DANIEL.

- § 1. Daniel, in his Youth, carried Captive to Babylon, and there Trained for the Service of the King.
- 1 ¹ <In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah> came Nebuchadnezzar* king of Babylon to Jerusalem, and laid siege against it; ² and the Lord b gave into his hand Jehoiakim king of Judah and a part of the vessels of the house of God, and he brought them into the land of Shinar into the house of his gods,—and < the vessels> brought he into the treasure-house of his gods.
  - Then did the king give word to Ashpenaz the chief of his eunuchs,—that he should bring in <of the sons of Israel, even of the seed royal and of the nobles> 4 youths in whom was no blemish, but comely of countenance, and skilful in all wisdom, and possessed of knowledge and able to impart instruction, and who had vigour in them to stand in the palace of the king,—and that they should be taught learning and the tongued of the <sup>5</sup> And the king appointed Chaldeans. them the provision of each day upon its day out of the delicacies of the king and out of the wine which he drank, and so to let them grow three years,—and <at the end thereof> that they should stand before the king.
  - Now there were among them out of the sons of Judah,—Daniel Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah; 7 and the ruler of the eunuchs gave them names,—yea he gave to Daniel' the name of Belteshazzar, and to Hananiah' of Shadrach, and to Mishael' of Meshach, and to Azariah' of Abed-nego.

    But Daniel laid it upon his heart, that he would not defile himself with the delicacies of the king, nor with the wine which he drank,—therefore sought he of the ruler of the eunuchs, that he might not defile himself. 9 But <although God had brought Daniel into lovingkindness and tender compassion, before the ruler of the eunuchs 10 yet said the ruler of the eunuchs unto Daniel,

- I' do fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your food and your drink,—for why' should he see your faces more sada than those of the youths of your own age? so should ye bring me under the penalty of mine own head unto the king.
- Then said Daniel unto the overseer whom the ruler of the eunuchs had appointed over Daniel Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah:
- 12 I pray thee—prove thy servants ten days—and let them give us vegetable food that we may eat, and water that we may drink: then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenances of the youths who have been eating the delicacies of the king,—and as thou shalt see deal thou with thy servants.
- So then he hearkened unto them, according to this word,—and proved them ten days; is and <at the end of ten days> their countenances appeared more comely, and fatter in flesh,—than any of the youths who had been eating the delicacies of the king. 16 Thus it came about that the overseer continued taking away their delicacies, and the wine appointed them to drink,—and kept on giving them vegetable food.
- 17 And <as for these four youths> God |gave them| knowledge and akill in all learning and wisdom,—and ||Daniel|| had discernment, in all visions and dreams.
- Now <at the end of the days after which the king had given word to bring them in then did the ruler of the eunuchs bring them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

king |spake with them|, and there was not found, from among them all, one like unto Daniel Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah,therefore stood they before the king; so and <in any matter of wisdom and a discernment as to which the king |enquired of them|> he found them ten times better than all the sacred scribes—theb magicians, who were in all his realm.

- Now Daniel continued, until the first year of Cyrus the king.
- § 2. Daniel tells and explains to Nebuchadnezzar that Monarch's Dream of the Great Composite Image and its Overthrow.
- And <in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams,—and his spirit | was troubled |, and || his sleep | had gone from him. <sup>2</sup> So the king gave word to call for the sacred scribes and for the magicians, and for the users of incantations," and for the Chaldeans,d that they might tell the king his dreams,—they came in therefore, and stood before the king. 3 And the king |said to them
  - < A dream > have I dreamed, -and my spirit is troubled' to know the dream.
  - Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Aramaic,~

O king < to the ages> live!

Tell the dream to thy servants • and <the interpretation> we will declare.

The king answered and said to the Chaldeans,

||The word from me|| is unalterable: < If ye shall not make known to me the dream and the interpretation thereof> ye shall be cut in pieces, and ||your houses|| < into a dunghill> shall be turned; but <if | the dream and the interpretation thereof| ye will declare> |gifts and a present and great dignity | shall ye receive from before me, -|therefore| < the dream and the interpretation thereof> declare ye unto me.

7 They answered again and said,-

Let ||the king|| tell |the dream| to his servants and <the interpretation thereof> we will declare.

Of a certainty I know, that <time> ||ve|| would gain,-merely because ye see that

<unalterable from me> is the word: That <if | the dream | ye shall not make known to me> |one and the same| is the decree, and  have ye agreed to speak before me, that meanwhile the time may be changed,-|therefore| <the dream> tell ye me, so shall I know that <the interpretation thereof> ye can declare for me.

The Chaldeans answered' before the king and said,

There is not' a man upon the earth, who can declare | the matter of the king | - although indeed there is no king chief or ruler who  hath asked of any sacred scribe or magician or Chaldean; and || the thing which the king hath asked|| is difficult, and || none other|| is there who can declare it before the king, -saving the gods whose dwelling is ||not with flesh||.

<For this cause> || the king|| was provoked and exceedingly indignant, -and gave word to destroy all the wise men of Babylon; 13 and ||the decree|| went forth, that ||the wise men|| should be slain, - and they sought Daniel and his companions that they might be 14 Immediately' || Daniel || made answer with prudence and discretion, to Arioch chief of the executioners of the king,-who had come forth to slay the wise men of Babylon; 15 he began to speak and said to Arioch, the king's captain,-

from before the king?

Then did Arioch make the matter known unto Daniel. 16 So Daniel entered in and desired of the king,-that <an appointed time> he would give him, and then <the interpretation> he would declare unto the 17 Then Daniel <to his own king. house > departed, -and < to Hananiah Mishael and Azariah his companions> made the matter known; 18 that <tender compassion> they might seek from before the God of the heavens, concerning this secret, - that Daniel and his companions | might not be destroyed|, with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

Then <unto Daniel-in a vision of the night> the secret was revealed,-whereupon ||Daniel|| blessed the God of the heavens:

20 Daniel responded and said,

Let the name of God be blessed from age to age,-

In that || wisdom and might|| to him belong;

And || he|| changeth times and seasons,

Removeth kings, and setteth up kings, -Giving wisdom to the wise,

And knowledge to them who are skilled in understanding:

||He|| revealeth the deep things and the hidden,-

Knoweth what is in the darkness,

And ||light|| < with him>, doth dwell.

<Unto thee O God of my fathers> do I render thanks and praise,

> In that <wisdom and might> thou hast given unto me,-

Yes ||already|| hast thou made known to me that which we desired of thee,

For <the matter of the king> hast thou made known unto us.

- 24 |Therefore | Daniel entered in unto Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon,—he went in and <thus> he said unto him
  - <The wise men of Babylon> do not thou destroy, bring me in before the king, and <the interpretation—unto the king> will I declare.
- Thereupon' || Arioch—with haste|| brought in Daniel before the king,—and <thus> he said to him—
  - I have found a man of the sons of the exile of Judah, who <the interpretation—unto the king> will make known.
- The king answered' and said unto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar,—
  - Art' thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?
- 27 Daniel answered' before the king, and said,—
  - <The secret which the king hath asked> ||the wise men_the magicians_the sacred scribes_the astrologers||* are not able to declare unto the king; 28 but there is' a God in the heavens_who revealeth secrets, and hath made known to King Nebuchadnezzar_what shall come to pass_in the afterpart of the days:
  - ||Thy dream and the visions of thy head upon thy bed|| are |these|:--
- <As for thee O king> | thy thoughts upon thy bed | arose regarding what should come to pass hereafter; and ||he that revealeth secrets|| made known to thee what shall come to pass.
- But <as for me—not for any wisdom that is in me more than any of the living> is ||this secret|| revealed to me,—|therefore| it is in order that <the interpretation—unto the king> they should make known, and that <the thoughts of thy heart> thou shouldst get to know.
- 31 <As for thee O king> thou wast looking, when lo! a great image, ||this image being mighty, and the brightness thereof surpassing|| was standing before thee,—and ||the appearance thereof|| was terrible.
- 22 <As for this image> | its head | was of fine gold, | its breast and its arms | were of silver, -| its belly and its thighs | of bronze;
   23 | | its legs | of iron, -and | | its feet || | | part of its legs of iron,—and ||its feet|| |part of them | of iron, and |part of them | of clay.

Thou didst look, until that a stone tare itself away, ||not by the aid of hands||, and smote the image upon its feet, which were of iron and clay,—and they were broken in pieces. Then' were broken in pieces at once the iron, the clay the bronze the silver and the gold, and became

- like chaff out of the summer threshingfloors, and the wind |carried them away|, and ||no place|| was found for them,—but |the stone that smote the image|| became a mighty rock, and filled all the land.
- 56 ||This|| is the dream, and <the interpretation thereof> we will tell before the king.
- And <after thee> shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee,— and another a third kingdom of bronze, which shall bear rule throughout all the earth.
- And || the fourth kingdom || shall be hard as iron, - < in like manner as iron breaketh in pieces and crusheth all things, - even as iron which bringeth to ruins all these> shall it break in pieces and bring to 41 And < whereas thou sawest the feet and the toes, part of them of potter's clay and part of them of iron> || the kingdom || shall be | divided |, and <of the hardness of the iron > shall there be in it,-forasmuch as thou sawest | the iron combined with the miry clay: " and <the toes of the feet> | part of them | iron and |part| of clay,-|some part of the kingdom | shall be strong, but | a part thereof; shall be brittle; 43 and < whereas thou sawest |the iron| combined with the miry clay> they shall be combined with the seed of men, but shall not cleave firmly one to another,-lo! as iron is not to be combined with clay.
- And <in the days of those kings> shall the God of the heavens |set up| a kingdom, which < to the ages> shall not be destroyed, and ||the kingdom|| < to another people> shall not be left,—it shall break in pieces and make an end of all these kingdoms, but ||itself|| shall stand to the ages. ** Forsemuch as thou sawest that |out of the rock| a stone tare itself away, but not with hands, and brake in pieces the clay, the iron, the bronze, the silver and the gold> || the mighty God || hath made known to the king what shall come to pass hereafter.

Exact' then is the dream.

- § 8. Daniel's Second Vision-of the Ram and of the He-goat: which is explained by the Angel Gabriel.
- 8 1 <In the third year of the reign of Belshazzar the king> ||a vision || appeared unto |me Daniel|. after that which appeared unto me at the <sup>2</sup> So then I saw in the vision and it came to pass, when I saw, that I' was in Shusan the fortress, which is in Persia the province, -yea I saw it in a vision, when || I || was by the river Ulai. 3 So then I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and lo! a ram, standing before the river, and ||it|| had two horns, -and || the two horns || were high, but || the one || was higher than the other, and ||the higher|| had come up |last|. 4 I saw the ram pushing strongly westward and northward and southward, so that no wild beast could stand before him, and none could deliver out of his hand. but he did according to his own pleasure, and shewed himself great.
  - Now ||I|| was observing, when lo! |a he-goat| coming in out of the west, over the face of all the earth, but it meddled not with the earth,and ||the goat|| had a conspicuous horn between his eyes. 6 So then he came up to the ram having the two horns, which I had seen standing before the river,—and ran unto him in the furv of his strength. 7 Yea I saw him coming close upon the ram, and he was enraged at s him, and smote the ram, and brake in pieces both his horns, and there was no strength in the ram to stand before him, -but he cast him down to the ground, and trampled him underfoot, and there was none could deliver the ram out of his power.h 8 But ||the he-goat|| shewed himself very great,—and < when he had become mighty> the great horn | was broken in pieces|, and there came up afterwards four in its stead, towards the four winds of the heavens; and <out of the first of them > came forth a little horn, b-which became exceedingly great, against the south and against the east and against the beautiful [land]; c 10 yea it became great as far as the host of the heavens,—and caused to fall, to the earth, some of the host and

- some of the stars, and trampled them underfoot; 11 < even as far as the ruler of the host> shewed he his greatness,—and < because of him> was taken away the continual [ascending-sacrifee] and the place of the sanctuary |was cast down |; 12 and ||a host || was set over the continual [ascending-sacrifice] by transgression, - and faithfulness | was cast down to the ground, and so he acted with effect and succeeded.
- Then heard I a certain holy one speaking,and another holy one said' to that certain boly one who was speaking-

How long' is the vision of the continual [ascending-sacrifice] as taken away, and the transgression which astoundeth, for both sanctuary and host to be given over to be trampled underfoot?h

14 And he said unto him,

Until two thousand and three hundred evening-mornings, - then shall the sanctuary |be vindicated|.

And it came to pass, when || I Daniel; had seen' the vision, -and had sought discernment, that lo! there was standing before me, as the appearance of a man. 16 Then heard I a human voice, between [the banks of] the Ulaiwhich cried out and said,

Gabriel! cause this man to understand the revelation.

So he came near where I stood, and <when he came > I was terrified and fell upon my face,—but he said unto me Understand O son of man, that <to the time of the end> belongeth the vision.

18 And < when he spake with me> I fell stunned upon my face, to the earth,-but he touched me, and caused me to stand up where I 19 Then said he WAS.

Behold me! causing thee to know, that which shall come to pass in the afterpart of the indignation, -for <at an appointed time> shall be an end.

HOSEA.

- PART I.—The Prophet, by a Series of painful Matrimonial Experiences, is caused to enter into Fellowship with Yahweh's unrequited Love for Unfaithful Israel (chaps. i.-iii.).
- 1 1 The word of Yahweh which came unto Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah Jotham Ahaz Hezekiah kings of Judah, - and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash king of Israel.
  - ||The beginning of the word of Yahweh with Hosea || was, -that Yahweh said' unto Hosea
    - Go take thee a woman of unchastity and the children of unchastity,b for <unchastely indeed> hath the land' been going away from following Yahweh.

  - And it shall come to pass <in that day> that I will break the bow of Israel, in the vale of Jezreël.
  - 6 Then conceived she again' and bare a daughter, and he said to him,
    - Call her name Lo-ruhamah ["Uncompassionated"],-for < not again' any more > will I have compassion upon the house of Israel, that I should ||forgive|| them; 7 but <on the house of Judah> will I have compassion, and I will save them as 4 Yahweh their God, -but will not save them by bow or by sword or by battle by horses or by horsemen.

AMOS.

- § 1. After a brief Introduction and Note of Warning, an Unalterable Divine Threat goes forth, in succession, against Damascus, Gaza, Tyre, Edom, Ammon, Moab, Judah, and finally Israel (chaps. i. and ii.).
- 1 1 The words of Amos, who was among the herdmen* of Tekoa, -of which (words) he had vision' concerning Israel, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the <sup>2</sup> So then he said earthquake.

||Yahweh|| < out of Zion > will roar,

And <out of Jerusalem> will utterb his voice,-

And the pastures of the shepherds |shall mourn !

And the top of Carmel | be dried up |.

Therefore will I send a fire into the house of Hazael. -

> Which shall devour the palaces of Benhadad:

And I will break the bolt of Damascus,

And cut off the inhabitante out of the plain of Aven,d

And the holder of the sceptre' out of the house of Eden,-

And the people of Syria |shall be exiled | unto Saith Yahweh. Kir.

- And I will cut off the inhabitant's out of Ashdod,

And the holder of the sceptre' out of Ashkelon, -

And will turn my hand against Ekron

So shall perish' the remnant of the Philistines Saith My Lord, Yahweh.b

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,

< Because of three transgressions of Tyre, and because of four > will I not turn it back,-

Because of their delivering up the whole body of exiles to Edom,

And they remembered not the brotherly' covenant>

Therefore will I send a fire upon the wall of Tyre,-

Which shall devour the palaces thereof.

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,

< Because of three transgressions of Edom, and because of four> will I not turn it back,-

Because he pursued with the sword his brother.

And stifled his compassions,

And his anger' tare in piecese evermore.

And <his indignation> kept watch perpetually >

Therefore will I send a fire into Teman,-Which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

2 1 ||Thus|| saith Yahweh, < Because of three transgressions of Moab, and because of four> will I not turn it back,— < Because he burned the bones of the King of Edom' to lime>

Therefore will I send a fire into Moab, Which shall devour the palaces of Kerioth, —

And Moab | shall die with tumult |, with warcry, with the sound of a horn;

And I will cut off the judge out of her midst, And <all her rulers> will I slay with him Saith Yahweh.

||Thus|| saith Yahweh,

<Because of three transgressions of Judah, and because of four> will I not turn it back,—

<Because they have rejected the law<sup>4</sup> of

JONAH.

- § 1. Jonah, commissioned to proclaim against Nineveh for her Wickedness, flies from Duty by taking Ship for Tarshish. A Storm overtaking the Vessel, the Sailors reluctantly cast the Prophet into the Sea, when a great Fish swallows him; he prays as out of the Belly of Hades, and is vomited upon Dry Land.
- 1 1 And the word of Yahweh came' unto Jonah son of Amittai, saying:
  - Arise get thee to Nineveh the great city. and proclaim unto it,-

That their wickedness | hath come up | before

3 But Jonah arose' to flee unto Tarshish, away from the presence of Yahweh, -and went down to Joppa, b and found a ship going to Tarshish, so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it to go with them' to Tarshish, away from the presence of Yahweh. 4 But ||Yalıweh|| hurled a great wind against the sea, and there arose a mighty tempest in the sea,—and ||the ship || thoughto to be broken in pieces, 5 Then were the mariners |afraid|, and made outcry every man unto his own god, and they hurled the wares which wered in the ship, into the sea, to lighten it of them,—but ||Jonah|| had gone down into the hinder parts of the vessel, and had lain down, and fallen into a sound sleep. 6 Then drew near unto him the shipmaster, and said to him

What meanest thou! O sound sleeper?

Arise cry unto thy God,

Peradventure' God will bethink' himself of us, that we perish not.

7 And they said—every one unto his fellow.

Come, and let us cast lots, that we may get to know for whose sake this calamity is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah. 8 Then said they unto him.

Tell us, we pray thee, for whose sake this calamity is upon us?

What is thy business? and from whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them.

<A Hebrew> am I',-and <Yahweh, the God of the heavens> do ||I|| revere, him who made the sea, and the dry land.

For ||the sea|| was raging more and more.b 12 And he said unto them.

Take me up and hurl me into the sea, that the sea may cease' raging over you, e-for I' do know' that <for my sake> is this great tempest upon you.

Nevertheless the men | wrought hard | to bring it back unto the land but could not, -for theses was raging over them more and more. cried they unto Yahweh, and said

Ah now, Yahweh, pray let it not be that we perish for this man's life, neither lay upon us innocent blood, -for || thou O Yahweh <as' thou hast pleased> hast ever done.

So they took up Jonah and hurled him into the sea, -and the sea |left off| her 16 Then did the men revere roaring. Yahweh' with a great reverence, -and offered sacrifice to Yahweh, and vowed vows.

Now Yahweh had appointed a great fish, to swallow up Jonah, -and Jonah was in the belly of the fish, three days and three nights. <sup>1</sup> Then prayed Jonah, unto § Yahweh, his God,—out of the belly of the fish; 2 and said-

SPECIAL NOTE

ON

THE APOCRYPHA.

It was once customary to bind up the Apocrypha between the authorised versions of the Old and New Testaments. This has now ceased, and as a consequence this curious, interesting, and instructive part of Jewish literature is now known only to scholars. Under these circumstances, the following account of the Apocrypha, condensed from Hastings' "Dictionary of the Bible" (T. & T. Clark), may be found useful.

The word "Apocrypha" is applied by English-speaking Protestants to the following collection of books and parts of books:—I. Esdras, II. Esdras, Tobit, Judith, Additions to Esther, The Wisdom of Solomon, The Wisdom of Sirach or Ecclesiasticus, Baruch (chap. vi., Epistle of Jeremy), The Song of the Three Holy Children, The History of Susannah, The History of the Destruction of Bel and the Dragon (ix., x., and xi. are Additions to the Book of Daniel), The Prayer of Manasses, I. Maccabees. II. Maccabees. The collection consists of the excess of the Latin Vulgate over the Hebrew Old Testament; and this excess is due to the Greek LXX. ["Sep."], from which the old Latin Version was made. The difference between the Protestant and Roman Catholic Old Testament goes tack, then, to a difference between Palestinian and Alexandrian Jews.

The word "Apocrypha," meaning "hidden," was no doubt first applied to books in a quite literal sense—of books kept from the public. The hiding of a book was easy when copies were few. It might be done on two opposite grounds—to keep from outsiders secret laws or wisdom, or because the contents were judged to be useless or harmful. Official Judaism rejected these hidden books, and declared for the exclusive recognition of the twenty-four books of the Canon. The Catholic Church decided that the Apocrypha were not to be regarded as sacred Scriptures, since publicity and universality were marks of genuineness and truth. Protestanism went over to the Jewish usage, applying the words to the books withdrawn by it from the commonly accepted Canon, though this no longer meant withdrawn from public reading and common use, but only from full authority for doctrine—not disapproved, but recommended as good and useful, not secret or hidden in origin, meaning or use. The evil mme, however, helped to lower the first estimate of the books.

In the Eastern Church clearness and consistency have never been reached. In the Latin Church there was an inclination to let Christian usage, rather than scholarly theory, determine the place of the Apocrypha in the Canon. Jerome strongly pressed the sole validity of the Hebrew Canon, but nevertheless gave these books an intermediate position. Augustine stands for the Catholic principle and determining the Canon, but reveals a growing sense of the secondary authority or security of the Apocrypha. Carlstadt vindicates Jerome's position. Luther wavers, but in his Bible (completed 1534) the Apocrypha stands between O. T. and N. T., with the title: "A., that is books which are not held equal to the sacred Scriptures, and nevertheless are useful and good to read." Calvin reaffirms Jerome's view. It was not until 1827, after two years' sharp dispute, that the British and Foreign Bible Society decided to exclude the Apocrypha from all its publications of the Bible. Within the Church of England the number of readings has been, at a comparatively recent date, reduced. In the Revision of Luther's Bible (1892) the Aprocrypha still stands, with Luther's title. The modern historical interest is putting these writings in their true place as significant documents of a most important era in religious history.

APPENDIX.

DEUTERONOMY, AUTHORSHIP OF

At first sight it might seem as though the translator of THE EMPHASISED BIBLE had no need to trouble himself about the authorship of the Book of Deuteronomy. There it is: simply translate it, and leave all such questions to commentators and the higher critics. Even had this self-excusing policy prevailed, however, that would not have obliterated the impression naturally received in the process of rendering the book. It is true that the remanding of that impression into silence might have entailed no loss to the world. But there was another reason for offering an opinion, which was this. The design of this Bible—to give effect, among other things, to the interesting distinction between "narrative and speech"—made it offering an opinion, which was the state of the fibre of the things, to the interesting distinction between "narrative and speech"—made it imperative to take a definite attitude as to the literary question involved in this discussion. That is to say, it demanded of the translator not only an exercise of his own judgment as to what portions of the book of Deuteronomy were probably editorial, so that he might differentiate them in the margin, setting fully out to the left hand of the column portions that were not "speech"; but the very fact of doing this was sure to draw the inquisitive reader into the problem, by provoking the obvious question why some parts of Deuteronomy are marginally distinguished from other parts; why, for example, chaps, i. 1-5; ii. 10-12, 20-23; iii. 11, 13-14; iv. 41-43, 44-49, are thus separated from their contexts. It seemed better, therefore, to take the reader into coniv. 41-48, 44-49, are thus separated from their contexts. It seemed better, therefore, to take the reader into confidence; and, first, by a few notes subjoined to the book itself, as at chaps. iv. 18; vi. 5; vii. 17; viii. 2, &c., and then by the present connected statement, to employ the book of Deuteronomy as a very elementary object-lesson, offered once for all, in that legitimate higher criticism which no honest man of reverent judgment needs fear to

The purpose thus defined may perhaps be most effec-tively attained by first presenting, substantially as it was written, a paper which appeared in a weekly magazine two years ago, and by then submitting such further observations as may appear to be called for.

In this book we hear the voice of "the old man eloquent." As an author, there may be more or leave

In this book we hear the voice of "the old man eloquent." As an author, there may be more or less of Moses the man of God in the books of Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers; but here we come within the sound of his living voice, and listen to his impassioned pleadings with Lirael. No later writer could have so completely entered into the situation. Moses himself, as revealed in the foregoing history, now stands before us. We perceive in the Speaker, the teachings of the past, the realisation of the present, the fears for the future.—revealing themselves in a manner perfectly nimitable. Such, at least, was the impression made on the mind of the translator when some years ago he wrote out his rendering of the book. This impression was decidedly deepened when, later on, he carefully revised his translation. It is true that his previous conviction became slightly qualified, yet only in such wise as to strengthen the conclusion so which he had previously come. The more one became familiar with the mannerisms of the speaker's living voice, the more evident it was that here and there editorial annotations had been subsequently added. The rush and passion and vehement urgency that we feel as we hearken to Moses' voice are not easily to be reconciled with the deliberate presentation of antiquarian notes, as to the former dwellers in Edom and the other lands through which Israel had passed; far less with the measurements and present location of the bedstead of notes, as to the former dwellers in Edom and the other lands through which Israel had passed; far less with the measurements and present location of the bedstead of Og, king of Bashan. Granted here and there an editorial addition, and these things easily fall into their place. They do but momentarily interrupt the flowing periods of the living Moses; but assuredly they formed no part of the original spoken discourse. They enrich the book as we have it, but they would have marred the discourses as actually delivered by a man shortly to die.—This then is the modification to which the translator's first persuasion readily submitted itself.

But now, after a third survey of the book of Deuteronomy, how does the question of Authorship present itself? Briefly, as follows: That a little further extension of the supposed editorship goes a long way towards placing the first main impression upon an immovable basis. Not antiquarian notes alone betray editorship; but historical introductions, and at least one historical appendix. The historical appendix is, of course, seen and known of all men. Moses certainly did not record his own death and burial; and only a considerably later hand could have finally told how much greater Moses was than any who came after him. The historical introductions—of which there are principally two—are worthy of further attention. There is nothing to show that those introductions may not have been written by Joshua, Eleazar or Phineas, or some other contemporary of the great Prophet, within a few years of his death. The introductions referred to are, first, a general one to the whole book (chap. i. 1–5); and, second, an introduction to Moses' account of the "ten words" given on Horeb (chap. iv. 41—v. 1). In both of these are found tokens of editorship which challenge our confidence, inasmuch as, in them, two distinct lines of evidence are seen converging to the conclusion that these portions are editorial. The first line consists in this—that, when the Editor writes, he refers to Moses in the third person: "Moses" said or did this or that; whereas when Moses himself speaks, he naturally alludes to himself as "I' or "me"; to Israel, including himself, as "we" or "us"; directly addressing his hearers as "ye" or "you." This of itself is clear enough as marking a distinction between the principal spoken addresses and any editorial supplements. Singularly enough, the line thus drawn is confirmed by the simple word "over" in relation to the river Jordan. Moses we know did not enter "the good land": Joshua and others did. To him, "over the Jordan" meant to the west: to them, after they had entered, "over the Jordan" meant to the west: to them, after they had entered, "over the Jordan" meant to the est, or, as the Editor is writing beca independent of it, generates an amount of confidence not easily shaken.

But the evidence of the Mosaic authorship of the speeches—of which, be it noted, the book of Deuteronomy is mainly composed—springs from something more subtle and more conclusive than the aforessid converging lines of evidence, however satisfactory in themselves those lines may be. It springs from the manner in which the speaker enters into the entire situation, leading us to exclaim, None but Moses could have done it! Coupled with this, and constituting an especial form of it, is the profound emotionalism—in a word, the psychology which pervades the book, prompting us to say, None but Moses could have felt all this!

What, then, was the situation into which the speaker so completely enters? It was a situation created by time, place, event, and personality; and, naturally, owing to the concurrence of these causes, a situation that had never existed before and could never exist again. The time was after the forty years' wanderings, after the conquest of Sihon, king of Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan; and just before the passage of the Jordan into Cansan; and just before the passage of the Jordan into Cansan; and menentous time, crowded with memories, throbbing with exciting expectations. The place was the Arabah of Mosab, near the Jordan, over against Jericho, the centre of the whole east of Cansan, along which the people had skirted or into which they had penetrated—a place, therefore, which invited them to cross, to enter, to possess, without more delay. And what unique ceents had already happened: the sullen acquisecence in Israel's transit by Edom, Moab and Ammon, at the terrible cost of the slain over the matter of Baal-peor with which the names of Balak and Balaam are dishonourably associated; the unexpected conquest of the magnificent lands of Gilead and Bashan, with all the stir of war whetting the swords of Israel's warriors with keen eagerness for the great invasion. Then, finally, look at the personalities which enter into the situation: Caleb is there, and Joshua, both of whom knew personally something, still vivid in their memories, which, as spies, they had seen—of the inhabigreat. Invasion. Inen, Insuly, 100x at the personalities which enter into the situation: Caleb is there, and Joshua, both of whom knew personally something, still vivid in their memories, which, as spies, they had seen—of the inhabitants and cities and products of the land; and there are Eleazar and Phineas, son and grandson of Aaron, Moses' brother; there, also, the generation whose memories, many of them, reached back to the early days of the wanderings, who had seen that great and terrible desert, who had skirted Edom and Moab and Ammon, and penetrated Gilead and Bashan, many of whom had lost near relatives in the fearful revolt of Baal-peor; and towering above them all was the commanding personality of Moses himself. Now the contention here submitted is, that the speaker of those discourses, which constitute the chief portion of the book of Deuteronomy, so completely enters into the situation created by the time, the place, the events, and the personalities, that he could be no other than Moses himself. Only the man who lived then, and stood there, who had passed through those stirring events, who knew and confronted that generation, could possibly speak in the strain that here greets our eyes.

For note, finally, the marked psychology of this book. What a profound emotionalism the speaker displays! All the forms of speech that betoken depth of feeling are present here—repetitions, as if the speaker displays! All the forms of speech that betoken depth of feeling are present here—repetitions, as if the speaker displays! All the forms of speech that betoken depth of feeling are present here—repetitions, as if the speaker and, especially confessions of disappointment and regret—so keen, so bitter, as if his heart would break—that he might not himself enter into the good land. Note well, also, the extremes that meet, and are melted into a living whole, by the intense feeling with which the speaker is borne along: "What nation so great!" . . . "Oh foolish people and unwise!" Note also the labour—the travail—for foolish people and unwise!" Note also the labour—the travail—for the people's well-being into which his passionate love urges him. He speaks, and speaks; he must surely have spoken from day to day! When he has done speaking, then he writes, and writes on: adding perhaps a little, towards the end, which he had not actually spoken, but in penning which he feels as if he were still speaking. And when he has written all—all the law, all his repetition of the law, all his own recollections about the giving of the law, including perhaps variations (most natural in one who spoke and wrote from memory, but very unlikely to have been indulged in by all his repetution of the law, including perhaps variations (most natural in one who spoke and wrote from memory, but very unlikely to have been indulged in by anyone else), when he has done all this, then, Is there anything else he can do, any further stone he can turn, to stem and stay his people's apostasy! Yes, there is one thing he can do. He can resolve his passion into song—a song for the tongue, for the ear, for the memory; a song to live among the people, to be recited in their gatherings, to be accompanied by the harp. He has harangued them, he has warned them; now he will bewitch them. Thus is born his Witnessing Song (chap. xxxii.). This is not the place to analyse that marvellous composition. Read it; get into sympathy with it. Against the doubt whether Moses could have composed it. With regard to the Song of "Blessing" which stands in the next chapter (chap. xxxiii.), the case in many ways is very different. Instead of seeming to grow out of the speeches which have gone before, it is couched in a totally opposite strain. It is blessing only—admiration only—felicitation only. What then! Shall we contradict Muses' editor, who records that "This is the blessing wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the sons of Israel before his death."! There is no need! One of two suppositions is open to us, both of which are perfectly rational, either of which would naturally account for the altered mood of the prophet-poet. We may conceive of the "Blessing" sa in the main composed long years before these parting scenes, though only now publicly produced. Or we may form another hypothesis: we may conclude that the mind of Moses passed into a serener atmosphere after the excitement and strain of the admonitory speeches and song were over—that his fears having found adequate expression, the man of God rested in the consciousness that he had done his duty; knowing, moreover, that, after all, there was hope in the end for Israel, how many soever her sins would be, how terrible soever the suferings must be which should follow those sins (chap. XXXIII. ings must be which should follow those sins (chap. xxxii.

43).—knowing this, his profound love for his people, his unshaken confidence in their destiny, stirred and guided by divine afflatus, now moved him to except and to cast his thoughts into the form of a most lovely and loving song. And so, having prepared and pronoused his "Paradise Regained," he is parted from the beloved tribes—almost literally—with a "blessing" on his lips. We have assumed that Moses was a pot. Why not. He was an Oriental—he was an educated man—he had been in love—he had enjoyed forty years of learned leisure in Midian. What wonder if the soul of a pot had been awakened within him, and the stylus of a pot had been trained to commit to papyrus or to parchast the musical numbers with which he had beguiled many a waiting hour during his banishment from his land as his people!

And even in this second song there are, if we mistake the interest of the contract of the contract of the most of the contract of the contract his people!

And even in this second song there are, if we mistale not, internal evidences of no small force that no one was ever so fitted to write it as Moses himself. If we wished to cite an example, we would say: The opening lines (chap. xxxiii. 2) descriptive of the Divine Apparing, when Yahweh came forth to meet Israel; Moses going forth at the head of his people, Yahweh advancing to meet them in a pillar of light and fire. Can we think of any human imagination so likely to have been proundly and permanently impressed by that Thephany as that of Moses himself! What surprise if, before he died, he perpetuated his recollections in one of the most magnificent poems ever written!

In fine: the book of Deuteronomy must have lad as author. Making reasonable allowances for editorial pre-servation and annotation, no man comes before us out of all the centuries of Hebrew history so fitted to be, so likely to have been, that author as Moses, the man of God, the leader of Israel out of Egypt to the confiss of the recombined land the promised land.

Such is the paper as it originally appeared in pint. There is little to add. Since it was written some attestion There is little to add. Since it was written some attests has been given to what the critics who treat of the Lissature of the Old Testament have to say,—without changing the general persuasion of the present writer. It is still conceived that, full allowance being made for the necessary editing of the Sacred Books, it is needless to disturb the internal claim to Authorship where, as in this case, it is plainly made in the writing itself, and where that claim is seen to rest on broad and general grounds of inherent probability. It is, of course, undestrable to get involved in technicalities. It matters little whether the term "author" is applied to Moses or to his Editor, provided it is well understood what is intended. The one weighty question is whether the great Lawsiver did provided it is well understood what is intended. The de-weighty question is whether the great Lawirer di-actually deliver the substance of what is here put isto his mouth, and whether his speeches have been honesty and competently edited for the purpose, and during the process, of being handed down to us.

ESCAPE GOAT, THE- FOR AZAZEL).

"And one lot for Azazel" (Lev. xvi. 8).—It seems impossible to dissent from the opinion that "Azazel" instead of being a name for the (e)scape goat, is the name or title of an evil Being, opposed to Yahwa, to whom the live goat on the great Day of Propitation was sent. Admitting so much, it still remains to inquire into the meaning of this very peculiar but impressive ceremony of sending the living goat to Azazel—and there assume—it is most important to observe that there is here no sacrifice offered to the evil spirit. The seems goat is not slain, but in marked contrast to its fellow is preserved alive, and remains the living goat to the end. It is true it is led away to or towards the desert and goes thither bearing the sins of the people which have been symbolically laid upon its head. But it has been too much overlooked, that it carrise into the desert something else besides the sins of the congruition. It bears the desth of its companion, which has been just as truly put upon it as have the sins of the people (ver. 10). The death thus put upon it was the death of the people's sin-bearer. Therefore, the only so it bears into the desert is atomed-for sin—sin for what death has already been exacted. And, unless we stakely the whole transaction of that solemn day, we must admit that, if the sins resting upon the live goat proclamed to Azazel, "Slay me if thou canst," the death of its fellow, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou canst," the death of its fellow, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou canst," the death of its fellow, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou canst," the death of its fellow, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou canst," the death of its fellow, which covered it, as loudly cried, "Slay me if thou canst," it is death of its fellow.

fact, no hint is given of any harm befalling the goat that was dismissed; and despite the romance of the book of Bnoch, preceded or followed by Jewish tradition, to the Enoch, preceded or followed by Jewish tradition, to the effect that the goat was precipitated from steep rocks and so killed, it is far more respectful to the Levitical appointment to stop where it closes than to add a sequel which mars the whole symbolical transaction. As well imagine an untimely end to the living bird dipped in the blood of its fellow and then let go free (chap. xiv. 33) as to pursue the escaped goat with any such morbid imagination. That it was taken, by the man appointed, into a lone land is excellent symbology; and may well have pictured the dismissal of the past year's offences into the land of forgetfulness—into utter oblivion. Instead of fancying anything further, rather let common sense suggest that the released goat could (just as well as its conductor) find the released goat could (just as well as its conductor) find its way back to the haunts of men, to be indistinguishably lost in the crowd of its natural congeners. Delivered once and for all from this mistaken dream, and reverting once more to Arazel, it is enough to say that this particular feature, instead of suggesting any sacrifice to Satan, much rather amounts to a triumphant deflance of "him that held the dominion of death, that is, the Adversary" (Heb. ii. 14); all the more so when the trend of such passages as Isa. l. 8, Rom. viii. 33, 34, and Rev. xii. 10, 11, is patiently considered.—From the above it may rightly be inferred that the meaning of 'azâ'zêt given in O.G. ("entire removal") is regarded by the present translator as unsatisfactory.

PHARAOH'S HEART, THE HARDENING OF.

In his commentary on this place (Exo. iv. 21) Kalisch ays: "As the external, often accidental, occasion of an event is mostly more obvious, even to the reflecting mind, than its primary cause or its true (often hidden) originator, it has become a linguistic peculiarity in most ancient, especially the Semitic, languages, to use indiscriminately the former instead of the latter, so that the phrase, 'I shall harden the heart of Pharaoh' means: 'I know that I shall be the course of Pharaoh' neighbory. The company comthe former instead of the latter, so that the phrase, 'shall harden the heart of Pharaoh' means: 'I know that I shall be the cause of Pharaoh's obstinacy; my commands and wonders will be an occasion, an inducement to an increasing obduration of his heart.' And the compassionate leniency of God, who, instead of crushing the haughtiness of the refractory king with one powerful blow, first tried to reform him by various less awful blow, first tried to reform him by various less awful bunnishment, and who generally announced the time of the occurrence of the plagues by the words, 'Behold, I shall afflict to-morrow,' in order to grant him time for reflection and repentance; this elemency on the part of God increased Pharaoh's refractoriness; it was to him a cause of prolonged and renewed resistance."

The importance of the question thus suggested, coupled with a consideration of the translators responsibility to do all he fairly can to guard his readers from going astray, may render a few further facts and observations of practical interest. Is it right, on the part of the translator of The Emphasish Bielz, that he has endeavoured to avoid representing God as the author or instigator of wickedness!

or practical micross. In Figure, on the part of translator of The Emphasison Biller, that he has endeavoured to avoid representing God as the author or instigator of wickedness?

In furnishing materials for answering this question, it will be sufficient, in this article, to submit two facts. The first is, that words in the original usually expressive of cause are every now and then employed to denote occasion, and may be legitimately rendered in the latter sense. The second is, that even positive commands are occasionally to be accepted as meaning no more than permission.

1. That Hebrew Grammars distinctly avow occasion or permission to be sometimes the sense of verbs which ordinarily signify cause can be verified by a reference to the Hebrew Grammar of Gesenius, say in the admirable translation of Dr. Benjamin Davies (p. 129). After stating that the verbal form (conjugation) called piel demotes intensity and repetition, this grammar adds: "It often takes the modifications expressed by permit, to declare or hold as, to help." Of this, a good example is found in the verb shalach, "to send." Notice its modification with reference to the raven and the dove in Gen. viii. 7, 8. Noah "sent" them "forth"; that is, he samply "let them go." The only cause was permission, the removal of restraint. Again, when Eliezer said (Gen. xiv. 54), "Sond me sway," all he meant was, "Let me go," "Do not hinder me." So with regard to hargah. "to live"; in piel, "to cause to live." The historian says that the midwives (literally) "caused the male children to live" (Exo. i. 17)—plainly, "permitted them," "refrained from putting them to death." To the same effect in the following verses. Pharson asked, "Wherefore have ve done this thing, to let (not really make) the male children live!" (verse 18) and then gave command. "Every daughter shall ye (not cause, but) suffer to live" (verse 22).

In the hiphil conjugation, the same modification occasionally obtains. Deu. viii. 3 (literally) "caused thee to hunger," in fact. "suffered thee to hunger" (as in both A. V. and R. V.); S. Song ii. 14, "Cause me to see thy form," that is, "Let me see thy form," in one word, "Appear": "cause me to hear thy voice," "tet me hear thy voice," speak"; Iss. Iv. 6, "Seek Yahweh while he causeth himself to be found," more freely, but quite correctly, "while he letteth himself be found." And so on, through a considerable number of examples in the aggregate though still a minority when all the occurrences of gate, though still a minority when all the occurrences of the words are surveyed.

If it be asked, How are we to judge whether, in a

If it be asked, How are we to judge whether, in a particular instance, we have come upon an exception to the general rule? the answer is, You can only decide from context and circumstance—taking care to employ upon these as much common-sense as possible. Do I course this book to fall to the table? Loosely speaking, yes; strictly, no: I merely tel it fall; I merely take away the restraint of my grasping hand, and so yield up the book to the causative force of gravitation. God permitted Pharaoh to harden his own heart—spared him—gave him the opportunity, the occasion, of working out the wickedness that was in him. That is all.

If the further enough be unred, How are we to make that was in him. That is all.

If the further enquiry be urged, How are we to make up for the want of "context"? how are we to be sure that we are sufficiently acquainted with the "circumstances" of a particular case, to decide whether we are justified in concluding that here, in any given instance, we may rightfully subdue the apparent cause into the mere occasion or permission?—if this be the tenour of our capture well we must do our hest and leave the mere occasion or permission?—if this be the tenour of our nequiry—well, we must do our best, and leave the remainder. Generally, we shall only need to revert to the known nature of things, or the known character of persons, to find clear guidance. We know, for instance, that a liberated bird likes to fly away; and, furthermore, that its liberator has no power to attach an impelling furce to the winged creature; therefore, it is quite enough for Noah to let go the raven and the dove (Gen. viii. 7, 8); though, with the Hebrew, we can say he sent them forth, knowing that no one can be misled thereby. And we can so well understand the eagerness of Eliezer to depart with the bride he had secured for Isaac, as to feel sure that he needed neither physical force nor insult to send him back to his master: it was enough to be allowed to go. It is to his master: it was enough to be allowed to go. It is true there may be cases we do not so readily comprehend as we do these. But in all such instances as that whereunto these minor ones are designed to lead up, we do positively know enough to settle them with reference to the one question now in hand. We know that God is holy. We know that there hates all sin. We know that there is made in the hates all sin. We know that there is made in the singular with wickedness. And, therefore, we know that, however much and however long He permits iniquity and rebellion, He never is the efficient cause of it. And so, finally, we know that He Himself put no wicked motive force into Pharaoh's heart, to impel him to defy his Maker. his Maker.

motive force into Pharaoh's heart, to impel him to defy his Maker.

2. A very few words on the second point will suffice. Commands, even when positive in form, are sometimes clearly seen to be permissive only in sense. Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, desired of Joab that he might run with tidings of Absolom's death to King David. Joab refused. Ahimaaz renewed his request, till at length his general said, "Run." That was Joab's permission—no more! (2 Sam. xviii. 23). Again, the sons of the prophets at Jericho asked leave of their new master, Elisha, to send fifty men to seek the lost Elijah "on the mountains or in the valleys." At first Elisha replied, "Ye shall not send." But, when they urged him until he was ashamed, he said, "Send." A command, you may say! But did Elisha himself regard it in that light! On the contrary, when the seekers for Elijah returned without success, he exclaimed, "Did I not say unto you, Do not go!" (2 Kings ii. 16-18.) Why multiply illustrations? Let it suffice to apply those already given. There is at least a single case in which the Most High appears to have commanded an act of deception (1 Kings xxii. 22). How ought that to be understood! In reply we need not take advantage of the highly dramatic form of the representation of which this forms a single item—we need not urge that the prophet Micaiah was in peril of his life, daring to oppose two absolute monarchs, one of whom mortally hated him; though all that is worth remembering. We can go straight to the ultimate mark by declaring that the words of God to the seducing spirit can and must be regarded as absolutely neither more nor less than a perthe words of God to the seducing spirit can and must be regarded as absolutely neither more nor less than a permission to deceive. Either this, or the holiness of God is a myth, and the Bible has been written in vain. In fine, on the revealed character of God we rest

PROPITIATORY COVERING.

Instead of "make atonement for" this translation has, mostly, "put a propitiatory covering over"; and this is undeniably a more adequate rendering of the original kipper. The verb kipper is the intensitive (pi-f) form of kāphar, which by general consent means to cover. And though kipper is set apart to denote moral covering, generally by sacrifice, yet it does not follow that the mental conception of covering is thereby lost. Indeed the prevailing reference of this species of covering to persons as its object, and the favourite construction of the verb with "a! "upon" and ba"ad "about," point clearly to the wisdom of preserving the more graphic rendering which has here been ventured, and which preserves the striking idealism of the Hebrew. Speaking of the application of kipper to various classes of offerings, the Oxford Gesenius (p. 498 says: "Underlying all these offerings there is the conception that the persons offering are covered by that which is regarded as sufficient and satisfactory by Yahweh." Although this thought may be held to abate something of its picturesqueness when the action is regarded as taking effect on inanimate objects—such as the "altar," "the tent of meeting," &c.—yet these merely derived applications can scarcely be taken to efface the deeper idealism, where that aptly holds good. Kipper may easily be said to signify "to atone," but the question arises, what is the radical O.T. conception of "atonement"! Or, the word in question may be held to denote "forgiveness," but still the question may be held to denote "forgiveness," but still the question is pertinent, Has this great "atoning" word nothing to say regarding the means by which forgiveness is secured? The more must this question be pressed, that in many instances (till it becomes the standing formula in the book of Leviticus) forgiveness is spoken of as a sequel to the atoning as rather than that act itself. The atoning lies behind the forgiveness is spoken of as a sequel to the atoning as rather than that act itself. The atoning life. The dead covers the living. The living is ransomed—pardoned—set free. Such covering is essentially propitatory covering. Substitution is of its essence. Any possible abuse of this fundamental Hebrew concept, will be averted by doing careful and equal justice to the entire Levitical ritual. The offerer consents to the substitution: and by himself or his representative takes an essential part in the transfer of the penalty of the sin which he confesses. Man consents; God consents. The substitutionary death is granted by God: it is accepted by man. It is accepted under the solemn stipulation that the spared life shall be wholly consecrated to the holy and merciful God who brings near this costly salvation. One thing is wanting in the ritual—the consent of the substitute. Nay, a second thing is missing—adequacy of value in the substituted. Be it so! Then when a substitute shall appear who shall willingly bear the sin of the world, and be worthy to bear it; and God consents and ordains; and man consents and accepts; then the whole Idea of Propitatory Covering will be complete. It remains for the World and for the Individual to carry the matter to its practical consummation.

