah.
- Hear, O heavens, And give ear, O earth, for ||Yahweh|| hath spoken:— <Sons> have I brought up, and advanced, And ||they|| have rebelled against me.
- An ox' | knoweth | his owner',
  And an ass' his master's crib',—
  || Israel || doth not know,
  || My people || doth not consider.
- 4 Alas! a nation—committing sin, a people—burdened with iniquity, a seed—practising wickedness, sons—acting corruptly.

They have forsaken Yahweh, despised the Holy One of Israel,—
Are estranged and gone back.

5 Why should ye be smitten any more? Ye would again' turn aside! The whole head is sick,

And the whole heart faint:

6 <From the sole of the foot, even unto the head> there is in it no soundness, Bruise and stripe and newly-made wound,— They have not been pressed out.

nor bound up, nor soothed with oil.

- Your country—is a desolation, Your cities —are consumed with fire,— Your soil — <ri>| foreigners | are devouring it, And it is a desolation, a very overthrow by foreigners; c
- 8 And left' is the Daughter of Zion. Like a hut in a vineyard,— Like a lodge in a gourd-plot. Like a city besieged.
- 9 < If || Yahweh of hosts|| had not left as a very small remnant>
  - <Like Sodom> had we become, <Gomorrah>d had we resembled.
- Some cod. (w. Sep., Syr., Vul.): "And my people" —G.n.
- b Some cod. (w. Syr.):
  "And your c."—G.n.
- Or: "A veritable foreign' overthrow."
   Some cod. (w. 1 ear. pr. end., Aram., Syr., Vul.): "And G."—G.n.

- Hear the word of Yahweh ye rulers of Sodom,—
  - Give ear to the instruction of our God ye people of Gomorrah:—
  - ||Of what use to me|| is your multitude of sacrifices? Saith Yahweh:
    - I am sated with ascending-offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts,—
    - <In the blood of bulls and young rams and he-goats> have I no pleasure.
- When ye enter to see my face>*
  Who hatl, required this at your hand, trampling my courts?
  - Ye shall not again' bring in an empty' present,
    ||Incense,|| < an abomination > is that' unto me!
    - New moon and sabbath calling an assembly—
    - I cannot endure ||iniquity and sacred | | festival||!
- <Your new moons, and your appointed feasts> my soul | hateth|,—
  - They have become unto me a burden I am too weary to bear:
- Even when ye spread forth your open palms> I hide mine eyes from you;
  - Yea <though ye multiply' prayers>
    I am not hearkening,—
    || Your hands|| <with deeds of blood> are filled.
- Wash you make you clean, Put away the wickedness of your doings from before mine eyes,
  - cease to do evil.
- 17 Learn to do well—
  Seek justice,
  Correct the oppressor, b—
  Vindicate the fatherless,
  Plead the cause of the widow.
- Come I pray you and let us settle the diapute Saith Yahweh,—

  Though your sins be found like scarlet>
  - Though your sins be found like scarled
    <As snow> shall they be made white,
  - Though they appear red like crimson>
    <As wool> shall they become.

  Of the good of the land> shall ye eat;
  - But <if ye refuse and rebel>
    <With the sword> shall ye be devoured,

For ||the mouth of Yahweh|| hath spoken it.

- 31 How hath she become unchaste!— The city that was Faithful,— Full of justice Righteousness lodged in her, But ||now|| murderers!
- 22 ||Thy silver|| hath become dross, ||Thy wine|| * weakened with water;
- 22 ||Thy rulers | are unruly b and companions of thieves,

|| Every one of the people || c loveth a bribe, and runneth after rewards,—

<The fatherless> they do not vindicate,

And ||the plea of the widow | reacheth them not.

Declareth the Lord Yahweh of hosts, The Mighty One of Israel,—

Alas! I must appease me on mine adversaries,

I must avenge me on mine enemies;
That I may turn my hand against thee,

And smelt away as with potash d thy dross.

And remove all thine alloy;

That I may restore thy Judges as at the first, and thy Counsellors as at the beginning,—

<After that> shalt thou be called Righteous' citadel, Trusty' city,—

- Zion | | with justice | shall be redeemed,— And || her returning ones || | with righteousness |;
- And | the downfall of transgressors and sinners | shall be | together |.—

And || they who forsake Yahweh|| shall be brought to an end;

- For they shall turn pale on account of the oaks' which ye desired,—
  - And ye shall blush on account of the gardens' which ye had chosen;
- For ye shall be as an oak with its leaf faded,
- And as a garden' that hath no' "water";
  Then shall the strong' one become tow',
  And his work' a spark',—
  And they shall both blaze together.
  And there be none' to quench the fire.

- § 2. A complete Vision concerning Judah and Jerusalem, in which Sin and Punishment and ultimate Cleansing and Glory are vividly portrayed: the whole prefaced by an extract from the prophet Micah (iv. 1-3).
- <sup>1</sup> That which Isaiah, son of Amoz saw in 2 vision,—concerning Judah and Jerusalem.
- But it shall come to pass, |in the afterpart of the days|

That the mountain of the house of Yahweh
Shall be |set up| as the head of the mountains,

And be exalted above the hills,—

And all the nations |shall stream b thereunto|:

And many peoples shall go, and say— Come ye, and let us ascend

 Unto the mountain of Yahweh, Unto c the house of the God of Jacob,
 That he may teach us of his ways,

And we may walk in his paths,—
For <out of Zion> shall go forth a law,

And the word of Yahweh out of Jerusalem;

And he will judge between the nations,
And be umpire to many peoples,—
And they will beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks,

||Nationd-against nation|| shall not lift up sword,

Neither shall they learn any more to make war.

- O house of Jacob! come ye, and let us walk in the light of Yahweh.
- 6 Therefore's hast thou abandoned thy people, the house of Jacob.

Because' they have become full of the East.

And use hidden arts, like the Philistines,—
And < with the children of foreigners> strike hands;—

7 So that filled' is their land with silver and gold,

And there is no end to their treasures,— And filled' is their land with horses, And there is no end to their chariots;

- And filled' is their land with idols,—

  <To the work of their own hands> do they bow themselves down,
  - To that which they made with their own fingers.

§ 3. The Parabolic Song of the Vineyard, Explained and Applied, with a six-fold Lament ("Alas!") and a Refrain; followed by a Prediction of Invasion.