SIN = SIN-OFFERING = SIN-BEARER.

ONE of the most striking and significant facts in the language of Leviticus and of the O.T. generally is that the sin-offering and the guilt-offering are in Hebrew called simply "sin" and "guilt"—the victim being called by the name of the offence which it bears and for which it dies. As this usage could not have been intended to confound moral delinquency or abnormal moral condition with an innocent and unofunding animal, the usage can only be regarded as viridy setting forth the close connection between sin and death—the doom of sin to end in death—the destiny of the sin-bearer to carry the sin unto death and realise its termination in death. The sacrifice thus becomes animprasive object-lesson—a dramatic representation of pathetic moral instructiveness. The victim is put in the edundar a place, and is then slain. One sins; another dies. Between these two facets is interposed the symbolical ceremony of the laying—on (or more exactly, the leaning—on) of the hands of the sinner upon the head of the sin-bearer. The sin is thereby represented as transferred from the former to the latter: the sin, not indeed in its moral blameworthiness, but in its legal answerableness. To render such a transference possible, Divine sanction is essential. It is chiefly and ultimately against God that sin is committed. His primal law is that the person who sins—the same shall die (Ese. xviii. 4); and he (Yahweh himself) alone can commute or transfer the penalty. Besides, all life is his gift and care. No animal can be lawfully slain without his permission is seen—is fact formally and solemnly enuncisted in Leviticus xvii. 11. He grants, within certain limits what he alone could rightfully grant, the substitution of life for life upon the altar of sacrifice. But although this divine sanction is essential to acceptable substitutionary sacrifice, the interest and obligation of the offender must not be overlooked. He has done the wrong, and it is worthy of note that between him and his substitute near relation is presupposed or secured. To die for se, the lamb must be mine. Accordingly the pascal lamb it is worthy of note that between him and his substitute a near relation is presupposed or secured. To die for me, the lamb must be mine. Accordingly the pascal lamb was to be selected and brought to the offerer's home, there to be petted and pitied—so as to render the offering of it the offering of his own heart—of himself (Exo. xii. 3-6. In like manner, on the great Day of Propitistion, when all the sacrifices of the year were summed up and completed, it was from the people that the priest was instructed to accept the sin-bearers which were to be offered in their behalf (Lev. xvi. 5). It is of course conceivable that the sinner may be unable to provide an acceptable sacrifice; in which case it is possible that God himself may provide the Lamb (Gen. xxii. 3); and indeed a glimmering perception of the possible need of some notable Divine provision seems to have prophetically carried away the perception of the possible need of some notable Divine provision seems to have prophetically carried away the patriarch Abraham into the bestowal, upon Mount Moriah, of the name "Yahweh-yireh" ("Yahweh will provide"), and to have induced others to prolong the anticipation in the saying, "In the mountain of Yahweh shall provision be made" (Gen. xxii. 14). The need of Divine Sanction to the constitution of efficacious Substitution attains its most weighty expression when we read in the prophets: "Yahwar caused to light upon him the iniquity of us all" (Iss. liii. 6. No other than He could make that transference—be the Sufferice Servant who he may. In view of the impressive lesson than He could make that transference—be the summing Servant who he may. In view of the impressive lesson thus afforded, and which is so prominent in the book of Leviticus (where the word hottath—for nineteen times it means sin—fifty-three times stands for the sin-victimi the translator would fain have followed the severity of the Hebrew and used the one name "sin" throughout the Hebrew and used the one name "sin" throughout. Doubting the intelligibility of such a terminology at present, he has not ventured on that course. He has, however, preferred "sin-bearer" to "sin-offering," as penetrating just a little further into the heart of the matter. "Sin-bearer," meantime, may aptly remaind we not only of Isa. liii. 6, but of I. Pet. ii. 24; but if we should ever be able to "homologate" the one term "sin" for hailtath throughout the book of Leviticus, we should assuredly have climbed the high level which would conduct us triumphantly into the great Pauline utterance of 2 Cor. v. 21. The translator is pleased (on reviewing the three editions of his N.T.) to see that he has hitherto resisted the temptation to substitute "sin-offering" for "sin" ("made him to be sin") in that passage, and be traces it to the influence over him of this remarkable usage in Leviticus: "sin-offering"—yes! but what oustitutes a "sin-offering" save the imputation of "sin". The ancient usage was intensely dramatic; it led the offerer, as he viewed his substitute, to exclaim, "There goes—there dies—my Sin!"

PREFACE TO THE FOURTH EDITION.

THE recent completion of "The Emphasised Bible" renders this issue of a Fourth Edition of the New Testament portion of that work a fitting occasion for the insertion of a new Preface here.

The Unity of "The Emphasised Bible" has controlled the moulding of its constituent parts. The New Testament, first published in 1872, and then in 1878 (under the title of "The New Testament Newly Translated and Critically Emphasised"), was entirely remodelled and received its present shorter title in 1897, so that it might take its place as an essential portion of the whole book. To that the Old Testament was conformed in size, type, style of translating, and method of emphasising; both Testaments being dealt with in the Expository Introduction placed before the Book of Genesis, in which Introduction the peculiarities of the entire work are explained in Four Chapters.

It is believed that this Unity of Plan and Execution serves to set in clearer light the essential oneness of the Sacred Volume: to render which service as complete as possible, an Introductory Note on "The Interpretation of the Bible" follows this Preface; moreover also a small handbook has been issued, entitled "Our Sacred Books: being Plain Chapters on the Inspiration, Transmission and Translation of the Bible."

May these endeavours receive the Divine blessing!

JOSEPH BRYANT ROTHERHAM.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

THE INTERPRETATION OF THE BIBLE.

"UNDERSTANDEST thou what thou readest?" is a most natural question for a Translator to sak: first, from an inevitable solicitude that his rendering should not have missed its mark; and, secondly, from the self-restraint with which, though essentially an interpreter himself, he has continually left outlying questions of exegesis to the judgment of his readers.

But, just here, between the Old Testament and the New, the problem of Interpretation becomes momentous and urgent, since therein is involved the very claim of the New Testament to follow the Old as a rightful part of the One Book. In weighing this problem, the following principles demand consideration—namely, continuity, gradation, fulfilment, adaptation and advancement.

1. CONTINUITY, while chiefly consisting in the re-appearance of the things of the Old in the New, runs partly also on verbal lines of connection between the Hebrew Scriptures and the Christian, so that, by the help of such words as "God," "Israel" and "Gentiles," "faith," "holines" and "salvation," "heaven" and "earth," "life" and "death," "hades," "messenger," "age-abiding," and others too numerous to mention, the reader finds himself resuming in the Later Writings themse with which he had become familiar in the Earlier. And so, notwithstanding the great difference between them, the New Testament appears to run on as a continuation of the Old. The moral atmosphere is the same. It is God who is still speaking, in words which reveal His holiness and love. The appeal is still to men's consciences.

2. Nevertheless a marked GRADATION may be traced between the Book of Genesis and the Book of the Revelation. Even the earliest Books of the Bible are marked by the appearances of growth. The Book of Genesis is plainly introductory to the Book of Exodus; but the former shows within itself the signs of development—the small germ-record being followed by the larger narrative, each with its fitting commencement. No subtle criticism is needed to reveal these tokens of advancement: they are open to every eye. And as literary development appears, so does historical. The world before the Flood, leaving behind its admonitory lessons for all time, makes way for the world after the Flood. Of the three sons of Noah, Ham and Japheth, after coming on the scene, retire before Shem, because from Shem Abraham is to arise, and from Abraham the Chosen Nation. Simultaneously with the progress of history, prophecy advances, an early promise being amplified into repeated and enlarged predictions, running along the line which history has prepared for their accomplishment. The Man becomes a Nation, the Nation is called to be the Servant of Yahweh for ministry to the other nations of the earth, until at length the Ministering Nation itself is seen led on to its destiny by its Suffering and Conquering Messiah. The Messiah Himself is more and more clearly foreshadowed as time goes on, the promised Seed of the Woman being destined to appear in Abraham's line, of David's family, and to come forth from Bethlehem. Then we turn over the leaf, and the Coming One appears, though in lowliness at first, to be rejected—like Joseph, like Moses! Meantime, as history and prophecy march on, morals are uplifted, the temporary permission of half-remedies for social evils being closed when the Greater Prophet arrives; and just when hope rises on loftier wing, patience and self-sacrifice become the crowning virtues, and when the Mystery of Suffering deepens, larger and more satisfying solutions are discerned; so that a half-chapter from the Epistle to the Romans does more to solve the riddle than the elaborate drama and lengthy arguments of the Book of Job, and the Hallelujahs of the Apocalypse, in sweep and fulness of triumph, manifestly transcend any heard in the Psalms or the Propheta.

3. The FULFILMENT of Prophecy begins in the Old Testament, and then runs over into the New. The one man becomes a great nation, yea many nations spring from his loins. The Messiah appears and the songs sung by heavenly messengers over Bethlehem's plains are learned and lisped for centuries by Gentile babes, and myriads of martyrs from among the Nations joyfully surrender their lives for very love of the Crucified Son of David, whose face they are sure they shall behold in giory. But fulfilment comes by instalments—the Eternal seems to be in no haste. The Old Testament is partly fulfilled in the New, and this measure of accomplishment forms a magnificent pledge of all the rest; nevertheless a glorious Remainder awaits the times of the accomplishment of all the things that are written. What is not fulfilled by the First Advent will be filled to the full by the Second, when "the heavens shall be set open, and the messengers of God ascend and descend unto the Son of Man." Christians believe that the Jesus of the New Testament is the Messiah foreshadowed in the Old; they are unwise if they affirm that He has already entered upon the whole work assigned Him. Restraining themselves from assuming too much, they are left free to do the completest exegetical justice to the Hebrew Scriptures as well as to their own. They can well afford to favour a natural interpretation of the whole Bible—of poetry as poetry, allowing for poetical license; of prophecy as prophecy, granting that some dimness must needs rest on things yet to come, especially when the like of them have never happened yet; but abating nothing from the programme, hiding nothing, denying nothing; never allegorising without express warrant or manifest need.

- 4. Meantime, however, ADAPTATION, as distinguished from fulfilment, claims its due. For a prophecy may be rerified in principle long before it is fulfilled according to its own contextual intention. Yahweh has an undoubted right to make "a People" out of Gentiles who before were a "No-people," as the Apostle Paul well understood; but He has more than the right, He has the revealed intention of bringing the Hebrew nation itself through the three successive conditions of being first "a People," second "a No-people," and third "a People" again, as clearly announced by the Prophet Hosea. It is sheer Gentile blindness not to see this; and the habit of overlooking it may, without exaggeration, be said to wreck all sound interpretation of the Old Testament Prophecies. For under its influence nothing in the ancient predictions can be trusted to mean what it says, even after making reasonable allowance for figurative language. Whereas, when borrowed language is frankly acknowledged to bear that character, and the interpreter faithfully reverts to its original intention in its own context—so that, in the Old Testament, "Israel" means Israel and "Jerusalem" means Jerusalem—then the Messiah's promised Kingdom is seen to remain intact, and the ancient prophecies concerning it can be interpreted according to their obvious significance. The manifold wisdom of God has made ample provision for the Messiah's Ecclesia, so that her heavenly portion can be assigned her as His Bride, d without interference with the Messiah's Kingdom, the chief earthly place therein being still regarded as inviolably reserved for that ancient Nation whose continued existence is the most extended and persistent miracle the world has ever seen.
- 5. With just abatement, however, on the score of partial fulfilment in the realm of facts and of free adaptation in the sphere of language, ADVANCEMENT presses its way to the front, claiming that, though injustice must not be done to the Hebrew Scriptures, yet less than justice shall not be accorded to the Christian Scriptures. The advancement made in the progress of events is so decisive as of necessity to charge language with new forces and to create new forms of expression, thereby profoundly influencing the whole science of Biblical Interpretation. The fundamental Christian assumptions are: that the Messiah has come—that His own people have rejected Him—that the promised Kingdom is postponed—that now the First Advent must be followed by a Second—that meantime an Ecclesia (or "assembly") is being summoned from the ends of the earth—that, though not herself the Kingdom, yet in her heart the hope of the Kingdom is implanted, and by her activities preparations for its establishment are being signally matured—that on this Ecclesia spiritual gifts have been bestowed, and in it spiritual men have been produced who, though in many ways like the prophets of old, yet in some ways surpass them—and that to one of these spiritual men in particular, namely Saul, of the tribe of Benjamin, also called Paul, has been committed the stupendous privilege of revealing a New Dispensation, intercallated among the Ages between the Two Advents, in other words between the Rejection and Reception of the Messiah by His own people. It thus comes about that by these concurrent advancements of facts, and of revelation as to their meaning, our methods of interpretation are enlarged and elevated. Many new words and phrases are added to our vocabulary, such as "apostle," "disciple," "church" (or "assembly"), "overseer," "immerse," "age-abiding life," "wrath to come"; and some old words are deepened in their significance, such as "good-tidings," "sacrifice," "sanctification," "judgment." In short, Christians are the same and yet not the same as Jews: the same, in that the former as well as the latter believe in the promises made unto the fathers; not the same, inasmuch as the hopes of Christians are loftier and their outlook is more comprehensive. And all these things affect Christian Interpretation, which has to embrace new things as well as old, and therefore is naturally compelled to blend old and new in rightful proportions.

These, then, are the leading principles which, it is submitted, must underlie any successful endcayour to interpret harmoniously the Jewish and Christian Scriptures. To reader such endeavour successful is to obtain three results of incalculable value. It is, first, to offer a basis on which each reader may frame for himself a few simple by-laws for Scripture exegesis; secondly, to vindicate the right of the New Testament to stand at the close of the Old as its legitimate sequel; and, thirdly, to offer a triumphant defence of the entire Bible, which—drawn from materials accumulated through long ages, penned by authors mainly to each other unknown, and dealing with facts, laws, and instructions constituting successive dispensations of Divine dealings with human affairs—nevertheless submits to be consistently understood from end to end in a way which satisfies and sanctifies the mind, the conscience, and the life.

SIGNS AND ABBREVIATIONS

EMPLOYED IN THIS WORK.

Relating to the GREEK TEXT.

I 1: enclose words with respect to which ancient authorities are not unanimous.

II II: enclose words regarded by the Greek Editors as interpolations, but which for some reason they preferred not to remove from the Text.

Or (WH): [Westcott and Hort] a Various Reading in the Greek, not necessarily much inferior to that given in the Text. For the translation of these readings the present translator is, of course, alone responsible.

Add (WH): a similar addition, for which there is only partial support in the documentary evidence.

Relating to the EMPHASIS.

| | single upright lines enclose words on which a moderate amount of stress should be laid.

|| || Double lines indicate more decided stress.

< > these angular marks ask for more or less force in utterance; are always introductory; and therefore never used at the close of a sentence. In long prefixed clauses, their form will readily catch the anticipating eye of the reader; and due attention to them will, it is believed, prove especially helpful towards an immediate perception of the structure of long sentences. They are occasionally borrowed to meet an emergency, when several shades of emphasis can be distinguished to advantage.

m': an acute accent denotes the least possible increase of stress. Its nearly uniform application to prefixed adjectives may interest the Greek student. This sign also helps in an emergency.

*** A half comma (,) simply relieves the comma, which is apt to be overmuch used or annoyingly omitted.

Note.—When, in the Epistles, the indentations of the type have been carried as far from the margin as was convenient, and yet the thought of the Writer invited a still further subordinating of classes, a few logical capitals have occasionally been thrown in, suggesting where new lines might be commenced in writing out a passage upon an enlarged scale as an aid to exposition. In any case, as Logical Analysis is necessarily subjective, and appeals to the reader's comprehension and insight, the student is counselled, pencil in hand, to revise these typographical indications for himself, by pushing in or drawing out the lines according to his own judgment. On the basis here provided, nothing could be easier, while the profit would be certainly great. As Dr. Richard Moulton well observes in his admirable work "The Bible as Literature," it is not so much a question of right or wrong, as of good, better and best.

Happy, the peacemakers;

For they a shall be called sons of God!:

Happy they who have been persecuted for righteousness' sake ;

For | theirs | is the kingdom of the heavens.

"Happy" are ye, whensoever they may reproach you and persecute you and say every'evil thing against you |falsely for my sake : 13 Rejoice and exult, because | your reward is great in the heavens; for |so! persecuted they the prophets who were before you.

|Ye| are the salt b of the earth; but <if the salt become tasteless> wherewith shall it be salted? it is good |for nothing| any more, e save, being cast out, to be trampled on by men.

|Ye| are the light of the world: it is impossible for a city to be hid on the top of a mountain lying. 15 Neither light they a lamp and place it under the measure; but upon the lampstand, and it giveth light to all' that are in the house. 16 | In like manner || let your light shine before men,that they may see your good works, -and glorify your Father who is in the heavens.

Do not think that I came to pull down the law, or the prophets,-I came not to pull down, but to fulfil. 18 For |verily | I say unto you, <until the heaven and the earth shall pass away> |one least letter, or one point | may in nowise pass away from the 19 < Wholaw till all be accomplished. soever therefore shall relax one of these commandments, the least, and teach men so> shall be called |least| in the kingdom of the heavens; but < whosoever shall do and teach> | the same | shall be called |great| in the kingdom of the heavens.

For I say unto you, that <unless your' righteousness exceed that of the Scribes and Pharisees | in nowise | may ye enter into the kingdom of the heavens.

Ye have heard that it was said, to them of olden time.-

Thou shalt not commit murder,*

and < whoseever shall commit murder> shall be |liable| to judgment.

But |I| say unto you, that <every one who is angry with his brother > shall be | liable | to judgment,—and < whoseever shall say to his brother. Worthless one!> shall be |liable| to the high council; and <whosoever shall say Rebel! > shall be |liable| 25 < If. unto the fiery gehenna. therefore thou be bearing thy gift towards the altar, and |there| shouldst remember that |thy brother| hath aught against thee> leave there thy gift before the altar, and withdraw, - | first | be reconciled unto thy

Ye have heard, that it was said,

Thou shalt not commit adulters:

But |I| say unto you, that < Every one who looketh on a woman so as to covet her> |already| hath committed adultery withher 29 And <if | thy right in his heart. eye|b is causing thee to stumble> pluck it out, and cast it from thee,-for it profiteth thee that |one of thy members should perish, and not | thy whole body, be cast 30 And <if | thy right into gehenna. hand | c is causing thee to stumble > cut it off, and cast it from thee,-for it profiteth thee that |one of thy members, should perish, and not thy whole body into gehenna | depart.

It was said moreover, d < Whosoever shall divorce his wife > let him give her a writing of divorcement ;

But |I| * say unto you, that < Everyone' who divorceth his wife-saving for unfaithfulness'> causeth her to be made an adulteres,-[and | whosoever shall marry a divorced woman | committeth adultery].

|Again| ye have heard that it was said, to them of olden time.

Thou shalt not swear falsely.-

But shalt render unto the Lord, thine onthe.

But |I| tell you—not to swear [at all]i: Neither by heaven, because it is the throne of God |,--k

Nor by the carth, because it is | his footstool : Nor by Jerusalem, because it is the joily of the Great King!:

Nor ||by thine own head; mayest thou swear, because thou art not able to make one' hair | white or black.

But let your word be Yea, yea, -Nay, my; And || what goeth beyond these, is |of evil-

Ye have heard, that it was said,-Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth."

But |I| tell you, not to resist evil,-Nay < whoever is smiting thee on the right cheek> turn to him | the other also';

And < him who is desiring thee to be judged. and to take | thy tunic | > let him have thy mantle also .

And < whoever shall impress thee one mile> go with him two':

Prudent, as serpents, and simple o as doves.

But beware of men :-

For they will deliver you up into highcouncils,

And |in their synagogues| will they scourge you,-

And |before both governors and kings| shall ye be brought |for my sake|-

|| For a witness to them and the nations||. And < when they deliver you up>

Be not anxious, how or what ye shall speak, --For it shall be given you, in that' hour, what ye shall speak;

For it is not |ye| who are speaking,

But | the Spirit of your Father | that is speaking in you.

And |brother| will deliver up |brother| unto death,

And | father | | child | -

And |children | will rise up |against parents |, ||And will put them to death||.

And ye will be hated by all, because of my name,-

But ||he that endureth throughout|| |the same | shall be saved.

- 11 And | he | answering, said,*

Because |unto you| hath it been given, to get to know the sacred secrets b of the kingdom of the heavens, -whereas | unto them | hath it not been given.

For |whosoever hath| it shall be given ||to him || and he shall be made to abound,-

But | whoever hath not | || even what he hath || shall be taken from him."

- ||For this reason|| |in parables, unto them | do I speak,—because | seeing | they see not, and |hearing| they hear not,-neither do they understand.
- And |again is being fulfilled in them | the prophecy of Isaiah, which saith,-

They shall |surely hear | and yet will not understand.

And | surely see | and yet not perceive;

For the heart of this people hath become dense. And | with their cars | heavily have they heard,

For |Herod| seizing John, had bound him, and |in prison|d put him away,—because of Herodias, the wife of Philip his brother; 4 for John had been saying to him,

It is not allowed thee, to have her.

And desiring |to kill| him he feared the multitude, because |as a prophet| they held him.

6 But  the daughter of Herodias danced in the midst and pleased Herod; 7 wherefore |with an oath| he promised to give her whatsoever she should ask for herself; 8 and |she| being led on by her mother,—

Give me (saith she) here upon a charger, the head of John the Immerser.

And the king | though grieved | yet < because of the oaths and the guests > ordered it to be given;

Who planted a vineyard

And |a wall around it | placed,

And digged in it a wine-rat.

And built a tower.

And <when the season of fruits drew near>
He sent forth his servants unto the husbandmen to receive his fruits.

And the husbandmen | taking his servants|, |One| indeed, they beat,

And |another| slew,—And |another| stoned.

38 | Again | sent he forth other' servants, more than the first,

And they did unto them |likewise|.

||Afterwards|| however, he sent forth unto them his son, saying,—

They will pay deference unto my son!

§ 70. Marriage Feast and Wedding Garment. Lu. xiv. 16-24.

22 And |answering| Jesus |again| spake in parables unto them, saying:—

The kingdom of the heavens hath become like a man, a king,—

Who made a marriage-feast for his son;

And sent his servants, to call the invited into the marriage-feast,—
And they would not come.

Again sent he other servants, saying— Say to the invited

Lo! |my dinner| have I prepared, |Mine oxen and my fatlings| are slain,— And |all things| are |ready|:

Come ye into the marriage-feast.

And | they | slighting it went off.

|One | indeed into his own field | And |another | unto his merchandise,—

And | the rest | securing his servants, illtreated and slew them.

And | the king | was provoked to anger,— And, sending his armies, Destroyed those murderers, And | their city | set on fire.

Then | saith he unto his servants —
| The marriage | indeed is ready, —
But | the invited | were not | worthy |;

Be going, therefore, into the crossways of the roads,

And |as many as ye shall find | call ye into the marriage-feast.

And those servants |going forth| into the roads,

Gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good,—

And filled was the bride-chamber with guests.

But the king <entering to view the guests>

And it concerneth thee not about anyons,— For thou lookest not unto the face of men:

Tell us then, how | to thee | it seemeth?

Is it allowable to give tax unto Cassar, or not?

18 But Jesus <taking note of their wickedness> said—

Why are ye tempting me, hypocrites?

Shew me the coin appointed for the tax.

And | they | brought unto him a denary.

20 And he saith unto them—

|Whose | is this image and the inscription!

<sup>23</sup> |On that' day| there came unto him Saddaces, who say, there is |no resurrection|,—and they questioned him, <sup>34</sup> saying—

Teacher! | Moses | said .

Now there were, with us, seven' brethren; And | the first | marrying, died, and not having seed, left his wife unto his brother.

Likewise | | the second also |, and the third, — | unto the seven |.

And |last of all | died || the wifel

||In the resurrection, therefore||-|Of which of the seven| shall she be wife! | For |all| had her.

23 And | the multitudes | hearing, were being struck with astonishment at his teaching.

§ 73. The Greatest Commandment. Mk. xii. 28-31; Lu. x. 25-27.

34 Now | the Pharisees | < hearing that he had silenced the Sadducees> were brought together with one accord; 25 and one from among them a lawyer | proposed a question | putting him to the test:

Teacher! | which commandment | is greatest in the law?

37 And |he| said unto him-

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God-with all' thy heart, and with all' thy soul, and with all' thy mind:b

|This| is the great and first commandment.

||The second like it|| is |this|:

Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.º

||In these two' commandments|| |all' the law| is contained, and the prophets.

§ 74. David's Son and Lord. Mk. xii. 35-37; Lu. xx. 41-44.

a Now <the Pharisees having come together> Jesus questioned them, saying-

How to you doth it seem, concerning the Christ |?

!Whose son | is he?

They say unto him-David's.

43 He saith unto them-

How then doth |David in spirit| call him |Lord|, saying-

| The Lord | hath said unto | my Lord | .--Sit thou on my right hand, Until I make thy foes thy footstool ? 4

< If then | David | calleth him | Lord |>

|How| is he |his son|?

46 And |no one | was able to answer him a word, neither durst anyone ||from that' day|| question him | any more |.

§ 75. Alas for the Scribes and Pharisees.

23 |Then | Jesus spake unto the multitudes and unto his disciples, 2 saying-

Upon Moses' seat | have sat down, the Scribes and the Pharisees:

< | All things | therefore whatsoever they tell you> do and observe,-

But |according to their works| do ye not, For they |say|, and do not |perform|.

For they make broad their amulets

And make large their fringes,

And dearly love the first couch in the chief meals.

And the first seats in the synagogues,

And the salutations in the market-places And to be called by men, Rabbi.

But |ye|-do not be called Rabbi,-

For |one| is your Teacher, And |all' ye | are brethren;

And |father| be none of you called | upon the earth |.

For |one | is your Father | the Heavenly |;

11 And |the greatest of you| shall be to you a minister ;

12 And ||whoever shall exalt himself|| shall be |abased|.

And |whoever shall abase himself| shall be ||exalted|| b [13]0

But alas for you Scribes and Pharisees, ||hypocrites||;

Because ye are locking up the kingdom of the heavens before men, -

For |ye| are not entering,

Neither | them who are entering | suffer ye to enter.

15 Alas for you Scribes and Pharisees, |hypocrites! :

Because ye compass sea and dry land to make one' convert,-

And | when it is done | ye make him a son of gehenna ||twofold more than ye||.

16 Alas for you blind guides! that say-

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ### MARK.

- § 1. The Forerunner. Mt. iii. 1-12; Lu. iii. 3-17.
- 1 Beginning of the glad-message of Jesus Christ.
- 2 < According as it is written in Isaiah the prophet—

Lo! I send my messenger before thy face.

Who shall prepare thy way,-b

A voice of one crying aloud-

'Inthewilderness | prepare yethe way of the Lord, | Straight | be making his paths>

- *John the Immerser came, |in the wilderness| proclaiming an immersion of repentance for a remission of sins; 5 and there were going out unto him all' the Judæa' country, and all' they of Jerusalem, and were being immersed by him in the Jordan' river, openly confessing their sins; <sup>6</sup> and John was clothed with camel's-hair and a leathern girdle about his loins, and was eating locusts and wild honey; <sup>7</sup> and he proclaimed, saying—

He that is mightier than I cometh after [me]. Of whom I am not worthy to stoop and unloose the strap of his sandals:

- 8 ||I|| have immersed you |with water|,-||He|| will immerse you |with the Holy Spirit.
- § 2. The Immersion. Mt. iii. 13-17; Lu. iii. 21, 22
- And it came to pass, in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was immersed into the Jordan by John; <sup>10</sup> And <|straightway| as he was coming up out of the water > he saw the heavens rending asunder, and | the Spirit as a dove descending unto him; 11 and a voice [came] out of the heavens-

|Thou| art my Son, the Beloved,-In thee I delight.

- § 3. The Temptation. Mt. iv. 1-11 Lu. iv. 1-13.
- 12 And ||straightway|| |the Spirit| urgeth him forth into the wilderness: 13 and he was in the wilderness, forty' days, tempted by Satan, and was with the wild beasts,—and | the messengers | were ministering unto him.
- § 4. Beginning in Galilee. Call of Simon and Andrew, James and John. Mt. iv. 12-22: Lu. iv. 14, 15.
- 14 And <after John was delivered up> Jesus came into Galilee, proclaiming the glad-message of God, 15 [and saying] -

The season is fulfilled,

And the kingdom of God hath drawn near,-Repent ye, and have faith in the gladmessage.

16 And <passing by near the sea of Galilee> he saw Simon, and Andrew the brother of Simon. casting a net in the sea, -for they were fishers; 17 and Jesus said unto them-

Come after me,

And I will make you become fishers of men; 18 and <|straightway| leaving the nets> they followed him. 19 And |going forward a little he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, and them who were in the boat putting in order the nets; 20 and |straightway | he called them, - and < leaving their father Zebedee in the boat, with the hired men> they came away after him.

§ 5. In Capernaum Jesus teaches, and expels an Impure Spirit. Lu. iv. 31-37.

21 And they journey into Capernaum. <|straightway on the Sabbath| entering into the synagogue > he began teaching b; 22 and they were being struck with astonishment at his teaching,-for he was teaching them as one having |authority|, and |not as the Scribes|.

23 And |straightway| there was in their synagogue, a man in can impure spirit,—and he cried out aloud, 24 saying-

What have we in common with thee d Jesus of Nazareth?

Hast thou come to destroy us? I * know thee, who thou art,

||The Holy One of God||.

🕿 And Jesus rebuked him, [saying]—

Be silenced, and come forth out of him!

- 25 And the impure spirit < tearing him, and calling out with a loud voice > came forth out of him; to the impure spirits also || he giveth orders, and they obey him!

- 26 And forth went the report of him straightway. on every hand, into all' the surrounding country of Galilee.
- § 6. Healeth Simon's Mother-in-law and many others. Visits all Galilec. Mt. viii. 14-16; Lu. iv. 38-44.
- 29 And <straightway out of the synagogue going forth> he went into the house of Simon and Andrew with James and John. 30 Now | the mother-in-law of Simon | was lying in a fever, and |straightway| they speak to him concerning her; 31 and, coming near, he raised her up, grasping her hand, -and the fever left her, and she began ministering unto them.
- And <evening arriving, when the sun went in> they were bearing unto him all' who were sick and them who were demonized; 33 and all' the city was gathered unto the door; 24 and he cured many' that were sick with divers' diseases, and |many demons| he cast out, and suffered not the demons to be talking, because they knew him [to be Christ].

And |very early by night arising | he went out [and departed] into a desert' place, and |there| was praying; 26 and Simon, and they who were with him went in quest of him, 37 and found him, and say unto him-

|All| are seeking thee;

Let us be going elsewhere into the neighbouring country-towns, in order that | there also | I may be making proclamation,—for |to this end | came I forth:

so and he came making proclamation into their synagogues, throughout the whole of Galilee,and | was casting the demons out |.

§ 7. Cleanses a Leper. Mt. viii. 1-4; Lu. v. 12-14.

40 And there cometh unto him, a leper, beseeching him [and kneeling],—saying unto him—

| If thou be willing | thou canst cleanse me;

41 and | moved with compassion | he stretched forth the hand, and touched him, and saith unto him-I am willing, Be cleansed!

42 and |straightway| the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed; 43 and ||strictly charging him | | straightway | he urged him forth; 44 and saith unto him-

Mind! ||unto no one || say |aught|, -but withdraw, ||thyself|| show unto the priest and offer for b thy cleansing what things Moses enjoined | for a witness unto them |.º

- 45 But |he| going forth began to be proclaiming many things, and blazing abroad the story, so that |no longer | was it possible for him ||openly|| |into a city| to enter,-but |outside, in desert places [was he], and they were coming unto him from every quarter.

He is |in a house|*;

2 and many were gathered together, so that |no longer| was there room ||even in the approaches to the door||,—and he began speaking unto them the word; 3 and they come bearing unto him a paralytic, |upborne by four|,—4 and <not being able to get near him, by reason of the multitude> they uncovered the roof where he was, and ||having broken it up| they began letting down the couch whereon the paralytic was lying; 3 and |Jesus, seeing their faith| saith unto the paralytic—

Child! forgiven are thy sins!

Now there were certain of the Scribes there sitting and deliberating in their hearts,—

Why doth ||this|| man |thus| talk! he is speaking profanely!

Who can forgive sins |save one | ||God||?

S And Jesus <|straightway| taking note in his spirit, that [thus] they are deliberating within themselves> saith [unto them]—

Why | these things | are ye deliberating in your hearts?

Which is easier—

To say unto the paralytic. Forgiven are thy sins,

Or to say Rise [and] take up thy couch, and be walking?

But <that ye may know that the Son of Man |hath authority| to be forgiving sins upon the earth>b

he saith to the paralytic:

- § 28. Fire Thousand fed. Mt. xiv. 13-21; Lu. ix. 10-17; Jn. vi. 1-13: op. ch. viii. 1 ff.
- <sup>30</sup> And the apostles gather themselves together unto Jesus, and reported unto him all things, as many as they had done, and as many as they had taught. <sup>31</sup> And he saith unto them—

Come |ye yourselves| apart into a desert place, and rest yourselves a little.

For they who were coming and they who were going |were many|, and |not even to eat| were they finding fitting opportunity. <sup>22</sup> And they departed, in the boat, into a desert place |apart|. <sup>33</sup> And many saw them going away, and took note of it, and |afoot, from all the cities| ran they together thither,—and outwent them. <sup>34</sup> And, coming forth, he saw |a great' multitude| and was moved with compassion towards them, because they were like sheep having no shepherd,* and he began to be teaching them many things. <sup>35</sup> <And ||already|| |a late hour| having arrived> his disciples came unto him and were saying

|A desert| is the place, and it is |already| a late hour: 36 dismiss them, that |departing into the surrounding hamlets and villages| they may buy themselves something to eat.

37 But |he| answering said to them-

||Ye|| |give them | to eat.

And they say unto him—

Shall we depart and buy two' hundred' denaries' worth of loaves, and give them to eat?

38 And |he| saith unto them-

[How many loaves] have ye? Go, see!

And getting to know they say-

Five, and | two' fishes |.

29 And he gave them orders, that all should be made recline |in parties| upon |the green' grass |. 40 And they fell back |in companies|, by hundreds and by fifties. 41 And < taking the five loaves and the two fishes | looking up into heaven he blessed, and brake up the loaves and began giving unto the disciples, that they might set before them, and | the two' 42 And they fishes | divided he |unto all |. 48 And they did all eat and were filled. took up broken pieces, twelve' baskets |full measure, and from the fishes. 44 And they who did eat the loaves were | five thousand' men |.

- § 29. Jesus walketh upon the Lake. Mt. xiv. 22-36; Jn. vi. 16-21.
- 45 And |straightway| constrained he his disciples. to enter into the boat, and be going forward to the other side unto Bethsaida, -while |he| was dismissing the multitude. 46 And bidding them farewell, he departed into the mountain to pray. And <when | evening | came > the boat was in the midst of the sea, and the alone on the land. 48 And < seeing them distressed in the rowing, for the wind was against them> about the fourth' watch of the night | he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea, -and was wishing to pass by them. 49 But |they| < seeing him |upon the sea| walking> supposed that it was |an apparition|,* and cried out aloud; 50 for |all| saw him, and were troubled. But |he straightway | talked with them, and saith unto them-

Take courage! it is |I|,—be not afraid!

51 And he went up unto them, into the boat,—and the wind lulled. And |exceedingly, within themselves| were they astonished; <sup>52</sup> for they understood not by the loaves,—but their |heart| had been |hardened|.

| None | is good | save one | — | God ||.

[The commandments] thou knowest,-

Do not commit murder

Do not commit adultery.

Do not steal ;

Do not bear false witness

Do not defraud,

Honour thy father and mother."

20 And |he| said unto him-

Teacher! | all these things | have I kept | from my youth .

21 And ||Jesus|| |looking at him | loved him, and said unto him-

||One thing|| unto thee |is wanting|;-

Withdraw! | whatsoever thou hast | sell, and give unto [the] destitute,-

And thou shalt have treasure in heaven:

And come! be following me.

§ 59. The Greatest Commandment. Mt. xxii. 34-40. (Lu. x. 25-27.)

26 And one of the Scribes | coming near | < hearing them discussing, seeing that |well| he had answered them > began to question him-

Which is the chief commandment of all?

🥯 Jesus answered—

The chief is:

Hear! O Israel,-

|| The Lord our God || is one Lord | :;

Therefore shalt thou love the Lord thy God with all' thy heart, and with all' thy soul, and with all' thy mind; and with all' thy strength.

||The second|| is |this|-

Thou shalt love | thy neighbour | ||as thyself ||. 5 ||Greater than these|| |other commandment| is there none.

And they come into an estate the name of which is Gethsemane, and he saith unto his disciples— Sit ye here, while I pray.

And he taketh Peter and James and John with him, and began to be exceedingly amazed and in great distress; 24 and he saith unto them—

| Encompassed with grief is my soul b | unto death |:

Abide ye here, and be watching.

And |going forward a little| he fell upon the ground, and was praying that |if it were possible'| the hour might passfrom him; sand was saying—Abba! O Father!

| All things | are possible to thee:

Bear aside this cup from me;

But not what |I| will,

But what ||thou|| [wilt].

27 And he cometh and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter—

Simon! art thou sleeping?

Hadst thou not strength |one hour | to watch?

Be watching and praying,

That ye enter not into temptation:

The ||spirit|| indeed, is willing,

But | the flesh | || weak ||.

LUKE.

§ 1. The Prologue.

- 1 <Seeing, indeed, that |many| had taken in hand to re-arrange for themselves a narrative, concerning the facts which have been fully confirmed amongst us,—² according as they who from the beginning became eye-witnesses and attendants of the Word delivered them unto us>
- it seemed good |even to me| <having closely traced from the outset all things accurately> to write unto thee |in order|, most excellent Theophilus: 4 that <as touching the matters which thou hadst been taught by word of mouth> thou mightest obtain full knowledge ||of the certainty||.

§ 2. Zachariah and Elizabeth.

- It came to pass |in the days of Herod king of Judæa | that there was a certain priest by name Zachariah of the daily course of Abia; and that he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron, and |her name | was Elizabeth. 6 Now they were both righteous before God, walking in all' the commandments and righteous appointments of the Lord blameless; 7 and they had no child, inasmuch as Elizabeth was barren and ||both|| had become |advanced in their days|.
- 8 But it came to pass <as he was doing priestly service in the order of his daily course, before God, according to the custom of his priesthood> it fell to his lot to offer incense, entering into the Temple of the Lord; 10 and |all' the throng of the people | was praying outside, at the hour of the incense offering.

11 And there appeared unto him a messenger of the Lord, standing on the right hand of the altar of incense; 12 and Zachariah was troubled when he beheld, and |fear | fell upon him.

13 But the messenger said unto him—

Do not fear, Zachariah!

Inasmuch as thy supplication hath been hearkened to,—

And |thy wife Elizabeth| shall bring forth a son to thee,

And thou shalt call his name |John|;

- And there shall be joy to thee and exulting, And |many| over his birth |shall rejoice|;
  - For he shall be great before the Lord,
    And | wine and strong drink | in nowise may
    - he drink, b
      And | with Holy Spirit | shall he be filled | | already' from his mother's womb |;
  - And |many of the Sons of Israel| shall he turn towards the Lord their God;
  - And ||he|| shall go before him |in the spirit and power of Elijah|,—c

- 3 Now <in the fifteenth year of the supremacy of Tiberius Cæsar, -- Pontius Pilate being governor of Judæa, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and | Philip his brother | tetrarch of Ituræa and the country of Trachonitis, and Lysanius tetrarch of Abylene,-2 in the Highpriesthood of Annas and Caiaphas> came a word of Godb unto John the son of Zachariah in the desert; 3 and he came into all' the country about the Jordan, proclaiming an immersion of repentance into remission of sins: 4 as it is written in the book of the discourses of Isaiah the prophet :-

A voice of one crying aloud!

| In the desert | prepare ne the way of the Lord, Straight be making his paths;

Every chasm shall be filled up,

And | every' mountain and hill | be made low; And the |crooked | places shall become straight ,

And the |rugged | places, smooth ways;-And all' flesh shall see the salvation of God.c

7 He was saying therefore unto the multitudes who were going forth to be immersed by him-

Broods of vipers! who suggested to you to flee from the coming wrath?

Bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of repentance, and do not begin to be saying within yourselves-

As our father | we have "Abraham |: For, I say unto you—God is able out of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

- And ||already|| |even the axe| unto the root of the trees' is being laid; | every' tree therefore not bringing forth [good] fruit! is to be hewn down, and |into fire| to be cast.
- 10 And the multitude began to question him sayıng-

|What| then shall we |do|?

11 And answering he said unto them-

"He that hath two' tunics" let him share with him that hath none, and ||he that hath food|| |in like manner| let him be doing.

12 And there came |even tax-collectors| to be immersed; and they said unto him-

Teacher! | what | shall we |do|?

13 And |he| said unto them-

<Nothing more than what is appointed you> exact ye.

14 Then were questioning him |soldierse also | saying-

What shall ||even we|| do?

And he said unto them-

Molest ye (no one), neither accuse falsely; and be content with your supplies.

§ 12. Jesus in Nazareth-rejected.

16 And he came into Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and entered according to his custom, on the sabbath day, into the synagogue,—and stood up to read. 17 And there was handed to him a scroll of the prophet Isaiah; and unfolding the scroll, he found the place where it was written:

18 | The Spirit of the Lord | is upon me, Because he hath anointed me—

To tell glad tidings unto the destitute; He hath sent me forth—

To proclaim, to captives, a release,
And, to the blind, a recovering of sight,—
To send away the crush of with a release.

To send away the crushed with a release; To proclaim the welcome year of the Lord.

20 And |folding up the scroll| he handed it to the attendant, and sat down; and the eyes of all in the synagogue | were intently fixed upon him; and he began to be saying to them—

||This day|| is fulfilled this scripture |in your ears|.

<sup>22</sup> And [all] were bearing witness to him, and marvelling at the words of favour which were proceeding out of his mouth; and they were saying—

Is not ||this || the |son of Joseph|!

23 And he said unto them-

||By all means|| ye will speak to me this similitude:

Physician! heal |thyself|,--

<Whatsoever things we have heard of coming to pass in Capernaum> do here also, |in thine own country|.

§ 41. Jesus cures a Demoniac whom the Disciples could not cure. Mt. xvii. 14-21; Mk. ix. 14-29.

37 And it came to pass <on the next' day, when they came down from the mountain> that there met him a great multitude. * And lo! |a man from the multitude | uttered a cry, saying-

Teacher! I beg of thee, to look upon my son, because |my only begotten| he is. 39 And lo! |a spirit| taketh him, and |suddenly| he crieth out, and it convulseth him-with foaming, and with difficulty departeth from him, sorely bruising him.

And I begged of thy disciples, that they would cast it out, and they could not.

41 And making answer, Jesus said-

O faithless and perverted generation! how long shall I be with you, and bear with you? Bring |hither| thy son.

42 And | while yet' he was coming | the demon tare him, and mangled him. But Jesus rebuked the impure spirit, and healed the boy, and gave him back to his father. 43 And they were all being struck with astonishment, at the majesty of God |.

> § 42. Jesus warns of His Rejection. Mt. xvii. 22, 23; Mk. ix. 30-32.

And < while all' were marvelling at all' things which he was doing > he said unto his disciples:

Lay |ye| up in your ears, these words; for the Son of Man is about to be delivered up |into the hands of men |.

46 But | they | understood not this saying, and it had become veiled from them that they might not grasp it, -and they were afraid to question him |concerning this saying|.

§ 43. True Greatness. Mt. xviii. 1-5; Mk. ix. 33-37.

46 But there entered a reasoning among them as to who of them should be greatest.

47 And |Jesus| <perceiving the reasoning of their heart> | taking a child | placed it near himself,- and said unto them-

< Whosoever shall give welcome unto this' child on my name> |unto me| giveth welcome:

And < whosoever | unto me | giveth welcome > giveth welcome unto him that sent me

For || he who is least among you all || | the same | is |great|.

59 And he said unto another-

Be following me!

But |he| said-

Suffer me | first | to depart, and bury my father.

60 And he said unto him-

Leave | the dead | to bury their own' dead : But ||thou|| departing, be declaring the king dom of God.

61 And | yet another | said-

I will follow thee Lord;

But |first| suffer me to bid adieu to them that are in my house.

§ 48. Martha and Mary: The Good Part.

28 And ||as they were journeying|| |he| entered into a certain village; and |a certain woman, named Martha| welcomed him into her house.

And |she| had a sister called Mary, who also < seating herself at the feet of the Lord> was hearing his word. | Martha | was distracted about much' ministering, and coming near said—

Lord! carest thou not that |my sister| hath left me to be ministering ||alone||? Speak to her then, that she help me.

§ 49. "Lord! teach us to pray." Cp. Mt. vi. 9-13.

11 And it came to pass < when he was in a certain place praying, as he ceased > one of his disciples said unto him-

Lord! teach us to pray,

As |John also | taught his disciples.

<sup>2</sup> And he said unto them-

< Whensoever ye are praying > say-Father!

Hallowed be thy name

Come may thy kingdom,

[Our needful bread] be giving us day by day;

And forgive us our sins,

For |even we ourselves| forgive every' one indebted to us;

And bring us not into temptation.

5 And he said unto them—

|Who from among you| shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him-

15 And he said unto them-

Mind and be guarding yourselves from all' covetousness;

For not ||in one's abundance|| doth his life spring out of his possessions.

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying-

||A certain rich man's estate|| bare well. And he began to deliberate within himself, saying-

> What shall I do? because I have not where I can gather my fruits.

shall come | he may say unto thee—

Friend! come close up | higher!.

|Then | shalt thou have honour before all who are reclining together with thee.

Because | everyone' who exalteth himself | shall be abased;

And |he that abaseth himself| shall be exalted.c

12 Moreover he went on to say | unto him also who had invited him |—

<Whensoever thou mayest be making a dinner or a supper> do not call thy friends, or thy brothers, or thy kinsfolk, or nch neighbours,—lest once ||they also| invite thee in return and it become a recompense unto thee.

But <whensoever |an entertainment| thou mayest be making> invite the destitute, the tried, the lame, the blind; "and |happy| shalt thou be, that they have not wherewith to recompense thee, for it shall be recompensed unto thee |in the resurrection of the righteous|.

15 And one of those reclining together |hearing these things | said unto him—

|Happy| whoever shall eat bread in the kingdom of God!

16 But |he| said unto him-

|A certain man | was making a great supper, and invited many d; 17 and he sent out his servant, at the hour of the supper, to my unto the invited—

Be coming! because [even now] is it | ready |.

And they all began one after another to excuse themselves.

|The first | said unto him-

|A field | have I bought and have need to go out and see it:

I request thee, hold me excused.

19 And |another| said—

• Chap.xiii.15. Ap: "Rest."

"Sabbath."

• Pr. xxv. 6, 7.

• Mt. xxiii. 12; chap. xvii. 14.

• Cp. Mt. xxii. 1-14.

|Five' yoke of oxen| have I bought, and am going my way to prove them;

I request thee, hold me excused.

And |another| said-

|A wife| have I married, and |for this cause | I cannot come!

And going near the servant reported unto his lord these things. ||Then|| | provoked to anger! the master of the house said unto his servant-

> Go out quickly into the broadways and streets of the city, and | the destitute and tried, and blind and lame bring thou in here.

And the servant said-

Lord! what thou didst order, hath been done; and ||yet|| there is |room|.

And the lord said unto the servant-

Go out among the highways and fences, and compel a them to come in; that my house may be filled.

For, I say unto you—

Not one of those men who had been invited | shall taste of my supper.

§ 61. The Costs of Discipleship.

25 And there were journeying together with him many multitudes; and |turning| he said unto them-

<If anyone cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father and mother, and wife and children, and brothers, and sisters, further' also even his own life > he cannot be my disciple.

< Whoever beareth not his own cross and cometh after me > cannot be my disciple.b

For | who from among you wishing to build a tower' doth not first' sit down and count the cost,-whether he hath sufficient for completion; 29 lest once <he having laid a foundation, and not being able to finish> |all' who are looking on | should begin to mock at him', 30 saving-

> |This' man| began to build, and was not able to finish!

Or |what king| <moving on to encounter |another king | in battle > will not sit down first and take counsel, whether he is able' |with ten' thousand| to meet him who with twenty' thousand | is coming against him. 22 And | if not by any means | < while he is yet' afar off > he sendeth | an embassy |, and requesteth the conditions of peace.

|Good| therefore is the salt; but <if |even the salt | become tasteless> wherewith shall it be seasoned? 20 || Neither for land nor for manure|| is it |fit|: |outside| they cast it!c

|He that hath ears to hear| let him hear.

15 But all' the tax-collectors and the sinners were |unto him | drawing near, to be hearkening unto him; 2 and both the Pharisees and the Scribes were murmuring, saying-

§ 62. The Lost Sheep, Lost Silver, and Lost Son.

||This man|| |unto sinners| giveth welcome.

saying unto them-

3 And he spake unto them this parable, saying-||What man from among you|| <having a hundred' sheep, and losing from among them |one|> doth not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go his way after the lost one, until he find it? 5 And | finding it he layeth it upon his shoulders | rejoicing; 6 and | coming unto his house | calleth together the friends and the neighbours,

> Rejoice with me! because I have found my sheep that was lost!

I say unto you-

|Thus | |joy in heaven || will there be over one' sinner repenting, rather than over ninety-nine' righteous persons, who indeed have [no need] of repentance.

Or ||what woman|| < having | ten pieces of silver|b if she lose one piece> doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek carefully, until she find it? 9 And | having found it | she calleth together her female friends and neighbours, saying-

> Rejoice with me! because I have found the piece of silver which I had lost.

I say unto you there ariseth joy in presence of the messengers of God, over one' sinner repenting.

11 And he said-

||A certain man|| had two sons. 12 And the younger of them said unto the father-

Father! give me the share that falleth' to me |of what there is|.

And |he| divided unto them the living.c And |after not many' days| the younger' son gathering all together left home for a country far away, and | there | squandered his substance with riotous living. | when he had spent all | there arose a mighty famine throughout that country,—and ||he|| began to be in want. 15 And he went his way, and joined himself unto one of the citizens of that country, and he sent him into his fields to be feeding swine.

And he used to long to be filled with the pods which the swine were eating; and |no man | was giving unto him.

But coming ||to himself|| he said-

How many hired servants of my father have bread enough and to spare,

Whereas ||I|| | with famine here | am perishing!

I will arise and go unto my father, and will say unto him-

Or: "constrain." e Mt. v. 18; Mk. ix. 50. Mt. x. 87, 88.

Mt. xviii. 12-14. Gr. drachmas.

Father! I have sinned against heaven and before thee:

'| No longer | am I worthy to be called a son of thine,—

Make me as one of thy hired servants.

And he arose and came unto his own father.

Now < while yet' he was holding afar' off > his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and |running| fell upon his neck, and tenderly kissed him.

And the son said unto him-

Father! I have sinned against heaven and before thee:

|No longer| am I worthy to be called a son of thine,—

[Make me as one of thy hired servants.]

But the father said unto his servants— Quick! bring forth a robe—the best! and put on him, And get out a ring for his hand, and sandals for his feet,—

And be bringing the fatted calf, sacrifice! and let us eat and make merry:

Because ||this' my son||

Was |dead| and hath come to life again,

Was lost, and is found.

And they began to be making merry.

But his elder son was in a field; and <as in coming he drew near unto the house> he heard music and dancing,—26 and calling near one of the youths he inquired what these things |could be|. 27 And |he| said unto him—

Thy brother | hath come,

And thy father hath sacrificed the fatted calf, because |safe and sound| hath he received him back.

Lo! ||so many years as these|| do I serve thee,

And ||at no time|| |a commandment of thine| have I transgressed,—

And ||unto me_at no time|| hast thou given a kid, that |with my friends| I might make merry:

But < when | this thy son, who had devoured thy living with harlots | came > thou didst sacrifice | for him | || the fatted calf ||.

Child! ||thou|| |always| art | with me|,

And ||all that is mine|| is |thine|a;
But |to make merry and rejoice| there was

But |to make merry and rejoice| there was need,

Decause ||this thy brother||-

Was |dead| and hath come to life again,

And was lost, and is found.

§ 63. The Prudent Steward.

16 And he went on to say | unto his disciples also |—

There was a certain rich man, who had a steward, and the same was accused to him as squandering his goods. And accosing him he said unto him—

What is this I hear of thee!

Render the account of thy stewardship, for thou canst no longer be steward.

3 And the steward said within himself—

What shall I do, because my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? |Dig! I cannot: |to beg| I am ashamed.

I know what I will do, that <when I am removed out of the stewardship> they may welcome me into their own houses.

5 And <calling unto him each one of the debtors of his own lord > he was saying unto the first.—

How much owest thou my lord?

And |he| said—

A hundred baths of oil.

And |he| said unto him-

Kindly take thine accounts, and sitting down make haste and write-Fifty!

7 | After that unto another | he said—

And how much owest ||thou||?

And he said-

A hundred homers of wheat.

He saith unto him—

Kindly take thine accounts, and write— Eighty!

And the lord praised the unrighteous steward, in that with forethought he acted:—

Because || the sons of this age|| have more forethought than the sons of light | respecting their own generation |.

9 And ||I|| |unto you| say-

|| For yourselves || make ye friends with the unjust Riches, a in order that | as soon as it shall fail | they may welcome you into the age-abiding tents.

|The faithful in least | "in much also" is | |faithful |.

And |he that in least' is unrighteous! in much also || is |unrighteous|.

11 <If therefore |in the unjust Riches, a ye proved unfaithful>

||The true|| who |unto you| will entrust?

And <if | in what was another's | ye proved unfaithful>

||Your own || who will give unto you?

|No' domestic | can | unto two' masters | be in service ;

For either | the one | he will hate, and | the other | love,

Or |unto the one | he will hold and the other | despise:

Ye cannot ||unto God|| be in service, and unto Riches.

- § 64. The Lofty brought low: The Rich Man and Lazarus.
- 14 Now the Pharisees, who were |lovers of money| were hearing all these things, and were openly sneering at him. 15 And he said unto them—

||Ye|| are they who justify themselves before men,

But ||God|| knoweth your hearts;

Because | that which amongst men' is lofty | Is an abomination before God.

16 |The law and the prophets| were until John,—a

|| From that time || | the good news of the kingdom of God | is being proclaimed,
And || everyone || | | thereinto | is forcing his way.

But it is |easier| for heaven and earth to pass away,

Than that ||of the law|| |one little point|| should fail.

Every one divorcing his wife and marrying another | committeth adultery;

And |he that marrieth a woman divorced' from a husband' | committeth adultery.b

Now |a certain man| was rich, and he used to clothe himself with purple and fine linen, making merry day by day |brilliantly|.

o 'And |a certain beggar, by name Lazarus used to be cast near his gate full of sores, and to long to be fed from the crumbs that fell from the table of the rich man: nay! even |the dogs| used to come and lick his sores.

22 And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried away by the messengers, into the bosom of Abraham.

And |the rich man also | died, and was buried.

23 And <|iin hades| lifting up his eyes, being in torments> he seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

And ||he|| calling out, said—
Father Abraham! have mercy upon me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue,—because I am in anguish in this flame.

But Abraham said-

Child! remember-

That thou didst duly receive 4 thy good things in thy life,

And |Lazarus in like manner | the evil things;

But |now here| he is comforted, And |thou| art in anguish.

And <besides all' these things>

||Betwixt us and you|| |a great chasm| | hath been fixed,—

So that | they who might wish to cross over from hence unto you | should not be able.

Nor any | from thence unto us | be crossing over.

27 But he said-

I request thee then father, that thou wouldst send him unto my father's house,—30 for I have five brethren;—that he may solemnly testify unto them lest ||they also|| come into this place of torment.

But Abraham saith-

They have Moses and the Prophets: Let them hearken unto them.

But | he | said —

Nay! father Abraham, but <if one | from the dead | should go unto them > they would repent.

But he said unto him-

<If |unto Moses and the Prophets | they do not hearken>

Neither <if one | from among the dead | should arise> would they be persuaded.

§ 65. Care, Fidelity, Forgiveness, Faith and Humility enjoined.

17 And he said unto his disciples:-

It is |impossible| that occasions of stumbling should not come,

Notwithstanding, alas! for him through whom they do come a:

It profiteth him, if |a mill-stone| is hung about his neck, and he is cast into the sea, Than that he cause ||one|| |of these little ones| to stumble.

Be taking heed to yourselves,—

<If thy brother sin> rebuke him,
And <if he repent> forgive him;

<Even if |seven times a day | he sin against thee and |seven times| turn to thee, saying I repent> thou shalt forgive him.

5 And the apostles said unto the Lord—

Bestow on us faith!

6 And the Lord said-

<If ye have faith like a grain of mustardseed>

Ye should be saying unto [this] mulberrytree—

Be uprooted! and be planted in the sea,—And it should obey you.

But ||who from among you|| having |a servant| plowing or keeping sheep, |when he hath come in out of the field| will say to him—

|Straightway| come, and recline; on the contrary, will not say to him—

Make somewhat ready that I may dine, and |girding thyself| be ministering unto me until I have eaten and drunk; and |after these thinge| ||thou|| shalt eat and drink?

Doth he offer thanks unto the servant because he hath done the things enjoined?

| Thus | || ye also || < when ye have done all' the things enjoined upon you> say—

Nevertheless | of this | be taking notice— The kingdom of God hath drawn near.

I tell you | |For them of Sodom in that day|| |more tolerable| will it be, |than for that city|.
 Also for the Charrier!

Alas for thee, Chorazin!

Alas for thee, Bethsaida!

Because <if | in Tyre and Zidon | had been done the works of power which have been done in you>

|Of old in sackcloth' and ashes' sitting| they would have repented.

And [some] persecute:

That the blood of all' the prophets which hath been shed from the foundation of the world | may be sought out | from this generation,-

From the blood of Abel, unto the blood of Zachariah who was destroyed betwixt the altar and the house:

Yea! I say unto you-

IIt shall be sought out from this generation |L

Alas for you, the lawyers!

Because ye took away the key of knowledge: |Yourselves| entered not,

And |them who were entering| ye hindered.

55 And <when |from thence| he came out> the Scribes and the Pharisees began with vehemence to be hemming him in, and trying to make him speak off-hand concerning many things,-54 lying in wait for him, to catch something out of his mouth.

§ 54. Various Instructions for Disciples and for the Multitude.

12 <Amongst which things, when the ten thousands of the multitude were gathered together so that they were treading one upon another> he began to be saying |unto his disciples | ||first ||-

Be keeping yourselves free from the leaven of the Pharisees,* the which is |hypocrisy|.

But ||nothing|| hath been |covered up| Which shall not be uncovered.

Which shall not be made known.

And hidden

Because <as many things as |in the darkness | ye have said>

In the light | shall be heard;

And < what to the ear ye spake in the chambers>

Shall be proclaimed on the housetops.b

And I say unto you |my friends |-

Do not be put in fear of them who kill the body,

And |after these things| have nothing more uncommon which they can do.

But I will suggest to you whom ye should

Fear him who after killing | |hath authority to cast into gehenna | ,-

Yes, I say unto you-|Him| fear ye.*

Mt. xvi. 6. 27; Mk. iv. 22. Chap. viii. 17; Mt. x. 26,

Are not | five sparrows | sold for two farthings? And |not one from among them | hath been forgotten before God.

But |even the hairs of your head| have all' been numbered:

Be not afraid: |Many sparrows | ye excel.

And I say unto you-

<Whosoever shall confess me before men> Even the Son of Man | will confess him before the messengers of God;

But <he who denied me before men>

Shall be denied before the messengers of God.

And < whosoever shall say a word against the Son of Man>

It shall be forgiven him;

But <unto him who |against the Holy Spirit| speaketh profanely>

It shall not be forgiven.b

But < whensoever they shall be bringing you in before the synagogues, and the rulers, and the authorities>

> Do not be anxious how [or what] ye shall answer or what ye shall say;

For | the Holy' Spirit | shall teach you in that very' hour, what ye ought to say."

18 And one from amongst the multitude said unto him-

Teacher! bid my brother divide with me the inheritance.

14 But |he| said unto him-

Man! who hath appointed me a judge or divider over you?d

15 And he said unto them-

Mind and be guarding yourselves from all' covetousness;

For not ||in one's abundance|| doth his life spring out of his possessions.

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying-||A certain rich man's estate|| bare well.

And he began to deliberate within himself, saying-

> What shall I do? because I have not where I can gather my fruits.

And he said-

|This| will I do,-I will pull down my barns and greater ones build, and gather | there | all' my wheat and good things; 19 and will say to my soul-

Soul! thou hast many' good things Dying by for many years:

Be taking thy rest, eat drink ] be making merry!

But God said unto him-

Simple one! ||on this very' night|| they are asking |thy soul| from thee:

||The things then which thou hast prepared || whose shall they be?

[|So| is he that is laying up treasure for himself', and is not rich | towards God |. ]

22 And he said unto his disciples-

|For this cause | I say unto you,-

Not merely "by God."
The difference is most suggestive.

Be not anxious for the life what ye shall eat, Nor yet for [your] body what ye shall put on;

For | the life! is more' | than the food |, And | the body |, than | the clothing |.

Consider well the ravens—

That they sow not, neither do they reap,
Which have neither chamber nor barn,—
And |God| feedeth |them !

By how much do ||ye|| excel | the birds |?

25 And | who from among you' "though anxious" can | unto his stature | add a cubit?

If then, |not even the least thing | ye can

Why |concerning the rest! are ye anxious? Consider well the lilies how they grow:

They toil not neither do they spin,

And yet I say unto you—

"Not even Solomon, in all' his glory," was arrayed like one of these.

But < if God thus adorneth | the grass | Which is ||in a field | to day',

And to-morrow' | into an oven | is cast > | How much rather you! O little-of-faith?

|| Ye|| therefore, be not seeking what ye shall eat and what ye shall drink,

And be not held in suspense;

For ||after all these things | do | the nations of the world | seek,—

But ||your' Father|| knoweth that ye need these things.

Notwithstanding | be seeking his kingdom,— And | these things | shall be added unto you.

Be not afraid, the dear' little flock!

For your Father delighteth to give you | the kingdom |.

Sell your possessions, and give alms, Make for yourselves purses that wax not old,—

Treasure unfailing in the heavens,
Where |thief| doth not draw near and | moth | dot not spoil.

For < where your treasure' is > | There | will your heart' be also.

Let your loins be girded.
 And your lamps burning.

And || ye yourselves|| like unto men awaiting their own lord once he may break up out of the marriage-feast,—

That | when he cometh and knocketh | ||straightway|| they may open unto him.

Happy those servants, whom the lord, when he cometh, shall find watching!

||Verily|| I say unto you--

He will gird himself, and make them recline, and coming near will minister unto them.

And <if | in the second| or if | in the third | watch he come and find | thus |>
| Happy | are | they | !

But |of this| be taking note—

<Had the householder known in what hour the thief was coming>

Or (WH: "the."

° Mt. vi. 25-31.

He would have watched, and not suffered his house to be digged through.

Ye; therefore be getting ready,
Because in what hour ye are not thinking.

The Son of Man cometh!

41 But Peter said—

Lord! (unto us | this parable) speakest thou!

Or | even unto all ?

4 And the Lord said-

Who then is the faithful' steward, the prodent one,

Whom the lord will appoint over his body of attendants

To be giving, in due season, the measured allowance of wheat?

Happy; that servant, whom the lord when he cometh shall find doing thus!

Of a truth I say unto you— Over all' his possessions will he appoint him.

But <if that servant should say in his heart-

My lord delayeth to come!

And should begin to be striking the youths

And should begin to be striking the youts and the maidens,—

To be eating also and drinking and making himself drunk>

The lord of that servant | will have come -

On a day when he is not expecting, And in an hour when he is not taking note,— And will cut him asunder,

And | his part; | with the unfaithful, will appoint.

And <that' servant who had come to know the will of his lord,

And neither prepared nor wrought unto his will >

Shall be beaten with many stripes;
Whereas < he who had not come to know.

And did things worthy of stripes>
Shall be beaten with few' stripes.

And <every one to whom was given much'>
|Much| shall be sought from him;

And <he to whom they committed much'>
|For more than common| will they ask him.

But |an immersion| have I, to be immersed with,

And how am I distressed until it be ended!

Suppose ye, that ||peace!' I am come to give in the earth?

Nay, I tell you, but rather division.

For there shall be |henceforth| five in one house |divided|,--

Three against two, and two against three:
There shall be divided—

Father against son and son against fisher, Mother against daughter and daughter against the mother,—c

Mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against the motherin-law.

54 And he went on to say | even unto the multitudes |—

<Whensoever ye see a cloud springing up from the west>

|Straightway| ye are saying- |A thunderstorm| is coming!

And it happeneth' thus.

And <whensoever a south wind, blowing>
Ye say— | A scorching heat | will there be!
And it cometh to pass'.

Hypocrites! | the face of the earth and of the heaven | ye know how to scan;

But ||this season|| how know ye not to scan?a

Why moreover ||even from yourselves|| judge ye not what is just?

For <as thou art going along with thine adversary unto a ruler>

|On the way| take pains to get a release from him;

Lest once he drag thee along unto the judge,

And |the judge| deliver thee up to the punisher,—

And |the punisher| cast thee into prison: I tell thee—

In nowise shalt thou come out from thence, Until |even the last fraction| thou pay!b

§ 55. All must Repent : The Barren Fig-tree.

13 Now there were present some |in that very' season| bringing tidings to him, concerning the Galilæans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And, answering, he said unto them—

Suppose ye that || these Galikeans || had become | sinners beyond all' the Galikeans |, because | these things | they have suffered?

Nay! I tell you, but ||except ye repent|| ye |all in like manner| shall perish.

4 Or <those' eighteen upon whom fell the tower in Siloam and slew them> suppose ye that | they|| had become |debtors| beyond all' the men who were dwelling in Jerusalem? 5 Nay! I tell you, but |except ye repent| ye |all in the same way| shall perish.

6 And he went on to speak this parable:-

A certain man had ||a fig-tree||, planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit therein, and found none. 7 And he said unto the vine-dresser—

Lo! | | three' years | I come | seeking fruit in this fig-tree, and find none. Cut it down! Why doth it make | even the ground | useless?

8 And |he| answering saith unto him-

Sir! let it alone this' year also', until such time as I dig about it and throw in manure,—<sup>9</sup> and if it may bear fruit for the future; ...but |otherwise_certainly| thou shalt cut it down.

having a spirit of weakness eighteen years,—and was bowed together, and unable to lift herself up |at all|.

12 And seeing her Jesus called her and said to her—

Woman! thou art loosed from thy weak-

<sup>13</sup> and laid on her his hands; and |instantly| she was made straight again, and began glorifying God. <sup>14</sup> But the synagogue-ruler, answering,

| Seing greatly displeased that |on the Sabbath | Jesus had healed > began saying unto the multitude—

||Six' days|| there are in which men ought to get their work done;

||On them|| therefore come and be healed, and |not on the day of rest|.

15 The Lord answered him, and said-

Hypocrites! Doth not ||each one of you|| |on the Sabbath| loose his ox or ass from the manger, and leading it away, give it drink?*

But ||this woman|| < being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound lo! eighteen' years> was there not a needs-bebthat she should be loosed from this bond on the day of rest!

17 And <as he was saying | these | things > all' who had been setting themselves against him were being put to shame; and |all' the multitude | were rejoicing over all' the glorious things which were being brought to pass by him.

§ 57. The Mustard Seed and the Leaven. Mt. xiii. 31-33; Mk. iv. 30-32.

18 He went on to say, therefore—

||Whereunto|| is the kingdom of God |like||? | And |whereunto|| shall I liken it?

It is |like| unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his own garden; and it grew and became a tree, and |the birds of heaven | lodged amongst its branches.

§ 59. Jesus fears not Herod: Laments over Jerusalem.

31 | In that very' hour | came near certain Pharisees, saying unto him—

Go forth, and be journeying hence, because |Herod| desireth to slay thee.

32 And he said unto them--

Go and tell this fox

Lo! I am casting out demons, and |cures| am I finishing, to-day, and to-morrow,— and |on the third| I am to be made perfect.

Nevertheless, I must needs | to-day, and to-morrow, and the following | be journeying on, because it is impossible that a prophet perish | outside Jerusalem |.

Jerusalem! Jerusalem! she that slayeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her! |How often| have I desired to gather together thy children, like as a hen, her own' brood under her wings,—and ye did not desire! <sup>35</sup> Lo! your house is left to you.<sup>4</sup>

§ 60. At a Pharisec's on Sabbath Jesus heals one of Dropsy. "Come higher!" The Great Supper.

14 And it came to pass < when he entered into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees, on a Sabbath, to eat bread> that ||they|| were narrowly watching him. <sup>2</sup> And lo! there was |a certain man| who had the dropsy before him. <sup>3</sup> And Jesus answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying—

6 And they could not return an answer unto these things.

And he went on to speak, unto the invited, a parable,—observing how | the first couches| they were choosing; saying unto them—

8 «Whensoever thou hast been invited by anyone unto a marriage feast» do not recline on the first couch; lest once |a more honourable than thou | have been invited by him, and he that invited both thee and him should come and say unto thee—

Give |unto this one | place!

and | then | thou shouldst begin, with shame, | the last place | to occupy.

But <whensoever thou hast been invited> pass on and fall back into the last place, that |whensoever he that hath invited thee
shall come | he may say unto thee—

Friend! come close up | higher|.

[Then | shalt thou have honour before all' who are reclining together with thee.

Because | everyone' who exalteth himself | shall be abased;

And |he that abaseth himself| shall be exalted.c

12 Moreover he went on to say | unto him also who had invited him |—

< Whensoever thou mayest be making a dinner or a supper> do not call thy friends, or thy brothers, or thy kinsfolk, or rich neighbours,—lest once ||they also| invite thee in return, and it become a recompense unto thee.

But <whensoever |an entertainment| thou mayest be making > invite the destitute, the tried, the lame, the blind; <sup>14</sup> and |happy| shalt thou be, that they have not wherewith to recompense thee, for it shall be recompensed unto thee |in the resurrection of the righteous|.

15 And one of those reclining together hearing these things said unto him—

|Happy| whoever shall eat bread in the kingdom of God!

16 But |he| said unto him-

|A certain man | was making a great supper, and invited many 4; 17 and he sent out his servant, at the hour of the supper, to say unto the invited—

Be coming! because ||even now| is it |ready|.

And they all began one after another to excuse themselves.

|The first | said unto him-

|A field | have I bought and have need to go out and see it:

I request thee hold me excused.

And |another| said—

|A wife| have I married, and |for this cause| I cannot come!

21 And, going near, the servant reported unto his lord these things. ||Then|| |provoked to anger| the master of the house said unto his servant—

Go out quickly into the broadways and streets of the city,—and |the destitute| and tried, and blind and lame | bring thou in here.

22 And the servant said—

Lord! what thou didst order, hath been done; and ||yet|| there is |room|.

23 And the lord said unto the servant—

Go out among the highways and fences, and compel them to come in; that my house may be filled.

For I say unto you-

|Not one of those men who had been invited| shall taste of my supper.

§ 61. The Costs of Discipleship.

25 And there were journeying together with him many multitudes; and |turning| he said unto them—

<If anyone cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, further' also, even his own life> he cannot be my disciple.

Whoever beareth not his own cross and cometh after me> cannot be my disciple.

For |who from among you wishing to build a tower' | doth not first' sit down and count the cost,—whether he hath sufficient for completion; 29 lest once <he having laid a foundation, and not being able to finish> |all' who are looking on | should begin to mock at him', 30 saying—

|This' man| began to build, and was not able to finish!

21 Or |what king| <moving on to encounter |another' king| in battle> will not sit down first and take counsel, whether he is able' |with ten' thousand| to meet him who |with twenty' thousand| is coming against him. 22 And |if not, by any means| <whith the is yet' afar off> he sendeth |an embassy|, and requesteth the conditions of peace.

|Good| therefore is the salt; but <if |even the salt| become tasteless> wherewith shall it be seasoned? | ||Neither for land nor for manure|| is it |fit|: |outside| they cast it!

|He that hath ears to hear | let him hear.

§ 62. The Lost Sheep, Lost Silver, and Lost Son.

15 But all' the tax-collectors and the sinners were |unto him| drawing near, to be hearkening unto him; <sup>2</sup> and both the Pharisees and the Scribes were murmuring, saying—

||This man|| |unto sinners|| giveth welcome, and eateth with them.

||What man from among you|| < having a hundred' sheep.* and losing, from among them. |one|> doth not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go his way after the lost one, until he find it? * And |finding it | he layeth it upon his shoulders, |rejoicing|; * and |coming unto his house| calleth together the friends and the neighbours, saying unto them—

Rejoice-with me! because I have found my sheep that was lost!

7 I say unto you—

|Thus | ||joy in heaven || will there be over one' sinner repenting, rather than over ninety-nine' righteous persons, who indeed have |no need | of repentance.

Or ||what woman|| < having |ten pieces of silver|b if she lose one piece> doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek carefully, until she find it? Dand |having found it| she calloth together her female friends and neighbours, saying—

Rejoice with me! because I have found the piece of silver which I had lost.

10 | Thus | I say unto you there ariseth joy in presence of the messengers of God, over one' sinner repenting.

11 And he said-

||A certain man|| had two' sons. 12 And the younger of them said unto the father—

Father! give me the share that falleth' to me |of what there is|.

And |he| divided unto them the living.º
And |after not many' days| the younger' son gathering all together left home for a country far away, and |there| squandered his substance with riotous living. 14 And |when he had spent all| there arose a mighty famine throughout that country,—and ||he|| began to be in want. 15 And he went his way, and joined himself unto one of the citizens of that country, and he sent him into his fields to be feeding swine.

And he used to long to be filled with the pods which the swine were eating; and |no man | was giving unto him.

But coming ||to himself|| he said—

How many hired servants of my father, have bread enough and to spare,

Whereas ||I|| |with famine, here| am perishing!

I will arise and go unto my father, and will say unto him—

• Mt. v. 18; Mk. ix. 50.

Father! I have sinned against heaven and before thee:

| No longer | am I worthy to be called a son of thine,—

Make me as one of thy hired servants. And he arose and came unto his own father.

Now < while yet' he was holding afar' off > his

Now <while yet' he was holding afar' off> his father saw him, and was moved with compassion and |running| fell upon his neck, and tenderly kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him—

Father! I have sinned against heaven, and before thee:

|No longer| am I worthy to be called a son of thine,—

[Make me as one of thy hired servants.]

But the father said unto his servants—

Quick! bring forth a robe—the best! and put on him,

And get out a ring for his hand, and sandals for his feet,—

And be bringing the fatted calf, sacrifice!
and let us eat and make merry:

Because || this' my son ||

Was |dead| and hath come to life again,

Was lost and is found.

And they began to be making merry.

But his elder son was in a field; and <as, in coming, he drew near unto the house > he heard music and dancing,—26 and, calling near one of the youths, he inquired what these things |could be|. 27 And |he| said unto him—

Thy brother | hath come,

And thy father hath sacrificed the fatted calf, because |safe and sound| hath he received him back.

Lo! ||so many years as these|| do I serve thee.

And ||at no time|| |a commandment of thine| have I transgressed,—

And ||unto me_at no time|| hast thou given a kid, that |with my friends| I might make merry;

But < when | this thy son, who had devoured thy living with harlots | came > thou didst sacrifice | for him | || the fatted' calf ||.

31 But |he| said unto him-

Child! ||thou|| |always| art | with me|,

And ||all that is mine|| is |thine|*;

32 But |to make merry and rejoice| there was need,

Because ||this thy brother||-

Was |dead| and hath come to life again,

And was lost, and is found.

§ 63. The Prudent Steward.

16 And he went on to say | unto his disciples also |--

There was a certain rich man, who had a steward, and | the same | was accused to him as squandering his goods. 2 And accessing him, he said unto him—

What is this I hear of thee!

Render the account of thy stewardship, for thou canst no longer be steward.

3 And the steward said within himself—

What shall I do, because my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? |Dig| I cannot: |to beg| I am ashamed.

I know what I will do, that <when I am removed out of the stewardship> they may welcome me into their own houses.

And <calling unto him each one of the debtors of his own lord > he was saying unto the first—

How much owest thou my lord?

And |he| said-

A hundred baths of oil.

And |he| said unto him-

Kindly take thine accounts, and sitting down, make haste and write—Fifty!

| After that unto another | he said— And how much owest ||thou"!

And |he| said-

A hundred homers of wheat.

He saith unto him-

Kindly take thine accounts, and write-Eighty!

And the lord praised the unrighteous steward, in that with forethought he acted:

Because || the sons of this age! have more fore thought than the sons of light |respecting their own generation |.

|| For yourselves || make ye friends, with the unjust Riches, a in order that | as soon as it shall fail | they may welcome you into the age-abiding tents.

And |he that in least' is unrighteous in much also || is || unrighteous|.

<If therefore |in the unjust Riches| Proved unfaithful>

||The true|| who |unto you| will entrust? |And <if |in what was another's| ye proved | unfaithful>

||Your own || who will give unto you!

|No' domestic| can |unto two' masters, be in service;

For either | the one | he will hate and | the other | love,

Or |unto the one | he will hold, and |the other | despise:

Ye cannot ||unto God|| be in service, and unto Riches.

§ 64. The Lofty brought low: The Rich Man and Lazarus.

14 Now the Pharisees, who were |lovers of money| were hearing all these things, and were openly sneering at him.
15 And he said unto them—

||Ye|| are they who justify themselves before

But ||God|| knoweth your hearts;

Because | that which amongst men' is lofty | Is an abomination before God.

16 |The law and the prophets| were until

||From that time|| |the good news of the kingdom of God| is being proclaimed,

And ||everyone|| |thereinto| is forcing his way.

But it is |easier| for heaven and earth to pass away,

Than that ||of the law|| |one little point| should fail.

18 | Every' one divorcing his wife and marrying another | committeth adultery;

And |he that marrieth a woman divorced' from a husband' | committeth adultery.b

Now | a certain man | was rich, and he used to clothe himself with purple and fine linen, making merry day by day | brilliantly |.

20 And |a certain beggar by name Lazarus| used to be cast near his gate, full of sores, and to long to be fed from the crumbs that fell from the table of the rich man: nay!
even |the dogs| used to come and lick his sores.

22 And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried away by the messengers, into the bosom of Abraham. And |the rich man also| died, and was buried.

23 And <|iin hades| lifting up his eyes, being in torments> he seeth
Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And ||he|| calling out said—

Father Abraham! have mercy upon me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue,—because I am in anguish in this flame.

But Abraham said—

Child! remember-

That thou didst duly receive 4 thy good things in thy life,

And |Lazarus in like manner | the evil things;

But |now here | he is comforted, And |thou | art in anguish.

And <besides all' these things>

||Betwixt us and you|| [a great chasm| hath been fixed,—

So that | they who might wish to cross over from hence unto you | should not be able,

§ 65. Care, Fidelity, Forgiveness, Faith and Humility enjoined.

17 And he said unto his disciples:—

It is |impossible| that occasions of stumbling should not come,

Notwithstanding, alas! for him through whom they do come a:

It profiteth him if |a mill-stone| is hung about his neck and he is cast into the sea;
Than that he cause ||one|| |of these little ones| to stumble.

Be taking heed to yourselves,—

<If thy brother sin> rebuke him,
And <if he repent> forgive him;

Even if |seven times a day | he sin against thee and |seven times| turn to thee, saying I repent> thou shalt forgive him.

<sup>5</sup> And the apostles said unto the Lord— Bestow on us faith!

6 And the Lord said-

<If ye have faith like a grain of mustardseed>

Ye should be saying unto [this] mulberry-

Be uprooted! and be planted in the sea,—And it should obey you.

But ||who from among you|| having |a servant| plowing or keeping sheep, |when he hath come in out of the field| will say to him—

|Straightway| come, and recline; on the contrary, will not say to him—

Make somewhat ready that I may dine, and |girding thyself| be ministering unto me until I have eaten and drunk; and |after these thinge| ||thou|| shalt eat and drink?

19 And ||this|| is the witness of John, when the Jews sent forth unto him, out of Jerusalem, priests and Levites,—that they might question him-

Who art ||thou||?

20 and he confessed and did not deny,—and he confessed-

||I|| am not | the Christ |;

21 and they questioned him-

What then? Art ||thou||c Elijah? and he saith-

I am not;

||The prophet|| art |thou|?

and he answered-

No!

23 So they said unto him-

that |an answer| we |Who| art thou? may give unto them who sent us,-

What sayest thou |concerning thyself|?

23 He said-

||I|| am a Voice of one crying aloud ;-|In the desert | make ye straight, the way of the Lord :d according as said Isaiah the prophet.

24 And they had been sent forth from among the Pharisees; 25 and they questioned him, and said unto him-

Why then dost thou immerse,- if ||thou|| art not | the Christ | nor | Elijah |, nor | the Prophet !?

26 John answered them saying-

||I|| immerse | in water |. |In the midst of you | standeth one, whom ||ye|| know not;-

|after me| coming :-Of whom ||I|| am not worthy that I should unloose the thong of the sandal.

<They who |the good things| have done>

But < they who the corrupt things | have practised>

Unto a resurrection | of judgment |.

|I|| cannot be doing of myself |a single thing |,-

|Just as I hear | I judge;

And ||my' judging|| is | just|,-

Because I seek not my own' will,

But the will of him that sent me.

<If ||I|| bear witness | concerning myself |> |My witness| is not |true|.

||Another|| it is who beareth witness concerning me,-

> And I know that | true | is the witness which he witnesseth concerning me.

||Ye|| have sent forth unto John,—

And he hath borne witness to the truth:-

|| I || however || not from man || my witness receive:

But | these things | I say, that | ye | may be saved:-

|| He|| was the burning and shining lamp,

And ||ye|| were willing to exult, for an hour, in his light.

But ||I|| have as my witness something greater than John's;

For <the works which the Father hath given me that I should complete them, the works themselves' which I am doing> bear witness concerning me

That |the Father| hath sent me.

37 And so | the Father who sent me | || he || hath borne witness concerning me.

Neither ||a sound of him || |at any time | have ye heard.

And ||those [Scriptures]|| are they which bear witness concerning me:

And yet ye choose not to come unto me that |life| ye may have.

<Glory from men > am I not receiving :-

42 But I have taken knowledge of you a That ||the love of God|| ye have not |in vourselves | :--

||I|| have come in the name of my Father,-And ye are not receiving me:

§ 11. Five Thousand Fed. Mt. xiv. 13-21; Mk. vi. 32-44; Lu. ix. 10-17.

6 ||After these things|| Jesus went away across the sea of Galilee, that is, of Tiberias; <sup>2</sup> and there was following him a great multitude, because they had been viewing the signs which he did upon such as were sick. <sup>3</sup> But Jesus had gone up into the mountain, and |there| was sitting with his disciples. <sup>4</sup> Now the passover was near, the feast of the Jesus. <sup>5</sup> So then Jesus, < lifting up his eyes, and beholding that a great' multitude was coming unto him > saith unto Philip—

Whence are we to buy loaves, that these may eat?

<sup>6</sup> But |this| he was saying to test him; for |he himself| knew, what he was about to do.

"Two hundred denaries worth of loaves are not sufficient for them, that ||each one || may take |a little|.

One from among his disciples, Andrew the brother of Simon Peter, saith unto him—

There is a little lad here, that hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes,—

But ||these||—what are they |for such numbers|?

10 Jesus said-

Make the people recline.

Now there was much grass in the place. So the men reclined, to the number of about five thousand.

11 Jesus therefore took the loaves, and |giving thanks| went on distributing unto them that reclined; |in like manner| of the small fishes also: as much as they were wishing.

12 And |when they were well-filled| he saith unto his disciples—

Gather up the broken pieces left' over', that nothing be lost.

13 So they gathered them up, and filled twelve' baskets, with broken pieces out of the five' barley loaves,—which were left over by them who had eaten.

14 ||The people|| therefore, |seeing what signs he wrought| began to say—

||This|| is, of a truth, the prophet who was to come into the world.

§ 12. Jesus walks on the Lake. Mt. xiv. 22-36; Mk. vi. 45-56.

15 || Jesus || therefore < getting to know hat they were about to come, and seize him, that they might make him king b> retired again into the mountain ||himself alone||. MBut ||when evening came | his disciples went down unto the sea; 17 and |entering into a beat | were going across the sea unto Capernaum. And |dark already | had it become, and |not yet | had Jesus reached them; 15 moreover the sea < by reason of a great wind that blew> was rising high. 19 < Having therefore rowed about twenty-five or thirty furlongs> they observe Jesus walking upon the sea, and |near the boat | coming; and they were affrighted.

But |he| saith unto them—
It is ||I||: be not affrighted!

21 They were willing, therefore, to receive him into the boat; and |straightway| the boat was at land, whither they had been slowly going.

§ 13. Discourse in the Synagogue at Capernaun.

22 ||On the morrow|| | the multitude that was standing on the other side of the sea | saw that there was not |another small-boat| there, save one,—and that Jesus entered not |along with his disciples | into the boat, but that |alone| his disciples departed:—22 howbeit there came boats out of Tiberias, near the place where they did eat the bread, after the Lord had given thanks:—

When therefore the multitude saw that |Jesus| was not there, nor yet his disciples> |they themselves| got into the small boats, and came unto Capernaum, seeking Jesus; sand <finding him on the other side of the sea> they said unto him—

Rabbi! | when | camest thou | hither |!

26 Jesus answered them, and said—

||Verily verily|| I say unto you:

Ye seek me

Not because ye saw signs,

But because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled.

27 Be working

Not for the food that perisheth,

But for the food that endureth unto life ageabiding,—

Which | the Son of Man | unto you will give;

For upon | the same | hath the Father | ||even God || set his seal.

28 They said therefore unto him-

What are we to do, that we may be working the works of God?

<sup>29</sup> Jesus answered, and said unto them—

||This|| is the work of God:

That ye believe on him whom |he| hath sent forth.

<sup>20</sup> They said therefore unto him—

What then art ||thou|| doing | by way of sign|.
That we may see and believe in thee:
What art thou working?

"Our fathers" did eat |the manna| in the desert,-

"Not Moses || gave you the bread out of

But | my Father || giveth you the real' bread out of heaven.

For | the bread of God | is

That which is coming down out of heaven. And giving |life| unto the world.

34 They said therefore unto him-

Sir! |evermore | give us this bread.

35 Jesus said unto them-

||I|| am the bread of life:

He that cometh unto me in nowise shall

And |he that believeth on me | in nowise shall thirst |any more |.

But I told you-

Ye have even seen [me],

And yet do not believe.

< All that which the Father is giving me> Unto me | will have come,

And |him that cometh unto me| In nowise will I cast out,-b

Because I have come down from heaven,-Not that I should be doing my own' will, But the will of him that sent me.

And |this| is the will of him that sent me That <of all' that which he hath given me> I should lose nothing. But should raise it up at the last' day.

For |this | is the will of my Father.

That <every' one that vieweth the Son and believeth on him>

Should have life age-abiding,

And ||I|| should oraise him up, at the last'

41 The Jews, therefore, began to murmur concerning him, because he said-

||I|| am the bread that came down out of heaven;

🕊 and were saying—

Is not ||this|| Jesus, the son of Joseph,-Of whom ||we|| know the father and the mother!

How is it then that he |now | saith: Out of heaven have I come down?

Jesus answered, and said unto them—

Be not murmuring, one with another:

|| No one || can' come unto me, except | the · Father who sent me | draw him,

And ||I|| will raise him up, in the last' day.

It is written in the prophets,-

And they shall be all the instructed of God: d < Every' one who hath heard of the Father and learned>

<If one eat of this' bread>

He shall live unto times age-abiding;

||Verily || Verily || I say unto you-

< Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man

And drink his blood>

Ye have not life within yourselves.

For ||my flesh|| is ||true|| food,

And ||my blood|| is ||true|| drink:

<Just as the living Father sent me,-And I live by reason of the Father> |He also that feedeth upon me|

But there are some from among you, who do not believe.

For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that did not believe, and who it was would deliver him up;—55 and he went on to say—

|For this cause | have I said unto you:

|No one | can' come unto me, except it have been given him |of the Father |.

66 || Because of this || | many from among his disciples | went away back, and |no longer with him | were walking. 67 Jesus, therefore, said unto the twelve—

Are ||ye also|| wishing to withdraw?

Lord! |unto whom | shall we go?

| Declarations of life age-abiding | thou hast;

And ||we|| have believed, and come to know,—
That ||thou|| art the Holy One of God.

§ 14. The Feast of Tents, Jerusalem.

7 And ||after these things|| Jesus was walking in Galilee; for he was not wishing |in Judæa| to be walking, because the Jews were seeking to slay him. <sup>2</sup> But the feast of the Jews was near, that of the pitching of tents. <sup>3</sup> His brethren therefore said unto him—

Remove hence and withdraw into Judæa, that |thy disciples also | may view thy a works which thou art doing.

- For ||no one|| |anything in secret | doeth, and yet is seeking |himself | to be well-known.b | <If |these things | thou art doing > manifest thyself unto the world.
- For |not even his brethren| were believing on him.

  Guess, therefore, saith unto them—

||My' season|| |not yet| is here;

But ||your' season|| |at any time| is ready:

7 The world cannot' hate you';

But |me| it hateth,

Because ||I|| bear witness concerning it.

That ||the works thereof|| are |wicked|.

||Ye|| go up unto the feast: ||I|| |not yet| am coming up unto this feast, |Because ||my' season|| |not yet| hath fully come.

9 And <|these things| having said unto them>
he was still abiding in Galilee.

10 But <when his brethren had gone up unto the feast>
|then| ||he also|| went up,—not openly, but as it

11 |The Jews| therefore,

among the multitudes: |some, indeed were saying-

|Good| is he!

[but] ||others|| were saying-

Not so! but he is leading the multitude stray.

13 || No one || nevertheless, was speaking | openly about him, because of their fear of the Jews.

14 ||Presently|| however, < the feast being at its height> Jesus went up unto the temple and was teaching.

15 The Jews, therefore began to marvel, saying—

| How | doth this one know | letters |, not having learned?

16 Jesus, therefore, answered them, and said— ||My' teaching|| is not mine', but his who sent me.

17 < If any one intend | his will | to do> He shall get to know concerning the teaching— Whether it is | of God |

Or ||I|| | from myself | am speaking.

<He that |from himself| doth speak>
|His own glory| is seeking:

<He that seeketh the glory of him that sent him>

||The same|| is |true|,

And ||injustice|| |in him| is there none.

Did not || Moses || give you the law?

And yet ||not one of you|| doeth the law!--|Why| seek ye | to slay | me?

20 The multitude answered—

|A demon| thou hast ::

| Who | is seeking | to slay | thee !

21 Jesus answered and said unto them-

Not that |of Moses| it is, but of the fathers:—

And on Sabbath ye circumcise a man.

Sabbath | ye circumcise a man.
 Sabbath |

That the law of Moses may not be broken'> | With me | are ye bitter as gall,

Because ||a whole' man;| I made | well on Sabbath?

Be not judging according to appearance.
But |just' judgment| be judging.

25 So then, some of them of Jerusalem were saying— Is not |this| he whom they are seeking to kill?

26 And yet see! | with freedom of speech| he is talking.

And ||nothing|| |unto him|| do they say:Have the rulers perhaps come to know of a truth|

That |this| is ||the Christ?