Let me sing, I pray you, for a well-beloved 5 of mine.

The song of my beloved concerning his vineyard :-

< A vineyard > had my well-beloved on a very fruitful hill;

And he thoroughly digged it And gathered out the stones thereof.

And planted it with a precious vine,

And built a tower in the midst thereof, | Moreover also |  hewed he therein.-

Then waited he that it should bring forth grapes.

And it brought forth wild' grapes:

3 || Now || therefore O inhabitant of Jerusalem And men of Judah,-

Judge I pray you betwixt me and my vineyard:-

What could have been done further' to my vineyard,

That I had not done in 'it?

Why' then-

< When I had waited that it should bring forth grapes'>

Brought it forth wild' grapes?

Nations gathered together.

Yahweh of hosts, mustering a host for battle!

They are coming in From a land far away

From the utmost bound of the heavens,-Yahweh-with his weapons of indignation,

To destroy the land.

Howl ye! for at hand' is the day of Yahweh,-< As a veritable b destruction from the Almighty> shall it come.

|| For this cause ||-

||All hands|| shall hang down,-and

|| Every mortal heart || melt.

§ 25. A Prophecy against Tyre: when restored to her Traffic, she will render Tribute to the Temple of Yahweh.

23 1 The oracle on Tyre,-

Howl! ye ships of Tarshish

For it is laid too waste to be a haven to enter, <From the land of Cyprus> hath it been unveiled to them.

Be dumb, ye inhabitants of the Coast,— Whom ||the merchants of Zidon|| <passing over the sea> once replenished;

Yea <on mighty waters> was the grain of Shihor,

"The harvest of the Nile" was her increase,—And so she became a mart of nations.

Is this, to you, an exultation?

<Though |from ancient days| is her antiquity>,

Yet shall her own feet' carry her away, far off to dwell.b

8 Who' hath purposed this, against Tyre.

The bestower of crowns,—

Whose merchants are princes,

Her traders, the honourable of the earth?

|| Yahweh of hosts|| hath purposed it,—
To humble the pride of all beauty,
To make of little esteem all the honourable of the earth.

Pass through thy land, as the Nile,— O daughter of Tarshish, there is no' restraint any longer!

< < His hand > hath he stretched out over the sea,

He hath shaken kingdoms,—
||Yahweh|| hath given command against the Phœnician coast,<sup>4</sup>

To destroy her fortresses.

12 Therefore hath he said,—

||No more again|| do thou exult,

Thou violated virgin daughter of Zidon,—

<To Cyprus> arise and pass over,

<Even there> shall one find thee no rest.

Lo! <the land of the Chaldeans>
 |This| is the people that was not,
 || Assyria|| founded it for the inhabitants of the desert,—
 They set up its siege-towers,
 They demolished its palaces.
 Made it a ruin!

Howl, ye ships of Tarshish,— For laid waste' is your fortress.

So shall it be <in that day>

That Tyre shall be forgotten seventy years, According to the days of a certain king:

< At the end of seventy years > shall it befall

Tyre according to the song of the harlot:

Take thou a lyre. Go round the city.
O harlot forgotten,—

Sweetly touch the strings, Lengthen out the song.

That thou mayest be called to mind.

Pray you say unto Hezekiah,-

||Thus|| saith the great king the king of Assyria,

13 So then Rabahakeh took his stand, and cried out with a loud voice | in the Jews' language |, and said,

Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assyria:

Let not Hezekiah deceive' you,—for he shall not be able to deliver you.

Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in Yahweh saying,

14 And <when Hezekiah had received the letter at the hand of the messengers, and had read it> then went he up to the house of Yahweh, and Hezekiah |spread it out | before Yahweh.

THEBOOK $\mathbf{OF}$ THE PROPHET

JEREMIAH.

- § 1. After a brief historical Record, Jeremiah tells of his Pre-natal Destination and early Call to the Prophetic Office. He is charged to be fearless, sent to Nations and Kingdoms, and assured of Divine Aid. Almond Branch and Boiling Caldron shown him as Emblems of his Mission.
- 1 1 The words of Jeremiah, son of Hilkiah, -of the priests who were in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin: 2 unto whom came the word of Yahweh, in the days of Josiah son of Amon king of Judah, -in the thirteenth year of his reign; it came also in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, unto the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah son of Josiah. king of Judah, -as far as the carrying away of Jerusalem captive in the fifth month.

So then the word of Yahweh came unto me saying:

<Before I formed thee at thy birth>* I took knowledge of thee,

And <before thy nativity>b I hallowed

<A prophet to the nations> I appointed thee.

" Then said I-

Ah! My Lord, Yahweh!

Lo! I know not how to speak,-For  am ||I||!

7 Then said Yahweh unto me,

Do not say, <A child> am ||I||,-For <against whomsoever I send thee> shalt thou go,

And < whatsoever I command thee> shalt thou speak :

Be not afraid of their faces,-

For <with thee > am | I | to deliver thee Declareth Yahweh.

<sup>9</sup> Then Yahweh put forth his hand, and touched my mouth, e-and Yahweh said unto me.

Lo! I have put my words' in thy mouth. See ! I have set thee in charge, this day, over the nations, and over the kingdoms,

To uproot and to break down and to destroy and to tear in pieces,-To build and to plant.

11 Moreover the word of Yahweh came unto me,

What canst thou see Jeremiah?

* Ml. : " in the body." * Ml. : " bef. thou camest out of the womb." c Cp. Is. vi. 7.

And I said,

< A twig of an almond-tree> a can I see.

12 Then said Yahweh unto me-

Thou hast rightly seen, - for <keeping watch>b am I over my word to perform

13 And the word of Yahweh came unto me, a second time, saying,

What canst thou see?

And I said.

<A boiling caldron>e can I see, with the front thereof | |on the North||.

14 Then said Yahweh unto me,- shall break forth <Out of the North> calamity, against all the inhabitants of the land.d 15 For behold me! calling for all the families of the kingdoms of the North

Declareth Yahweh,and they shall come, and set every one his throne at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem and against all her walls. round about, and against all the cities of Judah!

Then will I pronounce my judgments against them, concerning all their wickednes,in that they have forsaken me, and have burned incense unto other gods, and have bowed down to the works of their own

||Thou|| therefore shalt gird thy loins, and arise and speak unto them, all that I command thee,-be not dismayed because of them, lest I dismay thee before their face. 18 || I || therefore-lo! I have set the to-day as a fortified city, and as a pillar of iron as walls of bronze over all the land, - against the kings of Judah against her princes, against her priests, and against the people of the land.

- § 2. Commencing his First Message to Jerusalem in terms of touching Tenderness, the Prophet remonstrates with his People for their Unfaithfulness, Ingratitude, Daring and Cruelty; he silences Equivocation, and sternly brings home the Charge of Unfaithfulness.
- 2 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me saying; <sup>2</sup> Go and cry in the ears of Jerusalem, saying-||Thus|| saith Yahweh.

I remember in thy behalf the lovingkindness of thy youthful days,

The love of thy bridal estate,-

Thy coming out after me

Through the desert.

Through a land |not sown |:

| Holiness | was Israel unto Yahweh. The first-fruit of his increase, -

||All that devoured it || were held guilty, ||Calamity|| used to come upon them.— Declareth Yahweh.

- Hear ye the word of Yahweh O house of Jacob.
  - And all the families of the house of Israel. ||Thus|| saith Yahweh,-
  - What did your fathers find in me by way of perversity, that they removed far from me, -and went after vanity b and became vain ?º 6 Neither said they.

Where is Yahweh,

Who brought us up out of the land of Egypt,-

Who led us

Through the desert

Through a land of wastes and clefts. Through a land of parched places and of death-shade,

Through a land

Along which no man had passed And in which no son of earth dwelt?

- Then brought I you into a country of garden' land, to eat the fruit thereof and the goodness thereof, -- and vet < when ve entered> then defiled ye my land, and <mine inheritance> ye made an abomination.
- ||The priests|| said not

Where' is Yahweh?

And ||they who handled the law|| did not acknowledge me.

And ||the shepherds|| transgressed against me,-

And ||the prophets|| prophesied by Baal, And so <after things that could not profit> did they walk.

And <unto Kedar> send ye and |consider diligently |, -

And see-whether b there hath been the like of this!

Hath | a nation | changed | gods |, although ||they|| were No-gods?

Yet ||my people|| have changed myc glory' for that which could not profit!

Be amazed, O ye heavens, at this,-And shudder, be dried upd utterly Urgeth Yahweh.

For <two wicked things> have my people committed, -

> <Me> have they forsaken | a fountain of living water |,

> To hew out for themselves cisterns, broken' cisterns, that cannot hold water.

Was Israel ||a servant||?

<Born in the house> was |he|?

Wherefore hath he become a prey?

<Against him> have been roaring | wild lions |,

They have uttered their voice, -and have made his land a desolation.

||His cities|| have been burned so as to have no inhabitant.

- || Even the sons of Noph and Tahpanhes|| have been crushing the crown of the head.
- Is not this' what thou wast certain to do for thyself,-in that thou didst forsake Yahweh thy God, when he was leading thee by the way?
- ||Now|| therefore what hast thou to do with the way to Egypt, to drink the waters of Shihor?
  - Or what hast thou to do with the way to Assyria, to drink the waters of the River [ = Euphrates]?
- Let thy wickedness correct' thee

And ||thine apostacies|| rebuke thee.

Know therefore and see

That it is a wicked thing and a bitter, that thou shouldest have forsaken Yahweh thy God .-

And that the dread of me' should not have pertained to thee.

Suiting the Time when the Book of the Law was found (2 K. xxii. 8; 2 Ch. xxxiv. 15), Jeremiah recalls the People to the Sinai Covenant, appending his own "Amen" to the "Curse" (Deu. xxvii. 16-26); by the flagrant Breach of which Covenant the People are declared past praying for. The Prophet's own Brethren of Anathoth conspire against him; on discovering which he (the "Gentle Lamb") prays for Vengeance, though on public Grounds. words of this covenant; 4 which I commanded your fathers—in the day when I brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, out of 'the amelting-pot of iron—saying,

Hearken unto my voice, and do them, According to all that I may command you,—

So shall ye become |my' people|, And ||I|| will become |your' God|:

That the oath may be established which I sware to your fathers

To give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as at this day.

Then answered I and said

Amen, O Yahweh!

6 And Yahweh said unto me,-

Proclaim thou all these words, throughout the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying,—

Hear ye the words of this covenant, and do them.

For I ||solemnly took your fathers to witness|| in the day that I brought them up out of the land of Egypt—even until this day, <betimes> taking them to witness saying,—

Hearken ye unto my voice.

- 8 Howbeit they hearkened not neither inclined their ear, but walked severally in the stubbornness of their wicked heart,—so then I brought upon them all the words of this covenant, which I commanded them to do but they did them not.
- 9 Yahweh therefore said unto me,-

There is found a conspiracy among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem:

They have turned back unto the iniquities of their first fathers, who refused to hear my words, yea ||they themselves|| have walked after other gods to serve them,— the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken' my covenant which I solemnised with their fathers.

14 ||Thou|| therefore do not pray for this people, Neither lift thou up for them cry or prayer,-For I am not going to hear in the time that they cry unto me concerning b their calamity.

Why hath the beloved <in mine own house> done an abomination?

Shall || vows and holy flesh ||c take away from thee thy wickednesses, or shalt thou <by these > escape ? 4

< A green olive-tree, fair with goodly fruit> did Yahweh call thy name, - < with the noise of a great tumult> hath he kindled fire upon it, and the branches thereof |shall be broken |.

But || Yahweh of hosts who planted thee hath pronounced against thee |calamity|, on account of the wickedness of the house of Israel and of the house of Judah, which they have wrought of themselves, provoking me to anger by burning incense to Baal.

Now < when || Yahweh|| let me know and I did know> ||then|| didst thou shew me their doings.

§ 20. Jeremiah sums up the Messages he had delivered against Judah and Jerusalem, from the thirteenth Year of Josiah to the fourth of Jehoiakim; declaring that, as these Messages had been unheeded, the threatened Chaldean Invasion must needs come, but the Captivity in Babylon should be limited to Seventy Years. The Prophet passes the Cup of Indignation round to the Nations, beginning at Jerusalem, and significantly ending with Sheshach (or Babylon, chap. li. 41).