But ||as for this one|| we know whence he is; <The Christ however whensever he shall come> |no one| getteth to know whence he is.

 Chap. viii. 12; xii. 35, 36.

Withdraw! wash' in the pool of Siloam,—which is to be translated Sent. He went away, therefore, and washed, and came seeing!.

8 < The neighbours, therefore, and they who used to observe him aforetime—that he was |a beggar|> were saying—

Is not |this | he that used to sit and beg?

9 | Others | were saying-

Tis | the same |.

|Others| were saying-

Nay! but he is | like him |.

|| He|| was saying-

||I|| am he.

10 So they were saying unto him-

How [then] were thine eyes opened?

11 || He|| answered-

The man that is called Jesus made |clay|
and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me:
Withdraw unto the pool of Siloam, and «Going away therefore and washing» I received sight.

12 And they said unto him— Where is ||he|?

He saith— I know not.

They bring him unto the Pharisees—|him at one time blind|

14 Now it was Sabbath, on the day when Jesus made ||the clay||, and opened his eyes.

15 |Again| therefore, the Pharisees also questioned him, as to how he received sight.

And |he| said unto them—

||Clay|| laid he upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Certain' from among the Pharisees, therefore, were saying—

This' man is not | from God|, because | the Sabbath|| he keepeth not.

|Others| [however] were saying-

How can a sinful man | such signs as these' i be doing?

And there was |a division| among them.

So they were saying unto the blind man again—

What dost ||thou|| say concerning him, in that he opened thine eyes?

And |he| said-

|A prophet| is he.

18 The Jews, therefore, did not believe, concerning him, that he was blind, and received sight,—until they called the parents of him that had received sight, <sup>19</sup> and questioned them, saying—

Is |this| your son, of whom ||ye|| say that |blind| he was |born|?

How then seeth he |even now | ?*

<sup>20</sup> His parents, therefore, answered, and said—

We know that |this| is our son, and that |blind| he was born;

But ||how he now seeth|| we know not,

Or | who opened his eyes | || we || know not,— Question | him |, he is | of age |,

||He|| |concerning himself| shall speak.

22 |These things| said his parents, because they were in fear of the Jews,—for |already| had the Jews agreed together, that <if anyone should

So they called the man a second time-[him] who had been blind, and said unto him-Give glory unto God! || We || know that | this' man | is |a sinner |. "He | therefore answered-Whether he is a sinner | I know not: One thing I know,—That < whereas I was |blind|> |now| I see! 26 They said, therefore, unto him-What did he unto thee? How opened he thine eyes? 27 He answered them -I told you just now, and ye did not hear: Why |again| do ye wish to hear? Are ||ye also|| wishing to become |his disciples !? 28 And they reviled him, and said-||Thou|| art | the disciple | of that man a; But ||we|| are ||Moses'|| disciples:— ||We|| know that ||unto Moses|| hath God spoken; But ||as for this man|| we know not whence he The man answered and said unto them-Why! |herein| is |the marvel|: That ||ye|| know not whence he is, ||And yet he opened mine eyes||. We know that ||God|| |unto sinners| doth not hearken: But <if one be |a worshipper of God| and be doing |his will|> |Unto this one | he hearkeneth. ||Out of age-past time|| hath it never been heard that anyone opened the eyes of one who |blind| had been born. <If this man were not' from God> he could have done nothing.

34 They answered and said unto him-In sins | wast ||thou|| born |altogether|; And art ||thou|| teaching |us|?

And they cast him out.b heard that they had cast him out: and |finding him | said-

Dost ||thou|| believe on the Son of Man?

■ He answered [and said]—

And |who| is he Sir, that I may believe on him?

37 Jesus said unto him-

Thou hast both seen him and |he that is speaking with thee | is ||he||.

38 And |he| said-

I believe Sir!c

40 They of the Pharisees who were with him |heard| these things, and said unto him-Are ||we also|| |blind|?

But < | now | ye say We see > | your sin | ||abideth||.*

10 ||Verily verily|| I say unto you:-<He that entereth not | through the door into the fold of the sheep But goeth up from another place>

||That man || is |a thief | and |a robber'.

§ 17. The Feast of Dedication—Conflict renewed.

22 The feast of dedication took place at that time, in Jerusalem: it was |winter|, 22 and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the porch of Solomon.

The Jews, therefore, surrounded him, and were saying unto him-

|How long| holdest thou |our lives| in suspense?

<If || thou || art the Christ> tell us || plainly |.
Jesus answered them—

I told you, and ye believe not:

<The works which ||I|| am doing in the name of my Father>

||The same|| bear witness concerning me.

28 But ||ye|| believe not, because ye are not of my' sheep.

27 ||My' sheep|| |unto my voice| hearken,— And ||I|| know |them|

And they follow me,-

And ||I|| give unto them life age-abiding,h
And in nowise shall they perish, unto times age-abiding h;

And no one shall carry them off out of my hand.

31 The Jews again lifted up stones, a that they might stone him. 22 Jesus answered them—

||Many' works|| have I showed you ||noble ones from my Father|:

For which of those works are ye stoning me?

33 The Jews answered him-

||Concerning a noble' work|| are we not stoning thee;

But concerning profane speech,-

And because ||thou|| being |a man|, art making thyself |God|.

34 Jesus answered them-

Is it not written in your law b:

|| I || said Ye are | gods |

35 <If | those | he called gods unto whom | the word of God | came—

And the Scripture cannot be broken->

Of him whom | the Father| hallowed and sent forth into the world> are ||ye|| saying—Thou speakest profanely,

But <if I am doing them>

They were [therefore] again seeking to take him; and he went forth out of their hand.

§ 18. The Raising of Lazarus.

11 Now a certain man was sick, Lazarus of Bethany of the village of Mary and Martha her sister. <sup>2</sup> And Mary was she who anointed the Lord with perfume <sup>4</sup> and wiped his feet with her hair,—whose brother Lazarus was sick.

The sisters therefore sent out unto him saying—

Lord, see! |he whom thou tenderly lovest| is sick.

4 But Jesus hearing said-

||This' sickness|| is not unto death,

But for the glory of God,-

That the Son of God may be glorified thereby.

Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus. 6 < When therefore he heard that he was sick> ||then|| indeed he abode in the place where he was two days. 7 ||Then after this|| he saith unto the disciples—

Let us be leading on into Judea |again|.

8 The disciples say unto him-

Rabbi! | just now | were the Jews seeking to stone thee,—

And |again| goest thou thither?

9 Jesus answered-

Are there not ||twelve' hours|| in the day?

<If one walk in the day> he doth.not stumble.

Because | the light of this world | he seeth;

But <if one walk in the night> he stumbleth,

Because | the light | is not in him.

11 | These things | he said, and | after this | he saith unto them—

|Lazarus our dear friend | hath fallen asleep; But I am going that I may awake him. 12 The disciples therefore said unto him--

Lord! | if he have fallen asleep| he will

<sup>13</sup> But Jesus had spoken concerning his death; whereas ||they|| supposed that |concerning the taking of rest in sleep| he had been speaking.

14 Jesus therefore | then | said unto them | plainly |—

|Lazarus| died; <sup>15</sup> and I rejoice for your sake,—that ye may believe,—that I was not there;

But let us be going unto him.

16 Thomas therefore the one called Didymus said unto his fellow-disciples—

Let |us also | be going, that we may die with him.

17 Jesus, therefore, coming, found that |four' days already'| had he been in the tomb. 18 Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off; 19 and ||many from among the Jews|| had come unto Martha and Mary, that they might console them concerning their brother. 20 ||Martha|| therefore, |when she heard that Jesus' was coming | went to meet him; but ||Mary|| |in the house| remained sitting. 21 Martha therefore, said unto Jesus—Lord! |if thou hadst been here || my brother had not died.

23 And |now| I know, that ||whatsoever thou shalt ask of God|| |God|| will give unto thee.

23 Jesus saith unto her-

Thy brother shall rise.

24 Martha saith unto him-

I know that he shall rise in the resurrection in the last' day.

23 Jesus said unto her-

||I|| am the resurrection | and the life |:

<He that believeth on me>

|Even though he die | shall live again!

And <no' one who liveth again b and believeth on me>

Chap. x. 31.
Cp. Lu. xv. 32; Ro. xiv. 9; Rev. i. 18; ii. 8; xx. 4. "Shall live again" (ver. 25), because Jesus

Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him-

Yea, Lord! ||I|| have believed,

That || thou || art the Christ, the Son of God,— || He who | into the world | should come...

28 And this saying she went away and called Mary her sister, |secretly| saying -

|The teacher| is present, and calleth thee.

<sup>29</sup> And ||she|| |when she heard! was roused up quickly, and was coming b unto him. <sup>28</sup> Not yet | however, had Jesus come into the village, but was still in the place where |Martha met him. <sup>21</sup> ||The Jews, therefore, who were with her in the house and consoling her! < seeing Mary, that quickly' she arose and wentout followed her, supposing that she was withdrawing unto the tomb, that she might weep there. <sup>28</sup> ||Mary|| therefore, < when she came where Jesus was > |seeing him| fell at his feet saying unto him—

Lord! | if thou hadst been here! my brother had not died.

33 || Jesus || therefore | < when he saw her weeping 4 and the Jews who came with her weeping 4 was indignant in the spirit and troubled himself, 34 and said—

Where have ye laid him?

They say unto him-

Lord! come and see.

25 Jesus wept. 26 The Jews, therefore, were saying—

See! how tenderly he loved him!

37 But | some from among them | said-

Could not this man, who opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that |this one also should not have died?

38 || Jesus || therefore | < | again | being indiguant within himself > cometh unto the tomb. Now it was a cave, and |a stone | was lying thereon.
39 Jesus saith—

Take ye away the stone!

Martha, the sister of the deceased, saith unto him -

Lord! |by this time| he stinketh, for it is |four days|.

40 Jesus saith unto her-

Said I not unto thee That <if thou wouldst believe> thou shouldst see the glory of God?

So they took away the stone. And |Jesus lifted up his eyes on high, and said—

Father! I thank thee, thou didst hear me:

2 ||I|| indeed knew that ||always: ||unto me thou dost hearken;

But | for the sake of the multitude standing around | I spake,—

- ||Jesus|| therefore || no longer openly || was walking among the Jews, but departed thence into the country near the desert, unto a city called |Ephraim|; and |there| abode with his disciples. 55 Now the passover of the Jews was at hand, and many went up unto Jerusalem out of the country before the passover, that they might purify themselves. 56 They were therefore seeking Jesus, and were saying one to another |in the temple| standing-

How seemeth it unto you? that he will in nowise come unto the feast?

57 Now the High-priests and the Pharisees had given commands, that <if anyone came to know where he was> he should inform [them], so that they might seize him.

- 6 Howbeit he said this, < not that | for the destitute | he cared > but because | a thief | he was, and holding | the bag | used to carry away | what was cast therein |. 7 Jesus, therefore, said-

Let her alone, that |for the day of my burial| she may observe it;

- For ||the destitute|| |always| have ye with you, whereas ||me|| |not always| have ye.
- <sup>9</sup> The great multitude of the Jews therefore got to know that he was | there|, and came | not on account of Jesus only' but that ||Lazarus also, they might see, whom he had raised from among the dead. 10 But the High-priests took counsel ||that Lazarus also|| they might put to death :

§ 20. The Triumphal Entry. Mt. xxi. 1-11; Mk. xi. 1-10: Lu. xix. 29-38.

12 ||On the morrow|| | the great multitude that had come unto the feast | < hearing that Jesus was coming into Jerusalem> 13 took the branches of the palm trees and went out to meet him, and began crying aloud-

Hosanna!

Blessed is he that is coming in the name of the Lord, -

|| Even the King of Israel"!

- 14 And Jesus, finding a young ass, took his seat thereon, just as it is written-
- Do not fear, O daughter of Zion! Lo! |thy king | cometh,

Sitting upon the colt of an ass!b

- 16 || These things || his disciples noticed not at the first; but <when Jesus was glorified> ||then.| remembered they that ||these things|| had |for him | c been written, - and that | these things | they had done unto him. 17 The multitude therefore that was with him when he called |Lazarus| out of the tomb, and raised him from among the dead, was bearing witness. 18 | On this account | the multitude met him also, because they heard that he had done ||this' sign!'.
- 19 || The Pharisees || therefore said among them-

Ye observed that ye are profiting nothing: See! ||the world|| |after him| hath gone away.

29 [So] ithe multitude that was standing by, and heard it || were saying-

It hath | thundered |.

Others | were saying-

||A messenger|| |unto him| hath spoken.

Not for my sake || hath this voice come, but for your sake |.

Now is there a judging of this world,— Now | | the ruler of this world | shall be cast

A servant is not greater than his lord.4

<If |me| they persecuted> |you too| will they persecute,—

<If |my word| they kept> |your own also| will they keep.

But ||all these things|| will they do unto you on account of my name,

Pilate saith unto them-

||Ye|| take' him, and crucify; for ||I|| find not in him |s fault|.

7 The Jews answered him-

|| We || have |a law|, and || according to the law || he ought to die, because ||Son of God|| |himself | he made.

<sup>8</sup> < When, therefore, Pilate heard this' word> he was the more afraid; and entered into the judgment-hall again, and saith unto Jesus-

| Whence | art || thou ||? But |Jesus| gave him no |answer|. 10 Pilate therefore saith unto him-

|| Unto me || a dost thou not speak?

Knowest thou not that |authority| have I to release thee, and |authority| have I to crucify thee?

11 Jesus answered him-

Thou couldst have had no authority against me | at all |, if it had not been given unto thee from above.

||Therefore|| |he that delivered me unto thee| hath |greater sin |.

12 || For this cause || | Pilate | began seeking to release him; but ||the Jews|| cried aloud saying-

<If this' man thou release> thou art not a friend of Cæsar, for ||every one who maketh himself king' || speaketh against Cæsar.

13 || Pilate || therefore, < when he heard these words> led Jesus outside, and sat down upon a raised seat in a place called Pavement, but |in Hebrew Gabbatha. 14 Now it was the preparation of the passover,-it was about the sixth hour. And he saith unto the Jews-See! your King!

15 ||They|| therefore cried aloud-

Crucify him! Away! away!

Pilate saith unto them-

|| Your king || shall I crucify? The High-priests answered-

We have no king but Cæsar!

13 ||Then|| therefore, he delivered him up unto them, that he might be crucified.

§ 26. The Crucifizion. Mt. xxvii. 32 ff.; Mk. xv. 21 ff.; Lu. xxiii. 26 ff.

They took possession therefore of Jesus. 17 And

dearing for himself' the cross> he went forth unto the so-called Skull-place, which is named in Hebrew Golgotha; 18 where |him| they crucified; and | with him | other two on this side and on that, and |in the midst| ||Jesus||. 19 And Pilate wrote a title also, and placed on the cross; and there was written-

JESUS, THE NAZARENE, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 || This' title || therefore, read many of the Jews, because | near | was the place to the city where Jesus was crucified; and it was written in Hebrew in Latin, in Greek. High-priests of the Jews, therefore, were saying unto Pilate-

Emphasis of official dignity.

Do not be writing The King of the Jews: but that ||he|| said King of the Jews I am.

22 Pilate answered-

|| What I have written || I have written!

23 ||The soldiers|| therefore when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments and made four parts, |unto each' soldier| a part; also the Howbeit the tunic was without seam from above | woven throughout. 24 They said therefore one to another-

Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be ;-- that |the Scripture| might be fulfilled-They parted my garments amongst them, And |for my vestment | they cast lots :- b

|| yea verily || | the soldiers | these' things did. And there were standing by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary the Magdalene. <sup>26</sup> ||Jesus|| therefore, < seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved> saith unto his mother-

O woman, see! thy son! 27 | Afterwards | he saith unto the disciple-

See! thy mother! And ||from that' hour|| the disciple took her unto his own home.

||After this|| Jesus < knowing that 'already. all things | have been finished, -that the Scripture might be fulfilled > saith-

I thirst c!

29 || A vessel || was standing full | of vinegar'. < A sponge therefore full of the rinepar, put about |hyssop|> brought they unto his mouth.4

30 < When therefore he had received the vinegar> Jesus said-

It is finished!

and bowing his head delivered up his spirit.

31 ||The Jews|| therefore < since it was |a preparation | that the bodies might not remain upon the cross during the Sabbath,-for that' Sabbath day * was |great| > requested Pilate that their legs might be broken, and they be taken away.

32 The soldiers, therefore, came; and of the first, indeed | brake the legs, and of the other who was crucified with him.—23 but coming |unto Jesus <when they saw that |already| he was dead> they brake not his legs; -24 but (one of the soldiers | | with a spear | pierced | his side |, and there came out straightway | blood and water.

And ||he that hath seen || hath borne witness; and |genuine| is his' testimony, and ||he|| knoweth that he saith | what is true; that ||ye also|| may believe. 36 For these things came to pass, that |the Scripture| might be fulfilled-

A bone thereof | shall not be crushed !; 37 and ||again|| a | different' Scripture | saith-They shall look unto a him whom they pierced.

He came, therefore, and took away his body. ** There came, moreover, Nicodemus also,—he that came unto him by night at the first,—bearing a roll* of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds' weight. ** So they received the body of Jesus, and bound it in linen-bandages with the spices,—just as it is |a custom| with the Jews to prepare for burial.
- Now there was, in the place where he was crucified, |a garden|; and |in the garden| an unused tomb, wherein |as yet| no one had been laid. *2 So ||there|| < by reason of the preparation of the Jews, because |near| was the tomb> laid they Jesus.

- 20 But ||on the first day of the week|| |Mary the Magdalene| cometh early, while it is yet ||dark||, unto the tomb,—and beholdeth the stone, already taken away out of the tomb. 2 She runneth, therefore, and cometh unto Simon Peter, and unto the other disciple whom Jesus dearly loved, and saith unto them—

They have taken away the Lord out of the tomb, and we know not where they have laid him.

<sup>3</sup> Peter, therefore, went out, and the other disciple,-and they were going unto the tomb; and the two were running together, and ||the other disciple || outran b Peter and came first unto the tomb; 5 and stooping aside beholdeth lying the linen-bandages, |nevertheless| he <sup>6</sup> So Simon Peter also cometh entered not. following him, and entered into the tomb, and vieweth the linen-bandages lying,-7 and the napkin, which was upon his head, not | with the linen-bandages | lying, but apart, folded up into 8 | Then | entered therefore the one' place. other' disciple also, who had come first unto the tomb, and he saw and believed. 9 For |not yet| knew they the Scripture, that he must needs from among the dead | ||arise||. 10 The disciples therefore departed again, by themselves.

§ 29. Manifestation at the Lake of Tiberias.

21 ||After these things|| Jesus manifested himself again unto the disciples, by the sea of Tiberias; and manifested himself | thus |:-

There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas, who was called Didymus, and Nathanael; who was from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and |two other| of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them-

I go a fishing!

They say unto him-

||We also || go with thee!

They went out, and got up into the boat, and during that' night | they caught nothing.

4 But <morning' by this' time drawing on> Jesus stood upon the beach; |nevertheless| the disciples knew not that it was |Jesus|.

5 Jesus, therefore, saith unto them-

Children! perhaps ye have nothing to eat? They answered him-

No.

6 And |he| said unto them-

Cast the net |on the right' side of the boat |, and ye shall find.

They cast therefore; and |no longer| were they able |to draw| it, for the multitude of the fishes. <sup>7</sup> That disciple therefore whom Jesus loved, saith unto Peter-

It is | the Lord | !

||Simon Peter|| therefore, |hearing that it was the Lord' | girded about him | his upper garment |, -for he was naked; and cast himself into the sea; 8 but ||the other disciples || came |by the little boat |, -for they were not farther from the land than about two hundred cubits off,-dragging the net of fishes. when they got out upon the land | they behold a coal's fire lying, and fish lying over, and bread. 10 Jesus saith unto them-

Bring of the fish which ye caught just now. <sup>11</sup> Simon Peter, therefore, went on board, and drew the net on to the land,—full of large fishes. a hundred and fifty-three; and |though they

" That is: "stripped." b Or: "charcoal." were so'many | the net was not rent. B Jess saith unto them-

Come! break your fast.

|| Not one || of the disciples was venturing to ask

Who art ||thou|: ?

12 Jesus knowing that it was |the Lord; cometh, and taketh the bread, and giveth unto them; and the fish | in like manner |.

||This already|| is the third time Jesus was manifested unto the disciples, after he was raised from among the dead.

§ 30. Peter restored to his Apostleship. Conclusion.

15 < When, therefore, they had broken their fast> Jesus saith unto Simon Peter-Simon son of John! lovest thou me more than these?

He saith unto him-

Yes Lord! | thou! knowest that I am fond of thee.

He saith unto him-

Be feeding my lambs.c

16 He saith unto him | again, the second time -Simon son of John! lovest thou me?

He saith unto him-

Yes, Lord! | thou | knowest that I am food of thee.

He saith unto him-

Be shepherding my sheep.4

17 He saith unto him | the third time |-

Simon, son of John! art thou fond of me?

Peter was grieved, that he said unto him the third time Art thou fond of me? and be said unto him-

Jesus saith unto him-

Be feeding my sheep.4

||Verily || Verily || I say unto thee-

<When thou wast younger> thou usedst to gird thyself, and to walk whither thou didst choose:

But < when thou shalt become aged > thou shalt stretch out thy hands, and |another shall gird thee, and bear thee | whither thou dost not choose!.

19 Now | this | he said signifying | by what manner of death| he should glorify God. | having said this' | he saith unto him-

10 And she fell instantly at his feet, and expired. And the young men |coming in | found her dead; and bearing her forth they buried 11 And there her with her husband. came great fear upon the whole' assembly, and upon all' them that heard these things.

§ 9. Further Triumphs.

18 And through the hands of the Apostles | were coming to pass many signs and wonders, among the people; and they were all with one accord in the portico of Solomon;-13 howbeit ||of the mut! | no one | durst join himself unto them,nevertheless the people continued to magnify thom; 14 and |the more| were being added when they believed in the Lord | throngs both of men and women;-15 so that |even into the luvad ways were they bringing forth the sick. and laying them on small couches and beds, in order that ||if Peter were coming along|| |even | with hance his shadow | might overshadow some can of them. 16 Moreover even the throng of the oltion all round Jerusalem was coming together, bearing sick folk, and such as were havassed by impure spirits,- | who | indeed, were being cured [one and all].

10. The Authorities, foiled, are advised by Gamaliel.

that the High-priest arising and all' who were with him, -being the sect of the Sadduwere filled with jealousy, 18 and thrust thoir hands upon the Apostles, and put them in 18 But |a messenger of the a public ward. Lord by night opened the doors of the recent and |leading them out | said-- be going year way, and taking your stand be speaking in the temple unto the people all' the declarations of this Life.

21 Now | when they heard this | they entered under the dawn into the temple, and began teaching.

And the High-priest and they who were with him [arriving] called together the high-council and all' the senate of the sons of Israel; and sent off unto the prison to have them brought

22 And | the officers who came to the place | found them not in the prison; and returning brought tidings, 23 saying-

The prison || found we locked with all' safety, and the keepers standing at the doors; but when we had opened the prison | |inside found we ino one l.

24 Now | when both the captain of the temple and the High-priests heard these words they were utterly at a loss concerning them-what perhaps this might come to. 25 But some one lentering | brought tidings unto them-

Lo! || the men whom ve put in the prison | are in the temple, standing and teaching the people!

26 ||Then|| the captain with the officers |departing brought them-not with violence, -for they were afraid of the people, lest they should be stoned;

27 but, leading them in set them in the highcouncil. And the High-priest questioned them, 28 saying-

|Strictly| did we charge you not to be teaching upon this name; and lo! ye have filled Jerusalem with your teaching, and are minded to bring down upon us' #the blood of this man !.

29 But Peter and the Apostles |answering| said-It is needful | to be yielding obedience | unto God' |rather than unto men |:-

||The God of our fathers|| hath raised up Jesus,—whom ||ye|| got into your hands, |suspending him upon a tree |:-

||Him as Princely-leader and Saviour | hath God exalted unto his right hand,—to give repentance unto Israel, and remission of sins.

And ||we|| are witnesses of these things,—also the Holy Spirit, which God hath given unto them who are yielding obedience unto him.

33 And | they when they heard | this, were out to the heart, and were making up their minds to slay them. 34 But a certain man, rising up in the high-council, by name Gamaliel, a lawteacher honoured by all' the people, gave orders to put the men ||outside for a little|| - and said unto them-

Men of Israel!

Be taking heed unto yourselves what ye are about to inflict |upon these men |.

For ||before these' days|| there rose up one Theudas affirming | himself | to be somebody, -unto whom was inclined a number of men about four hundred; who was slain, and all as many as had been trusting in him | were disbanded and came to nothing.

||After him|| rose up Judas the Galilean, in the days of the enrolling, and drew a people into revolt after him; and ||he|| perished, and |all as many as had trusted in him | were scattered.

- ||Now_therefore|| I say unto you—Stand aloof from these men, and let them alone; because <if | of men | be this project or this work> it will be overthrown, - ** but < if it is | of God > ye will not be able to overthrow them: lest once | even fighters against God | ye be found.
- 40 And they were persuaded by him; and |calling unto them the Apostles| they | with beating | charged them not to be speaking upon the name of Jesus; and let them go.
- |They|, therefore, went rejoicing from the presence of the high-council; in that they had been accounted worthy |in behalf of The Name| to suffer dishonour. 42 And <every' day in the temple, and at home > they ceased not to be teaching, and telling the good news as to the Anointed' Jesus.

§ 11. Murmuring among the Disciples: Scren chosen to minister.

- 6 But ||in these days|| < the disciples |multiplying > there arose a murmuring of the Grecian Jews against the Hebrews, in that | their widows | were being overlooked in the daily ministry.
- <sup>2</sup> And the Twelve calling near the throng of the disciples said-
  - It doth not seem ||right|| that |we| forsaking the word of God should be ministering unto tables.
- But look out for yourselves, brethren, seven men from among you, who can be wellattested, full of Spirit and wisdom,-whom we will appoint over this need:
- But ||we|| < unto prayer and unto the ministry of the word > will give constant attention.
- <sup>5</sup> And the word |was pleasing| in the sight of all' the throng; and they selected Stephen a man full of faith and Holy Spirit, and Philip and Prochorus and Nicanor and Timon and Parmenas and Nicholaus, a proselyte of Antioch; 6 whom they set before the Apostles, and |praying| they laid upon them their hands. 7 And ||the word of God || went on growing, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem continued to multiply |exceedingly|; ||a great' multitude of the priests also were becoming obedient unto the faith.

§ 12. Stephen stirs up Opposition.

8 Now ||Stephen|| | full of favour and power | began to do great wonders and signs among the people. 9 But there rose up certain of those out of the synagogue which is called [the synagogue] of them of Libertium and Cyrene and Alexandria, and certain of them from Cilicia and Asia,—disputing with Stephen; 10 and they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit with which he was speaking. 11 || Then || they set on men who were sayingWe have heard him speaking profane a things against Moses and God.

- 12 And they stirred up b the people and the elders and the scribes; and |coming upon him| they caught him away, and led him into the highcouncil. 13 And they set up false witnesses, who
  - || This man || ceaseth not speaking things against this choly place and the law; 14 for we have heard him saying-
    - ||This Jesus the Nazarene|| will overthrow this place, and will change the customs which | Moses | delivered unto us.
- 15 And || looking steadfastly at him || | all' they who were sitting in the high-council saw his face as if the face of a messenger.4

§ 13. Stephen's Defence and Martyrdom.

7 And the High-priest said—

Are these things |so|?

2 And |he| said-

Brethren and fathers, hearken!

|| The God of Glory||* appeared unto our father Abraham while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran,-3 and said unto him-

§ 14. New Persecution, headed by Saul of Tarsus.

8 And ||Saul|| was taking pleasure with them in his death. Moreover there arose in that' day a great persecution against the assembly which was in Jerusalem; [and] ||all|| were scattered abroad throughout the countries of Judæa and 2 Howheit Samaria, except the apostles. reverent men assisted at the burial of Stephen, and made great lamentation over him.

<sup>3</sup> But ||Saul|| went on to lay waste the assembly, |along the houses| going in, and |dragging off both men and women | was delivering them up into prison.

But ||a certain man named Simon|| was already in the city, practising magical arts, and astonishing the nation of Samaria, -saying that himself was someone great: 10 unto whom all were giving heed, from small even to great, saying-

||This|| is the Power of God, which is called Great.

Lord! I have heard from many, concerning this man,—|how many evil things, unto thy saints| he hath done, in Jerusalem;

And | here| he hath authority from the Highpriests, to bind all' them that call upon thy name.

§ 21. Peter's defence to Them of the Circumcision.

11 Now the Apostles and the brethren who were throughout Judges |heard| that ||the nations also || had welcomed the word of God. <sup>2</sup> And <when Peter came up unto Jerusalem> they of the circumcision |began to find fault with him|, <sup>3</sup> saying—

He went in unto men |uncircumcised|, and did eat with them.

- 7 Moreover I heard a voice also, saying unto Rise Peter! sacrifice and eat.

8 But I said-

|| By no means|| Lord, because ||a common or unclean thing|| hath |at no time| entered into my mouth.

 And a voice answered, a second time, out of heaven—

<What things ||God|| hath cleansed>* be not ||thou|| making common.

- And there went with me, these six' brethren also; and we entered into the house of the man, <sup>13</sup> and he related to us how he had seen the messenger in his house, standing, and saying—

Send away unto Joppa, and fetch Simon who is surnamed Peter; <sup>14</sup> who shall speak words unto thee whereby thou shalt be saved, ||thou|| and |all' thy house.

And ||as I began to be speaking|| the Holy Spirit fell upon them, |just as upon us also at the beginning|.

And I was put in mind of the word of the Lord, how he used to say—

|| John || indeed immersed | with water |; But || ye || shall be immersed in Holy Spirit.*

7 <If therefore | the like free-gift | God gave unto them, as even unto us, when we had believed upon the Lord Jesus Christ > who was ||I|| that I could withstand God?

| Hence | || || even unto the nations || God hath granted | repentance unto life |.

- § 22. The Dispersion (chap. viii. 1): the Faith spreads as far as Antioch in Syria, whither Barnabas is sent, Saul is brought, and Agabus comes with tidings of a Famine.
- <sup>19</sup> ||They therefore who had been scattered abroad by reason of the tribulation that took place on account of Stephen|| passed through as far as Phoenice and Cyprus and Antioch, |unto no one|

And so it was with them, that |for a whole year| they were brought together in the assembly, and taught a considerable multitude; also that the disciples first in Antioch | were called || Christians ||

§ 23. Herod slays James, and imprisons Peter. Peter delivered: Herod smitten.

12 Now |in the course of that' season | Herod the king thrust forth his hands to harm some of them of the assembly,—2 and slew James the brother of John with a sword; 3 and < seeing that it was |acceptable| unto the Jews> he went on to apprehend Peter also (now they were the days of unleavened bread),-4 | whom also having seized | he put into prison, delivering him up unto four quaternions of soldiers to be guarding him, -intending |after the passover| to bring him up unto the people. 5 | Peter | therefore was kept in the prison; but || prayer || was |earnestly| being made by the assembly unto God concerning him. <sup>6</sup> And <when Herod was about to bring him forth> ||on that night|| was Peter sleeping between two soldiers bound with two chains, ||guards|| also || before the door were keeping the prison. 7 And lo! a messenger of the Lord stood over him, and |a light| shone in the cell; and |smiting the side of Peter | he roused him up, saying-

Rise up quickly!

And his' chains fell off out of his hands. 8 And the messenger said unto him—

Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals.

And he did so. And he saith unto him—
Throw around thee thy mantle, and be following me.

And coming out he began following, and knew not that it was |true| which was coming about through means of the messenger; but supposed that |a vision| he was beholding. 10 And <passing through the first ward and the second> they came unto the iron gate that leadeth into the city, the which |of its own accord| opened unto them; and coming out they went on through one street, and |straightway| the messenger was parted from him. 11 And ||Peter|| coming |to himself| said—

|Now | know I of a truth that the Lord hath sent forth his messenger, and taken me out of the hand of Herod and all' the expectation of the people of the Jews.

<sup>49</sup> And considering the matter he came unto the house of Mary, the mother of John who was aurnamed Mark, where a considerable number were gathered together and praying. <sup>13</sup> And

<when he had knocked at the door of the porch> there came unto it a maiden to hearken, by name Rhoda; 14 and | recognizing the voice of Peter | || by reason of her joy || she opened not the porch,—but |running in | bare tidings that Peter was standing before the porch. But || they || | unto her | said—

Thou art raving!

| 15 || She || however kept on strongly declaring that | | so | it was. But | they | were saying—

It is his | messenger |.

16 And ||Peter|| continued knocking; and opening, they saw him, and were amazed.

17 But < making a sign to them with his hand to hold their peace> he related to them how {the Lord || had brought | him | forth out of the prison; and he said—

Carry tidings unto James and the brethren as to these things.

And, going out, he went his way unto some other place.

18 And | when it became day | there was no small commotion among the soldiers, as to What, then, Peter had become:

19 And ||Herod|| <seeking after and not finding him> |having examined the guards| ordered them to be led away [to death]; and |going down from Judgea unto Cassarea | stayed there.

Brethren! sons of the race of Abraham, and those who among you revere God,-||unto you || hath this word of salvation been tent forth.4

For <they who were dwelling in Jerusalem, and their rulers> |not recognising him| have by judging him |fulfilled| ||the very voices of the prophets which every sabbath are being read ||; 28 and < though no single' cause of death' they found> yet claimed they of Pilate that he should be slain. they put him in a tomb. But ||God|| raised him from among the dead: Who appeared during many days unto them who had come up with him from Galilee unto Jerusalem; who indeed [now] are his witnesses unto the people.

||We|| therefore ||unto you| bring the good news, as to the promise which |unto out fathers | was made,-33 That God hath fulfilled ||the same|| for our children, ||by raising up Jesus :

As also in the second psalm it is written— My son | art | thou | :

And <in that he raised him from among the dead, |no more | destined to return unto corruption > f | on this wise | hath he spoken-

I will give unto you the faithful lovingkindnesses of David.

Wherefore also in a different [place] he saith-

> Thou will not give thy man of lovingkindness to see corruption.

For || David || indeed | < unto his own' generation' having done service, by the counsel of God> fell asleep, h and was added unto his fathers, and saw corruption;

But ||he whom God' hath raised|| did not see corruption.

14 And |as he was not to be persuaded | we ceased, saying —

||The Lord's|| will be done!

<sup>15</sup> And ||after these days|| |making ready what we had | we started to go up unto Jerusalem; <sup>16</sup> and there went certain also of the disciples from Cæsarca, along with us, who were to introduce us unto one with whom we might be entertained, one Mnason of Cyprus, an early disciple.

§ 37. Paul, in Jerusalem, is rescued from the Multitude by the Captain.

17 Now | when we came to Jerusalem | || the brethren || gladly' welcomed us. 18 And |on the next day | Paul went in with us unto James, and |all'
the elders | were present. 19 And |saluting them | he went on to narrate, one by one, each of the things which God had wrought among the nations through his ministry. 29 And | they || having heard, began glorifying God; and they said to him—

Thou observest, brother, |how many myriads| there are among the Jews who have believed, and ||all|| are |zealous for the law .

Now they have heard it rumoured concerning thee, that ||an apostacy|| art thou teaching |from Moses| unto all' the Jews |who are among the nations|, telling them, not to be circumcising their children, nor |by the customs| to be walking.

What then is it? ||at all events|| they will hear that thou hast come.

This, then | do, which | unto thee | we say:—
We have four men, who have |a vow | upon themselves.
| < Taking these unto thee > be purified with them, and spend something upon them, that they may shave their head b; and all will get to know ||that the things which they have heard rumoured concerning thee || are | nothing |, —on the contrary ||thou thyself || dost keep the ranks, guarding the law.

But < concerning them of the nations who have believed'> ||we ourselves|| sent, deciding that they should be guarding themselves, both as to idol sacrifice, and blood, and what is strangled, and fornication.º

28 ||Then Paul|| < taking unto him the men> |on the next' day with them | being purified, began entering into the temple to declare the filling up of the days of the purification 4—until ||the offering|| had been presented for each one of them.

27 < When, however the seven' days were on the point of being concluded ||the Jews from Asia'|| |observing him in the temple|

Israelites! be giving help! ||This| is the man who <against the people and the law and this place> is teaching |all men everywhere|; furthermore ||even Greeks|| hath he brought into the temple and hath profaned this holy place.

For they had before seen Trophimus, the Ephesian in the city along with him, whom they were supposing |Paul| had brought ||into the temple||.

And the whole city was set in motion, and there took place a running together of the people, and |laying hold of Paul| they proceeded to drag him outside the temple, and |straightway| the doors were made fast.

<sup>31</sup> <When, also, they were seeking to slay him> there was carried up information unto the captain of the band, that all' Jerusalem was in confusion :- " || who || < instantly' taking unto him soldiers and centurions > ran down upon them; and ||they|| |seeing the captain and the 33 |Then | soldiers | left off striking Paul. the captain | drawing near | laid hold of him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains, -and began to enquire, who he might be, and what he had done; 34 but ||others|| were calling out [something else] in the multitude; and so < he could not get to know the certainty because of the tumult> he ordered him to be brought into the castle. * And || when he came unto the stairs || so it was that he was borne along by the soldiers, because of the force of the multitude;

26 for the throng of the people was following, crying out—

Away with him !

37 But < when he was on the point of being taken into the castle> Paul saith unto the captain— Is it allowed me, to say somewhat unto thee? And |he| said—

|With Greek| art thou acquainted?

Not, then art ||thou|| the Egyptian who ||before these days || stirred up to sedition and led out into the wilderness the four-thousand men of the Assessins?

so And Paul said-

||I|| indeed am a Jew, of Tarsus in Cilicia,— ||a citizen|| of no obscure' city; but I beseech thee, give me leave to speak unto the people!

§ 38. Paul addresses the People : escapes Scourging: is set before the High-council.

But it befel me <as I was journeying, and drawing nigh unto Damascus> that <about mid-day-suddenly-out of heaven> there flath:d a great light all around me; 7 I fell also to the ground and heard a voice saying unto me-

> Saul! Saul! Why |me| art thou persecuting?

And ||I|| answered-

Who art thou, Lord?

And he said unto me-

||I|| am Jesus the Nazarene, whom ||thou|| art persecuting!

Now ||they who were with me|| beheld, indeed | the light | but heard not | the voice | of him that was speaking with me. And I said-

What shall I do, Lord?

And |the Lord | said unto me-

And ||I|| said-

And <when the blood of Stephen thy witness was being shed> ||even I myself | was standing by and approving, and guarding the mantles of them who were slaying him.

And he said unto me-

Be taking thy journey; because ||I|| |unto nations afar off | will send thee.

22 And they hearkened unto him as far as this' word, and lifted up their voice, saying-

Away from the earth, with such a man as this, for it is not fit that he should live.

22 Now <as they were both making an outcry and tearing their mantles,-|dust| also were throwing into the air > 24 the captain ordered him to be brought into the castle, saying that | with scourging he should be put to the test,—that he might find out for what cause they were |thus| clamouring against him. 25 But ||when they had stretched him out with straps | | Paul | said unto the by-standing centurion-

||A Roman and uncondemned|| is it allowed you to be scourging?

26 And | when the centurion heard' [that] | he went unto the captain, and reported, saying-

What art thou going to do? For ||this man|| is |a Roman|?

27 And the captain coming up, said to him-

Teil me! Art ||thou|| a |Roman|?

Yea!

And |he| said-

And the captain answered—

|| I || | | for a large sum | this citizenship acquired! And |Paul | said-

But ||I|| am even |[free-] born |!

- 29 ||Straightway|| therefore, they who were about to put him to the test, withdrew from him; and ||even the captain|| was struck with fear when he found out he was |a Roman|, and because |him| he had bound.

4 And | they who stood by | said-

||The High-priest of God|| dost thou revile?

5 And Paul said-

I was not aware, brethren, that he was highpriest; because it is written-

||Of a ruler of thy people|| shalt thou not speak injuriously.b

6 < But Paul getting to know that | the one part | were Sadducees, and |the other | Pharisees > began to cry aloud in the council-

Brethren! ||I|| am |a Pharisee|, son of Pharisees:-||Concerning a hope even of a rising again of the dead || c am I to be judged.

7 And ||as this' he was saying || there arose a dissension of the Pharisees and Sadducees; and rent asunder was the throng! 8 For ||Sadducees || say there is no rising again nor messenger nor spirit, whereas | Pharisees | confess them both. 9 And there arose a great outcry, and certain of the Scribes of the party of the Pharisees standing up began to strive, saying-

||Nothing bad|| find we in this man ;-but <if a spirit | hath spoken unto him, or a mes-

- 10 And ||great' dissension arising|| the captain < fearing lest Paul would be torn in pieces by them > ordered the troop to go down, and take him by force out of their midst, to bring him into the castle.
- § 40. Paul's life being conspired against, he is sent to Casarea unto the Governor Felix.
- 11 But |on the following night | the Lord standing over him said-

Be of good courage! for <as thou hast fully borne witness of the things concerning me in Jerusalem> |so| must thou ||in Rome alsoll bear witness.

12 And | when it became day | the Jews | forming a conspiracy | bound themselves under a curse, saying. That they would neither eat nor drink till they had slain Paul. 13 And they were |more than forty| who |this' sworn-confederacy | had formed. 14 And they went unto the High-priests and Elders, and said-

| With a curse | d have we bound ourselves, to taste |nothing| until we have slain Paul.

||Now|| therefore do ||ye with the Highcouncil | make it appear unto the captain that he should bring him down unto you, as though about to ascertain more exactly the things that concern him; and ||we|| <or ever he come near > are | ready | to kill him.

16 But Paul's sister's son | hearing | of the lying-inwait, happening to be near, and coming into the castle,—reported it unto Paul. 17 And Paul calling unto him one of the centurions, said||This young man|| lead thou away unto the captain, for he hath somewhat to report unto him.

18 |He| therefore taking him with him, brought him unto the captain, and saith-

||The prisoner Paul|| calling me unto him requested me to bring | this' young man unto thee, as having somewhat to tell thee.

19 And the captain, | taking him by the hand, and going aside | began | privately | to ask-

What is it which thou hast to report unto me?

20 And he said—

||The Jews|| have agreed to request thee that |to-morrow| thou wouldst bring |Paul down into the High-council, as though about to ascertain something | more exact concerning him.

||Thou|| therefore do not be persuaded by them, for there are lying in wait for him from among them, | more than forty men ,who indeed have bound themselves under a curse, neither to eat nor drink till they have killed him; and ||now|| are they ready. awaiting the promise | from thee|.

22 ||The captain|| therefore dismissed the young man charging him-

||Unto no one|| divulge thou that |these things | thou hast shewed unto me.

23 And |calling certain two of the centurions| he said-

Make ye ready two hundred soldiers, that they may journey as far as Czesarca, -and seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen, by the third hour of the night:

| beasts also | provide, in order that | seating Paul thereon | they may bring him safely through unto Felix the governor.

25 And he wrote a letter after this form:

Claudius Lysias, unto the most excellent governor Felix, Joy!

<This man, having been apprehended by the Jews, and being about to be killed by them> I went down with the troop and rescued: having learned that he was |a Roman|.

And < being minded to find out the cause for which they were accusing him> [I took him down into their High-council whom I found to be accused concerning questions of their law, but |of nothing worthy of death or bonds to be charged.

But < when I was informed there would be a plot against the man |> || forthwith | I sent him unto thee, charging his accusers also to be speaking against him before thee.

31 ||So the soldiers|| |according to their orders. taking up Paul| brought him by night unto Antipatris; 22 and ||on the morrow|| |leaving the horsemen to go on with him returned to the castle,-25 and the others <entering into Cæsarea, and delivering the letter unto the governor> set | Paul also | before him.

the judgment-seat ordered Paul to be brought. 7 And when he presented himself the Jews who from Jerusalem had come down, stood round about him, ||many' and grievous' charges|| bringing against [him], which they were not able to prove,—8 Paul saying in defence—

<Neither against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Cæsar> have I in anything sinned.

But ||Festus|| < wishing | with the Jews| to gain |favour|> answered Paul, and said—

Art thou willing |unto Jerusalem| to go up, and ||there|| |concerning these things| be judged before me?

10 But Paul said-

Standing before the judgment-seat of Cæsar> am I, where |I| ought to be judged.

<Unto the Jews> have I done no wrong, as ||even thou|| |right well| art discovering.

If then on the one hand I am doing wrong, and |anything worthy of death| have committed> I excuse not myself from dying; but on the other hand <if there is |nothing in the things whereof these are accusing me> ||no man|| hath power to give |me| unto them as a favour:-

||Unto Cæsar|| I appeal!

12 || Then Festus || | having conversed with the council | answered —

||Unto Cæsar|| hast thou appealed? ||Unto Cæsar|| shalt thou go.

§ 43. King Agrippa, informed by Festus of Paul, wishes to hear him.

<sup>18</sup> And ||some days having gone by|| |Agrippa the king and Bernice| came down to Cæsarea, to salute Festus.

<sup>14</sup> And <as they were spending more days there> | Festus| repeated | unto the king | the things relating to Paul, saying—

||A certain man|| hath been left behind by Felix | las a prisoner|; 15 concerning whom | when I happened to be in Jerusalem| the High-priests and the Elders of the Jews laid information, claiming against him a condemnation: 16 unto whom I made answer—That it is not a custom with Romans, to grant as a favour any man before the accused | face to face| should have his accusers, and | opportunity of defence| should receive concerning the charge.

<When therefore they had come together here> |no delay whatever| making, ||on the next day|| <taking my place upon the judgment-seat> I ordered the man to be brought:

Concerning whom taking their stand, his accusers | no accusation at all || were bringing of the evil things which || I || had been suspecting; || but || certain questions concerning their own demon-worship || had they against him, and concerning one Jesus, who had died, whom Paul was affirming to be alive.

And ||I|| < being at a loss' as to the inquiry

<sup>22</sup> And ||Agrippa|| [said] unto Festus— I could wish || myself also|| | to hear| the man. ||To-morrow|| (saith he) thou shalt hear him.