So we have hearkened unto the voice of Jonadaba son of Rechab, our father, in all that he commanded us, -not to drink wine' all our days, |we our wives our sons nor our daughters ||; 9 and not to build house for us to dwell in,-and so <vineyard or field or seed> have we none; 10 but we have dwelt in tents,-and have hearkened and done, according to all that Jonadab our father commanded' us. 11 And so it came to pass, when Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, that we said,-

Let us ||even enter|| Jerusalem, because of the force of the Chaldeans and because of the force of the Syrians:

- § 30. By Divine Command, Jeremiah, through Baruch, writes in a Scroll all the Words he has hitherto spoken concerning Israel, Judah and the Nations; after which Baruch reads the Scroll first to all the People, then to the Princes; next, Jehudi begins to read it to King Jehoiakim, who, having heard a Portion, angrily cuts up the Scroll and consumes it in the Fire; for which he is denounced by Yahweh, and the Scroll is rewritten—with Additions.
- 36 1 And it came to pass in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, that this word came unto Jeremiah from Yahweh, saving:

Take thee a scroll, b and write therein, all the words which I have spoken unto thee concerning Israel, and concerning Judah and concerning all the nations,—

from the day I began to speak unto thee, from the days of Josiah, even until this day:

Peradventure the house of Judah will hearken' unto all the calamity which I' am devising to execute against them,—to the end they may return every man from his wicked' way, whereupon I will forgive their iniquity, and their ain.

4 So Jeremish called' Baruch son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote', from the mouth of Jeremish, all the words of Yahweh which he had spoken unto him upon a scroll.

5 Then did Jeremish command Baruch saying.—

||I|| am hindered, I cannot'enter the house of Yahweh;

6 ||Thou || therefore shalt enter and read in the roll which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of Yahweh in the ears of the people in the house of Yahweh on the day of a fast,— moreover also <in the ears of all Judah who are coming in out of their cities > shalt thou read them:

Peradventure their supplication | will fall prostrate | before Yahweh, and they return' every man from his wicked way,—

For ||great|| are the anger and the indignation, which Yahweh hath spoken' against this people.

So then Baruch son of Neriah did' according to all which Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading in the book the words of Yahweh, in the house of Yahweh. And it came to pass in the fifth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, that all the people of Jerusalem, and all the people who were coming in out of the cities of Judah into Jerusalem, had proclaimed a fast before Yahweh, Baruch, therefore, read in the book, the words of Jeremiah in the house of Yahweh,—in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan—the scribe, in the upper court, at the opening of the new gate of the house of Yahweh, in the ears of all the people.

When Micaiah, son of Gemariah son of Shaphan, heard' all the words of Yahweh, out of the book> 12 then went he down unto the house of the king up to the chamber of the scribe, and lo! || there|| all the princes sitting,—Elishama the scribe and Delaiah son of Shemaiah and Elnathan son of Achbor, and Gemariah son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the princes. 13 So Micaiah told' them all the words which he heard,—when Baruch read in the book in the ears of the people. 14 All the princes, therefore, sent' unto Baruch, Jehudi, son of Nethaniah son of Shelemiah son of Cushi,

The roll wherein thou didst read in the ears of the people > take it in thy hand and come.

So Baruch son of Neriah took the roll in his hand, and came in unto them.

15 Then said they unto him.

Sit down we pray thee and read it in our ears.

So Baruch read' it in their ears.

16 And it came to pass <when they heard all thed words> that they turned with fear one to another,—and said unto Baruch,

We must "surely tell" the king all these words!

<sup>17</sup> Then <unto Baruch> put they questions, saving,—

Tell us we pray thee, |How| didst thou write all these words at his mouth?

18 So Baruch said' unto them,

<With his own mouth> used he to proclaim unto me' all these words,—and I kept on writing in the book | with ink |.*

<sup>21</sup> |The king| therefore, sent|Jehudi| to fetch the roll, and he fetched it, out of the chamber of Elishama the scribe,—and Jehudi read it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes, who were standing near the king.

Now ||the king|| was sitting in the winter house in the ninth' month, -| with the firestove before him burning |. 23 So then it came to pass < when Jehudi had read three or four columns that he cut it up into fragments with a scribe's knife, and cast them into the fire that was in the stove,—until |all the roll| was consumed on the fire that was on the 24 Yet were they not in dread, neither rent they their garments,-||the king. nor any of his servants that were hearing all these words ||. 25 | Nevertheless | | Elnathan and Delaiah and Gemariah || interceded with the king, not to burn the roll,—but he hearkened not unto them.

Then did the king command Jerahmeel son of the king and Seraish son of Azriel and Shelemiah son of Abdeel, to fetch Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet,—but Yahweh had hid them.

Then came the word of Yahweh unto Jeremiah,—after the king had burned the roll, and the words which Baruch had written from the mouth of Jeremiah, saying:

28 | Again | take thee another roll, and write thereon all the former words which were on the first roll, which Jehoiakim king of Judah hath burned.

29 But <unto Jehoiakim king of Judah> shalt thou say,

<sup>32</sup> So ||Jeremiah|| took another roll' and gave it unto Baruch son of Neriah, the scribe, who wrote thereon from the mouth of Jeremiah' all the words of the book, which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned' in the fire,—and further' were added thereunto, many words ||like unto them|.

- § 31. King Zedekiah, at the Beginning of his Reign, asks for Jeremiah's Prayers; and, in anner, is warned not to count on Nebuchadrezar's permanent Departure from Jerusalem. During a temporary Withdrawal of the Chaldens, Jeremiah is caught going out to Anathoth, falsely accused, smitten, and cast into Prison. The King, secretly consulting the Prophd, reduces his sentence to Confinement in the Guardcourt, appointing him a Cake per Day while Bread lasted in the City.

- 11 Now it came to pass < when the army of the Chaldeans |had gone up| from Jerusalem,—because of the force of Pharaoh> 12 then went forth Jeremiah out of Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin,—to receive a portion from thence in the midst of the people. 13 And so it came to pass < he' being in the gate of Benjamin, and there being there' a ward-master whose name was Irijah son of Shelemiah son of Hananiah> that he seized Jeremiah the prophet saying,

<Unto the Chaldeans> art thou' falling away!

14 Then said Jeremiah

False! I am not falling away unto the Chaldeans!

Howbeit he hearkened not unto him,—so Irijah seized Jeremiah, and brought him in unto the princes.

15 Then were the princes wroth' against Jeremiah, and smote him,—and put him in prison, in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for <that> had they made the prison.

16 < When Jeremiah had entered into the dungeonhouse and into the cells, and Jeremiah had eremained there many days>
17 then sent King Zedekiah—and fetched him, and the king asked him, in his own house, secretly.

Is' there a word from Yahweh?

And Jeremiah said.

and said.-

There is, for (said he)

<Into the hand of the king of Babylon> shalt thou be delivered!

<sup>18</sup> And Jeremiah said' unto King Zedekiah,— What sin have I committed against thee or against thy servants or against this people, that ye have delivered me' up into prison?

Where then are your prophets, who prophesied unto you saying,—

The king of Babylon |shall not come | against you nor against this land?

Let my supplication I pray thee fall prostrate before thee, and do not cause me to return unto the house of Jonathan the scribe, lest I die there!

Then King Zedekiah gave command and they committed Jeremiah into the guard-court, and [said] that there should be given him a cake of bread daily out of the bakers' street, until all the bread out of the city |should be spent|. So Jeremiah remained' in the guard-court.

- § 32. - <sup>1</sup> And <when Shephatiah son of Mattan and 38 Gedaliah son of Pashhur and Jucal son of Shelemiah and Pashhur son of Malchiah, heard' the words which Jeremiah' was speaking unto all the people saying:

"He that remaineth in this city" shall die, by sword by famine or by pestilence, whereas "he that goeth forth unto the Chaldeans" shall live, so shall he have his life for a spoil "and shall live".

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,-

This city shall ||surely be given|| into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, and he shall capture it>

4 Then said the princes unto the king, -

Let this man we pray thee | be put to death |, for < in this way > is he' weakening the hands of the men of war who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking unto them' such words as these; for ||this man|| is not' seeking |prosperity| for this people, but |misfortune|.

5 Then said King Zedekiah,-

But || Johanan son of Kareah, and all the princes of the forces which were in the field came unto Gedaliah in Mizpah, 14 and said unto him--

Dost thou ||at all know|| that ||Baalis | king of the sons of Ammon || hath sent Ishmsel son of Nethaniah, to smite thee to death?

But Gedaliah son of Ahikam | believed them not |. 15 Then || Johanan son of Kareah | spake unto Gedaliah | secretly in Mizpah | saying,-

Let me go, I pray thee, and smite Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and not ||a man | shall know it,-wherefore' should he smite thee to death, b and all Judah who have gathered themselves unto thee be dispersed, and the remnant of Judah perish'?

16 Then said Gedaliah son of Ahikam unto Johanan son of Kareah,

Thou mayest not do this thing,—for falsely art thou' speaking against Ishmael.

- And it came to pass <in the seventh month> 41 that Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishams of the seed royal and chiefs of the king and ten men with him, |came in| unto Gedalish son of Ahikam at Mizpah, - and they did there' eat bread together in Mizpah. arose Ishmael son of Nethaniah-and the tea men who were with him, and they smote Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan-with the sword, and slew him' whom the king of Babylon had set in charge over the land. Ishmael smote ||all the Jews who were with him even with Gedaliah in Mizpah, and the Chaldeans who were found there the men of war |.
- And it came to pass <on the second day after he had slain Gedaliah, not ||a man|| knowing it> 5 that men came in from Shechem from Shiloh, and from Samaria, -eighty men, with beards shaven and clothes rent, who also had cut themselves, with a meal-offering and frankincense in their hand, to bring them into the house of Yahweh. 6 Then went forth Ishmed son of Nethaniah to meet them out of Mirpah, weeping all along as he went,d-and it came to pass < when he fell in with them > that he said unto them.

Come ye in unto Gedalish son of Ahikam.

- § 38. The Spared and Rescued Remnant of Jews solicit Jeremiah's Intercession with Yahweh in their behalf, solemnly pledging themselves to abide the Result; yet, when the Answer proves adverse to their Wishes, they stubbornly disobey, and go down into Egypt as far as Tahpanhes, carrying Jeremiah and Baruch with them. Here the Prophet, with accompanying symbolic Action, foretells an Invasion of Egypt by Nebuchadrezzar King of Babylon.
- Then drew near, all the captains of the forces, 42 and Johanan son of Kareah, and Jezaniah son of Hoshaiah,—and all the people, from the least even unto the greatest; <sup>2</sup> and said unto Jeremiah the prophet—
  - Let our supplication, we beseech thee, fall prostrate before thee, and pray thou in our behalf unto Yahweh thy God, in behalf of all this remnant,—for we are left a few out of many, |just as thine own eyes' do behold us|: 3 that Yahweh thy God may tell' us, the way wherein we should walk,—and the thing that we should do.

4 And Jeremiah the prophet said' unto them

I have heard; behold me! praying unto Yahweh your God according to your words,—and it shall come to pass that <the whole thing that Yahweh shall answer you> I will tell you, I will keep back from you | nothing |.

5 ||They|| therefore said unto Jeremiah,

- Yahweh be against us, as a witness | true and faithful|,—if <according to all the word which Yahweh thy God shall send' thee unto us> ||so|| we do not perform: 6 ||whether for good or for ill||, <unto the voice of Yahweh our God for which we' are sending thee unto him> will we hearken,—to the end it may be well with us, |because we will hearken' unto the voice of Yahweh our God |.
- 7 And it came to pass <at the end of ten days> that the word of Yahweh came' unto Jeremiah. 8 Then called he for Johanan son of Kareah, and for all the princes of the forces' who were with him,—and for all the people [from the least even unto the greatest]; 9 and said unto them,

||Thus|| saith Yahweh, God of Israel,—unto whom ye sent me, to cause your supplication to fall prostrate before him:—

§ 4. A Miniature Symbol of the Siege of Jerusalem.

4 1 || Thou || therefore, O son of man, Take thee a tile, and lay it before thee,—and pourtray thereon a city, even Jerusalem.

And build up against it a siege-wall.
And cast up against it a mound,—
And set against it camps,
And place against it battering.rams

And place against it battering rams round about.

||Thou|| therefore take thee a pan of iron,

- and set it for a wall of iron, between thee and the city,—then shalt thou direct thy face against it and it shall come into siege and thou shalt lay siege to it,  shall it be' to the house of Israel.
- 4 ||Thou|| therefore lie thou on thy left side, and lay the iniquity of the house of Israel' upon it,— <during the number of the days which thou shalt lie thereon> shalt thou bear their punishment.
- 5 ||I|| therefore have appointed thee the years of their punishment, by the number of days, a hundred and ninety days,—so shalt thou bear the iniquity of the house of Israel.
- And <when thou hast ended these> then shalt thou lie on thy right side a second' time, and shalt bear the iniquity of the house of Judah,— <forty days, one day for each year> have I appointed thee.
- Lit.: "a man of reproof."