§ 44. Paul before King Agrippa.

23 ||On the morrow therefore || < when Agrippa had come' and Bernice with great' display, and they had entered into the audience-chamber, with the captains of thousands and men of distinction of the city,—and Festus had given orders > Paul was brought. 24 And Festus saith—

King Agrippa! and all' ye men | here present with us |:

Ye observe this person, concerning whom none and all' the throng of the Jews, have interceded with me, both in Jerusalem and here, crying aloud that he ought not to be living any longer.

But ||I|| gathered, that |nothing worthy of death| had he committed; and <||this man himself'|| having appealed unto the Emperor> I decided to send him:—

Concerning whom ||anything certain' to write unto my lord|| I have not; wherefore I have brought him forth before you,—and especially' before thee, King Agrippa! in order that |after examination had| I might have something I could write;

For ||unreasonable unto med it seemeth, |when sending a prisoner| not also |the accusations against him | to signify.

26 And || Agrippa || | unto Paul | said-

It is permitted thee on thine own behalf to be speaking.

||Then Paul|| |stretching forth his hand went on to make his defence.

name Julius, of an Augustan band. 2 And <going on board a ship of Adramittium about to sail unto the places along the coast of Asia> we put to sea, there being with us Aristarchus a Macedonian of Thessalonica; 3 and |on the next day | we put into Zidon,-and Julius treating Paul ||kindly|| a gave him leave to go |unto his friends| and refresh himself; 4 and from thence' putting out to seal we sailed under the lee of Cyprus, because the winds were contrary; 5 and <sailing across | the sea which is off Cilicia and Pamphylia | > we came down to Myra a city of Lycia. 6 And the centurion < there | finding a ship of Alexandria sailing 7 And <for a for Italy> put us therein. good many days sailing slowly and getting with difficulty over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us to get on> we sailed under the lee of Crete over against Salmone; 8 and < with difficulty' coasting it> we came to a certain place called Fair Havens, near to which was the city of Lasea.

And <when |a considerable' time | had passed, and sailing was already' dangerous because |even the Fast | had already gone by> Paul began to advise, 10 saying to them—

Sirs! I perceive that <with damage and great' loss not only of the cargo and of the ship but even of our persons> shall the voyage certainly be attended.

13 And |a south wind blowing softly| ||supposing they had secured their purpose|| weighing anchor they began to sail close in shore along Crete. 14 But |after no long time| there beat down from it a tempestuous wind, called Euraquilo,—15 and <the ship being caught and we not being able to bring her head to the wind> we let her go, and were borne along.

16 And <running under the lee |of some small island | called Cauda> we were able with difficulty to make ourselves masters of the boat,—17 which hoisting up they began to use |helps|, under-girding the ship; and <fearing lest |on the sand-bank of Africa|> they should run aground |lowering the gear | ||so|| were they borne along. 18 But || we being exceedingly' tempest-tossed|| |on the next day| they began to throw [cargo] overboard; 19 and ||on the third day with their own hands | | the tackling of the 20 And < neither anip| they cast away. ||sun nor stars|| appearing for many days, and |no small tempest| lying upon us> in the end all hope that we should be saved | began to be 21 But < when they taken from us.

standing in the midst of them said-

had been |long without food|> |then| Paul,

Ye ought indeed Sirs! ||yielding to me!| not to have sailed away from Crete, to get this damage and loss. . . .

And ||now|| I recommend you to be of good courage; for ||loss of life|| shall there be ||none at all|| from among you,—only of the ship.

For there stood by me this' night <belonging unto the God whose I am unto whom also I am doing divine service > a messenger, saying—

Be not afraid Paul! for ||before Casar must thou needs stand.

And lo! God hath granted to thee as a favour, all' them who are sailing with thee.

Wherefore be of good courage, Sirs; for I believe in God—that |so| it shall be according as it hath been told me.

26 ||Upon a certain island|| however must we needs be wrecked.

And <when | the fourteenth' night | had come, and we were being driven to and fro in the Adriatic> ||about midnight|| the sailors suspected that some country was |nearing| them:

28 and |sounding| they found twenty fathoms,—
and |going a little' further, and again' sounding they found fifteen fathoms. 32 And <fearing lest haply |on rocky places| we should be wrecked > |out of stern| cast they four anchors,— and began praying that day might dawn.

30 But < when | the sailors | were seeking to fire out of the ship, and had lowered the boat into the sea, by pretext, as though out of the prow they had been about to reach anchors > 22 Paul said unto the centurion, and unto the soldiers—

<Except |these| abide in the ship> 'ye yourselves|| cannot be saved!

<sup>32</sup> |Then| the soldiers cut away the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

<sup>33</sup> And |until day was about to dawn| Paul continued to be each one and all to take some food, saying—

This day is ||the fourteenth day| that |in suspense fasting| ye are completing,—having helped yourselves |to nothing|.

Wherefore I beseech you to take some food,— for ||this|| lays a foundation for your safety; for ||of no one of you|| shall a hair of the head perish.

** And <having said these things, and taken a loaf> he gave thanks unto God before all, and |breaking it| began to eat. ** And <all becoming ||of good cheer||> |they also | helped themselves to food. ** Now we were in the ship in all', about seventy-six * souls.

And | when they were satisfied with food they began lightening the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea. So And | when day came they could not recognise | the land|; but perceived | a certain bay| having a beach,—upon which they were minded if they could safely to bring the ship. time | loosening the lashings of the rudders, and | hoisting up the foresail to the wind | they made for the beach. 41 But <falling into a place where two seas met > they ran the ship aground; and | the foreship sticking fast | remained immoveable, while | the stern | began to break up from the violence [of the waves]. 2 Now | the soldiers' counsel| turned out to be, that they should kill | the prisoners |, lest any one should swim out and escape; 45 but ||the centurion||

ded to bring Paul safely through> hindered them of their purpose, and ordered such as were able to swim, to cast themselves overboard and |get first' to the land|,-44 and ||the rest|| <|some| on planks, and |some| on other things from the ship>... and ||so|| it came to pass that |all| were brought safely through on to the land.

§ 46. Paul in Melita. Thence to Rome.

28 And ||when we were safely through|| |then|| we knew that the island was called |Melita||.

2 And ||the natives|| began to shew us no common' philanthropy; for |kindling a fire| they received us all,' because of the rain that had set in and because of the cold.

3 But <when Paul had gathered a certain lot |of firewood| into a bundle, and laid it on the fire> ||a viper|| |by reason of the heat| coming forth, fastened on his hand.

4 And <when the natives saw the brute, hanging out from his hand> they began to say |one to another|-

|| Doubtless|| this man is |a murderer|, whom <though brought safely through out of the sea> ||Justice|| hath not suffered |to live|.

- If the planting off the brute into the fire suffered no harm; whereas ||they|| were expecting that he was about to become inflamed or to fall down suddenly dead;—but < when they had been long expecting and had observed |nothing unusual| happening unto him > they changed their minds, and began to say he was a god.
- Now |in the neighbourhood of that place| were lands, belonging to the chief man of the island, by name Publius,—who |making us welcome| ||for three days| hospitably entertained us. *And it so happened that ||the father of Publius|| |with feverish heats and dysentery distressed| was lying prostrate: unto whom Paul entering in and praying, laid his hands on him, and healed him. *And ||when this' happened|| |the rest also, even they in the island who were sick| were coming in and getting cured; *10 who also |with many' honours|
  honoured us, and |when we were about to sail| put on board such things as we might need.

And "after three' months," we sailed in a ship which had wintered in the island, [a ship] of Alexandria, whose ensign was—The Twin Brothers; <sup>12</sup> and |touching at Syracuse| we tarried three days; <sup>13</sup> whence |going round| we reached Rhegium; and |after one' day| ||a south wind springing up|| on the second day| we came to Putcoli; <sup>14</sup> where |finding brethren| we were entreated to tarry | with them| a seven days;—and | thus, towards Rome| we came.

15 And <when from thence the brethren heard the tidings concerning us> they came to meet us, as far as The Market of Appius and the Three Taverns,—| seeing whom| Paul thanked God, and took courage.

§ 47. Paul in Rome.

16 And || when we entered into Rome|| Paul was suffered to abide by himself with the soldier that guarded' him.

And it came to pass after three days, that he called together those who were the chief of the Jews; and |when they came together| he began to say unto them—

||I|| brethren, <though I had done |nothing against| the people, or the customs of our fathers> ||as a prisoner|| |out of Jerusalem| was delivered into the hands of the Romans;—18 who indeed | when they had examined me| were minded to set me at liberty, because there was |nothing worthy of death| in me.

But ||as the Jews spake against it|| I was constrained to appeal unto Cæsar,—not as though |against my nation| I had anything to bring by way of accusation.

For this cause therefore have I called for you to see and to speak with you; for no account of the hope of Israel this chain have I about me!

21 And ||they|| said |unto him |-

"We" have neither received | letters concerning thee | from the Jews, nor hath anyone of the brethren | who hath arrived | reported or spoken concerning thee, anything ill.

But we deem it well, that | from thee| we should hear what are thine opinions; for indeed, ||concerning this sect|| it is |known to us| that |everywhere| is it spoken against.

<sup>23</sup> And | having arranged with him a day| there came unto him, to the lodging, a larger number; unto whom he proceeded to expound, bearing full witness as to the kingdom of God, and persuading them concerning Jesus, both from the law of Moses, and from the prophets,—from morning till evening.

<sup>24</sup> And ||some|| indeed, were persuaded by the things that were spoken, whereas ||others|| disbelieved; <sup>25</sup> and <not being |agreed| among themselves> they began to leave,—Paul having said one thing—

"Well" did | the Holy Spirit | speak through Isaiah the prophet unto your fathers, saying—

Go thy way unto this people, and say-

Ye shall |surely hear | and yet will in nowise understand,

And |surely see | and yet will in nowise perceive;

For the heart of this people | hath become dense |,

And with their ears heavily have they heard,

And |their eyes | have they closed,-Lest once they should see with their

And | with their ears | should hear, And with their hearts should understand and return, -

When I would certainly heal them.

- Be it |known unto you| therefore, That | water the nations | hath been sent forth this salvation of God : ||they|| will also hear. [35]
- 20 And he abode two whole years in his own hired house, and made welcome all' who were coming in unto him,—31 proclaiming the kingdom of God, and teaching the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ, with all' freedom of speech || without hindrance ||

1 Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ,*

A called'b apostle,

Separated unto the glad-message of God—

Which he promised beforehand, through his prophets, in holy scriptures—

Concerning his Son,-

Who came to be of the seed of David according to flesh,

Who was distinguished cas the Son of God-

By power,

According to a Holy Spirit

Through means of a resurrection of the dead, -

Jesus Christ our Lord;

Through whom we have received favour and apostleship, For obedience of faith among all' the nations, in behalf <sup>6</sup> Among whom are of his name, || ye also|| called f of Jesus Christ:

<Unto all' that are in Rome, beloved of God, called f saints>

Favour unto you, and peace.

From God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ.

8 ||First|| indeed, I give thanks unto my God, through Jesus Christ, concerning you all',* Because h your faith is being announced

That < whatsoever things the law saith>
||To them who are within the law|| it speaketh.

In order that ||every' mouth|| may be stopped.

And all the world come ||under penal sentence|| unto God.

Inasmuch as || by works of law||<sup>b</sup> shall no' flesh be declared righteous | before him|, -o' || Through law|| in fact is discovery of sin.

n But |now| ||apart from law|| |a righteousness of God| hath been manifested.

Borne witness to by the law and the prophets,—

A righteousness of God, through faith in [Jesus] Christ, unto all' that have faith; For there is no distinction,—

For ||all|| have sinned, and fall short of the glory of God;

Being declared righteous freely by his favour through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:—

Whom God hath set forth as a propitiatory covering a through faith in his blood,

For a showing forth of his righteousness.

By reason of the passing-by of the previously' committed sins, 29 in the forbearance of God |,—

With a view to a showing forth of his righteousness in the present' season,

That he might be' righteous even when declaring' righteous him that hath faith in Jesus.

27 Where, then, the boasting! It is excluded. Through what kind' of law? ||Of works||? Nay! but through a law of faith:

For we reckon that a man | is to be declared righteous by faith | ||apart from works of law||.5

29 Or [is God] the God ||of Jews only|| and not of the nations h also?

Yea! of the nations h also :-

If at all events, God is one,

Who will declare righteous— The circumcision by faith,

And the uncircumcision, through their faith.

31 Do we then make ||law|| void through means of our faith?

Far be it! On the contrary ||law|| we do establish!

4 What, then shall we say—||as touching Abraham our forefather||1?

For <if Abraham | by works | was declared righteous > he hath whereof to boast;— Nevertheless, not towards God,—

For what doth | the Scripture | say?

Ps. xxxvi. 1,
Gal. ii. 16.
Ps. exliii. 2.
d. Cp. Exo. xxv. 17, n.
Or (WH): "the faith."
f Or (WH): "hence."

g Gal. ii. 16. To Cr: "such as are of the nations."

i Or (WH): "affirm Abraham our father to have found."

And Abraham believed in God,

And it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.

Now <unto him that worketh > | the reward | is not reckoned by way of favour, but by way of obligation,

Whereas < unto him that worketh not but believeth on him that declareth righteous the ungodly > his faith is reckoned' as righteousness.

Just as | David | also affirmeth the happiness of the man unto whom | God | reckoneth righteousness, apart from works:—

|| Happy || they whose lawlessnesses have been forgiven

And whose sins have been covered,

8 | Happy|| the man | whose sin | the Lord will in nowise reckon.b

||This happiness|| then, [is it] for the circumcision, or for the uncircumcision?

For we say-

10

His faith was reckoned' unto Abraham as righteousness c:

How then was it reckoned? When he was |in circumcision|, or in uncircumcision?

Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision;

And ||a sign|| he received [namely] of circumcision,d

A seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had while yet uncircumcised;

To the end he might be father of all' that believe during uncircumcision,

To the end [the same] righteousness | might be reckoned unto them |,—

And father of circumcision-

Unto them who are not of circumcision only.

But who also walk in the steps of the faith | while yet uncircumcised | of our father Abraham.

For ||not through means of law || doth the promise belong unto Abraham or unto his seed,—

That he should be heir of the world;
But | through a righteousness by faith|.

For <if | they who are of law | f are heirs>
Made void is faith

And of no effect is the promise.

For ||the law|| worketh out |anger|,

But <where there is no law > neither is there transgression.

||For this cause|| it is by faith, in order that it may be by way of favour.

So that the promise is |firm| unto all' the seed,—

Not unto that by the law only,

But unto that also [which is such] by the faith of Abraham;

Who is father of us all',—h

For < just as ||through the disobedience of the one' man | | |sinners|| the many were con-

||So|| also ||through the obedience of the one|| "righteous" the many shall' be constituted :-

||Law|| however gained admission b in order that the fault might abound',

21 In order that-

<Just as |sin| reigned |in death|> ||So|| also ||favour|| might reign through righteousness unto life age-abiding.d ||Through Jesus Christ our Lord||.

6 What then shall we say? Are we still to continue in sin that | favour | may abound? Far be it!

<We who have died unto sin> how |any longer | shall we live therein?

Or know ye not, that ||we, as many as were immersed • into Christ [Jesus] | into his death | were immersed?

We were therefore buried together with him s through our immersion into his death.

In order that—

<Just as Christ was raised' from among the dead through the glory of the Father>

||So|| ||we also" |in newness of life should walk.

For <if we have come to be |grown together in b the likeness of his death> Certainly ||inh that of his resurrection also|| shall we be.

|Of this| taking note-

That ||our old' man|| | was crucified together with him.

In order that the sinful' body k might be made powerless,

That we should [no longer] be in servitude to sin:

For ||he that hath died|| hath become righteously acquitted from his sin.

Now < if we have died together with Christ> we believe that we shall also live together with him:

Knowing that < | Christ | having been raised from among the dead > | no more | dieth, -"Death | | over him | no more | hath lordship,-

So || ye also || be reckoning yourselves to be-| Dead indeed unto sin | But ||alive unto God, in Christ Jesus||.

12 Let not sin therefore reign' in your death'doomed body.

That ye should be obedient to its covetings; Neither be presenting your members as weapons of unrighteousness, unto sin,

But | present yourselves | unto God, as though alive from among the dead, your members, as weapons of righteousness unto God;

14 For ||sin|| |over you| shall not have lordship For ye are not under law, but under favour.

15 What then?

Shall we sin, because we are not under law but under favour?

Far be it!

Know ye not that <unto whom ye are presenting yourselves as servants for obedience> |Servants| ye are unto [him unto] whom ye are obedient, Whether of sin unto death. Or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But thanks be unto God, that-

< Whereas ye were servants of sin>

Ye became obedient out of the heart unto the mould of teaching |into which ye were delivered|b;

And < being freed from sin> ye were made servants unto righteousness :-

In human fashion am I speaking, because of the weakness of your flesh :-

For <just as ye presented your members as servants unto impurity and unto lawlessness [for lawlessness]>.

"So now present ye your members as servants unto righteousness for sanctification.

For < when ye were |servants| of sin> ye were | free | as to righteousness; -

21 What' fruit therefore had ye |then |-in things for which ye |now| are taking shame to yourselves?

For || the end of those things || is death.c Whereas ||now|| < having been freed from sin and made servants unto God>

Ye have your fruit for sanctification

And || the end || | life age-abiding |.

For ||the wages of sin|| is death; But ||God's gift of favour|| is life ageabiding 4 || In Christ Jesus our Lord ||.

7 Or are ye ignorant, brethren,—

< For | unto them that understand * law | am I speaking>

That ||the law|| hath lordship over a man |as long as he liveth !?

So that she is not an adulteress, though she become another man's.

So then my brethren ||ye also|| were made dead unto the law through the body of the Christ,

To the end ye might become another's-||His who |from among the dead| was raised !.

In order that we might bring forth fruit unto God.

For < when we were in the flesh> || the susceptibilities b of sins which were through the law | used to be energized in our members unto the bringing forth of fruit unto death;

But ||now|| we have received full release from the law by dying [in that] wherein we used to be held fast,

So that we should be doing service-In newness of spirit

And not in obsoleteness of letter.

7 What then shall we say?

Far be it! Is the law sin?

On the contrary | I had not discovered ||sin|| save through law,

For even ||of coveting|| I had not been aware if "the law" had not kept on say-

Thou shalt not covet c:

Howbeit sin taking ||occasion |-

"Through the commandment | wrought out in me all' manner of coveting; For ||apart from law|| sin is dead :-

And II was alive apart from law, at one time !.

But <the commandment coming'>

|Sin| sprang up to life 10 whereas ||I|| died,-

And the commandment which was unto life |was round by me| to be !itself! unto death;

11 For ||sin||-taking |occasion|-

| Through the commandment | completely deceived me

And ||through it|| slew me:

So that || the law || indeed is holy, and | the commandment | "holy and righteous and good .

13 Did then ||that which is good|| |unto me| become death?

Far be it!

But [it was] sin < that it might appear' sin> through that which was good | unto me' working out death.

Or: "with the result of e Exo. xx. 14, 17; Deu. v. your becoming." 18, 21.

In order that ||exceeding sinful| might an become | through the commandment|.

For we know that ||the law|| is |spiritual|-||I|| however am |a creature of flesh|, Sold under sin;

For <that which I am working out> I do not approve, -

> For not < what I wish > | the same | l practise.

But < what I hate > | the same | I do: Now <if | what I wish not | the same | l do>

> I consent unto the law that [it is] right.

17 || Now || however | no longer | am || I || working it out.

But the ||sin|| |that dwelleth in me|:

18 I know in fact, that there dwelleth not in me <that is in my flesh>b anything |good|; For ||the wishing|| lieth near me,

But || the working out of what is right || not! For not <the good that I wish > I do,

But < the evil that I do not wish > | the same I practise.

20 Now <if | what I wish not | || the same || I do> |No longer | am ||I|| working it out, But the ||sin|| |that dwelleth in me|

21 Hence I find the law <To me who wish' to be doing the right> That ||unto mel the wrong lieth near:

I have in fact a sympathetic pleasure in the law of God; according to the inner man.

But I behold a diverse' law in my members, Warring against the law of my mind And taking me captive in the law of sin which existeth in my members :-

24 || Wretched || man am || I || !

Who shall rescue me out of this body |doomed to death!?

[But] thanks bed unto God!—||Through Jesus Christ our Lord ..

Hence then --

"I myself! | with the mind indeed am in servitude unto a law of God:

But ! with the flesh ! unto a law of sin.

8 Hence there is now 'no | condemnation unto them who are in Christ Jesus;

For || the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus; hath set thee free from the law of sin and of death :-

And ||beyond nature|| hast been engrafted into the good olive>

How much rather | shall | these, the natural [branches]| be engrafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I wish not, ye should be ignorant, brethren, of this sacred secret.

<Lest |within yourselves| ye be presumptuous>

That ||a hardening in part|| hath befallen |Israel|

Until ||the full measure of the nations|| shall come in;

And ||so|| |all' Israel| shall be saved:

Even as it is written-

27

31

There shall have come out of Zion the Deliverer,-

He will turn away ungodliness from Jacob b;

And ||this for them || is the covenant | from me' |

As soon as I take away their sins.

<As touching the joyful-message indeed> they are enemies for your sake,

But <as touching the election> beloved for their fathers' sake;

For ||not to be regretted|| are the gifts and the calling of God :-

For <just as ||ye|| |at one time| had not yielded unto God,

And yet | now | have received mercy by |their| refusal to yield>

||So|| ||these also|| have |now| refused to yield by your own' mercy, In order that ||themselves also|| should now become objects of mercy; For God hath shut up all together, in a refusal to yield, In order that ||upon all|| he may bestow mercy. ss Oh! the depth of the riches and wisdom and knowledge of God!

| How unsearchable | his judgments!

And untraceable his ways!

34 For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord?

Or who hath become | his counsellor |?

Or who hath first given unto him, and it shall be recompensed to him again?4

35 Because ||of' him, and through' him, and unto' him | are all things :--

Unto him || be the glory unto the ages. Amen!

12 I beseech you therefore brethren through the compassions of God,

To present your bodies a living holy sacrifice, unto God | acceptable, -

Your rational' divine service;

And be not s configuring yourselves unto this age.

But be a transforming yourselves by the renewing of your mind

To the end ye may be proving b what is the thing willed by God-the good and acceptable and perfect.

<sup>3</sup> For I say

<Through the favour which hath been given

Unto every' one who is among you,-

Not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think,

But so to think as to think soberly-

As ||unto each one|| |God| hath dealt a measure of faith.

<sup>4</sup> For <just as |in one' body| we have |many' members | c

Yet ||all the members|| have not the |same| office>

<sup>5</sup> ||So|| ||we, the many|| are |one' body| in Christ, Yet ||severally|| members | one of another |.

6 Now < having gifts of favour | according to the favour given unto us | differing>-

< Whether prophesying > [let us use it] according to the proportion of our faith,

<Or ministering> [use it] in our ministering,

<Or he that teacheth> [let him use his gift] in his teaching,

<Or he that exhorteth> in his exhorting,

< He that imparteth> [let it be] with liberality, <He that taketh a lead> with diligence,

< He that sheweth mercy > with cheerfulness.

||Your love|| [be] without hypocrisy,— Loathing that which is wicked. Cleaving to that which is good;

<In your brotherly love> ||unto one another|| being tenderly affectioned,

<In honour> ||unto one another|| giving preference;

<In business> not slothful,

<In spirit> fervent,

13

<To the Lord> doing service, 12 <In hope> rejoicing,

<In tribulation> enduring,

<In prayer> persevering,

< With the needs of the saints > having fellowship,

|| Hospitality || pursuing. Bless them that persecute,d Bless and do not curse. Rejoice with them that rejoice,

Weep with them that weep:

||The same thing || |one to another | regarding,— Not | the lofty things | regarding, But ||by the lowly|| being led along.

Be not getting presumptuous in your own opinion :

17 ||Unto no one|| |evil for evil | rendering:

Providing honourable things before all men :: <If possible—so far as dependeth on you>

| with all' men | being at peace: 19 Not avenging ||yourselves|| beloved but give place unto their anger;

For <to this end> |Christ| died and lived,

In order that ||both of dead and living|| he might have lordship.

10 But ||thou|| why dost thou judge thy brother? Aye! ||and thou|| why dost thou despise thy brother?

For ||all of us|| shall present ourselves unto the judgment seat of God b;

For it is written—

<Living am ||I|| saith the Lord>|| Unto me || shall bow every knee,

And ||every' tongue|| shall openly confess unto God.º

Hence [then] ||esch one of us|| |of himself| shall give |account| unto God.

13 || No longer || then || || upon one another || let us be sitting in judgment,

But ||this|| judge ye, rather-

Not to be putting a cause of stumbling before your brother, or an occasion to fall.

14 I know and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus-That ||nothing|| is profane |of itself|,--Save to him who reckoneth anything to be profane,

||Unto that man|| [it is] profane.d

15 < If in fact, || because of food || thy brother is being grieved>

|| No longer by the rule of love || art thou walking :-

Do not ||by thy food|| ||that man|| be destroying, on whose behalf Christ died!

16 Therefore, suffer not to be defamed, your own' good thing;

For the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking|,

But righteousness and peace and joy in Holy

For ||he that |in this| doeth service unto the Christ!

Is acceptable unto God.

And approved unto men. 19 Hence then || the things pertaining to peace || let us pursue,

And the things which belong to the upbuilding one of another:

Do not ||for the sake of food|| be throwing down the work of God!

|| All things || indeed are pure s;

But ||ill|| is it for the man who |with occasion of stumbling! doth eat,-

|| Well|| is it not to eat flesh nor to drink wine nor [to do aught] whereby |thy brother! is caused to stumble.

||The faith which thou' hast|| have | to thyself| before God:

||Happy|| he that bringeth not judgment upon himself by that which he approveth;

But ||he that is in doubt|| ||if he eat|| hath condemned himself,-

Because [it was] not of faith,

The weakness of them who are not strong to be bearing,

And not ||unto ourselves|| to give pleasure.

For what is good, unto upbuilding;

For ||even the Christ|| |not unto himself | gave pleasure.

But even as it is written-

|| The reproaches of them that were reproaching thee || fell upon me:--

|| Whatsoever things in fact were written aforetime |

[All] for our own' instruction | were written,-

In order that <through endurance, and through the encouragement of the Scriptures> we might have their |hope|.b

5 Now may || the God of the endurance, and of the encouragement||

Give you ||the same thing|| to be regarding amongst one another | according to Christ Jesus | c;

In order that || with one accord with one' mouth || ye may be glorifying the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another,

Even as ||Christ also|| hath received usd |unto the glory of God|:-

For I affirm | Christ | to have become | |a minister of circumcision

In behalf of the truth of God,-

To confirm the promises of the fathers,

And that ||the nations|| |for mercy | should glorify God :-

Even as it is written-

|| For this cause || will I openly confess unto thee among nations,

And ||unto thy name|| will I strike the strings 1;

And |again| he saith-

11

Be glad, ye nations, with his people "; And again-

<sup>14</sup> But I am persuaded my brethren,— Even ||I myself|| concerning you:

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

CORINTHIANS.

1 Paul, a called' apostle of Jesus Christ, through God's will,—

And Sosthenes the brother,—

Unto the assembly of God which is in Corinth, Sanctified in Christ Jesus, Called' saints,—

With all' who call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ |in every' place|,—!their Lord and ours||:

Favour unto you, and peace,

From God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ.

<sup>4</sup> I give thanks unto my God, at all times, concerning you,

By reason of the favour of God given unto you in Christ Jesus,—

5 That |in everything| ye have been enriched in him—

In all' discourse and in all' knowledge;

- Even as ||the witness of the Christ|| hath been confirmed in b you,
- So that ye come short in no' gift of favour,—

Ardently awaiting the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ:

Who will also confirm you unto the end.
Unaccusable in the day of our Lord
Jesus [Christ]:

9 ||Faithful|| is God through whom ye have been called into the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 But I beseech you brethren,

Through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ,—

That ||the same thing|| ye |all| be saying,

And that there be not among you divisions:

But that ye be fitly joined together-

In the same' mind,

And in the same' judgment.

11 For it hath been signified unto me concerning you my brethren,—

By them who are of [the household of] Chloe,—

That there are |strifes among you|.

12 Now I mean this,-

That |each one of you| is saying-

||I|| indeed am of Paul, . .

But ||I|| of Apollos,

But ||I|| of Cephas, But ||I|| of Christ b:

The Christ |is divided |!

Was ||Paul|| crucified for you?

Or ||into d the name of Paul|| were ye immersed?

I give thanks, that |none of you| did I immerse—

Save Crispus and Gaius,

Lest any should say—

||Into my own' name|| I immersed;—

Yea! I immersed the house |of Stephanas| also,—

||Besides|| I know not whether |anyone else | I immersed.

For Christ sent' me not, to be immersing, But to be telling the good news,—

Not with wisdom of discourse

Lest |void| should be made ||the cross of the Christ||.

For ||the discourse which concerneth the Cross||

||Unto them indeed who are perishing ||
is |foolishness|;

But ||unto them who are being saved—unto us|| it is |God's power|.

For it is written—

I will destroy the wisdom of the wise,

And | the discernment of the discerning | will I set aside.

Where is the wise?

Where is the scribe?h

Where is the disputer of this age?

Hath not God made foolish' the windom of the world?

For <seeing that | in the wisdom of God|
The world | through its wisdom | did not get to know God>

God was well-pleased-

<Through the foolishness of the thing proclaimed> to save them that believe.

Seeing that

Both ||Jews|| |for signs | do ask

And "Greeks || | for wisdom | do seek, Whereas || we || proclaim a Christ who hath been crucified,—

|Unto Jews| indeed an occasion of stumbling,

And |unto Gentiles | foolishness;

But <unto the called themselves'— Both Jews and Greeks>

||Christ|| |God's | power and |God's | wisdom Because ||God's foolish thing || is | wiser than men |,

And ||God's weak thing|| | mightier than men .

26 For be looking at the calling of you, brethren,— That [there were]

Not many' wise, according to flesh, Not many' powerful, Not many' high-born:

77 On the contrary—

||The foolish things of the world; hath God chosen

That he might put to shame them who are wise,

And || the weak things of the world; hath God chosen

That he might put to shame the things that are mighty,

And < the low-born things of the world,
And the things that are despised > hath God chosen, —

||[And] the things that are not?,That {the things that are} he might bring to nought;

So that no' flesh should boast before God.
But ||of' him|| are ||ye|| |in Christ Jesus|,—

Who hath been made wisdom unto us, |from God|,—

Both righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

redemption:
In order that |even as it is written|-

|| He that boasteth ||

||In the Lord|| let him boast."

2 ||I|| therefore, brethren, |when I came unto you|,

Came | not with excellency of discourse or wisdom |

Declaring unto you the mystery of God;
For I had not determined to know anything save Jesus Christ,—and |him| as one who had been crucified!

*||I|| therefore | in weakness and in fear and in much trembling!

Came to be with you,

* Jer. ix. 24.

b Or (WH): "witness."

4 And ||my discourse_and what I proclaimed|| Were not in sussive' words |of wisdom|, But in demonstration of Spirit and powera;

In order that || your faith || might not be In men's wisdom. But in God's power.

6 || Wisdom || however, we do speak | among the full-grown |,—

|Wisdom| indeed

Not of this age,

Nor of the rulers of this age, who are to come to nought;

7 But we speak |God's| wisdom, in a sacred secret, b

That hidden [wisdom]

Which God marked out beforehand, before the ages, for our glory,—

Which || none of the rulers of this age had come to know||.

For ||had they known||, not, in that case, ||the Lord of the glory|| would they have crucified!

9 But | even as it is written |-

< The things which eye hath not seen, and ear hath not heard,

And upon the heart of man have not come up.—

Whatsoever things God hath prepared for them that love him>°

Unto us || in fact hath God revealed through the Spirit:

For |the Spirit| ||into all things|| maketh

Yes! the deep things of God.

11 For who of men knoweth the things of a man.—

Save the spirit of the man that is in him? |Thus| ||even the things of God|| hath no one come to know

Save the Spirit of God.

15 But ||as for us||-

|Not the spirit of the world| have we re-

But the Spirit which is of God,-

That we might know the things which |by God| have been given in favour unto us:—

13 Which we also speak-

Not in words | taught of human wisdom|, But in such as are taught of [the] Spirit ||By spiritual words|| |spiritual things| explaining.

14 But ||a man of the soul||<sup>4</sup> doth not welcome the things of the Spirit of God, things of the Spirit of God,

For they are |foolishness unto him|, and he cannot get to know them.

Because |spiritually| are they examined;

15 But ||the man of the spirit||

On the one hand examineth all things, But on the other || he himself || | by no one | is examined.

 16 For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord, that shall instruct him?

But || we || have | the mind of Christ |.

3 ||I|| therefore, brethren, have not been able to speak unto you

As unto men of the Spirit,

But as unto men of the flesh-

As unto babes in Christ:— |With milk| have I fed you

Not | with meat|;

For |not yet| have ye been able;—

Nay! ||not [yet] even now || are ye able,

For ye are | yet fleshly |.

For < whereas there are, among you, jealousy and strife> b

Are ye not |fleshly|, and |after the manner of men| walking?

4 For <as soon as one beginneth to say— ||I|| indeed am of Paul!

And another—

||I|| of Apollos!>

Are ye not ||men||?

What then is Apollos? and What is Paul?

Ministers through whom ye believed, and [each] as the Lord [gave] to him.

6 ||I|| planted,

||Apollos|| watered,—

But |God| caused to ||grow||.

7 So that neither is |he that planteth| anything,

Nor he that watereth,-

But |God| who causeth to ||grow||.

8 Moreover ||he that planteth and he that watereth|| are |one|:—

Howbeit, ||each one|| | his own' reward| shall receive,—according to his own' labour.

9 For we are ||God's|| fellow-workmen:

Ye are ||God's' farm, God's' building||.

10 < According to the favour of God which hath been given unto me>

|| As a wise' master-builder|| I laid |a foundation|,

Whereas | another | is building thereon:

But ||let each one|| see, how he buildeth thereon;

11 For ||other foundation||° can' |no one | lay than that which is lying,

Which is ||Jesus Christ||.

But <if anyone is building upon the foundation—

Gold silver precious stones,

Wood hay straw>

13 ||Each' one's work|| shall be made |manifest|; For ||the day|| will make it plain,

Because |by fire| is it to be revealed,-

And ||each' one's work|| |of what sort it is | the fire itself' will prove :—

<If |anyone's' work | shall abide which he built>

|A reward| shall he receive,—

<If |anyone's' work | shall be burnt up>

Until the Lord shall come,

Who will both bring to light the hidden things of darkness

And make manifest the counsels of the hearts:

And ||then|| |the praise| shall come to each one | from God |.

6 But ||these things|| brethren have I transferred unto myself and Apollos |for your sakes|,

But <if she should even depart>

Let her remain unmarried.

Or | to her husband | be reconciled; And let not ||a husband || leave | his wife|.

<If ||any brother|| hath |a wife that believeth not|</pre>

And ||she|| is well pleased to dwell with him>

Let him not leave her;

3 And <a woman who hath a husband that believeth not

And ||he|| is well pleased to dwell with her> Let her not leave her husband;—

14 For the husband that believeth not is hallowed in the wife,

And the wife that believeth not is hallowed in the brother:

Else were ||your children || |impure |,

But ||now|| are they |pure|.

But <if ||the unbelieving|| departeth>* let him depart:

The brother or the sister hath not come into bondage, in such cases,

But ||in peace|| hath God called us.

For how knowest thou, O woman, whether |thy husband | thou shalt save?

Or how knowest thou, O man, whether | thy wife | thou shalt save?

17 If not-

<As the Lord hath distributed | unto each one ||.

As God hath called ||each one||> ||So|| let him be walking:-

And |so| ||in all the assemblies|| I ordain.

18 ||After being circumcised|| was any called!

Let him not become uncircumcised; ||In uncircumciston|| hath any been called?

Let him not be circumcised:

||The circumcision|| is |nothing|.

And || the uncircumcision || is |nothing |,— But keeping the commandments of God.

20 || Each one || < in the calling wherein he was called >

||In the same|| let him abide 4:

|| A bond-servant|| wast thou called?

Let it not cause | thee | concern;

But <if thou canst even become |free|> Rather' use it.

22 For <he who in the Lord' was called, being a bond-servant>

Is |a freed-man of the Lord|:

||In like manner|| <he that was called being |a freeman|>

Is Christ's |bond-servant|:-

| With a price | have ye been bought, -- Do not become bond-servants of men:

25 But <concerning them who are virgin>

||Injunction of the Lord|| have I none;

Yet |a judgment| do I give as one who hath obtained mercy from the Lord to be |faithful|:—b

I consider this then to be |good| in the circumstances, by reason of the existing distress,—

That it is ||good for a man|| |so| to be:

Hast thou become bound to a wife?

Do not seek to be loosed;

Hast thou become loosed from a wife?

Do not seek a wife.

** <If however thou shouldst even marry> Thou hast not sinned;

And <if one who is virgin should marry>
That one hath not sinned;—

But ||tribulation of the flesh|| shall |such|| have:—

Howbeit ||I|| spare you.

But ||this|| I say-

|The opportunity| is contracted for what remaineth—

In order that || they who have wives ||
May be |as though they had none |,

40 And ||they who weep||

As though they wept not,

And ||they who rejoice||

As though they rejoiced not, And ||they who buy||

As though they possessed not,

And || they who use the world||

As though they used it not to the full,—
For the fashion of this world passeth away;

<sup>22</sup> And I desire you to be |without anxiety|:—
||The unmarried man|| is anxious for the things of the Lord,

How he may please the Lord;

But || he that hath married || is anxious for the things of the world,

How he may please his wife——24 and he is divided;

And || the unmarried woman, or the virgin ||
is anxious for the things of the Lord,
That she may be hely [both] in her body

That she may be holy [both] in her body and in her spirit;

But ||she that hath married|| is anxious for the things of the world,

How she may please her husband.

35 ||This|| however | with a view to your own' profit | am I saying,—

Not that ||a snare|| |upon you| I may cast, But with a view to what is comely, and devoted unto the Lord |without distraction|.

orded unto the Lord | without distraction |.

**Solution** | Without distraction |.

**Solution** | Solution** | Solution*

If he should be beyond the bloom of life,—
And |thus| it ought to come about>
|| What he chooseth|| let him do,—he sinneth not: Let them marry!

* Ver. 20. * Or: "to be a believer." ° 1 Jn. ii. 17. 4 Ap: "Virginity." <sup>27</sup> But <he that standeth in his heart |steadfast|, Having no necessity,

But hath |authority| concerning his own' will,

And |this| hath determined in his own' heart,—

To preserve his own' virginity>

|Well| shall he do.

38 So that ||he that giveth in marriage his own' virginity||

Doeth | well |;

And || he that giveth it not || Shall do || better|.

39 || A wife || is bound for as long a time as her husband is living;

But <if the husband have fallen asleep>
She is |free| to be married unto whom she pleaseth,—

|Only| in the Lord;

40 But ||happier|| is she if |so| she remain,— In my' judgment;

For I think ||I also|| have the Spirit of God.

8 Now < concerning the idol-sacrifices > we are aware—

Because we ||all|| have |knowledge|,— |Knowledge| puffeth up,

But |love| buildeth up;

2 <If anyone thinketh that he knoweth anything> not yet knoweth he as he must needs come to know.*

But <if anyone loveth God> || the same || is known of him-

4 < Concerning then the eating of idol-sacrifices> We are aware—

That an idol is [nothing] in the world, And that [none] is God save [one].

For <if indeed there are so-called gods, whether in heaven or upon earth,— As indeed there are gods many and lords many>

[Yet] ||to us|| there is one' God the Father,
Of' whom are all things, and |we| for
him;

And one' Lord Jesus Christ,

Through' whom are all things, and |we| through him.

7 Howbeit, ||not in all|| is the knowledge;

But ||some|| by their familiarity until even now with the idol> |as an idol-sacrifice| eat it,

And ||their conscience|| being ||weak|| is defiled.

Food indeed will not commend us' unto God,—

Neither | if we eat not | do we lack, Nor | if we eat | do we abound.

But be taking heed lest ||by any means|| |your right| ||itself|| become |an occasion of stumbling| unto the weak d;

10 For <if anyone should see [thee] who hast o knowledge, |in an idol-temple | reclining>

Will not | his conscience | being || weak ||, be built up for the eating of the idol-sacrifices?

In fact, he that is weak [is being destroyed] by thy' knowledge—

||The brother for whose sake Christ' died||.

But <in | thus | sinning against the brethren and wounding their' conscience, |seeing it is weak|>

|Against Christ| are ye sinning.

13 Therefore <if |food| is an occasion of stumbling unto my brother>

In nowise will I eat flesh unto the age that abideth,—

That I may not occasion ||my brother|| to stumble.

9 Am I not free ?

Am I not an apostle?

||Jesus our Lord|| have I not seen? Are not ||ye|| |my work| in the Lord?

2 <If ||unto others|| I am not an apostle>
Certainly at least ||unto you|| I am;
For ||the seal of my apostleship|| ||ye|| are in the Lord.

3 || My' defence, unto them who are examining me'|| is |this|:—

4 Have we not a right to eat and drink?

Have we not a right to take round ||a sister wife||.—

||As even the rest' of the apostles, and the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

Or have ||only' I and Barnabas|| not a right to forbear working?
 Who serveth as a soldier, at his own charges, at any time?

Who planteth a vineyard,—and ||the fruit thereof.; doth not eat?

[Or] who shepherdeth a flock,—and ||of the milk of the flock|| doth not eat?

Is it ||after the manner of men|| that |these things| I am saying?

Or doth not ||even the law|| | the same things | say ?

For ||in the law of Moses|| it is written— Thou shalt not muzzle an ox when it is treading out the corn*:—

Is it || for the oxen | God is caring?

Or || for our sakes altogether|| is he saying

||For our sakes|| it was written;

Because |he that ploweth| ought |to plow| ||in hope||,—

And |he that thresheth| [to thresh] in hope |of partaking|.

11 < If ||we|| |unto you| the things of the Spirit' have sown>

Is it |a great| matter if ||we|| |of you| the things of the flesh' shall reap? b

12 < If ||others|| of this right, over you are partaking>

[Should] not rather ||we||?

 Nevertheless, we used not this right; but |all [such] things| do we conceal,—lest we should cause |any hindrance| unto the glad message of the Christ.

13 Know ye not

That || they who labour in the holy rites' |
Do eat | the provisions out of the holy place | ?—

||They who at the altar wait||

Do | with the altar | share ? a

14 ||Thus|| also hath | the Lord | appointed-That || they who the glad-message tell |

Should |of' the glad-message| ||live;| ||I|| however, have not used any of these things; and have not written these things, in order that |so| it should be done |in my case|;

For it were ||good for me|| rather to die

||My boast|| shall |no man| make void!
For <if I be telling the glad-message>it is |with me| no matter of boasting;
for ||necessity|| |upon me| lieth,-for it is |Woe to me| if I should not be telling the glad-message;

For <if |by choice| this thing I am doing> I have |a reward|;

But <if not by choice> | with a stewardship | have I been entrusted! b

What, then, is my reward? That <in telling the glad-message> || free of cost|
I should put the glad-message,—to the end I should not use to the full my right in the glad-message.

19 For <though free from all>

|| Unto all || | myself | I enslaved,-

That | the larger number | I might win:

Therefore became I || to the Jews || as |a Jew |, That || Jews || I might win;

||To them who were under law|| as !under law|,—

Not being |myself| under law,—
That ||them who were under law| I might win;

"To them who were without law as | without

law|,—
Not being without law to God,

But lawfully subject to Christ,—
That I might win them who were without law.

That ||by all means|| |some | I might save.

But |all things | am I doing |for the sale of the glad-message|,

That |a joint-partaker thereof| I may become.

- For <if a woman doth not veil herself> let her also be shorn;

For #a man# indeed ought not to be veiling his head,

Being | the image and glory of God |,—d
But ||the woman || is | the glory of man |;

For |man| is not |of woman|,

But | woman | of | man |;

<Judgment unto a himself> doth eat and drink,—

|| If he be not setting apart b the body||.
|| For this cause|| || many among you'| are weak and sickly;

And |not a few | are falling asleep.

31 <If however we had been setting ||ourselves|| apart>

We had not in that case been coming under judgment;

But < being brought under judgment>

#By the Lord | are we being disciplined, Lest ||with the world || we should be condemned.

33 So then my brethren,-

< When ye come together for the eating> || Unto one another || be giving welcome:-

34 <If anyone be hungry> |at home | let him

Lest ||unto judgment||c ye be coming together.

And || the remaining things || | whensoever I come | I will set in order.

12 But |concerning the spiritually gifted || d brethren, I am not wishing you to be ignorant.

Ye know that <when ye were |of the nations|>

∥Unto the dumb idols howsoever ye were being led∥

Ye were seduced.

3 Wherefore, I give you to know-

That ||no one|| |in God's Spirit speaking|

And ||all|| |of one' Spirit| have been caused to 14 For ||the body also|| is not one' member but ||many|:

15 <Though the foot should say—

|Because I am not a hand | I am not of the body>

Is it |therefore| ||not|| of the body?

And < though the ear should say—

|Because I am not an eye| I am not of the body>

Is it |therefore| ||not|| of the body?

<If ||the whole' body|| were |an eye|>
Where were |the hearing|?

<If the whole' were | hearing |>

Where were | the smelling |?

18 But ||now|| hath God set the members, each one of them in the body |even as he pleased |.

But <if they all' had been one' member>
Where had been | the body |?

Now || Now || however, there are many members, yet one body;

[And] the eye cannot say unto the hand—
I have |no need of thee|,—
Nor "again" the head, unto the feet—

Nor ||again|| the head unto the feet— I have |no need of you|:—

Nay! ||much' more|| the members which seem' to be weaker' are |necessary|,

And <the parts of the body which we deem to be |less honourable|>

||On these|| |more abundant honour| do we bestow

And ||our uncomely parts|| have |more abundant comeliness|,

Whereas ||our comely parts|| have ||no need|.