  Cp. xxiv. 27; xxix. 21; xxix. 21; xxiii. 22.

- Thus then <unto the siege of Jerusalem> shalt thou direct thy face, with thine arm made bare,—so shalt thou prophesy against it. 8 And lo! I have laid upon theebands,—and thou shalt not turn thee from thy one side to thine other, until thou have ended the days of thy siege.
- I'Thou' the tays of thy stoke.

  I'Thou' therefore, take thee wheat and larley and peas and lentils and millet and spelt and put them in one' vessel, and make them ready for thee as bread,—during the number of days which thou' art lying on thy side, a hundred and ninety days shalt thou eat it; 10 and || thy food, which thou shalt eat.|| shall be by weight twenty shekels a day,—<from time to time shalt thou eat it; 11 and <water, by measures shalt thou drink; 11 and task as a barley cake > shalt thou drink; 11 and thou frink; 12 and thou frink; 13 and thou fask before their oyes.

13 Then said Yahweh,

<In like manner> shall the sons of Israel eat their bread defiled,—among the nations whither I will drive them.

14 Then said I.

Ah! My Lord Yahweh, lo! "my person" hath not been defiled: <neither of what hath died of itself nor of what hath been torn in pieces > have I eaten from my youthful days even until now, neither hath come into my mouth' the flesh of a foal thing.

15 So then he said unto me,

See I have granted thee cow's dung for man's dung,—and thou shalt prepare thy bread thereupon.

16 And he said unto me,

Son of man

Behold me! breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem,

So shall they cat bread by weight, and with anxious care,

And < water, by measure, and in astonishment > shall they drink:

- that they may lack bread and water and be astonished one with another, and pine away in their punishment.

§ 15. Parable of the Two Eagles.

- 17 1 And the word of Yahweh came unto me saying:
  - Son of man,
    Put thou forth a riddle.
    And speak thou a parable,-

Unto the house of Israel:

So then thou shalt say

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh,-

||A great eagle with large wings of long pinion, full of plumage which had divers colours || came unto Lebanon, and took the highest branch of the cedar:

The crown of its young twigs> plucked he off, and brought it into a land of traffic, <in a city of merchants> he set it.

s So he took of the seed of the land, and planted it in a field for seed,—

He took it near mighty waters, <Like a willow-tree> he set it.

And it shot forth, and became a spreading vine of lowly stature,

Its branches turning towards him, And ||its roots|| | under him | spread,— So it became a vine,

And brought forth shoots, And sent forth boughs.

7 And it came to pass, that there was another great eagle, with large wings, and abundant plumage,—

And lo! ||this vine|| stretched its roots hungrily towards him,

And <its branches> sent it forth unto him,

That he might cause it to drink, out of the beds where it was planted:

the beds where it was planted:
S <In a goodly field, by mighty waters> was it' planted,—

That it might bring forth boughs, and bear fruit,

That it might become |a splendid' vine|.

Say thou,

||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,

Shall it thrive?

<Its roots> will he not tear up?

<Its fruit> will he not cut off that it wither? #All the fresh leaves it hath caused to spring forth# shall wither without a strong arm or many people, to pull it up by its roots.

- Lo! therefore <though [it remain] planted> shall it thrive?
  - <As soon as an east wind toucheth' it> will it not ||utterly wither||?
  - the beds where it sprang up>, will it not wither?
- Then came the word of Yahweh unto me saying:
- Say I pray thee unto the perverse house. Know ye not what these things are? Say thou Lo! the King of Babylon entered' Jerusalem.

And took her king and her princes,

And brought them unto him in Babylon;
Yea took of the seed royal,

And solemnised with him a covenant,— And brought him into an oath,

Also <the mighty ones of the land> did he take.

That |the kingdom| might be |abased; so as not to lift itself up,—

<By the keeping of his covenant> might be made to stand.

But he hath rebelled against him by sending his messengers to Egypt, that there should be given to him horses and much people.

Shall he thrive?

Shall he escape that doeth these things! Shall he break a covenant' and escape!

<As I live>

Declareth My Lord Yahweh.

Verily! <in the place where dwelleth the king that made him' king,

Whose oath he hath despised,

And whose covenant he hath broken > < With him in the midst of Babylon > shall he die.

Neither shall Pharaoh <with a great force, or with a large gathered host>* |work with him | in the war, by casting up as earthwork, and by building a siege-wall, —to the cutting off of many lives.

Seeing he hath despised an cath, by breaking a covenant,—yea lo! hath given his hand, and |all these things| hath done > he shall not escape.

|Therefore|

<As I live>

|Surely it is mine oath| which he hath despised,

And |my covenant| which he hath broken,
Therefore will I bring it upon his own

And I will spread over him my net, And he shall be taken in my snare,

And I will bring him into Babylon and will enter into judgment with him there, as to his treachery wherewith he hath been treacherous against me;

And ||all his fugitives, throughout all his bands|| <by the sword> shall fall,

And ||they who are left|| <to every wind>

So shall ye know' that ||I Yahweh|| have spoken!

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh,

Therefore will ||I myself|| take of the highest branch of the lofty cedar and set it.—

Of the crown of its young twigs>  will I pluck off, and ||I, myself|| will plant it upon a mountain high and terraced,

23 < In the mountain of the height of Israel> will I plant it,

And it shall put forth boughs,

And bear fruit,

And become a majestic' cedar,-

And every bird of every wing shall dwell under it.

<In the shade of its branches> shall they dwell.

So shall all the trees of the field know that ||I_ Yahuch |

And they shall know that || I|| am Yahweh

By my putting my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon,

And he shall stretch it out against the land of Egypt.

28 So will I disperse the Egyptians among the nations.

And scatter them throughout the lands,—
And they shall know that ||I|| am Yahweh.