But ||God|| hath tempered the body together,—
||Unto that which was lacking|| giving ||more abundant' honour|:—

25 That there might be no division in the body, But that the members might have ||the same|| care |one for another|;

6 But ||now|| brethren-

<If I come unto you speaking | with tongues > What shall I profit |you|,

Except I speak |unto you| either by way of revelation, or knowledge, or propherying, or teaching?

7 ||In like manner|| <the things without life giving |sound| whether pipe or harp>

<If |a distinction in the sounds | they do not give>

How shall it be known, what is being piped or harped?

<sup>8</sup> For <if also |an uncertain' sound| |a trumpet should give>

10 There |may happen| to be so' many kinds of languages in the world,

And |not one | unspoken :-

If then I do not know the meaning of the language>*

I shall be unto him that is speaking |a foreigner|,

And ||he that is speaking|| shall be |in my case| a foreigner.

12 So || ye|| also-

<Since ye are |envious| of spirits>

|| Unto the upbuilding of the assembly || seek to be pre-eminent.

Wherefore <he that speaketh with a tongue> Let him pray that he b may translate;

[For] <if I am praying in a tongue> ||My spirit|| is praying,

But ||my mind|| is |unfruitful|.

15 What is it then?

I will pray |with the spirit|

But I will pray |also with the mind|,-

I will strike the strings | with the spirit | [But] I will strike the strings | also with the mind |.

16 || Else || < if thou be blessing • in a spirit>

<He that filleth up the place of the ungifted person>

How shall he say the Amen upon thy' thanksgiving?

Since indeed ||what thou' art saying|| he knoweth not:

17 For ||thou|| indeed, |excellently| art giving thanks,

But | the other | is not being built up.

18 I give thanks unto God !--

|| More than ye all'|| am I speaking | with tongues|;

19 But <in assembly>

I desire to speak | five' words with my mind| <That | others also | I may instruct> Than myriads' of words | in a tongue |.

20 Brethren! do not become |children| ||in your understandings||;

But ||in baseness|| become babes,

While ||in your understandings|| ye become ||full-grown|.

21 || In the law || it is written-

< With strange tongues

And with lips of strangers>

Will I speak unto this people;

And ||not even so|| will they hearken unto me,—4 Saith the Lord.

22 So that ||the tongues|| are |for a sign|— |Not unto them that believe|

But ||unto them that believe not||;

Whereas ||prophesying|| is

|Not for them that believe not |. But ||for them that believe||.

23 < If then the whole assembly come together with one consent,

Or: "one."

And there come in persons unskilled or unbelieving>

Will they not say that ye are raving?

Here are raving?

But <if |all| be prophesying,—

And there come in one who is unbelieving or unskilled>

He is convicted by all

He is searched by all,

||The secrets of his heart|| become |manifest|;

And ||so|| < falling down upon his face >
he will do homage unto God, reporting that ||in reality|| God' is | among you |.*

36 What then is it, brethren?

<Whensoever ye are coming together>

|| Each one|| hath |a psalm|, hath |a teaching|, hath |a revelation|, hath |a tongue|, hath |a translation|;—

Let ||all things|| be done |unto building up|.

27 < If ||with a tongue|| one is speaking>

Let it be by two, or, at the most three, —
And by turns;

And let |one| be translating;

But <if there be none to translate>
Let him keep silence in assembly,
And |unto himself| be speaking, and |unto
God|.

29 < Prophets moreover>

Let |two or three| speak, And let |the others| judge.

30 <If however unto another a revelation be made as he is sitting >

Let | the first | be silent;

For ||one by one|| ye can ||all|| be prophesying,—

That |all| may learn, and |all| be encouraged.

And ||spirits of prophets|| |unto prophets| do submit themselves;

For God is not [a God] ||of confusion|| but ||of peace|:—

As in all' the assemblies of the saints.

34 < As for the women >

||In the assemblies|| let them be silent,

For it is not permitted them to be speaking; But let them be in submission,—

Even as | the law | saith.

25 <If however they are wishing |to learn| something >

||At home|| |their own' husbands| let them question;

For it is |a shame| for a woman | to be speaking in assembly|.

** Or ||from you|| did the word of God come forth? Or ||unto you alone|| did it extend?

37 < If anyone thinketh himself to be |a prophet| or spiritually gifted>

Let him acknowledge the things which I am writing to you,—

That they are |a commandment| ||of the Lord||.

That || ye also || be submitting yourselves unto such as these,—and unto everyone' helping in the work and toiling.

<sup>17</sup> I rejoice moreover in the presence of Stephanas and Fortunatus, and Achaicus:

Because ||your own' shortcoming? |these have filled up:-

They have given rest in fact unto my spirit | and yours |:

19 The assemblies of Asia salute you:

Aquila and Priscilla, with the assembly meeting at their house, salute you much in the Lord:

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

CORINTHIANS.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through the will of God,

And Timothy the brother,—

Unto the assembly of God which is in Corinth, Together with all the saints who are in the whole of Achaia:

Favour unto you, and peace,

From God [our] Father, and Lord Jesus

3 ||Blessed|| be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.*

The Father of compassions

And God of all' encouragement,

4 Who encourageth us in all' our tribulation

To the end we may be able to encourage them who are in any tribulation—

Through means of the encouragement wherewith we |ourselves| are encouraged by God.

5 Because < even as the sufferings of the Christ overflow unto us>

|So| ||through the Christ|| overfloweth |our encouragement also|.

But < whether we are in tribulation>

It is for your encouragement and salvation;

< Whether we are encouraged>

It is for your encouragement, which worketh inwardly b by the endurance of the same sufferings which ||we also|| suffer ;—

7 And so ||our hope|| is sure in your behalf,— Knowing that—

<As ye are |sharers| of the sufferings>c |So| also of the encouragement.

S For we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, as to our tribulation which happened in Asia,—

That |exceedingly beyond power| were we weighed down,

So that we despaired leven of life |.

But ||we ourselves within ourselves|| have had
 |the sentence of death|,

That we might not rest our confidence upon

But upon God | who raiseth the dead |,

Who ||out of so great' a death|| rescued us, and will' rescue,—

Unto whom we have turned our hope.

[that] | even yet | he will' rescue:

Ye also labouring together on our behalf | by your supplication |, d

• Eph. i. 3. • Or: "energiseth." Ph. iii. 10.
 Ro. xv. 30.

That < ||unto many' persons|| being due the gift of favour |unto us|>

||Through means of many|| might thanks be given in our behalf.

12 For ||our boasting|| is |this|——The witness of our conscience.

That < in sanctity and sincerity of God.

[And] not in fleshly wisdom, but in God's favour>

Have we behaved ourselves in the world,— ||And more abundantly towards you||-

13 For || no other things|| are we writing unto you than what ye are either reading or even acknowledging,—I hope moreover that |throughout| ye will' acknowledge,

According as ye have also acknowledged us, in part.—

That ||your theme of boasting|| we are,

Even indeed as ||ye|| also [shall be] ||ours|| in the day of our Lord Jesus,

<sup>15</sup> And ||in this' confidence|| I purposed ||before|| to come ||unto you|,—

In order that ||a second' joy||a ye might have.—

And ||by your means|| to pass into Macedonia,

And |again| ||from Macedonia||b to come unto you.

And ||by you|| be set forward unto Judæa:-

17 < | This | then, being my purpose>

Perhaps | after all | | | with lightness | I dealt [with the matter]?

Or <the things that I purpose > ||according to the flesh|| I purpose,—

That | with me | should be the Yea, yea, and the Nay, nay?

18 | Faithful | however is God, in that ||our discourse which was [delivered] unto you || is not Yea and Nay;

For ||the Son of God', Christ Jesus||-

< Who | among you, through us | was proclaimed,—

Through me and Silvanus and Timothy >

Became not Yea and Nay,-

But || Yea, in him || hath it become;

For < how many soever be the promises of God>

||In him|| is the Yes.-

Or (WH): "benefit," 1 Co. xvi. 5.

Wherefore also |through him | [be*] the Amen, unto b God,

For glory, through us.

21 Now <he that confirmeth us o together with you for Christ,

And hath anointed us>

Is God: 22 Who also hath sealed us

And given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.<sup>4</sup>

23 But ||I|| call upon |God| ||as a witness|| against my own' soul,—

That ||to spare you|| |not yet| have I come unto Corinth:

Not that we have lordship over your faith,
But are |helpers| of your joy,
For |by your faith| ye stand.

2 For I have determined unto myself this— Not ||again in grief|| to come |unto you|.

<sup>2</sup> For <if ||I|| grieve you>

Who then is he that is to gladden me,— Save he who is being grieved through me;

3 And I wrote this very thing— Lest ||if I came|| I should have ||grief|| from those over whom I had need to rejoice,—

Having confidence in you all'

That ||my joy|| is the joy |of you all'|.

For <out of much' tribulation and anguish of heart> wrote I unto you | through many' tears |,—

Not that ye might be grieved.

But that ||the love|| ye might know, which I have very abundantly unto you.

Now <if anyone hath caused grief> |Not unto me| hath he caused grief, But——that I may not bear too heavily—unto you all'.

Sufficient unto such a one the punishment itself which [was inflicted] by the many ;

7 So that |on the contrary| ye should forgive f and encourage,

Lest, by any means, ||by his excessive' grief|| such a one should be swallowed up.

8 Wherefore I beseech you assure him |of love|:

For | to this end | I also wrote, -

That I might know the proofs of you Whether ||in all things|| ye are |obedient|.

Now <to whom ye forgive anything> ||I, also||;
For ||I also|| <what I have forgiven, if |anything| I have forgiven>

||For your sake in the person of Christ||
| [have I forgiven it].

Lest we should be overreached by Satan,
For |of his' thoughts| we are not ignorant.

12 Moreover <although I came unto Troas for the glad-message of the Christ, and |a door for me| had been opened in the Lord>

I had no relief in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother;

But | taking my leave of them | I came away into Macedonia.*

14 But ||unto God|| be thanks

<Who |ever| leadeth us in triumph in the Christ.

And || the fragrance of the knowledge of him || maketh manifest, through us in every place>

15 That ||of Christ|| |a grateful odour | are we unto God,—

In them who are being saved,

And in them who are being lost:

In these indeed a fragrance out of death into death,

But ||in those || a fragrance out of life intolife.\(^\)
And ||for these things || who is sufficient?

For we are not, as the many, driving a petty trade c with the word of God;

But <as of sincerity>
But <as of God, before God>

|In Christ| we speak.

3 Are we to begin again |ourselves! to commend: Or have we need |like some; of commendatory letters unto you, or from you?

2 <Our letter> ||ye|| are

Inscribed in our hearts,

Noted and read by all' men:

3 Manifesting yourselves that ye are a letter of Christ, ministered by us,—

Inscribed—
Not with ink

But with [the] Spirit of a Living God,

Not in tablets of stone d
But in tablets [which are] hearts of flesh.

4 But ||such confidence as this | have we.

Through the Christ towards God.

Not that ||of our own selves|| |sufficient|| are we to reckon anything as of ourselves,

But |our sufficiency| is of God;—
Who also hath made us sufficient to be ministers of a new covenant-

Not of letter, But of spirit,

For |the letter | killeth,

Whereas | the Spirit | maketh alive.

7 But <if ||the ministry of death in letters' engraven in stones: [was brought into enistence with glory,

So that the sons of Israel could not look steadfastly into the face of Moses.

By reason of the glory of his face—
Which [glory] was to be 5 done away>

8 How shall not |rather| ||the ministry of the Spirit|| be with glory?

not even been made glorious in this' respect,-

By reason of the surpassing glory.

For <if that which was to be done away [was brought in] with a glory>

|| Much more || | that which is to abide | is in glory.

12 < Having, then, such hope as this'>

||Great' openness of speech|| do we use ;-And are not just like Moses, [who] kept putting a veil upon his face b

So that the sons of Israel should not look steadily unto the end of that which was to be done away.

14 But their thoughts were turned into stone: For <until this very day> ||the same' veil | upon the reading of the old' covenant | abideth, not to be removed, Because ||in Christ|| it is to be done away;

> But <until this day> || whensoever Moses is read | |a veil upon their heart | doth lie;

Howbeit < when soever he turneth unto [the] Lord> he taketh off the veil b:

And ||we all|| <||with unveiled' face|| receiving and reflecting d | the glory of [the] Lord >

> Into the same image are being transformed,

From glory into glory,-Even as from a Spirit that is Lord.

- Wherefore < having this ministry even as we received mercy> we faint not;
- But have renounced the hidden things of shame,

Not walking in craftiness

Nor handling the word of God deceitfully,-But ||by the manifestation of the truth|| commending ourselves unto every' conscience of men in the sight of God.

And <even if our glad-message | is veiled |> ||In them who are perishing|| it is veiled,

In whom ||the god of this age|| hath blinded the minds of the unbelieving To the end they may not discern the radiance of the glad-message of the glory of the Christ-Who is the image of God.

For ||not ourselves|| do we proclaim but Christ' Jesus |as Lord|,

> And |ourselves| as your servants for Jesus' sake.

desiring to clothe ourselves over ||with our habitation which is of 'a heaven !.-

Although, indeed <even clothing ourwe shall not be found selves>b |naked|;-

And verily ||we who are in the tent|| do sigh | being weighed down |,

While yet we are not wishing to unclothe ourselves but to clothe ourselves over,-

In order that ||what is mortal|| may be swallowed up' || by life || c

Now ||he that hath wrought us for this very' thing | is |God|,-

Who hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit |,

6 Having good courage, therefore, at all times, And knowing that-

Remaining at home in the body,

We are away from home from the Lord,— |By faith| are we walking

Not by sight ;-

8 We have good courage, however, and are well pleased-

Rather to be away from home out of the body,

And to come home, unto the Lord.

Wherefore also we are ambitious—

<Whether at home or away from home> To be | well-pleasing unto him |.

10 For ||we all'|| must needs be made manifest' before the judgment seat of the Christ,*

That each one may get back the things done by means of the body,

(According to the things which he practised |

Whether good or corrupt.

11 < Knowing, then, the fear of the Lord> We persuade || men ||,

For < whether we have been beside ourit hath been for God, selves>

Or < whether we are sober-minded> it is for you.

And ||in behalf of all|| died he, -In order that ||they who live||

16 So that ||we|| |henceforth| know |no one| |after the flesh | :

<If we have even been gaining after the flesh a knowledge of Christ>

||On the contrary|| |now_no longer| are we gaining it.

So that <if any one is in Christ> there is a new creation!

|| The old things || have passed away, --

Lo! they have become new!

20 ||In behalf of Christ|| therefore are we ambassadors, -

As if God were beseeching through us:

We entreat in behalf of Christ -

Be reconciled unto God! < Him who knew not sin>

||In our behalf|| he made to be |sin|, That we might become God's righteousness in him.

<As co-workers, however> we also beseech That ||not in vain|| |the favour of God| ye welcome:

For he saith.

In an approved season | have I heartened unto thee,

And | in a day of salvation | have I succoured thee c:-

That the ministry be not blamed:

But ||in everything|| commending ourselves as God's ministers, -

In much endurance in tribulations in necessities in straits, 5 in stripes in imprisonments in tumults, in toilings in watchings in fastings, in sanctity in knowledge in long-suffering, in graciousness in Holy Spirit in love unfeigned, in discourse of truth, in power of God;

11 |Our mouth | is opened unto you O Corinthians! |Our heart | hath become enlarged ::

Ye are not straitened in us

But are straitened in your hearts' affections:

Howbeit < by way of the like' recompenseas |unto children | I speak> Be enlarged, even || ye||.

14 Be not getting diversely yoked with unbelievers: For what partnership have righteousness and lawlessness?

Or what fellowship hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Beliar?

Or what part hath a believer with an unbeliever?

And what agreement hath a shrine of God with idols?

> For ||we|| are [the] |shrine of a God| that |liveth|:-

Even as God hath said-

I will dwell in them, and walk, And will be their God

And ||they|| shall be my' people.d

Wherefore come ye forth out of their midst.

And be separated, -saith [the] Lord, -And |one impure | do not touch:

And ||I|| will give you welcome.

And will become your Father And ||ye|| shall become my sons and daughters. Saith [the] Lord Almighty.

7 < Having therefore ||these|| promises beloved>

Let us purify ourselves from all' pollution of flesh and spirit.

Perfecting holiness in fear of God.

<sup>2</sup> Give place to us!

||No one|| have we wronged,

||No one|| have we corrupted,

||No one || have we defrauded.

||Unto condemnation|| I am not saying [this] For I have before said-

> ||In our hearts|| are ye, to the end we may die together and live together.

|Great| is my freedom of speech towards

|Great| is my boasting in behalf of you: I am filled with the encouragement,

I am greatly superabounding with the joy, In all' our tribulation.

5 For <even when we came' into Macedonia>5 ||No relief at all || had our flesh;

Ps. exviii. 17 f. Let the reader count up the above details—"in" 18 times; "through" 8; "as" 7, and these last each with a reverse side to the medal. This is something like an "open-ing" of the "mouth."

But ||in every way|| were we in tribulation,-|Without | fightings!

|Within| fears!

6 But < he who encourageth them that are brought low> encouraged us,-

Even God,—by the presence of Titus.

Not however by his presence [alone],

But also by the encouragement wherewith he had been encouraged over you:

Recounting a unto us your earnest desire, your' lamentation, your' zeal in my behalf. So that I the more' rejoiced.

Because <if I even grieved you by the letter> I do not regret,-

Though I could even have regretted,—

I see that that letter <if even for an hour > did cause you grief.

|Now | am I rejoicing,-

Not that ye were grieved,

But that ye were grieved unto repentance; For ye were grieved according to God,

In order that |in nothing| should ye receive damage from us.

For ||grief according to God'|| worketh |repentance unto salvation not to be regretted :

Although || the grieving of the world' || worketh |death|.

For lo! this very' thing—the being caused to grieve |according to God|:-

What manner of diligence it wrought out in you.-nay! defence.-nay! sore displeasure, -- nay ! fear, -- nay ! earnest desire, -nay! jealousy, -nay! aveng-

|In every way| ye shewed yourselves to be |chaste| in the matter.

Hence <if I even wrote unto vou>

It was not for the sake of him that did' the wrong,

[Nay] not even for the sake of him that suffered' the wrong;

But for the sake of your earnestness, which was on our account, being made manifest unto you before God :-

||For this cause|| have we received encouragement.

<In addition to our encouragement, however> |Much more abundantly| have we rejoiced over the joy of Titus,-

That his spirit hath received refreshment from you all',

That <if in anything—unto him—in your behalf—I have boasted>

I have not been put to shame;

But <as ||all things in truth|| we told you> |So| ||even our boasting before Titus|| turned out to be |truth|.

And ||his tender affections|| are |much more abundantly towards you

When he calleth to mind the obedience |of you all' |,-

How ||with fear and trembling|| ye gave him welcome.

The count is resumed lower down, ver. 11.)

- 16 I rejoice that |in everything| I am of good courage respecting you.
- 8 Moreover we make known unto you, brethren.
  The favour of God which hath been given in the assemblies of Macedonia,—
- That <in a great' testing of tribulation> ||The superabounding of their joy and their deep' destitution|

Superabounded unto the riches of their liberality;

That <according to power, I bear witness, and beyond power>

||Of their own accord|| [they acted],---

With much exhortation entreating of us the favour and the fellowship of the ministry which was for the saints;—

And <not merely as we hoped>

But ||themselves|| gave they first unto the Lord and unto us through God's will.

To the end we should exhort Titus, in order that <According as he before made a beginning>

||So|| he should also complete unto you this favour also.

7 But <just as |in everything| ye superabound,—

In faith and discourse and knowledge and all' earnestness, and in the love among you which proceedeth from us'>

In order that |in this' favour also| ye would superabound.

8 | Not by way of injunction | • do I speak, But through | others' | earnestness

And | the genuineness of your own' love | putting to the test.

For ye are taking knowledge of the favour of our Lord Jesus [Christ],—

How that |for your sakes| he became destitute—although he was |rich|,

In order that ||ye|| |by his destitution| might be enriched.

And | a judgment, herein | do I give,— For | this unto you | is profitable,—

11

Who, indeed | not only of the doing, but of the desiring | made for yourselves a beginning a year ago :—

Howbeit ||now|| | the doing also | complete ye,
In order that | even according to the forwardness of the desiring |

||So|| may be the completing—out of what ye have.

For <if the forwardness is set forth>
|According to what one may have| he is well approved,

Not according to what one hath not.

13 For <not that unto others' should be relief, and unto you' distress [do I speak].

But by equality>||In the present' season|| your' surplus for their deficiency,—

In order that their surplus may come to be for your deficiency:
* 1 Co. vii. 6.

||That there may come about an equality|:-

15 Even as it is written-

|| He that [gathered] the much || had not more then enough,

And || he that [gathered] the little || had not lem.

16 Thanks, however, unto God!-

Who is putting the same earnestness in your behalf in the heart of Titus,

In that <though, indeed, | the exhortation |
he welcomed >

Yet already being [greatly in earnest], of his own accord || hath he gone forth unto you.

18 Howbeit, we have set forward, with him, the brother ||whose praise in the Glad Tidings. [hath gone] through all' the assemblies:-

Not only so however but he hath also been appointed by the assemblies as a fellow-traveller with us in this favour which is being ministered by us with a view to the |Lord's| glory and our earnest desire:—

Arranging this—lest anyone |upon us; should cast blame in this munificence which is being ministered by us;

For we provide things honourable, not only before [the] Lord, but also before men.

22 Moreover we have set forward with them our brother whom we have proved |in many things ofttimes | earnest,—

But ||now|| much' more earnest by reason of the great confidence [which he hath] towards you.

23 < Whether as regardeth Titus>

He is a partner of mine, and |towards you| a fellow-worker.

<Or our brethren>

Apostles of assemblies, and Christ's glory.

24 < The proof of your love therefore and of our boasting in your behalf >

Shew ye |unto them| ||in the face of the assemblies||.

9 For indeed < concerning the ministry which is for the saints>

It is |superfluous for me| to be writing to you;

For I know your forwardness of mind-

Of which |in your behalf | I am boasting unto Macedonians

That || Achaia|| hath been prepared for a year past.—

And ||your' zeal|| hath stirred up the greater number of them.

3 Nevertheless I have sent the brethren

That ||our boast in your behalf|| be not made void |in this respect|,

That |even as I was saying | ye' may be prepared,—

Lest by any means <if there should come with me Macedonians and find you unprepared>

|| We||—not to say || ye||—should be put to shame in this confidence.

Exo. xvi. 18.

|Necessary| therefore I regarded it.

To exhort the brethren that they would go forward unto you.

And make up beforehand your previouslypromised blessing.

||The same|| to be |ready|-|thus as a blessing and not as of constraint.

<As to this however>

He that soweth sparingly

|Sparingly | also shall reap.

And || he that soweth with blessings || |With blessings | also shall reap *:

Each one according as he hath purposed in his heart|

Not sorrowfully, nor of necessity,-

For ||a cheerful giver|| | God | loveth.b

8 Moreover God is able to cause | every' gracious gift to superabound unto you,

> In order that <having in every' thing at every time' every kind of sufficiency of your own>°

Ye may be superabounding unto every' good work:

Even as it is written-

He hath scattered abroad,

He hath given to the needy, -

|| His righteousness || abideth to futurity.

Now <he that supplieth seed to the sower, and bread for eating>

Will supply and multiply your seed for sowing,

And cause to grow your fruits of righteousness :

11 |In every thing| being enriched unto every kind' of liberality,-

Which indeed worketh out through us thanksgiving unto God:

Because || the ministry of this public service || is not only' towards filling up the deficiencies of the saints, but also superabounding | through the thanksgiving of many' | unto God,—

13 [Of many] who |through the proof of this ministry | are glorifying God for your acknowledged' submission unto the gladmessage of the Christ, and for the liberality of the fellowship |unto them and unto all |,-

||Themselves also|| <with supplication on your behalf > longing after you by reason of the surpassing favour of God [resting] upon you:-

Thanks be unto God, for his unspeakable' bounty!

10 Moreover ||I Paul myself|| exhort you. Through the meekness and considerate-

> ness of the Christ,-I who | to look upon indeed | am lowly among you, But |absent| am bold towards you ;—

Gal. vi. 7.

"the fruits of your 10: Hos. x. 12.

* I entreat however

That | when present | I may not be bold with the assurance wherewith I think to be daring against some who account of us as though |according to flesh| we were walking,-

For <though |in flesh| we walk>

Not |according to flesh| do we war,-

For || the weapons of our warfare|| are not fleshly

But mighty by God unto a pulling down of strongholds,-

When we pull down |calculations| and every' height that uplifteth itself against the knowledge of God,

And when we bring into captivity every thought unto the obedience of the Christ,

And when we hold ourselves |in readiness| to avenge all' disobedience

As soon as your obedience shall be ful-

7 || The things that lie on the surface || ye are looking at :-

<If anyone hath come to trust in himself that he is |Christ's|>

||This|| let him reckon again with himself-That <even as ||he|| is Christ's> |So| also are ||we||.

Yea<if |somewhat more abundantly | I should boast concerning our authority-

Which the Lord hath given for building up and not for pulling you down>

I shall not be put to shame,-

That I may not seem as though I would be terrifying you through means of my letters:

Because ||The letters it is true||(saith one),* are weighty and strong,

But | the presence of the body | is weak and the discourse | contemptible ;-

11 ||This|| let such a one reckon-

That < what we are in our word through means of letters, being absent>

|Such| also ||being present|| are we ||in our deed ||.

12 For we dare not class or compare ourselves with some' who do | themselves | commend;

But ||they|| < ||among b themselves|| measuring themselves, and comparing themselves with themselves>

Are without discernment!

13 || We || however < not as to the things without measure> will boast ourselves,

But according to the measure of the limit which God apportioned unto us |as a messure!-

To reach as far as even you!

For < not as though we were not reaching unto you> are we over-stretching ourselves,

For <as far as even you> were we beforehand in the glad-message of the Christ:

15 Not <as to the things without measure> boasting ourselves in other' men's toils,

But having |hope|-your faith |growing|-

* Or (WH): "may they." Digitized by within |among you| to be enlarged ||according to our limit for something beyond ||,—

|Unto the regions beyond you| to carry the glad-message:

Not <within another' man's limit, as to the things made ready> to boast ourselves.

17 | He that boasteth | however | || in the Lord || let him boast *;

For |not he that commendeth himself'| ||he|| is approved,

But he whom ||the Lord|| doth commend.

11 I could wish ye would bear with me as to some little' foolishness,—

Nay! do even bear with me.

For I am jealous over you with a jealousy |of God|;

For I myself betrothed you unto one' husband

To present |a chaste virgin| unto the Christ,—

But I fear lest, by any means,

<As ||the serpent|| completely deceived Eve_ in his craftiness>b

Your minds should be corrupted from the singleness [and the chasteness] which are [due] unto the Christ.

4 For <if indeed | he that cometh | is proclaiming ||another Jesus|| c

Whom we have not proclaimed,

Or ||a different Spirit|| ye are receiving

Which ye had not received, Or a different glad-message

Which ye have never welcomed> Ye are |well| bearing.4

<sup>5</sup> For I reckon not to have come a whit' behind the exceeding overmuch' apostles;

And <even if uncultured in my discourse>
Certainly not in my knowledge,—

But ||in every way|| having made [it] manifest in all things unto you.

7 Or ||a sin|| did I commit—

Abasing |myself| that ||ye|| might be exalted,—

In that || free of charge || | God's' glad-message || I announced unto you?

8 "Other assemblies I despoiled receiving supplies that I might minister |unto you|;

 And <being present with you and having come short> I was not burdensome to anyone,—

For ||my deficiency|| the brethren coming from Macedonia, |helped to make up|;—

And <in everything, without burden unto you> I kept |myself|—and will' keep!

10 ||Truth of Christ is in me|| that |this boasting| shall not be silenced unto me, in the regions of Achaia.

Wherefore? Because I love you not? |God| knoweth!

But || what I am' doing || I also will' do,—
That I may cut off the occasion of them who are wishing an occasion,

That | wherein they are boasting themselves | they may be found even as also ||we||.

For ||such as these|| are false apostles, deceitful workers, transfiguring themselves into apostles of Christ.

And no marvel! For ||Satan himself'| doth transfigure himself into a messenger of light!

|| No great thing therefore || if | his ministers also | are transfiguring themselves as ministers of righteousness!—
|| Whose end || shall be according to their

16 | Again | I say-

Let no one deem me to be |foolish|;

But |otherwise, at least | ||as foolish || give me welcome,

That ||I also|| |some little| may boast myself.

17 <What I am saying> ||Not according to the Lord|| am I saying, but as in foolishness,—

In this' my boastful' confidence!

<Since |many| are boasting after the flesh>

||I also|| will boast;

For gladly do ye bear with the foolish, Being [yourselves] |discreet|,—

Being [yourselves] |discreet|,—
For ye bear with it—

If anyone enslaveth you, if any devoureth, if anyone taketh, if anyone lifteth himself up, if anyone |on the face| doth smite you!

21 ||By way of disparagement|| am I speaking,— As though ||we|| had been weak!

Whereas ||in whatsoever anyone dareth|| <in foolishness I speak> ||I also|| dare:-

Hebrews | are they? || I also ||,
| Israelites | are they? || I also ||,
| Seed of Abraham | are they? || I also ||,

> |In toils| superabundantly, |In prisons| superabundantly,

|In stripes | to excess, |In deaths | oft.—

hunger and thirst | in fasting | oft, in cold and nakedness :--

<Apart from the things without> ||My daily care||-my anxiety for all' the assemblies ;-

Who is weak, and I am not' weak? Who is caused to stumble, and ||I|| am not burning?

<If |to boast| is needful> |in the things that concern my weakness | will I boast.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus, knoweth-

And |through a window | was I let down by 23

And escaped his hands.

12 |To be boasting | is needful,—it is not, indeed, profitable,b

Yet will I come to visions and revelations of [the] Lord :-

<sup>2</sup> I know a man in Christ

Who |fourteen years ago|

< Whether in the body, I know not,

Or out of the body I know not, [God] knoweth>

Such a one as this |caught away| as far as the third heaven;

|| Most gladly || therefore will I rather boast in my weaknesses,

That the power of Christ may spread a tent over me.

10 Wherefore, I take pleasure in weaknesses, in insults in necessities in persecutions and straits.

| In behalf of Christ |:

For <as soon as I am weak> ||then|| am I ||powerful||.

11 I have become foolish,—||ye|| compelled me:— ||I|| in fact, ought |by you| to have been commended;

For |not a whit| have I come behind the exceeding overmuch apostles,-

|Even if I am nothing' |:

||The signs indeed of an apostle||b were wrought out among you |in all' endurance |,-

[Both] in signs, and wonders, and mighty works:

For what is there wherein ye were made inferior to the rest' of the assemblies,-

Save that ||I myself|| would not allow myself to be a burden unto you? Forgive me this wrong!

14 Lo! ||this third time|| I am holding myself |in readiness to come unto you,

And I will not allow myself to be a burden:

For I seek not yours, but you;-

For |the children| ought not' to lay up |for the parents,

But the parents for the children ;-

And ||I|| |most gladly| will spend, and be fully spent, for your souls :-

<If I | exceedingly | love you > am I | the less | loved ? c

16 But let it be !-

I ||myself|| did not burden you,-

Notwithstanding, ||being crafty|| |with guile| I caught you?d

17 Was there | anyone of those whom I have sent unto you through whom I have overreached

I exhorted Titus, and sent with him the brother,-

Did |Titus| overreach you?

Was it not |in the same' spirit| we walked?

Was it not |in the same' steps|?

19 || All this time || think ye, that [unto you] we are making a defence?

||Before God in Christ|| we speak ;-

But all these things, beloved, for your upbuilding.

20 For I fear-

<Lest by any means when I come> |Not such as I wish | should I find you, And ||I|| should be found by you | such as ye do not' wish!; -

• Or (WH): "in persecutions, in straits."
• 1 Co. ix. 2.
• Or (WH): "Though < the more I love you > the less

I am loved." d As if: "Is that what you say?"—which he then indignantly denies.

Lest, by any means, [I should find] strife, jealousy, outbursts of wrath, factions, railings, whisperings, puffed up pretensions, confusions;—

Lest < when I again' come > my God should humble me in regard to you,—

And I should grieve over many who had before sinned, and not repented of the impurity, and fornication, and wantonness which they had committed.

- 13 ||This third time|| am I coming unto you: -- < At the mouth of two' witnesses, or three > shall every' matter be established.
- 2 I have said beforehand, and do say beforehand,— <As present the second time, although now absent>
  - Unto them who before sinned, and unto all the rest,—

That <if I come again> I will not spare.

3 <Since ||a test|| ye are seeking of the speaking in me of Christ;—

Who |unto you| is not weak.
But is powerful in you,—

For |although he was crucified through weakness|

Yet is he living through God's power,— For |although ||we|| are weak in chim|

Yet shall we live with him through God's power [unto us]>--

5 Be trying ||yourselves|| whether ye are in the faith,

Be putting ||yourselves|| to the test!
Or do ye not recognise yourselves,

Or: "am I to come unto Deu. xix. 15. Or: "with."

Seeing that |Jesus Christ| is in you,— Unless perhaps ye fail in the testing.

- 6 I hope, however, that ye shall come to know, that ||we|| fail not in the testing!
- But we pray unto God, that ye may do nothing base,—

Not that ||we|| may appear |accepted|, But that ||ye|| | the honourable thing may be doing even though ||we|| should be as it were | |rejected|;

- For we can do nothing against' the truth, but for' the truth;
- For we rejoice—whensoever [we] are weak, and ||ye|| are |strong|.

||This|| also we pray for—your restoration:-

- || For this cause || | these things while absent | am I writing,
  - That I may not |when present| deal sharply'—
  - According to the authority which | the Lord | hath given me for building up and not for pulling down.
- 11 ||Finally|| brethren, farewell!

Be getting restored, be taking encouragement, be of one mind, live in peace,—

And ||the God of love and peace|| will be with you.

- Salute ye one another with a holy kiss. [All the saints | salute you.
- 13 ||The favour of our Lord Jesus [Christ]. And the love of God. And the fellowship of the Holy' Spirit!

Be with you all'.

TO THE

GALATIANS.

1 Paul an apostle,—

Not from men, nor through man, But through Jesus Christ, and God the Father who raised him from among the dead.—

- And all the brethren with me;— Unto the assemblies of Galatia:
- Favour unto you and peace.
  From God our Father,
  And Lord Jesus Christ,—
- * Or: "From God [the] Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ."

Who gave himself for our size.

That he might deliver us out of the present evil age,

According to the will of our God and Father,—

Unto whom be the glory unto the ages of ages: Amen!

I marvel that ||thus' quickly|| ye are moving away from him that called you in the favour of Christ,

*Or: "over"; or (WH): Tt. ii. 14.

Unto a different' glad-message,—

Which is not |another|,

Only there are |some| that are troubling you.

And wishing to change the glad-message of the Christ.

But <even if ||we|| or ||a messenger out of heaven || announce a glad-message [unto you] aside from that which we announced unto you>

| Accursed | b let him be !

||As we have said before even now again I 8a.y ||:

<If anyone is announcing unto you' a gladmessage aside from that which ye accepted>

|Accursed|b let him be!

For am I |even now| persuading ||men|| or |God|?

Or am I seeking to please ||men||?

<If I had been still' pleasing |men|> ||Christ's' servant|| had I not been!

11 For I make known unto you brethren

<As to the glad-message which was announced by me>

That it is not after man;

For neither ||from man|| did I accept it

Nor was taught [it].-

But through a revealing of Jesus Christ. 12 For ye have heard <as to my own' manner of life at one time in Judaism>

How that |exceedingly| was I persecuting the assembly of God, and laying it waste.

And was making advancement, in Judaism above many' contemporaries in my nation,-

Being |surpassingly zealous| of my paternal' instructions.d

But < when God * who set me apart from my mother's womb and called me through his

Was well-pleased' 16 to reveal his Son in me, s That I might announce the glad-message regarding him among the nations>

|Straightway | I conferred not with flesh and blood.

Neither went I up unto Jerusalem unto them who |before me| were apostles,-But I went away into Arabia, and again' returned unto Damascus.

||Then after three years || went I up unto Jerusalem to become acquainted with Cephas, and tarried with him fifteen days;

But ||other of the apostles|| saw I none save James the brother of the Lord:-

Now <as touching the things which I am writing to you> lo! |before God | I am not guilty of falsehood :-

||After that || I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia.

And was still unknown by face unto the Only they were hearing-

||He that was persecuting us formerly|| |Now| is announcing the glad-message of the faith which he formerly laid waste;

And they were glorifying ||God|| |in me|.*

||After that fourteen' years later|| I |again| went up unto Jerusalem, with Barnabas.

Taking with me Titus also;

And I went up by revelation,

And laid before them the glad-message which I proclaim among the nations;

||Privately|| however to them of repute,-Lest by any means |in vain | I should be running, or had run.

But ||not even Titus who was with me, though he was a Greek' was compelled to be circumcised;-

But [this was] because of the false brethren secretly' introduced,-

> Who, indeed, came in secretly to spy out our freedom, which we have in Christ Jesus,

That they might bring us' into bondage:-

||Unto whom, not even for an hour|| gave we place by the [required] submission,-

In order that || the truth of the gladmessage | might still abide with you.

Moreover < from them who were reputed to be something>—

|Whatsoever at one time| they were maketh no' difference to me,

God accepteth not a man's ||person||,-||Unto me|| in fact, they who were of repute added nothing further;

But ||on the contrary||-

<When they saw that I had been entrusted with the glad-message to the uncircumcision,

Even as | Peter | [with that] to the circumcision,-

For ||he that energised in Peter into an apostleship to the circumcision#

Energised also in me, for the nations,-And when they perceived the favour which had been given unto me>

||James and Cephas and John who were reputed to be pillars'

Gave ||the right hand of fellowship|| unto me and Barnabas,

In order that ||we|| [should go] unto the nations,

And ||they|| unto the circumcision :-

Only that we should remember || the destitute | -

As to which I had given diligence | this very' thing | to do.

11 But < when Cephas came unto Antioch> ||To the face|| [even] |him| I resisted, Because he stood condemned:

• Or: "in my case"—as in v. 16.

192 For <before that certain came from James> ||With them of the nations|| used he to eat; Whereas < when they came> He used to withdraw, and keep himself separate, Fearing them of the circumcision; And the rest' of the Jews [also] used hypocrisy with him, So that ||even Barnabas|| was carried away by their hypocrisy. But < when I saw that they were not walking with straightforwardness as regardeth the truth of the glad-message> I said unto Cephas, before all:— <If ||thou|| although |a Jew| |like them of the nations and not like the Jews dost live> How dost thou compel ||them of the nations || to live like Jews? 15 || We by nature' Jews, and not sinners from among the nations' 16 <Knowing however that a man is not declared righteous by works of law.* [Nor at all] save through faith in Christ Jesus> ||Even we|| | on Christ Jesus b | believed. That we might be declared righteous-By faith in . Christ And not by works of law; Because ||by works of law|| shall no' flesh be declared righteous.d 17 Now <if in seeking to be declared righteous in Christ we ||ourselves also | were found sinners>-Is Christ | therefore | a minister | of sin |? Far be it! For <if ||the things that I pulled down|| ||these|| |again | I build> ||A transgressor||I prove |myself| to be. For ||I|| | through means of law | |unto law | died, That | unto God | I might live :-||With Christ|| have I been crucified; And |living no longer | am ||I|, But |living in me| is ||Christ||,-While <so far as I now do live in flesh > |By faith| I live-The faith in • the Son of God, Who loved me and gave himself up in my behalf. 21 I do not set aside the favour of God: For <if | through law | is righteousness> Then |Christ| || without cause || died. 3 O thoughtless' Galatians! Who hath bewitched you,-||Before whose very eyes|| |Jesus Christ| was openly set forth as a crucified one? ||This only || am I wishing to learn from you :-||By works of law|| received ye | the Spirit|?

3 ||So thoughtless|| are ye? < Having made a beginning in Spirit> Are ye ||now in flesh|| to be made complete! ||Such things|| suffered ye |in vain',-If at least [it is] even in vain? 5 < He then who was supplying unto you the Spirit, and energising mighty works among vou> By works of law. Or by a believed' report b [did be it]? Even as Abraham-Believed in God, And it was reckoned unto him as righteousness. 7 Be taking note | therefore |— That | they who are of faith | || the same || are |sons| of Abraham; 8 And ||the scripture|| <|Foreseeing| that ||by faith|| God would declare the nations righteous> Fore-announced the good news unto Abraham, saying -All' the nations shall be blessed in thee.4 9 So then ||they who are of faith!| are blessed. with believing Abraham; 10 For ||as many as are of works of law|| are |under a curse|,-For it is written-|| Accursed || is everyone' that continueth not in all' things that are written in the book! of the law to do them. 11 Moreover < that ||in law || |no one | is declared | righteous with God> [is] evident, -Because ||The righteous one|| |by faith. shall live1: And ||the law|| is not of faith, but-|| He that hath done them || shall live in them, ! 13 ||Christ|| hath redeemed |us| out of the curse of the law, Having become |in our behalf| |a curse| ;-Because it is written-|| Cursed|| is everyone' that hangeth upon a tree 1 :--In order that ||unto the nations|| |the blessing of Abraham | might come about in Jesus Christ, --In order that || the promise of the Spirit | we might receive through means of the a faith. 15 Brethren! ||in-human fashion|| am I speaking: Yet still [a man's' confirmed' covenant] no one setteth aside or addeth unto: Now ||unto Abraham|| were spoken the promises-|and unto his seed | • ;-He saith not— And unto thy seeds of many, But ||as of one||— And unto the seed. which is Christ a Or: "in."

And |this | I say-

<A covenant previously confirmed by God> Ithe law which |after four hundred' and thirty' years | hath been brought into being || doth not annul so as to do away with the promise.

For <if |by law| is the inheritance>

It is |no longer| by promise;

But ||unto Abraham|| |through promise| hath God favoured it.

19 Why, then, the law?

||Because of the transgressions|| it was added Until such time as the seed should come unto whom the promise had been made,

And was given in charge through messengers at the hand of a mediator:

Now ||a mediator a || is not [a mediator] | of one!,

But ||God|| is' |one|. 21 Is ||the law|| then, against the promises [of Far be it! God]?

For <if a law had been given which had been able to give life>

Verily ||in b law| would have been our righteousness:

But the Scripture |did shut up| all things |under sin|,º

That ||the promise by faith in d Jesus Christ | might be given to them who have' faith,

|| Before the coming of the faith || however under law were we being kept in ward.

> Being shut up unto the faith which should afterwards' | be revealed |.

≥ So that ||the law|| hath proved |our tutor| [training us] for Christ,

In order that |by faith| we might be declared righteous:

∞ But <the faith having come'> |no longer| are we |under a tutor|;-

™ For ye ||all|| are |sons of God| through the • faith in Christ Jesus;

For ye ||as many as |into Christ| have been immersed | have put | Christ | on :

There cannot be Jew or Greek There cannot be bond or free There cannot be male and female, For ||all ye|| are |one| in Christ Jesus:

29 Now <if ||ye|| are of Christ>

By consequence ye are | Abraham's seed|, |According to promise | ||heirs||.

4 But I say :--

E.N.T.

<For as long' a time as |the heir| is |an infant|>

He differeth | nothing | from a servant though !lord of all |,

But is | under guardians | and stewards, until the [day] fore-appointed of the father:

3 So also ||we|| < when we were infants> Under the elementary principles of the world | were held in servitude;

The definite article here is

But < when the fulness of the time came'> God sent forth his Son. Who came to be of a woman

Who came to be under law,-

That ||them who were under law|| he might redeem.

> That ||the sonship|| we might duly receive;-

And < because ye are sons>

God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, exclaiming Abba! Oh Father •!

7 So that |no longer| art thou a servant but a son; And ||if a son|| an heir also, through God.

8 But ||at that time ||--

<Not knowing God>

Ye were in servitude unto them who |by nature | are not Gods;

9 Whereas ||now||-

< Having acknowledged God,— Having been acknowledged by God>

How turn ye back again unto the weak' and beggarly' elementary principles, unto which ||over again|| ye are wishing |to come into servitude | b?

|Days|| ye do narrowly observe, and months and seasons, and years :-

I am afraid of you—Lest by any means |in vain | I should have toiled for you!

12 Become ye as ||I|,

Because ||I also|| [was] as ||ye||,—brethren, I entreat you.

|Not at all | have ye wronged me.

Howbeit ye know that ||by reason of a weakness of the flesh | I myself announced the glad-message unto you |formerly|;

And ||your trial in my flesh || ye despised not, neither spat ye [in disgust],

But |as a messenger of God| ye welcomed me-|| As Christ Jesus||.

Where, then, is the happiness ye accounted yours?

For I bear you witness—That |if possible your eyes ye would have dug out and given unto me.

16 So then ||your enemy|| have I become by dealing truthfully with you?

They shew a zeal for you, not honourably, But wish || to shut you out ||

In order that ye may be zealous for ||them||

Howbeit it is |honourable| to shew zeal in what is 'honourable at all times, and not only when I am present with you ;-

19 My dear children! for whom I |again | am in birth-pains

Until Christ be formed within you :-

I could wish however to be present with you even now and to change my voice.-

Favour unto you, and peace,

From God our Father, and Lord Jesus

*||Blessed|| be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Who hath blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenlies in Christ,

According as he made choice of us in him before the founding of a world

That we might be holy and blameless in his presence;

In love | 5 marking us out beforehand unto sonship through Jesus Christ for him-

According to the good pleasure of his will,

Unto the praise of the glory of his favour wherewith he favoured us in the Beloved One,-

In whom we have the redemption through his blood, the remission of our offences, b

According to the riches of his favour which he made to superabound towards us;

|In all' wisdom and prudence|| 9 making known to us the sacred secret c of his will, d

According to his good pleasure which he purposed in him,-

<For • an administration of the fulness of the seasons> to reunite for himself (under one head) the all things in the Christ, The things upon the heavens. And the things upon the earth,

||In him||:

In whom also we were taken as an inheritance, According to the purpose of him who energiseth all things according to the counsel of his will, 19

TO THE

EPHESIANS.

 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through God's will.

Unto the saints who are [in Ephesus] and faithful in Christ Jesus,—

Favour unto you, and peace,

From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

* ||Blessed|| be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.*

Who hath blessed us with every' spiritual blessing, in the heavenlies, in Christ,

According as he made choice of us in him, before the founding of a world,

That we might be holy and blameless in his presence;

||In love|| 5 marking us out beforehand unto sonship through Jesus Christ for himself,

According to the good pleasure of his will,
Unto the praise of the glory of his favour wherewith he favoured us in the Beloved One.—

In whom we have the redemption through his blood, the remission of our offences.<sup>b</sup>

According to the riches of his favour, which he made to superabound towards us:

||In all' wisdom and prudence|| 9 making known to us the sacred secret c of his will,4

According to his good pleasure which he purposed in him,—

<For • an administration of the fulness of the seasons> to reunite for himself (under one head) the all things in the Christ, The things upon the heavens. And the things upon the earth, ||In him||:

In whom also we were taken as an inheritance, According to the purpose of him who energiseth all things according to the counsel of his will,

That we should be for the praise of his glory—

|| We who had hoped beforehand in the Christ||,—

In whom ||ye also||-

15 |For this cause | ||I also ||-

<Having heard of the faith on your part in the Lord Jesus and that towards all the saints>4

Cease not giving thanks in your behalf, Making mention in my prayers.

That ||the God of our Lord Jesus Christ the Father of glory|| would give you a Spirit of wisdom and understanding in gaining a personal knowledge of him.—

The eyes of your heart having been enlightened

That ye may know-

What is the hope of his calling,

What the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints.

And what the surpassing greatness of his power unto us who believe,—

According to the energy of the grasp of his mighth 20 which he energised in the Christ When he raised him from among the dead, 1 seated him at his right hand' in the heavenlies 21 Over-above all principality, authority, and power, and lordship, and every name that is named not only in this age but also in the coming one, 22 And did put ||all things|| in subjection beneath his feet.1 And gave him to be head over all things unto the accom-25 Which indeed is his body bly,m The fulness of him who the all things in all is for himself filling

2 [Unto] you also-

Being dead by your offences and <sup>2</sup> In which at one time ye ains. walked_b According to the age of the world According to the prince of the authority of the air, of the spirit that now energiseth in the sons of disobedience, 3 Among whom also ||we all|| had our behaviour at one time in the covetings of our flesh, doing the things desired by the flesh and the mind, And were children by nature of anger - even as the rest,-

But ||God|| <Being rich in mercy> |By reason of the great love wherewith he loved us <Although we were dead by our offences>

Gave us life together with the Christ,-|By favour | ye have been saved,-

And raised us up together,

And seated us together in the heavenlies [ ||In Christ||:

That he might point out in the oncoming ages. The surpassing' riches of his favour in graciousness upon us ||In Christ Jesus||:

For |by his favour! have ye been saved through means of faith,

And this [hath come to pass]--

Of God the free-Not from you

Not from works, lest anyone should boast.

||His|| in fact we are—his | workmanship|, Created in Christ Jesus upon a footing of good works

Which God prepared beforehand, That therein | we might walk.

11 Wherefore keep in remembrance-

That |at one time| ||ye, the nations in flesh|| < Who are called Uncircumcision by the so'called Circumcision in flesh made by hand>g

That ye were ||in that season||

Separate from Christ, Alienated from the citizenship of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, Having no |hope| And godless in the world; which had been hidden away from the ages in God, who did all things create: 10 In order that now unto the principalities and the authorities in the heavenlies might be made known', through means of the assembly, the manifold' wisdom of God,-11 According to a plan of the ages which he made in the anointed Jesus our Lord,-12 In whom we have our freedom of speech and introduction with assurance through the faith of him :-

< According to his glorious' riches>b |With power| to be strengthened through his Spirit in the inner man,

That the Christ may dwell, through means of your faith, in your hearts, in love, || Having become rooted and founded ||,

In order that ye may be mighty enough To grasp firmly with all the saints -What is the breadth and length and depth and height, To get to know also the knowledgesurpassing | love of the Christ,-

In order that ye may be filled unto all the fulness of God c:

Now < unto him who is able to do | above all things

> Exceeding abundantly above the things which we ask or conceive,-

According to the power which doth energise itself within us, --

"Unto him" be the glory.

In the assembly And in Christ Jesus-Unto all the generations of the age of ages: Amen:-

4 I exhort you, therefore,

<I the prisoner in the Lord>

To walk in a manner | worthy | of the calling wherewith ye were called ;-

2 With all lowliness and meekness With long suffering,

Bearing one with another in love,

Giving diligence to keep-

The oneness of the Spirit in the unitingbond of peace,-

One' body, and one' spirit, even as ye were also called in one' hope of your calling,

One' Lord one' faith one' immersion,

One' God and Father of all-

Who is over all and through all and in' all.

d Ro. xvi. 25, 26. Col. i. 10. f Col. iii. 12.

7 || To each one of you || however, hath favour been

According to the measure of the free-gift of the Christ:

Wherefore he saith-

|| Ascending on high || he took captivity captive [And] gave gifts unto men.

Now this He ascended :: what is it save-That he also descended into the under parts of the earth?

|He that descended| ||he|| it is who also ascended over-above all the heavens,

That he might fill all things;

And ||he|| gave-

Some indeed to be apostles, And some prophets, And some evangelists,

And some shepherds and teachers,— With a view to the fitting of the saints

For the work of ministering,

For an upbuilding of the oody of the Christ:

Until we all advance-

Into the oneness of the faith and the personal knowledge of the Son of God, Into a man of full-growth,

Into the measure of the stature of the fulness of the Christ;

That we may |no longer| be infants-Billowtossed and shifted round with every wind of teaching,-In the craft of men In knavery suited to the artifice of error;

But ||pursuing truth |-

May |in love | grow into him in all things,-Who is the head, Christ ',-

Out of whom d all' the body-

Fitly framing itself together, And connecting itself, Through means of every' joint of supply, By way of energising in the measure of each single part-

Secureth the growing of the body Unto an upbuilding of itself in love.

17 This therefore am I saying and protesting in the Lord :-

That | no longer | ye walk even as | the nations | walk-

In the vanity of their minds, 18 Reine darkened in their understanding Alienated from the life of God-By reason of the ignorance that existeth within them. By reason of their hearts being turned into stone, 19 Who indeed having become past feeling have delivered ||themselves|| up with wantonness, unto making a trade of all impurity with greed.

20 ||Ye|| however have |not thus| learned the Christ :-

If at least it is ||him|| ye have heard And "in him" ye have been taught-Even as truth is' in Jesus, -

That ye were to strip off-as regardeth the former' behaviour-the old' man . Who corrupteth himself according to his deceitful' covetings,

And were to be getting young again in the spirit of your mind,

24 And were to put on the man of new' mould' b Who |after God | hath been created in his truthful' righteousness and lovingkindness.

35 Wherefore <stripping off what is false>

Be speaking truth each one with his neighbour,0

Because we are members one of another:

Be ye angry and not committing sind

Let not | the sun | be going down upon your angry mood

Neither be giving place unto the adversary;

Let || the stealer || | no more | steal,

But rather let him be toiling,with his hands the thing that is good That he may have [wherewith] to be giving away to him that hath | need |;

Let ||no' putrid discourse|| |out of your mouth| be going forth,

But if anything is good-suited to the needful' upbuilding,-

That it may give benefit unto them that hear :

And be not grieving the Holy Spirit of God, Wherewith ye have been sealed unto a day of redemption ; <All' bitterness and wrath and anger and outcry, and profane speaking> let it be taken away from you,h | With all' baseness:

And be ye gracious |one to another | tenderly affectionate in favour forgiving one

> Even as ||God also in Christ|| hath in favour forgiven you;

5 Become ye therefore imitators of God as children beloved. 2 And walk in love-

Even as ||the Christ also|| loved you, And delivered himself up in your behalf,

An offering and sacrifice unto God For a fragrance of sweet smell.m

But < fornication and all' impurity, or covetousness>

Let it not be named among youas becometh saints:

Ard shamelessness and foolish talking, or jest-

Which things are beneath you, -But |rather | giving of thanks;

For ||this|| ye know | if ye take note|-

That no fornicator, or impure or greedy person | Who is an idolater |

Hath any inheritance in the kingdom n of the Christ and God.

Servants of Christ Jesus.-

Unto all' the saints in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi,

With overseers and ministers :--

Favour unto you, and peace,

From God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ.

- <sup>2</sup> I am giving thanks unto my God on occasion of all' my remembrance of you,
- 4 <At all times, in every' supplication of mine, in behalf of you all'>

- Being persuaded of this very' thing-

That || he who hath begun in you a good work || Will perfect it until the day of Jesus Christ b;

- According as it is right in me to have |this| regard in behalf of you all',—
  - Because ye have had me in your hearts,
  - <Both in my bonds and in the defence and confirmation of the glad-message>
  - All' of you being ||joint partakers of my favour||.

And am filling up the things that lack of the tribulations of the Christ, in my flesh,

In behalf of his body. Which is the assembly,
Of which ||I|| have become minister—

According to the administration of God which hath been given unto me to you-ward

To fill up the word of God,

The sacred secret which had been hidden away from the ages and from the generations

But ||now|| hath been made manifest unto his saints-7 Unto whom God hath been pleased to make known what is the glorious' wealth of this sacred secret b among the nations, Which is Christ in you the hope of the glory,—

Whom we are declaring,

Admonishing every man

And teaching every man in all wisdom,

In order that we may present every' man complete in Christ;

Unto which I am even toiling, Contending according to his energy which is energising itself in me with power.

2 For I desire you to know how great's contest I am having—in behalf of you, And of those in Laodicea, And as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

In order that their hearts may be encouraged, Being knit together in love. Even unto all' the riches of the full assurance of their understanding, Unto a personal knowledge of the sacred secret of God,—||Christ||: 3 In whom are all' the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden arou.4

This I say in order that ||no one|| may be reasoning ||you|| aside with plausible discourse:

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO THE

THESSALONIANS.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy—

Unto the assembly of Thessalonians in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,— Favour unto you and peace!

<sup>2</sup> We are giving thanks a unto God continually. ||Concerning you all'|| making |mention| in our prayers,

Unceasingly remembering— Your work of faith

And labour of love

And endurance of hope |of our Lord Jesus
Christ|,

Before our God and Father:

* Ph. i. 8; Col. i. 8; 2 Th. i. 8.

- 4 Knowing brethren beloved by God | your election |,—
- 5 How that ||our glad-message|| came not unto you |in word only|,

But also in power

And in Holy Spirit

And in much assurance,-

Even as ye know what manner of men we became unto you, for your sake;

And ||ye|| became |imitators * of us| 'and of the Lord||,

Giving welcome unto the word In much tribulation, With joy of Holy Spirit;

• 2 Th. iii. 7.

So that ye became an ensample unto all' who were coming to the faith in Macedonia and in Achaia:

From you in fact, hath sounded forth the word of the Lord—

<Not only' in Macedonia and in Achaia>
But ||in every' place|| |your faith which is toward God | hath gone forth,

So that |no need| have we to be saying anything:

• For ||they themselves|| |concerning us| do tell—

What manner' of entrance we had unto you, And how ye turned unto God from the idols—

To be serving a living and true b God

And awaiting his Son out of the heavens—
Whom he raised from among the dead,—

|| Jesus||:

Who is to rescue us out of the anger that is coming.

- 2 For ||yourselves|| know brethren our entrance which was unto you—that it hath not proved yoid:
- But <though we had previously suffered, and been insulted, even as ye know, in Philippi>

We waxed bold in our God to speak unto you the glad-message of God with much' conflict.

<sup>3</sup> For ||our exhortation|| is not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile.

4 But < even as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the glad-message > |so| we speak,—

Not as |unto men| giving pleasure.

But unto God-who proveth our hearts.º

<sup>5</sup> For neither at any time were we found | using words of flattery |—even as ye know,

Nor a pretext for greed-|God| is witness!

6 Nor |of men| seeking glory—either from you, or from others,

Though we could have assumed |dignity| as Apostles of Christ';

7 But we became gentle in your midst,-

As though ||a nursing mother|| had been cherishing her own children:

s ||Thus|| |yearning after you| we could have been well-pleased to impart unto you—

Not only' the glad-message of God, But ||our own' lives also||,—

Because | very dear to us| had ye become.

For ye remember, brethren, our toil and hardship<sup>d</sup>:

<|Night and day| working so as not to be a burden unto any of you>

We proclaimed unto you the glad-message of God.

10 ||Ye|| are witnesses-||God also||,

How kindly and righteously and blamelessly |unto you who were believing | • we were found to behave;

Or (WH): "ensamples."
Or: "real."

4 2 Th. iii. 8.
Or: "coming to the faith."

<sup>11</sup> Even as ye know how |unto each one of you| we were as a father unto his own children, Consoling you, and soothing, and calling to witness,—

12 To the end ye might be walking in a manner worthy a of God, who is calling you unto his own' kingdom and glory.

13 And | for this cause | || we || are also giving thanks unto God unceasingly,

That < when ye received a spoken word from us—| which was God's|>

Ye welcomed it-

Not as a human' word,

But |even as it truly' is | a divine' word,—
Which is also inwardly working itself in you who believe.

14 For ||ye|| became |imitators| brethren of the assemblies of God which are in Judses in Christ Jesus,

In that | the same things | || ye || also suffered by your own' fellow-countrymen | even as || || they || also by the Jews:—

Who have both slain the |Lord | Jesus-| and the prophets |,

And ||us|| have persecuted,

And ||unto God|| are displeasing,

And ||unto all' men|| are contrary,-

| Hindering us from speaking | unto the nations| that they might be saved||
| To the filling up of their own' sins c | continually |;

But anger hath overtaken them at length.

17 Now ||we|| brethren < having been bereaved away from you, for the season of an hour,— |in presence, not in heart|>

Gave more abundant' diligence | your face | to behold | with much' longing |;

| Wherefore | we desired to come unto you— Even || I. Paul, both once and again ||— And | Satan | thwarted us.

For what shall be our' hope or joy, or crown of boasting? Shall not even ||ye||, before our Lord Jesus, in his Presence?

"Ye" in fact are our glory and joy.

Wherefore < no longer concealing our anxiety > We were well-pleased to be left in Athens | alone |,

And sent Timothy—

Our brother and God's minister in the glad-message of the Christ—

That he might confirm and console you over your faith

That |no one| might be shrinking back in these tribulations.

For || ye yourselves|| know, that | hereunto | are we appointed;

For |even when we were with' you | we told you beforehand—

We are destined to suffer tribulation! Even as it also came to pass, and ye know.

<sup>5</sup> | For this cause | ||I also|| <no longer concealing my anxiety>

Sent that I might get to know your faith, Lest by any means he that tempteth | should have tempted you |

And |in vain| should have been our toil.

But < when | just now | Timothy came unto us. from you.

And brought us good tidings of your faith and love,-

And that ye have good remembrance of us, |Continually| longing to see |us|-even as ||we also|| to see you'>

7 For this cause were we consoled brethren over you, in all' our necessity and tribulation |through your faith|;

Because |now| we live,-if only ||ye|| stand fast in the Lord.

For what thanksgiving can we render back unto God | concerning you,

> On occasion of all' the joy wherewith we rejoice for your sakes before our God?-

||Night and day|| making very abundant' entreaties.

That we may see your face, and fit in the things which are lacking in your faith?

11 Now may ||our God and Father himself' and our Lord Jesus | make straight our way unto you:

And ||you|| may the Lord cause to abound and excel in your love one toward another and toward all ,-

Even as ||we|| do toward you:

To the end he may confirm a your hearts, faultless in holiness

Before our God and Father,

||In the Presence b of our Lord Jesus with all' his saints | . c

4 || For the rest||, d brethren, we request and exhort you in our Lord Jesus,

[That] <even as ye received from us, how ye must needs walk and please God,-

Even as ye also do walk>

That ye would abound still more.

<sup>2</sup> For ye know what charges we gave you, through the Lord Jesus.

3 For ||this|| is a thing willed of God, your sanctification.-

That ye should abstain from unchastity.

That ye should know each one of you how of his own' vessel to possess himself in sanctification and honour:

Not with a passion of coveting -

Just as even the nations who know not God,-0

Not over-reaching and defrauding in the matter | his brother |;

Because | an avenger | is the Lord ! concerning all' these things,-

* Or add (WH): "Amen."

* Add (WH): "then." Jer. x. 25; Ps. lxxix. 6;

Even as we before told you, and solemnly called you to witness.

7 For God did not call us, with a permission of impurity, but |in sanctification|.

8 ||Therefore, indeed|| |he that disregardeth|-It is |not a man| he disregardeth, |but God |--

|| Who giveth his Holy Spirit unto you || "

9 But ||concerning brotherly love||-

|| No need || have ye, that we be writing unto

For || ye yourselves || are |God-taught| to the loving of one another ;-

And, in fact, ye are doing it unto all the brethren [who are] in the whole' of Macedonia ;-

But we exhort you, brethren, to abound still more.

11 And to be ambitious to be quiet. And to be attending to your own affairs And to be working with your hands,-Even as |unto you| we gave charge-

That ye should walk reputably toward those without

And ||of no one|| have |need|.º

<sup>13</sup> But we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren. concerning them who are falling asleep,-

Lest ye be sorrowing | even as the rost also who are without hope |4;

14 For <if we believe that |Jesus| died and rose

||So|| also will |God| bring forth with him. them who have fallen asleep through Jesus';

15 For ||this|| |unto you| do we say by a word of the Lord,-

> That || we the living who are left unto the Presence • of the Lord

||After that|| |we the living who are left| ||Together with them|| shall be caught away, in clouds, to meet the Lord in the air:-And ||thus|| |evermore_with the Lord| shall we be!

18 So then, be consoling one another with these words.

5 But ||concerning the times and the seasons! brethren, -ye have [no need] that [unto you anything be written:

And in nowise shall they escape.

- 4 But || ye || brethren || are not in darkness | that || the day || || upon you as upon thieves | | should lay hold;
- For ||all' ye|| are ||sons of light|, and sons of day,—

We are not of night, nor of darkness:

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO THE

THESSALONIANS.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy-

Unto the assembly of Thessalonians, in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,—

- Favour unto you and peace, from God [our] Father and Lord Jesus Christ.
- We are bound |to be giving thanks|* unto God_ continually_concerning you, brethren, even as it is |meet|;
- Chap. ii. 18; Eph. i. 16; Ph. i. 3; Col. i. 8; 1 Th. i. 2.

Because your faith groweth exceedingly

And the love of each one of you all' one to another aboundeth,

So that ||we ourselves|| |in you| are boasting in the assemblies of God,

Over your endurance and faith in all' your persecutions and tribulations which ye are sustaining:—

To the end ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, in behalf of which ye are also suffering:—*

If at least, it is a righteous thing with God To recompense ||affliction|| | unto them that afflict you |

And |unto you that are afflicted | release with us,—

By the revealing of the Lord Jesus from heaven

With his messengers of power

In a fiery flame;

Holdiny forth vengeance-b

Against them that refuse to know God.

And them who decline to hearken unto the glad-message of our Lord Jesus,—

Who, indeed, |a penalty| shall pay— Age-abiding destruction from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his might—

Whensoever he shall come

To be made all-ylorious in his saints,
And to be marrelled at in all' who believed.—4

Because our witness unto you was' believed,— In that day.°

11 || Unto which end || we are also praying continually for you,

That our God may count ||you|| worthy of your calling

And fulfil every' good-pleasure of goodness and work of faith | with power|,—

That the name of our Lord Jesus may be made all-glorious in you, and ||ye|| in him,

According to the favour of our God and Lord Jesus Christ.

2 But we request you brethren,-

In behalf of the Presences of our Lord Jesus Christ

And our gathering together unto him,—

That ye be not quickly tossed from your mind, nor be put in alarm—

Either by spirit, or by discourse, or by letter as by us,—

As that the day of the Lord | hath set in |:

That no one may cheat ||you|| in any one' respect.

Because [that day will not set in]—

Except the revolt come first,

And there be revealed

The man of lawlessness,<sup>h</sup>

Against every one' called God Or an object of worship;

And with all' manner of deceit of unrighteousness | in them who are destroying themselves |,

> Because ||the love of the truth | they did not welcome | that they might be saved;—

In order that all should be judged

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE

TO

TIMOTHY

1 Paul an apostle of Christ Jesus-

By injunction of God our Saviour and Christ Jesus our hope,—

Unto Timothy, my true' child in faith: Favour, mercy, peace,

From God our Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Even as I exhorted thee to remain in Ephesus, when I was journeying into Macedonia,

That thou mightest charge some 4 Not to be teaching otherwise.

Nor yet to be giving heed to stories and endless genealogies,—

||The which|| bring |arguings|, rather than that stewardship of God which is with faith;—

Now || the end of the charge || is love-

Out of a pure' heart, And a good conscience,

And faith unfeigned,—

Which some, missing || have turned them aside unto idle talk,

Desiring to be law-teachers,—Not understanding, either what they say or whereof they confidently affirm.

8 Now we know that ||excellent|| is the law if one put it to a lawful' use:—

9 Knowing this—

That || to a righteous man|| | law | doth not apply.

But to the lawless and insubordinate, ungodly and sinful irreligious and profane, smiters of fathers and smiters of mothers, murderers, 10 fornicators, sodomites, man-stealers, liars, false-swearers,—

And ||if anything else|| | unto the healthful' teaching | is opposed;—

According to the glad-message of the glory of the happy God, with which entrusted am ||I||.

12 ||Grateful|| am I unto him that empowered d me_ ||Christ Jesus our Lord||,

In that ||faithful|| he accounted me

Putting me into ministry,—

Though ||formerly|| a defamer and persecutor and insulter •;

Nevertheless mercy was shown me because ||without knowledge|| I acted |in unbelief|:

Yet exceeding abundant was the favour of our Lord, with faith and love which are in Christ Jesus.

5 ||Faithful|| the saying! and ||of all'acceptance|| worthy,—

That ||Christ Jesus|| came into the world ||sinners|| to save :

Of whom | the chief | am ||I||;—

Nevertheless ||on this account|| was mercy shewn me,—

That ||in me, the chief|| Christ Jesus finight shew forth his entire' long-suffering,

Be honour and glory, unto the ages of ages.h
Amen!

18 ||This' charge|| I commit unto thee child Timothy

According to the prophecies | running before on thee|,

In order that thou mightest war, with them, the noble warfare,

Holding faith and a good' conscience,— Which some | thrusting from them | ||Concerning their || faith || have made shipwreck :—

Of whom are Hymenæus and Alexander; Whom I have delivered unto Satan, I That they may be taught by discipline m not to be defaming.

TIMOTHY.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus Through the will of God,-According to the promise of life in Christ Jesus ;-

Unto Timothy, my beloved' child:

Favour, mercy, peace, from God our Father and Christ * Jesus our Lord.

3 ||Grateful|| am I, unto God,— <Unto whom I am rendering divine service from my progenitors in a pure' conscience > *

That ||incessant|| hold I the remembrance |concerning thee| in my supplications; ||Day and night|| 4 longing to see thee, Being mindful of thy tears,-

In order that || with joy || I may be filled: "A reminder | having received of the unfeigned' faith that is in thee,-

||Such|| as dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice,—I am persuaded moreover, that [it dwelleth] ||in thee also||.

|| For which cause || I put thee in remembrance, to be stirring up God's gift of favour, Which is in thee through means of the laying on of my hands;

For God hath not given us a spirit of cowardice, But of power, and love, and correction.

Be not thou therefore put to shame— With regard to the witness of our Lord, Nor with regard to me his prisoner;

But suffer hardship together with the gladmessage, according to the power of God,—

Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling,

Not according to our works

But according to the peculiar purpose and favour—

Which was given to us in Christ Jesus before age-during times.<sup>b</sup>

But hath now been made manifest through means of the forthshining of our Saviour Christ Jesus,—

Who indeed hath abolished death, And hath thrown light upon life and incorruptibility, through means of the glad-message: 11 Whereunto ||I|| have been appointed herald and apostle and teacher;—13 ||For which cause|| | these things also| am I suffering; Nevertheless I am not being put to shame, For I know him whom I have believed, And am persuaded that he is |able| to guard ||that which I have entrusted:|| [to him] outo || that || day.

13 || An outline || have thou of healthful' discourses which from me thou hast heard—With the faith and love which are in Christ Jesus:

14 ||The noble' thing entrusted [to thee]||d do thou guard

Through means of the Holy Spirit which dwelleth within us.

15 Thou knowest this-

That all' they who are in Asia have turned away from me,—

Of whom are Phygelus and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord grant mercy unto the house |of Onesiphorus|, In that ||ofttimes|| hath he refreshed me,

And ||as regardeth my chain|| hath not been put to shame

But < happening to be in Rome> he diligently' sought out and found me,—

The Lord grant him to find mercy from [the] Lord in |that| day;—

And <now many times ||in Ephesus|| he hath ministered> better art ||thou|| getting to know.

2 And < the things which thou hast heard from me among many' witnesses>

||The same|| entrust thou unto faithful mea, Such as shall be |competent to teach ||others also|.

<sup>3</sup> Take thy part in suffering hardship, as a brave soldier of Christ Jesus:—

4 || No one that is serving as a soldier entangleth himself with the matters of his livelihood;

That he may please thim that hath summoned him to serve as a soldier;

5 <If, moreover, any man | contend even in the games | >

He is not crowned unless |lawfully| he contend;

6 ||The toiling husbandman, ought ||first of the fruits| to partake:

Think as to what I am speaking;

For the Lord will give thee discernment in all things.

8 Keep in mind Jesus Christ— Raised from among the dead, Of the seed of David,—

According to my joyful message:

In which I am suffering hardship Even unto bonds, || As an evil doer; But || the word of God | is not bound.

||For this cause || am I enduring | all things | for the sake of the chosen,

In order that lithey also, may obtain | the salvation | which is in Christ Jesus along with glory age-abiding.

11 "Faithful" the saying— For <If we have died together> we shall also live together,

< If we endure > we shall also reign together;

<If we shall deny > || he also, will deny us,
<If we are faithless > || he | faithful abideth, —

For ||deny himself|| he cannot !*

14 ||Of these things|| be putting [them] in remembrance,

Adjuring [them] before God b

Not to be waging word-battles,— Useful !!for nothing;

Occasioning a subversion of them that hearken.

15 Give diligence ||thyself approved to present unto God,—

> The Lord hath acknowledged them who are his,

And

Let every' one that nameth the name of the Lord stand aloof from unrighteousness.

20 But ||in a great' house|| there are not only gold and silver vessels, but |also wooden and earthen :

And ||some|| indeed for honour,

While ||some|| are for dishonour:

<If therefore anyone will for pureness. sever himself from these>

He shall be a vessel for honour, hallowed, meet for the Master's use, ||for every' good work | prepared.

22 But ||from the youthful covetings|| flee !4

And pursued righteousness, faith, love, peace, Along with them who call upon the Lord out of a pure' heart.

23 But <from the foolish' and undisciplined' questionings > excuse thyself,

[In meekness] bringing under discipline them that oppose themselves,

Lest at any time God should give them repentance unto a personal knowledge of truth, 26 And they should wake up to sobriety out of | the adversary's | snare,-Though they have been taken alive by him for | that one's | will.

But ||of this|| be taking note-

That ||in last' days||s there will set in perilous seasons:

For men will be-fond of themselves, fond of money ostentatious arrogant defamers. to parents unyielding unthankful unkind, * without natural affection, accepting no truce given to intrigue without self-control, uncivilised, unfriendly to good men. 4 traitors, reckless, beclouded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, 5 having a form of godliness but ||the power thereof|| denying!h And ||from these|| turn away;

For ||of these|| are they who enter into the houses,

> And captivate silly women [women] laden with sins led on by manifold covetings, 7 Ever learning and never ||unto a personal knowledge of truth|| able' to come;

• Or (WH): "all them."

Moreover < like as || Jannes and Jambres || withstood Moses>

"So, these men also" withstand the truth, -

Men utterly corrupted in their mind, Disapproved concerning their faith;

But they shall not force their way further, For ||their folly|| shall be |fully evident| unto all,-

As also ||that of those' men|| became.

10 But ||thou|| hast closely studied-

My teaching manner of life purpose faith long-suffering love endurance 11 persecutions sufferings,

|| What manner of things || befel me at Antioch at Iconium at Lystra,

|| What manner of persecutions || I endured, -

And ||out of all|| |the Lord| rescued me; -- b Yes and ||all who are determined to live in a godly manner in Christ Jesus || will be persecuted:

Whereas || wicked' men and howling imposters || will force their way to the worse, Deceiving and being deceived.

14 But ||thou||-abide in the things which thou hast learned, and been entrusted with,

Knowing ||from whom|| thou hast learned [them ] -

And that <from a babe> ||those sacred letters|| thou hast known which are able to make thee wise unto salvation. || Through the faith which is in Christ Jesus ||:

16 || Every' scripture || [is] God-breathed

And profitable—unto teaching unto conviction, unto correction, unto the discipline that is in righteousness,-

In order that || ready|| may be the man of God | Unto every good work being well prepared.

4 I adjure [thee] before God, and Christ Jesus-Who is about to be judgingd living and dead,-

<Both as to his forthshining and his kingdom>

Proclaim the word,

Take thy position-in season, out of season,-Convince rebuke encourage —

With all' long-suffering and teaching.

For there will be a season-

When ||the healthful' teaching|| they will not endure,

But ||according to their own' covetings || will |unto themselves| heap up teachers

Because they have an itching ear, And ||from the truth|| indeed, |their ear|

will they turn away. While ||unto stories|| they will turn them-

13 But | to which of the messengers | hath he said. at any time-

Sit thou at my right hand,

- Until I make thy foes thy footstool .? 14 Are they not all, spirits doing public service |, - | for ministry sent forth for the sake of them who are about to inherit salvation?
- 2 | For this cause | it behoveth us | with unwonted firmness to be holding fast unto the things that have been heard, lest, at any time, we drift away. 2 For <if the word through messengers' spoken became firm, and 'every' transgression and disobedience; received a just' recompense>
- 3 how shall we escape, if so great a salvation as this | we have neglected,— which | indeed, <- having received | a beginning of being spoken through the Lord> by them who heard unto us' was confirmed', 4 God jointly witnessing also both with signs and wonders and manifold? mighty works, and with distributions of Holy' Spirit' | according to his own' will | ?
- <sup>5</sup> For |not unto messengers! hath he subjected the coming habitable earth b of which we are speaking;
- 6 But one somewhere hath borne witness, saying-
  - What is man, that thou shouldst make mention
    - Or the son of man, that thou shouldst put him in charge?
  - Thou hast made him less, some little, than messengers,
    - With glory and honour | hast thou crowned
- [And hast set him over the works of thy hands]: All things | hast thou subjected beneath his fect.c
- For <in subjecting, [to him] the all things> |Nothing | left he to him unsubjected;
- But now not yet do we see to him the all things subjected :-
- 9 But ||Jesus, made some little less than messengers | we do' behold:
  - By reason of the suffering of death | crowned with glory and honour,
- To the end that, by favour of God, |in behalf of every one | he might taste of death,
- 10 For it was becoming in him-

For the sake' of whom are the all things. And by means' of whom are the all things, When ||many' sons || | unto glory | he would lead, The Princely Leader of their salvation through sufferings' | to make perfect |...

When your fathers tested by proving, And saw my works forty' years.

10 Wherefore I was sore vexed with this generation

> And said, Always err they in their heart:-

Howbeit | they | learned not my ways:

So I sware in mine anger-

They shall not enter into my rest !-

12 Be taking heed, brethren,

Lest at any time, there shall be in any one of you,

A wicked heart of unbelief,

In revolting from a Living God.

13 But be exhorting one another, |on each' successive day |,-

While the To-day a is being named!

Lest any from among you be hardened by the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For |partners of the Christ| have we become,— If at least, the beginning of the confidence. throughout firm | we hold fast:

So long as it is said-

To-day < if | unto his voice | ye would hearken > Do not harden your hearts,

As in the embitterment.b

16 For ||who|| | though they heard | caused embitterment?

Nay indeed! did not all' who came forth out of Egypt through Moses?

17 But || with whom || was he sore vexed forty years? Was it not with them who sinned, | whose dead bodies o fell in the desert | d?

18 But ||unto whom|| sware he that they should not enter into his rest, -

Save unto them who were obstinate?

19 And we see that they were not able to enter because of unbelief!

4 Let us therefore fear lest at any time.

Although there is left behind a promise of entering into his rest,-

Any one from amongst you should be deemed'. to have come short;

<sup>2</sup> For we have had delivered to us the joyful message, just as even |they|;

But the word which was heard did not profit them .

They not having been blended by faith with the things heard.f

For we who have believed | are to enter into the rest .

According as he hath said-

<So I moare in mine anger>

They shall not enter into my rests;

And yet | the works | from the foundation of the world' | had been brought into existence |.

For he hath spoken somewhere concerning the seventh [day], thus-

6 Pa. xcv. 11. h Gen. ii. 2; Exo. xx. 11. And in this again-

They shall not enter into my rest.

<sup>6</sup> Seeing, therefore, that it is left over for |some| to enter into it,

And |they who formerly had delivered to them the joyful message | entered not in by reason of obstinacy,-

7 | Again | he marketh out a certain' day,

|| To-day || | in David | saying -- after so long a time as this,- according as it hath been said before :-

To-day <if |unto his voice| ye would hear-

Do not harden your hearts.

8 For <if ||unto them|| Joshua' had given rest> It had not in that case |concerning another' day | been speaking |after | these things.

9 Hence there is | left over |

A Sabbath-keeping, for the people of God.

10 For |he that hath entered into his rest|

||He too|| hath rested from his works,-just as |from his own | ||God|| [rested].

11 Let us therefore give diligence to enter into that' rest,

Lest anyone fall into the same' example |of obstinacy .

For ||living|| is the word of God, and |energetic|,

And more cutting than any knife with two edges.

And penetrating as far as a dividing asunder of soul and spirit

7 But |apart from all gainsaying|
The less' by the greater' is blessed.

And ||here|| indeed dying men take tithes,
But ||there|| one of whom it is witnessed ||that he liveth|.

9 And—so to say a word—

||Through Abraham|| even Levi' who taketh' tithes hath paid' tithes;

For ||even then|| was he |in the loins of his father| when ||Melchizedek|| met him.

11 <If indeed, therefore, there had been |a perfecting through means of the Levitical priesthood|,—

What further need | according to the rank of Melchizedek | for a different a priest to be raised up,

And |not according to the rank of Aaron| to be designated?

For < seeing there is to be a change of the priesthood>

||Of necessity|| |of law too| a change cometh.

13 For |he as to whom these' things are said | |With a different' tribe | hath taken partnership,

From which |no one | hath given attendance at the altar;

For it is |very evident| that out of Judah' hath sprung our Lord,—

||Respecting which tribe|| |concerning priests| nothing did Moses speak,

And | yet more abundantly' evident | it is—
That ||according to the likeness of Melchizedek||b there is to be raised up |a different' priest |

Who < not according to a law of commandment dealing with the flesh > hath arisen. But according to the power of an indissoluble life;

17 For it is witnessed--

|Thou| art a priest |age-abidingly|,

|| According to the rank of Melchizedek ||.º

18 For |a setting aside | doth indeed take place, of a foregoing commandment,

By reason of its own' weakness and unprofitableness,—

For | the law | perfected ||nothing ||;

But there is the superinducing of a better hope,—

Through which we draw near unto God.

<sup>20</sup> And <inasmuch as not apart from oath-taking—

5 But <if any of you is coming short of wisdom> Let him be asking of God.

> Who |giveth| unto all' freely and upbraideth not,

And it shall be given him;

But let him be asking in faith, |nothing| doubting,

For ||he that doubteth|| is like a wave of the sea, wind-driven and storm-tossed,—

For let not that man think that he shall receive anything from the Lord—

3 A two-souled man, unstable in all' his ways.

But boasting be the lowly brother in his uplifting;

- 10 Whereas the rich, in his being brought low,-Because ||as a flower of grass|| he will pass away a;
- For the sun hath sprung up, with its scorching heat,

And hath withered the grass

And ||the flower thereof || hath fullen out ... And || the beauty of the face thereof || hath perished,-

Soll also the rich in his goings shall languish.

12 Happy the man who endureth temptation! b Because ||becoming approved'|| he shall receive the crown of life-

> Which he hath promised unto them that love him.

13 Let || no one while tempted || be saying-||From God|| am I tempted,-

For ||God|| cannot be tempted by things evil, And | himself | tempteth no one;

But ||each one|| is tempted when || by his own' coveting! he is drawn out and enticed.

Then, the coveting | having conceived giveth birth to sin,

For what sort' of honour is it—<If |committing sin| and being buffeted>s ye endure it?

But <if |doing good| and suffering, ye endure it>

||This|| is thankworthy with God.

For ||hereunto|| have ye been called;

Nevertheless, with meekness and reverence:

Having | a good conscience |,

In order that <Wherein they speak against you> they may be put to shame who cast wanton insult on |your good behaviour in Christ|.

For it is ||better as well-doers|| <if it should please the pleasure of God> to be suffering, than |as evil-doers|:

Because ||Christ also|| |once for all concerning sins'| died,—b Just in behalf of unjust,— In order that he might introduce us unto God d;

Being put to death, indeed, in flesh,

But made alive • in spirit,—

In which < even unto the spirits in prison > he went and proclaimed,—

[Spirits] unyielding at one time,

When the longsuffering of God was holding forth a welcome in the days of Noah

There being in preparation an ark-

For |unto this end| ||even unto the dead || was the glad-message delivered,—

In order that they might be judged, indeed, according to men in flesh, But might live according to God in spirit.

7 But ||the end of all' things|| hath drawn near:— Be of sound mind, therefore, and be sober for prayers;

Before all things | keeping | fervent | your love | among yourselves |,

Because ||love|| covereth a multitude of sins*;

In order that ||in the revealing of his glory also|| ye may rejoice with exultation:

<If ye are being reproached in the name of Christb> happy [are ye]!

Because < the Spirit | of the glory | and the [Spirit] of God > unto you' is bringing rest.

For let ||none of you|| be suffering as a murderer or a thief or an evil-doer or as one prying into other men's affairs;

But <if as a Christian> let him not be ashamed, but be glorifying God in this name.

For it is the 4 ripe time for the judgment to begin with * the house of God!;

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF ## PETER.

- 1 ||Simon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ||
  - <Unto them who have obtained |equally precious| faith |with us| in the righteousness of our God and Saviour Jesus Christ>
- Favour unto you and peace | be multiplied, In the personal knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord;—
- As ||all things|| suited for life and godliness his divine' power ||unto us|| hath given, Through the personal knowledge of him that hath called us through glory and excellence,—c
- 4 Through which ||his precious' and very great' promises|| have |unto us| been given.
  - In order that ||through these|| ye might become sharers' in a divine' nature—
- Or (WH): "Symeon." Or (WH): "by his own or: "and [our] Saviour." glory, &c."

- Escaping the corruption that is in the world by coveting.
- 5 And || for this very reason also ||-

<Adding on your part, |all diligence|>
Supply |in your faith| ||excellence||

- And [in your excellence] ||knowledge] And [in your knowledge] ||self-control[

  - And |in your godliness| || brotherly affec-
- And |in your brotherly affection | "love". <||These things|| |unto you | belonging and
- abounding>
  ||Neither idle nor unfruitful|| constitute you
  - regarding the personal knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ;
- For || he to whom these things are not present ||
  is || blind ||, seeing only what is near,

  Having come | to forget || his registration

Having come | to forget | his purification from his old' sins.

Wherefore [all the more] brethren, give diligence to be making ||firm.|| |yeur calling and election|;

For ||these things|| doing in nowise shall ye stumble at any time,

For ||thus|| shall richly' be further supplied unto you—the entrance into the ageabiding' kingdom b of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

<sup>12</sup> Wherefore I shall be certain to be |always| putting you in remembrance concerning these things,—

Although, indeed, ye know them, and have become confirmed in the present' truth;

Right | nevertheless I account it—

||As long as I am in this' tent||c to be stirring you up by putting you in remembrance.

14 Knowing that |speedy| is the putting off of my tent—

Even as |our Lord Jesus Christ also| made clear to me d:

Yea, I will give diligence also, that |at every time| ye may be able |after my own' departure| to be keeping up the remembrance of ||these very things||.

16 For < not as having followed "cleverly devised stories" made we known unto you the power and presence of our Lord Jesus Christ,

> But as having been made |spectators| of his' majesty.'

17 For < when he received from God the Father honour and glory,

A voice being borne to him such as this, by the magnificent' glory—

My Son, the beloved, is |this|, in whom ||I|| delight>

Even this' voice || || we || heard, when |out of heaven | it was borne, We being | with him | in the holy' mount.

And we have "more firm" the prophetic' word;—

Whereunto ye are doing |well| to take

As unto a lamp shining in a dusky' place,— Until ||day|| shall dawn, and ||a daystar|| shall arise in your hearts:—

Of this first' taking note-

20

That ||no' prophecy of scripture|| becometh |self-solving|;

For not ||by will of man|| was prophecy brought in |at any time|,

But <as | by Holy Spirit | they were borne along > spake | men | from God.

2 But there arose false-prophets s also among the people,

As ||among you also|| there shall be |false-teachers|,—

Men who will stealthily bring in destructive parties,

|| Even the Master that bought' them || denying.*

Bringing upon themselves speedy' destruction;

<sup>2</sup> And ||many|| will follow out their' wanton ways,—

By reason of whom | the way of truth| will be defamed, b

And ||in greed, with forged' words|| will they |
| of you| ||make merchandise||:

For whom ||the sentence from of old|| is not idle.

And ||their destruction|| doth not slumber.

For—<if "God" spared not | messengers, when they sinned |

But | to pits of gloom' consigning them in the lowest hades | delivered them up to be kept | unto judgment |,—

And ||an ancient' world|| spared not,

But | with seven others | preserved | Noah | a proclaimer | of righteousness |,

|A flood upon a world of ungodly persons| letting loose,—

And || the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah || d reducing to ashes, he condemned,

||An example of such as should be ungodly having set forth,—

And ||righteous' Lot when getting worn out by the behaviour of them who were impious in wantonness|| he rescued----

For ||in seeing and hearing since he dwelt right among them, ||as a righteous man|| he used to torment his soul, day by day with their lawless' deeds>----

<sup>9</sup> [Then] the Lord knoweth how to rescue | the godly out of trial|;

But to keep | the unrighteous unto a day of judgment to be punished | ;—

| Most of all | however them who go their way | after the flesh o with a coveting of defilement | and who despise | lordship |,—Daring | wilful |

|Before dignitaries| they tremble not,

Defaming, 11 where ||messengers|| f < though ||greater in might and power|> are not bringing against them [before the Lord] a defamatory accusation,—s

|These | however

12

<As unreasoning creatures h that have been bred as being |by nature| for capture and destruction> with their stratagems, as they carouse together with you,

Having ||eyes|| full of an adulteress, and that cannot rest from sin,

Enticing unstable souls.

Having | a heart trained in greed |, -Children of a curse,-

Forsaking a straight' path, they have gone

But had |a reproof| of his own' transgression,

> <A dumb beast of burden |in man's voice | finding utterance> forbade the prophet's' madness.

||These|| are fountains without water

And mists | by a tempest | driven along,—b For whom | the gloom of darkness | hath been reserved;

For ||great swelling words of vanity||c uttering they entice with carnal covetings-in wanton ways-them who are |well-nigh| escaping from the men who |in error| have their behaviour:

Promising | freedom to them | || they themselves || being all the while |slaves of corruption |, -d

For by whom one hath been defeated> ||by the same|| hath he become enslaved. -

For <if | having escaped from the defilements of the world by a personal knowledge of the • Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ| but |by the same' having again' become entangled, they are defeated>

The |last| state hath become for them worse' than || the first || : f

91 For |better| had it been for them-

> Not to have obtained a personal knowledge of the way of righteousness.

> Than | having obtained such knowledge | to turn back out of the holy' commandment delivered unto them.

There hath befallen them the thing [spoken of] in the true' proverb-

> ||A dog || turning back unto his own' vomit. And-

> ||A sow as soon as washed|| unto wallowing in mire.

3 ||This, already|| beloved, is the second' letter I am writing unto you;

And in these letters I am stirring up-by way of calling to remembrance—your uncorrupted' mind

To remember the fore-spoken' declarationsh made by the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and Saviour | by your apostles!.

Or (WH): "our."
Mt. xii. 45.

Or (WH): "love-feasts."
Jude 12.

3 ||Of this|| first' taking note-

That there will come in the last of the days |with scoffing| ||scoffers||,*

||After their own' covetings|| going on 4 and saving-

Where is the promise of his presence?

For <since the fathers' fell asleep> all things || thus' remain from the beginning of creation.

For this they | wilfully | forget-

That there were !heavens' from of old and ||an earth|| |on account of water and by means of water | compacted | by God's word |,-

By which means || the world that then' was-| with water' being flooded | perished;

While || the heavens and the earth that now are

By the same' word | have been stored with fire

Being kept unto the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly' men.

But ||this one' thing || forget not beloved,-That ||one day with the Lord | is as a thousand' years.

And ||a thousand years|| as one day. The Lord is | not slack | concerning his promise

As some count' |slackness|; But is long-suffering with regard to you,

Not being minded that any should perish,

But that ||all|| | unto repentance | should come. 10 Howbeit the day of the Lord will be here | as a thief |, -4

In which || the heavens || | with a rushing noise' will pass away,

While ||elements|| | becoming intensely hot | will be dissolved.

And ||earth and the works therein will be discovered.

11 < Seeing that all these' things are thus' to be dissolved>

|| What manner of persons|| ought [ye] all the while to be | in holy ways of behaviour and acts of godliness,-

Expecting and hastening the presence of the day of God,

By reason of which, "heavens" | being on fire | will be dissolved

And ||elements|| | becoming intensely bot | are to be meltedo:

But "new heavens, and a new earth it isccording to his promise | are we expecting, Wherein ||righteousness|| is to dwell

14 Wherefore beloved | these things | expecting-Give diligence ||unspotted and unblemished by him' to be found [in peace];

And account ||our Lord's' long suffering [to be salvation :-

12 I write unto you dear children,

Because your sins have been forgiven you, for the sake of his name:

13 I write unto you, fathers,

Because ye understand him who was from the beginning:

I write unto you young men,

Because ye have overcome the wicked one.