31 And it came to pass <in the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month>

In some cod. written as two words, but read as one; in others (w. 2 ear. pr. edns.) both written and read as one—G.n. The name of an Egyptian city named after the Egyptian goddess Pasht = Bast = Bubastis. The "Pi" = "the" in Coptic Fu. H. L. that the word of Yahweh came unto me saying:

Son of man.

Say unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto his multitude,—

Whom' art thou like in thy greatness?

Lo! ||Assyria|| was a cedara in Lebanon.

Beautiful in bough and Dense in foliage, and Lofty in stature, - and <Among the clouds> came to be his top:

||The waters|| made him great,

||The roaring deep|| made him high,—with its currents going round about the place where it was planted,

<Its channels also> it sent forth unto all the trees of the field.

|| For this cause || < higher > was his stature than any of the trees of the field, — And multiplied' were his boughs.

And lengthened' were his branches b

By reason of the mighty waters, when he shot forth shoots.

<Among his branches> all the birds of the heavens | made their nests |,

And <under his boughs> all the wild beasts of the field | brought forth |, — And <in his shade> dwelt all the mighty

And <in his shade> dwelt all the mighty nations.

Thus became he beautiful in his greatness,
In the length of his waving branches.—
Because his root had gone' towards mighty waters.

8 ||Cedars|| hid him not in the garden of God, ||Fir-trees|| were not like unto his boughs, |Nor ||plane-trees|| like his branches,— ||No tree in the garden of God|| was like unto him, in his beauty.

<Beautiful> I made him in the abundance of his waving branches,—

Therefore was he envied by all the trees of Eden, which were in the garden of God.

O Therefore

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, <Because thou hast become lofty in stature, And he hath stretched his topamong the clouds, And his heart is exalted in his loftiness>

Let me then deliver him into the hand of the chief of the nations,—

He shall ||effectually deal|| with him! <According to his lawlessness have I driven him out:

Therefore have foreigners, the terrible of the nations, |cut him down|,

And abandoned him, -

<Upon the mountains and in all valleys> have fallen his waving branches.

And broken' have been his boughs in all the river-beds of the land,

And all the peoples of the earth | have come down out of his shade |

And abandoned him:

<Upon his trunk> shall settle down all the birds of the heavens,—

And <among his boughs> are to be found all the wild beasts of the field:—

To the end that none of the trees of the waters—

May exalt themselves in their stature. Or stretch their top among the clouds,

Nor their mighty ones take their stand in their height — any that drink of the waters.—

Because ||they all|| are delivered to death.

Unto the earth below.

In the midst of the sons of Adam,

Amongst them who descend into the pit.

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, <In the day when he descended into hades> I caused a mourning.

I covered over him the roaring deep, And restrained the currents thereof

And stayed' were the mighty waters,— So caused I gloom over him unto Lebanon.

And ||all the trees of the field|| |for him| were covered with a shroud.

6 <At the sound of his fall> I made nations tremble.

When I caused him to descend into hades with them who descend into the pit,—

Then were grieved in the earth below— All the trees of Eden,

The choicest and best of Lebanon.

All who had drunk the waters.

||Even they|| | with him | descended into hades, Among them who were thrust through with the sword,—

Even his seed b who dwelt in his shade, in the midst of the nations.

8 Unto whom' couldst thou be likened ||thus|| in glory and in greatness among the trees of Eden?

Yet shalt thou be caused to descend, with the trees of Eden, into the earth below.

<In the midst of the uncircumcised > shalt thou lie down

With them who were thrust through by the sword.

||The same|| is Pharaoh' and all his multitude, Declareth My Lord, Yahweh.

32 And it came to pass <in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month> that the word of Yahweh came unto me saying:

Whereas ||thou|| wast like the crocodile in the seas,a

And didst cause thy streams to burst forth.

And didst trouble the waters with thy feet,

And foul their rivers.

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, Therefore will I spread over thee my net, With a gathered host of many peoples,— And they shall bring thee up in my net;

And I will stretch thee out on the land, <Over the face of the field > will I fling thee,—

And | will cause to settle upon thee | all the birds of the heavens,

And will satisfe with thee the wild hearts

And will satiate with thee the wild beasts of all the earth;

5 And I will lay thy flesh on the mountains,— And fill the valleys with thy blood;

And will soak the earth with thy blood,4 amongst the mountains,—

And ||the channels|| shall be filled with thee.

And <when I quench thee> I will cover the heavens,

And obscure their stars,—

<The sun—with a cloud> will I cover, And ||the moon|| shall not shed her light;

8 <As for all the light-bearers in the heavens>

I will obscure them over thee,-

And will stretch out darkness over thy land,

Declareth My Lord Yahweh.

And I will aggrieve the heart of many peoples, — when I bring them who are broken off from thee among the nations, unto lands which thou hast not known.

Yea I will cause amazement, over thee unto many peoples,

And the hair ||of their kings|| shall stand on end over thee, when I brandish my sword over their faces,—

And they shall tremble every moment every man for his own life, In the day of thy fall.

11 For ||thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh:---||The sword of the king of Babylon shall reach thee.

12 <With the swords of mighty men> will I cause thy multitude to fall,

||Terrible ones of the nations all' of them ,— And they shall spoil the pride of Egypt, And all her multitude |shall be destroyed,

And I will cause to perish all her beasts, from beside the many waters,—

And < the torn > have ye not bound up.

And < that which was driven out > have ye not brought back,

And <that which was straying> have ye not sought out;

But <with force> have ye ruled them and with rigour.

And they were scattered because there was no shepherd;

And they became food for every wild beast of the field

So were they scattered.

6 My sheep did wander' through all the mountains,

And over every high hill,-

And <over all the face of the land> were my sheep scattered,

And there was none' to inquire And none' to seek out.

And none to seek out.

11 For

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh,— Here am ||I myself||

Therefore | ye mountains of Israel, hear ye the word of My Lord Yahweh,—

||Thus|| saith My Lord, Yahweh,*

To the mountains and to the hills to the channels and to the valleys, and to the desolate waste places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which have become a prey and a derision, to the rest of the nations, which are on every side:

|Therefore

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, Surely <in the fire of my jealousy> have I spoken against the rest of the nations and against Edom |all of it|.—

Who have given my land to themselves for a possession.

In the rejoicing of all the heart.
In contempt of soul.

To make of its produce a prey.

Interfore | prophesy concerning the soil of Israel,—and say to the mountains and to the hills to the channels and to the valleys |
| Thus || saith My Lord Yahweh,
| Behold me!

<In my jealousy and in mine indignation> have I spoken,

Because < the insult of the nations > ye have borne;

Therefore

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, ||I myself|| have lifted my hand,—

Surely || the nations which are yours b round about || || they || < their own shame > shall bear:

But | ye O mountains of Israel |

<Your boughs> shall ye shoot forth,
And <your fruit> shall ye bear. For my people Israel,

For they have drawn near to enter.

For lo! I am towards you,

Therefore will I turn towards you, And ye shall be tilled and sown;

And I will multiply upon you—men, All the house of Israel All of it,

Then shall the cities | be inhabited |, And || the waste places || shall be built,

And I will multiply upon you—man and beast, And they shall multiply and be fruitful,—

Or as two proper names:
 "Adonay Yahweh."
 This would seem the most rendering of the Hebrew, and the result may prove of value elsewhere.

And I will cause you to be inhabited as in your former estates.

And will do you more good than at your beginnings,

So shall ye know that || I|| am Yahweh;

And I will bring upon you—men even my people Israel

That they may possess thee,

So shalt thou be theirs, as an inheritance,— And thou shalt no more again' make them childless

||Thus|| saith My Lord Yahweh, <Because they are saying to you

<A devourer of men > thou art',
And <one that didst make childless

And <one that didst make childless thy nations> hast thou been>

|Therefore| <men> shalt thou not devour any more,—

And <thy nations> shalt thou make childless* no more,

Declareth My Lord, Yahweh;

And I will not suffer to be heard against thee, any more, the insult of the nations,

And < the reproach of the peoples > shalt thou not bear any more,—

And <thy nations> shalt thou not cause to stumble any more,

Declareth My Lord Yahweh.

§ 36. The Evil Effects of Israel's Dispersion are to be removed by her Restoration and Abundant Blessing.

16 And the word of Yahweh came' unto me saying:

Son of man

|The house of Israel| were dwelling upon their own soil,

But they defiled it by their way, and by their doings.

<Like the defilement of her that is removed> became their way before me.

So I poured out mine indignation upon them, Because of the blood which they had shed upon the land,—

Yea < with their manufactured gods> had they defiled it.

So I dispersed them among the nations,

And they were scattered throughout the lands,—

<According to their way and according to their doings> I judged them.

But < when they bentered among the nations where they did enter> then profuned they my holy' Name, - in that it was said of them.

<The people of Yahweh> these!
Yet <from his land> have they come forth!

And they shall become one, in my hand. And the sticks whereon thou shalt write shall remain in thy hand before their eyes.

Therefore speak thou unto them

And I will gather them from every side, And will bring them in upon their own soil; And will make of them one nation in the

And they shall remain no longer two nations.

Nor shall they be divided into two kingdoms ||any more||.

the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the walls thereof | were of wood, -then spake he unto me [saying],

||This|| is the table which is before Yahweh. 23 And there were <two doors> to the temple and to the holy place; 24 and two leaves to the doors,-two folding leaves, ||two|| to the one' door and ||two|| to the other door. 25 And there had been made' unto them unto the doors of the temple cherubim and palm-trees, like as had been made to the walls, -and thick beams of wood unto the front of the porch without. SAnd there were ||latticed windows and palm-trees | on this' side and on that' side, unto the sides of the porch, -and [unto] the side-chambers of the house and the thick beams.

Then he took me forth unto the outer court, the way toward the north, -and brought me unto the chamber which was over against the secluded place and which was over against the enclosing-wall, towards the north. 2 < Facing the length of the hundred cubits> was the entrance of the north, - and || the breadth || was fifty cubits: 3 < over against the twenty which pertained to the inner court, and over against the pavement which pertained to the outer court> was gallery facing gallery, by the

5 Now || the highest chambers || were shortened,because the galleries took away therefrom more than from the lowest or from the middle in structure. 6 For <three stories> they were'; and had not' pillars like the pillars of the courts; <for this cause> it differed from the lowest and from the middle from the ground.

7 And <as for the wall that was without answering to the chambers, toward the outer court facing the chambers> | the length thereof || was fifty cubits. 8 For || the length of the chambers which pertained to the outer court || was fifty cubits, -and lo! in front of the temple a hundred cubits. 9 And <from under these chambers > was the entry from the east when one goeth in by them' from the outer court. 10 < In the thickness of the wall of the court toward the east facing the secluded place and facing the enclosing wall> were chamber. 11 And || the way before them || was like the

13 Then said he unto me

<The chambers of the north the chambers of the south which face the secluded place> || they || are the holy chambers | where the priests who draw near to Yahweh shall est the most holy things; <there> shall they lay the most holy things and the mealoffering and the sin-bearer and the guiltbearer, for || the place || is | holy |.

<When the priests enter them> then shall they not go forth out of the holy place into the outer court, but <there> shall they lay their garments wherein they minister for ||holy|| they are', and shall put on other garments, and so drawness unto that which pertaineth to the people hundred, and ||in breadth||five hundred, —to make a separation, between the holy and the common.

43 1 Then he took me unto the gate,—even the gate that looked toward the east; 2 when lo! "the glory of the God of Israel" coming from the way of the east,—and || the sound of him || was as the sound of many waters, and || the earth || shone with his glory. * And it was like the appearance of the vision which I had seen like the vision which I saw—when I came in to destroy the city, also || the visions || were like the vision which I saw by the river Chebar, -so I fell upon my face. 4 And || the glory of Yahweh|| entered into the house,-by way of the gate which looked toward the east. 5 So then the spirit | lifted me up |, and brought me into the inner court,-and lo! the glory of Yahweh filled' the house. 6 Then heard I one speaking unto me, out of the house,-and ||a man || there was, atanding beside me. 7 Then said he unto me Son of man,

[This is] the place of my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, where I would dwell in the midst of the sons of Israel, to times age-abiding.—

But the house of Israel | must no more defile | my holy' Name, ||They nor their kings|| by their unchastity, and by the carcases of their kings, in their high places.*

When they placed—

Their' threshold by my' threshold, and their' door-post beside my' door-post, With only || the wall || between me and them >

then defiled they my holy' Name by their abominations which they committed,

Wherefore I devoured them, in mine anger.

Now! let them remove their unchastity, and the carcases of their kings, far from me,—
So will I make my habitation in the midst of them to times age-abiding.