I have written unto you little children, Because ye understand the Father:

14 I have written unto you, fathers,

Because ye understand him who was from the beginning:

I have written you, young men,

Because ye are |strong|

And the word of God | within you | abideth And ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 Be not loving the world

Nor yet the things that are in the world:

<If anyone be loving the world>

The love of the Father is not in him.

16 Because <all' that is in the world— The coveting of the flesh

The coveting of the eyes,

And the vain grandeur of life->

Is not of the Father but is |of the world|;

17 And |the world| passeth away and the coveting
[thereof],

But ||he that doeth the will of God|| endureth unto times age-abiding.

18 Little children! it is | the a last hour |;

And <just as ye have heard that |an antichrist| is coming>

||Even now|| antichrists have become |many|, Whence we perceive that it is |the a last hour|:

From among us! they went out

But they were not of us;

For <if |of us| they had been>

They would in that case have abode with us; But [it came to pass] in order that they might be made manifest.

Because |all| are not of us.

And ||ye|| have |an anointing| from the Holy
One,— |Ye all| know:

I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth,

But because ye know it.

And because ||no' falsehood|| is |of the truth|.

22 | Who | is the False One;-

Save he that denieth that |Jesus| is the Christ?

[The same | is the Antichrist,--b

He that denieth the Father and the Son.

<Whosoever denieth the Son>

|| What ye have heard from the beginning |In you| let it abide.

<If |in you| shall abide that which 'from the beginning| ye have heard>

||Ye also|| |in the Son and [in] the Father shall abide.

<sup>25</sup> And ||this|| is the promise which he hath promised unto us,—

The age-abiding life.

36 ||These things|| have I written unto you concerning them who would lead you astray.

27 And <as for you>

||The anointing which ye have received from him|| abideth in you, and ye have !no need that anyone be teaching you;

But <as |his' anointing | is teaching you,

And is |true| and is no falsehood>

[Even just as it hath taught you]

Abide ye in him.

28 And |now|, dear children, abide ye in him.
In order that <if he be made manifest > we may have boldness, and not be shamed away from him by a his presence.

29 < If ye know that he is | righteous >

Ye perceive that—

|| Whosoever doeth righteousness.; | of him hath been born.

8 Behold ||what manner' of love the Father hath bestowed upon us-

That |children of God| we should be called.—
And such we are!

||Therefore|| the world understandeth us not, Because it understood not him.

<sup>2</sup> Beloved! ||now|| are we |children of God|;

And |not yet| hath it been made manifest ||what we shall be ||-

We know that <if it d should be made manifest>

|Like unto him | shall we be,

Because we shall see him ||just as he is .

3 And <whosoever hath this hope on him>

Is purifying himself, just as [He] is pure-

4 < Whosoever is committing sin > ||Lawlessness also|| is committing,

And |sin| is' |lawlessness|;

5 And ye know, that ||He|| was made manifest— In order that ||our sins|| he should take away,*

And ||sin|| |in him| is there none.

6 < Whosoever | in him | doth abide>
Is not sinning:

< Whose ever is sinning>

8 <He that is committing sin> is |of the adversary|,

Because [from the beginning] the adversary is sinning.

||To this end;| was the Son of God made manifest,

In order that he might undo the works of the adversary.

9 < Whosever hath been born of God> is not committing |sin|,

Because ||a seed of him|| |within him| abideth; And he cannot be committing b sin,

Because | of God | hath he been born.

10 || Herein || are | manifest || the children of God, and the children of the adversary ; and the children of the adversary:

<Whosoever is not doing righteousness> is not'
of God.

Nor yet he that is not loving his brother.

11 Because ||this|| is the message which ye have heard from the beginning—

That we should be loving one another,—

Not just as ||Cain!| was |of the wicked one | and slew his brother!

And |for what cause! slew he him?

Because ||his works|| were |wicked|,

Whereas ||those of his brother|| were |righteous|.

<sup>13</sup> Be not marvelling, brethren, if | the world | is hating you °:

14 | We | know that we have passed over out of death into life,

Because we love the brethren:

He that loveth not ||d abideth in death.

15 || Whosever is hating his brother!! is |a murderer|;

And ye know that ||no' murderer|| hath life age-during |within him abiding|.

16 !Hereby || e have we come to understand love: In that ||He|| | for us his life' laid down;

And ||we|| ought | for the brethren| our livess to lay down.

17 But < whose hath this world's goods

And beholdeth his brother having |need|,
And shutteth up his tender affections from

||How|| is {the love of God} abiding in him'?

18 Dear children!

Let us not be loving in word, nor yet with the tongue,

But in deed h and truth.

19 'Hereby || shall we get to know that !of the truth | we are,

And | before him | shall persuade our heart;

Because! <if our own heart condemn us> |Greater| is God, than our heart, and perceiveth all things.

And | whatsoever we are asking | we are receiving from him,

Because | his commandments | are we keeping

And | the things that are pleasing before him | are we doing.

23 And ||this|| is his commandment.—

That we should believe a in the name of his Son Jesus Christ

And be loving one another-

Just as he gave a commandment unto us'.

And || he that keepeth his commandments; | In him | abideth

And |he| in him.

And ||hereby|| perceive we.

That he abideth in us,

By reason of the Spirit which |unto us| he hath given.

4 Beloved! | not in every' spirit | believe ye,
But test the spirits whether they are |of
God|;

Because ||many' false prophets|| have gone out into the world.

And <every' spirit that doth not confess b

Of God is not'.

And ||this|| is the [spirit] of the Antichrist,

Touching which ye have heard that it cometh:

||Even now|| is it |in the world| ||already||.
4 ||Ye|| are |of God| dear children, and have overcome them;

Because |greater| is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.

5 ||They|| are |of the world|:

6 || Wei| are of God :

||He that is getting to understand God|| hearkeneth unto us,—

|| Whose is not of God|| hearkeneth not unto us: || From this|| perceive we—

The spirit of truth

And the spirit of error.

7 Beloved! let us be loving one another;

Because ||love|| is |of God|,

And ||whosoever loveth||

|Of God| hath been born

And is getting to understand God:

||He that doth not love||
Doth not understand God.

APPENDIX.

ABYSS.

It is easy to say that this word, according to its derivation, signifies "bottomless"; and that it is sometimes employed, more generally, to denote "unfathomed," boundless," "enormous"; but its chief interest, as a N. T. word, lies in the question how far it is synonymous with "hades." Suffice it here to connect it with that larger subject, and to observe that in the Christian Writings it occurs only in the following places: Lu. viii. 31; Ro. x. 7; Rev. ix. 1, 2, 11; xi. 7; xvii. 8; xx. 1, 3.

AGE.

To trace the Biblical development of the Ages is to gain a point from which many far-reaching observations may be made. The *frst thing to note is, that the idea of an "age" is one of comparatively slow growth. The Biblical parent of the Greek *aion* is the Hebrew *oldm*, and the root conception of *oldm* is concealed duration. Concealed duration. conception of oldm is concealed duration. Concealed duration is naturally unknown and unbounded; and it should be carefully remembered that it is from this radical conception of the nouns oldm and aton that the force of the be carefully remembered that it is from this radical conception of the nouns oidm and aion that the force of the qualifying terms 'poldm and aionios springs. (See below on Age-abiding.) The second thing to observe is, that duration does not fall into "ages" until it acquires character, and there is a transition of the times from one character into another. Only by degrees can a period round itself off into a "golden age," and then, by some observable transition, the time become so changed as to appear as only a "silver age" in comparison; or "an age of barbarism" undergo such an amelioration as to become gradually merged into "an age of civilisation." Accordingly it is not till we get far on in the O. T. that we meet with oldmin in the plural. The third thing to notice is, that "ages" may be so modified by local conditions as to vary with country and sphere; so that the ages in different lands may be far from simultaneous. While one country is advancing in civilisation or religion, another may be receding. A golden age may not be world-wide; a barbaric period may not afflict all lands at once; and an age of activity in one direction may be an age of stagnation or retrogression in another. In fine, ages may overlap and interlace and interchange: and the result may be one of the utmost complexity, calling for the most thoughtful and quarded discrimination. "The patriarchal age "may, for the Hebrews, be changed into "the Mosaic," and yet for other nations remain patriarchal still. "The Mosaic age" naturally affects those only who come under Moses. It is folly for Gentiles to speak as if they had once been under Moses if they never were. The fourth point of importance is, that only as a change of age is supernaturally super-induced can we assume to characterise a given age as a divine dispensation. It cannot be affirmed that God has placed under Moses nations whom at the same time he is "suffering to walk after their own ways" (Ac. xiv. 16). divine dispensation. It cannot be affirmed that God has placed under Moses nations whom at the same time he is "suffering to walk after their own ways" (Ac. xiv. 16). The $\beta it$ has consideration that arises is, that larger ages may include smaller ones. The larger age of Mosaism may embrace the smaller ages of the Judges, of the Kings, of the Dispersions. The final Christian age may resolve itself into the age of the Church, to be followed by the age of the Kingdom. Nay, we may go further and affirm, that all ages, up to a given point, may be predominantly evil, and then, from that point onward, be wholly or prevailingly good. When the foregoing factors of thought have been patiently digested, the student to whom the subject is new may find it comparatively easy to accommodate his been patiently digested, the student to whom the subject is new may find it comparatively easy to accommodate his mind to the crowning discrimination which can be traced in the Christian Scriptures, and in tracing which the eye will rest on the following land-marks. "This age" and "the coming" are terms which describe a distinction which runs through the New Testament (Mt. xii. 32; Eph. i. 21). (i.) "This Age" is characterised as one of anxieties (Mk. iv. 19); of a commingling of good seed and bad in the field sown by the Son of Man (Mt. xii. 24-30, 36-43); of persecutions 'Mk. x. 30; of a need for non-conformity (Ro. xii. 2; Tt. ii. 12); of the crucifying of the Lord of glory by its rulers (1 Co. ii. 8); of the defication of Satan (2 Co. iv. 4); of the prevalence of evil (Gal. i. 4, ep. Eph. ii. 2; 2 Tim. iv. 10). (ii.) "The coming age" will be signalised by the forthshining of the glory of the Lord (Tt. ii. 18; 1 Co. xv. 23); the resurrection from among the dead (Lu. xx. 35); the bestowal of age-abiding life (Mk. x. 30; Lu. xviii. 30); and the forthshining of the righteous in the kingdom (Mt. xiii. 39, 43).—"The conclusion of the age" is spoken of in Mt. xiii. 39, 40, 49; xxiv. 3; xxviii. 20; "the conjunction of the ages," Heb. ix. 26; and "the ends of the ages," 1 Co. x. 11. (Cp. note on "Age-abiding" below.)

AGE-ABIDING.

AGE-ABIDING.

Age-abiding: that is, lasting for an indefinite or perpetual age; or abiding from age to age. The reasons for adopting this rendering of the Greek adjective sission are: (i.) to keep up a close connection with the word "age" as the translation, in this New Testament, of the cognate noun aion; and (ii.) to avoid, as too restricted, the confinement of the idea to any particular, limited age. It is true that aion does not of itself mean absolute eternity, otherwise it would not submit to be multiplied by itself, as in the familiar phrase "aions of asions," which would then be equivalent to "eternities of eternities"; and it is further true that, in the history of divine revelation, aion sometimes puts a dispensational limit upon itself, so far as that the dawn of a new aion or "age," the end of which was aforetime concealed in the mists of an undefined futurity (cp. note on "Age," above). But, with all this, it is most important to remember that "age" is not the primary meaning of aion: rather, "duration indefinitely extended." Moreover, it seems to be as clothed with this more primitive significance, that the qualifying word aionios comes into use. The noun aion itself clings to this fundamental notion in the well known adiomate phrase eis ion aiona (lit. "into" or "unto the age"; is the interpretation of which, if the force of idiom be ignored, and each word be pressed on its individual merits, the reader will be continually tessed by feeling that he is being referred to some particular and pre-emiment age, which ought to be well-known, while all the time it is unknown. He may say: "Unto the age" und what age!" and there will be nothing in context or circumstame to tell him; whereas once assume the existence of an idiom, and then all perplexity is at an end-Podém, sionion, and etc. The accome very nearly equivalent expersions, the essence of which is "indefinite continuance." to tell him; whereas, once assume the existence of an idiom, and then all perplexity is at an end—**colon**, sincinical and eis ton aiona become very nearly equivalent expressions, the essence of which is "indefinite continuance." The Hebrew servant's bondage, for example, is to be indefinitely prolonged: it is to be for life—the end of which cannot be seen (Exo. xxi. 6). So also the Hebrew priesthood was appointed for indefinite continuance, when as yet it could not be foreseen that a change in the priesthood would necessitate a change in the law (Exo. xl. 15; He. vii. 12). The surrender of Samuel, by his mother, to the priestly service is to be taken as equally undefined (1 & i. 22). To the barrenness of the fig-tree no limit can be assigned (Mt. xxi. 19). The son does not case to be welcome in his father's house, save by externally induced bounds to possibility (Jn. viii. 85). Upon the "aionion correction" (Mt. xxv. 46) no arbitrary limit can be laid,—unless indeed the essential nature of "correction" implies it—anonics of the equally "aionion life" is to be endless, that is best made out from the mighty negatives of Scripture ("immortal," incorruptible," "unfading": 1 Co. xv. 51-64; 1 P. i. 4. and from the correlative promise, "Because I live ye also shall live" (Jn. xiv. 19; He. vii. 16).

ANGEL. See MESSENGER.

ASSEMBLY.

ASSEMBLY.

It is well-known that the Greek word for "Church" is ecclesia; and that ecclesia strictly and fully means "called-out-assembly;" but inasmuch as a phrase only very awkwardly represents a single word, and by frequent repetition may become wearisome, not to say even misleading (by forcing one element of the significance into unnatural prominence), it has been deemed sufficient in this version to let "assembly" uniformly stand for the original ecclosia, and to leave the reader to invest the word with that accession of ideas which the known facts gather about it. The "call" of the glad-message can be read by everyone who cares to inform himself; the separateness of the standing and life to which the summons invites can be readily ascertained; and so the lofty ideal set before the assembly of the Son of God may soon disclose itself to the humble and ardent inquirer. It must be left for each reader to judge how far existing ecclesiastical organisations help or hinder the attainment of that ideal. Only let no me presume to dim the divinely given ideal. Only let no one presume to dim the divinely given image.

BAPTISM. See INNERSION.

BEELZEBUL (BEELZEBOUL).

This and not "Beelzebub" is the form ordinarily found in Greek New Testaments; but Westcott and Hort print the name as "Beezeboul," after the Sinai and Vatican MSS., and think there is "no sufficient reason for discarding this form of an obscure name, unknown except from the N. T." They go on to say that "In the N. T. Beelzebub has no Greek authority." (Appendix to Introduction, p. 159.) "Baal-zebub," we may observe, however, is found in 2 K. i. 2, 3, 6, and signifies "Lord of flies." Baal-zebul, according to Fuerst, means "Lord of the heavenly dwelling." Cp. 2 Co. iv. 4; Eph. ii. 2. Dr. Davies, however, in his Heb. Lex, gives a different account of the word Beelzeboul, Mt. x. 25, prob. means lord of dung, seboul being here akin to Chal. zebel, dung; the slight change from zebub serving perh. to express contempt for the Phillistine god, and perh. alluding to the connection between flies and dung or putrid things." Heb. Lex. This and not "Beelzebub" is the form ordinarily found p. 176.

CHRIST

Or, "Anointed"—a term to be understood by the types and prophecies found in Exo. xxx. 22-33; 1 S. x. 1; xvi. 13; xxiv. 6; Ps. ii. 2; xlv. 7; Is. xi. 2-5; lxi. 1-3; Dan. ix. 25, 26; and by the great fact stated in Mt. iii. 16; Acts iv. 27; x. 38. Sometimes the word is used as a simple appellative, or descriptive epithet, in which cases the meaning comes to the front, and the word should be translated; more commonly, however, the word is an official title approaching a proper name: hence, in the majority of its occurrences, it is here merely transferred. It is impossible to be absolutely sure in all cases whether it is impossible to be absolutely sure in all cases whether it should be translated or whether it should be transferred. W and H say: "We doubt whether the appellative force, Wand H say: "We doubt whether the appellative force, with its various associations and implications, is ever entirely lost in the New Testament, and are convinced that the number of passages is small in which Messiahship, of course in the enlarged apostolic sense, is not the principal intention of the word." (Intro. p. 317.) When we reflect that proper names themselves are now and again used with an evident reference to their meaning, and yet that the intent on always translating proper names would that to insist on always translating proper names would work such havoc in literature as to make intelligible history well-nigh impossible, we may become tolerant with a translator even if he should occasionally err in dealing with significant titles,—sometimes (it may be thought) translating where he should transfer, and at other times transferring where he should rather translate. Something, moreover, may be left to the expositor, who will do well to remind his hearers of the meaning of titles and even proper names whenever he feels that so to do will add to the luminousness and force of the text before him.—For the intimate relation between the anointing of the Head and that of the Body, see Ps. cxxxiii. 2; 2 Co. i. 21, and 1 Jn. ii. 20, 27.

COVENANT.

The N. T. word district signifies "covenant," because it is the Sep. rendering of the Heb. b'reth which everywhere in the O. T. means covenant and covenant only. This argument from Septuagintal usage is immensely This argument from Septuagintal usage is immensely strengthened by observing along what a highway of Divine dealing the word diathēkē passes into the N. T. Let us look at these two points in succession. That "covenant" is the meaning of b'rê h is sufficiently attested by the fact that the Oxford "Gesenius" assigns to it no other. If, however, we pass from lexical authority to actual usage, we discover the most abundant and varied evidence that "covenant" is indeed the one meaning of North I this a word in common use to denote all sorts of b'reth. It is a word in common use to denote all sorts of  $b^*reth$ . It is a word in common use to denote all sorts of covenants between all sorts of persons: e.g. between Abraham and Amorites (Gen. xiv. 13), Jacob and Laban (xxxi 44), Joshua and dibconites (Jos. ix. 6-16), Solomon and Hiram (I K. v. 12)—to instance only a few examples out of many. In some cases, moreover, there is such a passing from the human to the divine, or from the divine to the human, as to fix the sense in the h gher application by the unden able force of the lower reference: "I will never break my covenant  $(b^*reth, di the 2)$  with you; and ye shall make no covenant  $(b^*reth, diathe.2)$  with the inhabitants of this land" (Jdg. ii. 1, 2). And it should inhabitants of this land" (Jdg. ii. 1, 2). And it should be observed that never once, as between man and man, does b're's mean a "testament" or "will," to come into force when the testator is dead. Advancing now to the second point. The word diuthets first appears in the N. T. over the Lord's table, from the lips of the Lord limself: "This is my blood of the diathets" (Mt. xxvi. 28; Mk. xiv. 24); The words "blood of the diathets" are from Exo. xxiv. 8; from which passage we learn that there was a diathets entered into at Sinai—was it a "testament" or a "covenant"! According to Lu. xxii. 20 and 1 Co. xi. 25, the word "new" was prefixed to diathets; and this at once sends us to Jer. xxxi. 31, where old and new are brought into contrast (cp. He. viii. 13). This then is the highway by which the word diathet comes This then is the highway by which the word district comes into our Christian Scriptures—from Moses by way of Jeremiah into the upper room at Jerusalem. Under these Jeremiah into the upper room at Jerusalem. Under thescircumstances it is confidently submitted that the same meaning must hold good throughout: if it was a "testament" at the Last Supper, then it must have been a "testament" in Jeremiah, and a "testament" in Exodus—which even the A. V. does not affirm; whereas, working in the opposite direction, if it was a "covenant" in Exodus and a "covenant" in Jeremiah, as even the A. V. has it, then the word must have meant "covenant" and not "testament" on the lips of our Lord and in the letter of his Aportle. It is created that distribute in the A. V. has it, then the word must have meant "covenant" and not "testament" on the lips of our Lord and in the letter of his Apostle. It is granted that diankle in the classics sometimes means "will," but heathen writings can be of no avail to darken the line of light which shines through our sacred classics. The only legitimate doubt is whether the writer to the Hebrews does or does not for just a moment (chap. ix. 16, 17) step aside from the sacred usage to the profane. Even if he does, it is only for a moment; it being clear, for reasons given above, that the word "covenant" certainly ought to stand in verses 15 and 20. In this N. T. the one word has been carried through the whole passage, not even excepting verses 16 and 17; since it was felt, that it may have been assumed by the sacred writer that no covenant between man and man was at any time regarded as final and binding until in some way a solemniang death had been interposed; not the actual death, of course, of the covenanting parties, but a representative death: as if to proclaim once for all that each party was as good as dead to any further change of mind, and as if to invoke the penalty of death on the violator of the compact. There was this further apprehension also: that even as between God and man, it may have been a part of the Divine confidence of the covert the supersettion that the ware God and man, it may have been a part of the Divine con-descension to freely accept the suggestion that the ever-Living One could as soon die as break his word. This is ground upon which the reverent mind would fain tread ground upon which the reverent mind would fain tread with the utmost caution; but when once the horror of a great darkness has come upon us for our sins, the stricken soul may be glad to see in the smoking hearth and torch of fire by which the patriarch Abraham was conducted into covenant relationship with God an impressive symbol of the Mystery of the Cross. As surely as God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself (2 Co. v. 19), so surely dose God himself lead the way into an abiding Christ reconciling the world unto himself (2 Co. v. 19), so surely does God himself lead the way into an abiding covenant of life and peace. Will the reader, before altogether declining this suggestion, very carefully consider the following three passages: namely Gen. xv. 7-21; Jer. xxxiv. 18, 19; and Heb. xiii. 20, 21. In any case, the foregoing considerations have influenced the present translator in declining to think it likely that the eloquent writer to the Hebrews would suddenly start aside from the sacred associations of the ancient Divine Covenants to strengthen his argument by an alteresther pulsely of the strengther his argument by an alteresther pulsely of the sure of the sacred associations of the ancient Divine Covenants to the sacred associations of the ancient Divine Covenants to strengthen his argument by an altogether unlooked-for and rather inconsequent allusion to ordinary testamentary dispositions. So much towards the settlement of the correct rendering. Once that is settled, there remains scope for the exercise of sweet reasonableness; since, even among men, contracts are entered into with varying degrees of freedom. There may be, and often is, more authority to impose terms on the one side than there is liberty on the other to decline them; and yet the advan-tages of a truly covenanting transaction may by no means be lost.

DEMON.

Without entering upon the much-debated question as to who or what the demons of the N. T. were, the following points, if carefully observed, may prepare the reader for fuller investigation: first that demons are ranged under Satan as their ruler (Mt. xii. 24-28); second that they, or some of them, were "impure" (Mk. iii. 30; v. 8; Lu. iv. 33); third that they had an earlier perception of the truth that Jesus was the Son of God than had the men around him (Mk. i. 24: Lu viii. 38); (ourli that they had a that Jesus was the Son of God than had the men around him (Mk. i. 24; Lu. viii. 29); fourth that they had a dread of torment and a desire to avoid premature consignment thereto (Mt. viii. 29); ff h that they shrank from the "abyss" (Lu. viii. 31; see above, "Abysa"); sixth that demon worship is noted as a fact in the Holy Scriptures (1 Co. x. 20; Rev. ix. 20); seventh that their knowledge of God causes them to "shudder" (Jan. ii. 19); and eighth that the Apostle Paul (in 1 Tim. iv. 1-3), makes a remarkable allusion to them, as the authors of seductive teaching, in which passage it is clear from the Greek that they are the demons who speak falsely, are cauterised in their own consciences, forbid to marry, etc. Before dismissing this phase of the question, it should be observed in the following O. T. passages the word "demon" should appear: Lev. xvii. 7; Leu. xxxii. 17; 2 Ch. xi. 15; Ps. cvi. 37. At the same time it is right to remember the latitude with which the word was employed among heathen nations, among whom "demons" were sometimes regarded as deities not necessarily evil; else we may fail neasuren nations, among whom "demons" were sometimes regarded as deities not necessarily evil; else we may fail to see that the Apostle Paul was far from needlessly offending the Athenians, whom, of course, he wished to conciliate (Ac. xvii. 22).—In this version demons are never termed "devils."

EVIL ONE.

The Greek ponerou may be either masculine or neuter; and therefore mean either "evil one" or "evil." "But." says Trench (Parables, p. 489), "the analogy of Mat. xiii. 19, 39: Dp. vl. 16; 2 Thess. iii. 3 would lead us to translate in the Lord's prayer ponerou as a masculine. It was always so interpreted in the Greek Church."

GEHENNA.

GEHENNA.

This word occurs only in the following places in the New Testament: Mt. v. 22, 29, 30; x. 28; xviii. 9; xxiii. 15, 33; Mt. ix. 43, 45, 47; Lu. xii. 5; Ja. iii. 6. The word itself seems to have been formed by abbreviation from the Hebrew phrase for "the valley of the son or sons of Hinnom" gey ben (b'ne) hinnom; then "valley of Hinnom," gey hinnom; and so, at length, simply, ge-henna: Jer. vii. 32; 2 K. xxiii. 10; Ja. xv. 8. Hinnom, says Dr. Davies (Heb. Lex.), is "probably the proper name masculine of the man to whom the valley on the south side of Jerusalem once belonged, where children were sacrificed to Moloch." Whether the N. T. use of the word does not point to something beyond the present life, must be left to the solemn consideration of the student. It would seem evident, in the N. T. at least, that a marked distinction exists between hades and gehenna; but whether the O. T. notion of "the lowest hades" did or did not approximate to the N. T. conception of gehenna, might perhaps be worthy of consideration. worthy of consideration.

GLAD-MESSAGE.

GLAD-MESSAGE.

Or "good news," "joyful-tidings"; but no English word, single or compound, seems equal to the beautiful Greek word canagetion. "Glad-message" suits well the appointment of messengers (Mk. xvi. 15; Ro. x. 15); the notion of a trust (Gal. ii. 7; 1 Tim. 1.1); the purpose of a witness (Mt. xxiv. 14); and the claim for submission (Ro. x. 16; 1 P. iv. 17). But in teaching and preaching, synonyms may be effectively interchanged. Euangelion in the N. T. deals with: (1) the kingdom (Mt. iv. 23; ix. 35; xxiv. 14; Mk. i. 14, 16; Lu. iv. 43; viii. 1; xvi. 16; Ac. viii. 12, cp. xx. 25);—(2) "Jesus Christ" (Mk. i. 1; Lu. ii. 10; Ac. v. 42; viii. 12, 35; xi. 20; Ro. i. 9; 1 Co. ix. 12; 2 Co. ii. 12; Gal. i. 7, 16; Eph. iii. 8; Ph. ii. 27; 1 Th. iii. 2; 2 Th. i. 8); (3) "God" Ro. i. 1; xv. 16; 2 Co. xi. 7);—(4) "the favour of God" (Ac. xx. 24);—(5) "the glory of God" (2 Co. iv. 4; 1 Tim. i. 11); (6) "peace" Ac. x. 36; Eph. ii. 17; vi. 15;—(7) "salvation" (Eph. i. 13); (8) "the word" (Ac. viii. 4);—(9) "the faith" (Gal. i. 23). It is described as a "great joy" (Lu. ii. 10); and—either the general message, or a special one for a crisis—as "age-abiding" (Rev. xiv. 6). We also read of the "word" (Ac. xv. 7), the "hope" (Col. i. 23), the "truth" (Gal. ii. 14), the "readiness" (Eph. vi. 15), and the "sacred secret" (Eph. vi. 19) of the glad-message" (Ro. ii. 16; xvi. 25; 2 Tim. ii. 8), and of "our glad-message" (Th. i. 5; 2 Th. ii. 14). The word in the titles to the four evangelical narratives is understood to be traditional, the most ancient copies having simply "According to Matthew," etc.; at the same time there is the titles to the four evangelical narratives is understood to be traditional, the most ancient copies having simply "According to Matthew," etc.; at the same time there is much force in the observation of Westcott and Hort (who head each narrative in the manner just described—KATA MATTHAION, etc.,—but place the one word EUANGELION on a preliminary page by itself) that "In prefixing the name EUANGELION in the singular to the quarternion of 'Gospels,' we have wished to supply the antecedent which alone gives an adequate sense to the preposition KATA ["according to"] in the several titles." Intro. p. 281.

HADES.

This word occurs ten times in the N.T.; vis., Mt. xi. 28; xvi. 18; Lu. x. 15; xvi. 28; Ac. ii. 27, 31; Rev. i. 18; vi. 8; xx. 13, 14. It is the almost uniform Septuagint rendering of the Hebrew shell, which is found sixty-five times in the O. T. In order to form proper Biblical ideas of Hades it is plainly important that all the Scriptures on the subject should be considered; and it is hoped that THE BEFFE ARIAND BIBLE will materially assist in the propercution of the enquiry.—especially by its uniform rendering of shell throughout the O. T. by the term "hades," which may be regarded as unfficiently naturalised in the Parliah language for this out the O. T. by the term "hades." which may be regarded as sufficiently naturalised in the English language for this purpose. Whether the O. T. conception of shad is the same as the N. T. conception of hades, the reader can judge for himself; whether even the O. T. characterisation of hades or sheel is uniformly consistent with itself,—of this also the student can now form his own opinion. Let him only trace the word "hades" throughout, from Genesis to Bevelation, and the whole matter will be before him; only trace the word "hades" throughout, from Genesis to Bevelation, and the whole matter will be before him; "soul," "death," "grave," etc.) which will have something to say on the subject, yet these other words will be sure to come well into view in the long line of contexts which will be found clustering about the one west "hades." hades

IMMERSION.

Early in life the translator became convinced that the meaning of the Greek verb baptizeris is "to immerse." He accordingly, in the first and second editions of this work, so rendered the word. Having met with nothing during the past twenty years to convict him of error in the course he then took, nothing is left for him but to continue the same rendering. Without entering upon the usual arguments employed by immersionists, he may mention, as an interesting fact, that the translators of the Hebrew version unblished by the Trintarian Fible Society, have redend published by the Trinitarian Bible Society, have rendered published by the Trinitarian Bible Society, have rendered baptize in by the Hebrew word Mand, which it is well-known signifies "to dip." Indeed the Oxford Gesenius, edited by Drs. Driver, Briggs and Brown, assigns to that word no other meaning than "dip" and "dye"; and as the latter has no relevancy to the ordinance instituted by Christ, we may take it as indisputable that the Trinitarian Bible Society, through means of this version, plainly teaches all converts from Judaism to Christianity that the duty of such Israelites as believe Jesus to be the promised Messia. is to be immersed into Him as their new leader. Flainly what is true for Jew is true also for Gentile.

It may be worth knowing that the J of this name is undoubtedly due to a combination of "Jehovah" with "salvation." "Yah is help," tersely says Dr. Davies, in explanation of the O. T. form of the same name 'J=Y=Yah=Yahweh=Jehovah'). Alone, this proves nothing, since it cannot mean that Joshua was a divine person; but it is competent to the sacred story to invest the name with a profounder significance than it ever had before the advent of the Messiah (Cp. Nu. xiii. 8, 16; Exo. xvii. 9; He. iv. 8; Mt. i. 21; Ph. ii. 9, 10.

The biblical terms for "judge" and "judgment" become immensely more interesting when widened out to include the ideas, on the one hand, of vindicating the wronged, and on the other, of ruling in general.

KINGDOM.

The history of the King, is to a large extent the history of the Kingdom: promised, presented, rejected, taken into heaven and reserved there to await a more glorious revelation (op. Ls. ix. 6, 7; Mt. iii. 2; iv. 17; xxi. 43; Lz. xiz. 11-27; 2 Tim. iv. 1; Rev. xvii. 14; xix. 16).

Important shades of meaning are: "get to know" (Jn. xvii. 3, 7, 8, 25), "understand" (1 Jn. ii. 3, 13; iv. 16; v. 20), and "approve," "acknowledge," (Ps. i. 6: Mt. vii. 28; Ro. viii. 29; 2 Tim. ii. 19).

MAMMON.

It is well-known that the word "mammon" denotes the Syrian god of riches. As that familiar term has practically become fossilised, and its application to desided wealth has become so blunted as to be scarcely felt, it has been deemed better to use, instead, the word Riches with a capital, so restoring to the Master's warning sometime of the force he intended it to wield. The word "mammo occurs in the following places only: Mt. vi. 24; Lu. xvi.

MARK, END OF THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO.

After a lengthened examination of the evidence, internal, intrinsic and transcriptional, Westcott and Hort conclude that "there is . . no difficulty . . . in supposing (1) that the true intended continuation of v. 1-6 either was very early lost by the distantment of a leaf or was never written down; and (2) that a scribe or editor, unwilling to change the words of the text before him or to add words of his own, was willing to furnish the Gospel with what seemed a worthy conclusion by incorporating with it unchanged a narrative of Christ's appearances with it unchanged a narrative of Christ's appearances after the Resurrection which he found in some secondary record then surviving from a preceding generation. If these suppositions are made, the whole tenour of the evidence becomes clear and harmonious. Every other view is, we believe, untenable. . . It [the addition, vu. 9-20] manifestly cannot claim any apostolic authority; but is doubtless founded on some tradition of the apostolic age." (Appendix to Introduction, p. 51.)

MESSENGER.

MESSENGER.

This is confessedly the meaning of the Greek word angelos, as it is also of the corresponding Hebrew term maids. When it was that either word was applied to a heavenly messenger and when to an earthly, had always to be learned from context and circumstance, never from the mere word: although perhaps, here and there, a slight presumption may be inferred in favour of a heavenly errand-bearer. How alight that presumption is, may be inferred from a glance at the use of the words. Angelos in the N. T. is applied indifferently to John the Immerser (Mt. xi. 10; Mt. i. 2; Lu. vii. 27), to John's disciples (Lu. vii. 24), to Jesus' disciples (Lu. vii. 52), to the thorn in the flesh (2 Co. xii. 7), and to the Hebrew spies (Ja. ii. 25). In all these examples the original word is angelos. The like use of the Hebrew word malds may be illustrated by a single instance. From Gen. xxii. 1-3, we learn that, at about the same time that God sent "messengers" to meet Jacob, Jacob sent "messengers," to meet Jacob, Jacob sent messengers, we mothing of the device of applying a sacred term to God's messengers, but unto man is "messengers," even those his attendants, whose peculiar business it is to "stand and wait," as Ps. citi. 20, 21 naturally suggests. There are, indeed, still other lessons which the rightful insistence on the word "messenger" is fitted to impart; such as that "the world," as now constituted, includes "both messengers and

PRESENCE.

PRESENCE.

In this edition the word parousia is uniformly rendered "presence" ("coming," as a representative of this word, being set aside). The original term occurs twenty-four times in the N. T., viz.: Mt. xxiv. 3, 27, 37, 39; 1 Co. xv. 23; xvi. 17; 2 Co. vii. 6.7; x. 10; Ph. i. 26; ii. 12; 1 Th. ii. 19; iii. 13; iv. 16; v. 23; 2 Th. ii. 1, 8, 9; Ja. v. 7, 8; 2 P. i. 16; iii. 4, 12 and 1 Jn. ii. 28. The sense of "presence" is so plainly shewn by the contrast with "absence" (implied in 2 Co. x. 10, and expressed in Ph. ii. 12) that the question naturally arises,—Why not always so render it? The more so, inasmuch as there is in 2 P. i. 16 also, a peculiar fitness in our English word "presence." This passage, it will be remembered, relates to our Lord's transformation upon the Mount. The wonderful manifestation there made was a display and sample of "presence." Tather than of "coming." The Lord was already there; and, being there, he was transformed (cp. Mt. xvii. 2, n.) and the "majesty" of his glorified person was then disclosed. His bodily "presence" was one which implied and exerted "power"; so that "power and presence" gexcellently well together—the "power" befitting such a "presence": and the three favoured disciples were at one and the same moment witnesses of both. The difficulty expressed in the notes to the second edition of this N. T. in the way of so yielding to this weight of evidence as to reunder parousia always by "presence," as an event which would happen at a particular time and which would fall into rank as one of a series of events, as 1 Co. xv. 22, sepecially appeared to require. The translator still feels the force of rank as one of a series of events, as 1 Co. xv. 23, especially appeared to require. The translator still feels the force of this objection, but is withdrawn from taking his stand uppen it any longer by the reflection that, after all, the difficulty may be imaginary. The parousia, in any case, its still in the future, and may therefore be enshrouded in a measure of obscurity which only fulfilment can clear away: it may, in fine, be both a period,—more or less extended, during which certain things shall happen,—and an event, coming on and passing away as one of a series of divine interpositions. Christ is raised as a firstfruit—that is one event; He returns and vouchasfee his "presence," during which he raises his own—that is another event, however large and prolonged; and finally comes another cluster of events constituting "the end." Hence, after all, "presence" may be the most widely and permanently satisfying translation of the looked-for parousia of the Son of Man.

REST. See SABBATH.

SABBATH.

SABBATH.

Not to enter upon the larger questions which concern the Sabbath or the Lord's Day, a few critical remarks on the word sabbath as it appears in the N. T. may be useful. First, this word seems to be sometimes an appellative and sometimes a proper name ("day of rest." Sabbath"). Second, the term sobbath is, in several texts, used in the plural in the Greek, where nevertheless it is evident that only one particular day is intended. Under this head, the following texts are worthy of note: Mt. xii. 1, 11; Mk. i. 21; ii. 23; iii. 2; Lu.iv. 16; xiii. 10; Ac. xiii. 14; xvi. 18. In all these passages the word in the original is in the plural, and yet it is plain that a particular, individual day is intended. Nor is there anything surprising in this; for "the Hebrew at times uses plural forms where other languages employ the singular." (For this, see Gesenius by Davies, p. 248.) Third, the word sabbath is extended to signify "week." Even in this there is nothing very far-fetched; since the transition from the idea of "rest" to that of "a rest-bounded period of seven days" is a comparatively natural one. Still the question must be considered mainly as one of fact; although, even so, more demonstrative evidence should not be demanded than the nature of the case admits of; and it often suffices to attach a new meaning to a word, that the ordinary application of it is repeatedly seen to be unnatural, illogical, bewildering, or absurd. Hence the current opinion is probably correct that finds usen to be unnatural, illogical, bewildering, or absurd. Hence the current opinion is probably correct that finds in the singular; since it would appear a very paltry boast to say, "Ifast twice on the sabbath" when anyone (with more withstanding that the would or "week" is nere sabbaton in the singular; since it would appear a very paltry boast to say, "I fast twice on the sabbath" when anyone (with more pleasantry than pharisaism) might reply, "I fast three times." To this example of sabbaton in the singular, used in the sense of "week," may now be added 1 Co. xvi. 2, where not only Westcott and Hort, but the entire board of in the sense of "week," may now be added 1 Co. xvi. 2, where not only Westcott and Hort, but the entire board of Revisers find the word in the singular number; and it would seem enough simply to ask the question, Is it credible that the Apostle Paul meant to enjoin on the assemblies of Galatia and on that of Corinth to lay by on "the first [hour] of sabbath" without so much as specifying that it was the first hour of the day "is impossible, what is left but to assume that he meant "first [day] of the week"? "Week" also approves itself in Mt. xxviii. 1; Mk. xxi. 2; Lu. xxi. 1: Jn. xx. 1, 19; Ac. xx. 7. Does the word in the plural, as it undoubtedly is here, mean "week" or does it allude to a cluster of extraordinary sabbath days on the first of which Jesus arose? There is nothing unnatural in supposing the meaning to be "week"; for, as we have seen: (a) the word in the plural form may convey a singular idea; (b) the word in the singular is twice used in the sense of week. Now let us test the two words, "sabbaths" and "week": "Late in the sabbaths, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the sabbaths." Will that stand? Now try "week": "Late in the week, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the week, "Here everything is harmonious. With the Hebrews the sabbath closed the week. Late on the sabbath would be late in the week, and the transition is natural from the end of one week to the beginning of the next. Hence the correct rendering here is "week."

SACRED SECRET.

SACRED SECRET.

We have no secrets to hide from the uninitiated. The "sacred secret" of this dispensation has been divulged (Eph. iii. 3-9) and should be blazed abroad (Ro. xvi. 25, 26; Eph. vi. 19); but yet is of a nature unlikely to interest any who are careless of God's dispensational ways; and of this the Greek musterion aptly reminds us (cp. "Age" above, and 2 Th. ii. 7, n.).

SHEPHERD.

The analogy is obvious between tending a flock and ruing a kingdom; but note, that protecting a flock often calls for force against assailants (cp. 2 S. v. 2; 1 Ch. xi. 2; Ps. xxiii.; 1 S. xi. 11; Esc. xxxiv., xxxvii. 24; Mt. ii. 6; Rev. ii. 27; vii. 17).

SOUL.

One cannot but regret the impossibility of making our English word "soul" express just as much as is conveyed by the Greek word psuché and the Hebrew word nepheah. The translator may confess that, after a determined endeavour to render the latter term uniformly "soul" throughout the O. T., he was reluctantly constrained to give up the attempt. When, in the book of Esther, it came in at the climax that the Jews were permitted "to stand for their soul (nephesh"—Est. viii. 11), this example proved to be the turning of the scale, and "life" was promptly substituted. It certainly may be worth enquiry, how it comes about that the sacred originals so freely use a concrete word where we sorely feel our need of employing our abstract term "life"; and that this is so, notwith the sacred or the Hebrew and sof in the Greek, more exactly answering (as it might have seemed) to the English word "life." But the fact of stubborn diversity of usage above indicated remains, and it appears necessary to allow "life" to stand in a respectable minority of instances for nephesh and psuché. In this edition, therefore, "life" has been admitted into a certain class of passages, of which Mt. xvi. 25, 28 may be named as an example.

SOUL, MAN OF; BODY OF THE.

SOUL, MAN OF; BODY OF THE.

Notwithstanding what has been said above, "soul" of course remains our leading representative of psuche; and we greatly need an adjective which holds the same relation to "soul" as "spiritual" holds to "spirit." "Natural" is evidently not the exact word. We might of course say "psychical man" and "psychical body," in 1 Co. ii. 14, and xv. 44, 46, if we were in the habit of using "psyche" everywhere instead of "soul." As that is not the case, and as "soulical" has no recognised place in the English language, it seems to the translator, after much thought upon the subject, that the simple circumlocutions placed at the head of this note may prove a not unhanov solution at the head of this note may prove a not unhappy solution of the difficulty. The Greek adjective psuchikos, here discussed, occurs, in the N. T., only in 1 Co. ii. 14; xv. 44, 46; Ja. iii. 15 and Jude 19.

SPIRIT, PERSONALITY OF THE HOLY.

SPIRIT, PERSONALITY OF THE HOLY.

The reader is requested to observe that the very literal rendering, "Holy Spirit" (with no "the" prefixed—rather frequent in the "Acts") is in no sense due to any doubt of "the personality of the Holy Spirit." The translator simply declines to admit that the idea of personality is so dominating and exhaustive as to require, by a species of English forcing, to be kept ever to the front. Over and above those precious conceptions which by consent are couched under the word "person," there are others (scarcely less important), of pervasive influence, of secret, subtle, interpenentating and embracing energy, which by us in our weakness are sometimes more easily caught when the notion of personality is, for the time, in abeyance. Moreover, as the authors of The Unseen Universe well say (p. 173, third edition): "It ought to be remembered that here the word person does not mean the same thing as it does when applied to ourselves, but only denotes some distinction that may be regarded as best expressed by this word. Our idea of person or individual is derived solely from our experience of that position which we occupy in the universe."

SPIRIT VERSUS "GHOST."

SPIRIT VERDUS "GHOST."

It is satisfactory to find The Revised English Bible (Eyre & Spottiswoode) substituting the word "Spirit" for the venerable but objectionable word "Ghost." Objectionable, certainly, the latter is; notwithstanding that, in many minds, it is clustered about with sacred associations, and is by some strangely regarded as a very bulwark of orthodoxy. The primary objection to it ranges high above any question of taste; and is derived from the circumstance that it makes, in English, an artificial, unfounded distinction, which separates passages which ought to be closely linked together by uniformity of rendering. For example, we have, in the public Versions of 2 Co. xiii. 14 "the communion of the Holy Ghost;" but, in Phi. ii. 1, the "fellowship of the Spirit," a double break, it will be observed, jerking the reader from "communion" to "fellowship," and from "Ghost," to "Spirit," although in the Greek the one passage is the very evelon of the other. And this brings us to a subordinate, though very weighty, while the Check of the context of the Check of the context of the check in the Greek the one passage is the very echo of the other. And this brings us to a subordinate, though very weighty, objection to "Ghost," namely, the essential incongruity of the word at this time of day. For, mark: should anyone think to restore the broken link by a reverse movement, that is to say, by extending Ghost to both passages ("If there be, therefore, any fellowship of the Ghost"), would he not be instantly beaten back by a general cry of dismay! It remains to add this only: Given, devout persons who for years have intelligently preferred and used "Spirit," and in them a strong revulsion of feeling unities with a clear decision of judgment to decline, as bordering on profanity, any voluntary application of the term "Ghost" to the mighty and gracious Spirit of the Living God.

TEMPLE.

The attempt has here been made to distinguish between a ne accempt nas here been made to distinguish between hieron (temple, inclusive of courts, precincts) and noce, the inner building, marking the latter by a capital initial (Mt. xxiii. 16-21, 36) or rendering it "shrine" (Jn. ii. 19; 1 Co. iii. 16; vi. 19) and "sanctuary" (Rev. iii. 12; xx. 1, 2; xiv.-xvi.; xxi. 22).

TENT.

There is a simple beauty in the word "tent" which "tabernacle," notwithstanding its loftier sound, does not possess; and if the Heb. mishkan be rendered "habitation," there is neither need nor ground for further distinction.

"The true Hindu way of lighting up is by torches held by men, who feed the flame from a sort of bottle con-structed for the purpose."—Elphinstone, quoted by Trench. (Cp. Jdg. vii. 16, 20; xv. 4, 5; Job xii. 19.)

VIRGINITY.

The example of the translator of an excellent version published by Morrish (understood to have been the late J. N. Darby) has emboldened the present translator to adopt "virginity" in 1 Co. vii. 36-38. The immense relief from difficulty thus obtained, and the fact that the word parthenes is "sometimes masculine, an unmarried youth" (Liddell and Scott), have been accepted as a justification of this rendering.
